

The Revived Me Surrounded by Adoration as a Supporting Role by Dedaul Chapter 156 -

Chapter 156 Rescue

The sudden comfort made Sarah completely relax.

This slender woman, even though she hadn't walked for so long, still trembled when she stood up.

But at that moment, she used all her strength to tightly hold Sarah, protecting her in her arms.

No one was allowed to take Sarah away.

Sarah couldn't help but burst into tears.

The crying made Beatrice anxious.

But she could only hold on tightly, hoping that Sarah could feel a little more at ease.

Clumsily, he patted Sarah's back.

While filming, he was talking.

"Leo, don't be afraid! Mom is here to save you, Mom saved you... The bad guy was defeated by Mom, don't be afraid, don't be afraid."

Upon hearing the child's cry, Beatrice's eyes also welled up, but she could only console Sarah with her own words.

She had not completely moved on, but only saw the shadow of her child in Sarah.

This was her child, and there was a bad person in front of her, trying to kidnap the child.

She didn't allow it! She absolutely didn't allow it!

In a daze, she began to move.

She had only one thought.

“Rescue Leo, defeat the villain.”

Sarah’s tears mixed with blood, and there was a protruding piece of scalp on her head, with blood flowing out.

She reached out and tightly hugged Beatrice, her heart still filled with fear. Just moments ago, all her actions felt like a dream.

She was not sure why she suddenly rushed out.

Anyway, just venting is enough for now.

The crying was so loud that Phil, who was almost near home, could hear it.

He stood still for a moment, realizing that the voice belonged to Sarah. He immediately ran over to her.

“Sally!”

When Phil arrived, he saw a figure that he could never have imagined.

He opened his mouth wide and dropped all the vegetables he was holding onto the ground.

Looking at the man who fainted on the side, and Sarah with blood all over her face...

He realized that something was wrong.

Nervously, he approached to see how the two people were doing.

Sarah calmed down a little when Phil came over.

She wiped her face.

I saw my own blood in my hand, and the pain on my scalp suddenly hit me, like waves.

This made Sarah also realize that it had been really dangerous just now.

The places on the body where the man in black hit also throbbed faintly.

I even felt a little nauseous.

Phil approached and hugged both Beatrice and Sarah, reassuring them.

As Sarah relaxed, suddenly her eyes went black and she fainted in Beatrice's arms.

"Sally!"

"Leo!"

The couple looked at Sarah with worry.

Phil looked at his wife with even more tenderness, surely reminded of what happened to Leo in the past.

Phil immediately called the police and also went to the door to call the security guard.

The commotion here, along with the sirens of police cars and ambulances, made the residents of the community aware that something was happening in their own neighborhood.

People went downstairs one after another, heading toward the direction of the police station.

Sure enough, there was a lively scene to watch, and ZILLYVOMA acted recklessly.

"Oh no! What is going on here!"

"Why is this child covered in blood?"

"Are this couple the ones who lost their child many years ago?"

"Could this person lying on the ground be a human trafficker?"

Originally, people already disliked human traffickers, and everyone felt sympathetic toward the plight of this couple.

The only person on the scene who knew the details was Sarah, who fainted, but everyone else had their own guesses.

The police immediately handcuffed the man and also found his van parked outside.

“Eddie! Eddie!”

In the crowd, Eddie’s mother also came back from buying groceries and saw such a scene.

She was instantly scared out of her wits.

Rate this post

Post Views: 13