Chapter 161 Remember to Eat

“Hello, your dishes are ready.”

While Zoe occasionally observed Valerie, the dishes ordered by the mother and daughter duo had already been served.

So many delicious dishes, but in Zoe’s mouth, they tasted like chewing wax.

After taking a few bites, she could no longer eat.

Reyna, seeing the situation, couldn’t eat anymore.

“Zoe, couldn’t you eat anything outside either?”

She always thought that the nutritious meals were not tasty, so she ate very little. But now it seems that it’s not the problem with the nutritious meals.

There was a problem with the body.

Reyna’s heart thumped instantly.

A chill spread through her limbs.

“Zoe, after we finish this meal, let’s go to the hospital and have a look.”

As soon as she heard the word “hospital,” the events of that day in the garden came rushing back into Zoe’s mind.

She shook her head vigorously.

“No, don’t go...”

“Zoe, you had to listen, you couldn’t eat anything now, if you continued like this, you would suffer from malnutrition, and your illness wouldn’t get better!”

Reyna’s tone suddenly became serious.

It sounded like a command.

Zoe shrank her body.

But still, he didn’t nod his head and expressed his unwillingness to go to the hospital in a silent way.

Reyna bent her back wearily.

One or two, why don’t they listen!

Just as Zoe remained silent, out of the corner of her eye, she suddenly caught a glimpse of some movement over by Valerie.

She slightly lifted her head and looked back.

Valerie stood up and walked toward the bathroom.

Thud!

Zoe was a little excited.

She watched Valerie’s straight back, her gaze intense.

“Zoe? What were you looking at?”

Reyna looked at her daughter’s suddenly excited face and curiously followed her gaze.

“Mom, Mom! I’m going to the bathroom!”

In the moment Reyna turned her head, Zoe called out to her.

Sister cannot be found here by Mom.

Zoe stood up with a bit of excitement, accompanied by her increasingly strong heartbeat, and walked toward the bathroom.

When approaching the bathroom.

She began to feel a little regretful.

Why bother following when Valerie didn't want to talk to her anymore?

Even if she had struck up a conversation with Valerie, what could she possibly have said?

What was the use of getting all worked up by herself there?

Valerie didn't like her.

The footsteps came to a sudden halt at the entrance of the bathroom.

Zoe lowered her head in dejection, stood still for a moment, and silently turned around, intending to walk back.

"Why did you follow me?"

Valerie's voice suddenly came from behind Zoe.

She had been waiting for Zoe to come up, and she never went to the bathroom.

Since I entered the restaurant, I saw her sitting there having a meal with Reyna.

After all, this city is so small, and Calvin brought his own restaurant under Lamar.

It was specifically designed for these wealthy individuals to come back and dine.

So it was not strange for Valerie to meet him.

Did she bend her head and body down, thinking that she wouldn't be able to see herself anymore?

"Calvin, let's sit outside today!"

"Ah? That's also fine."

Originally, Calvin, who was supposed to call the waiter to tidy up the private room, heard Valerie's words.

I said a word to the waiter, and then followed Valerie to an empty table.

"Why do you want to eat in the lobby today? I thought you didn't like noisy places."

"Well, then I also have to get used to it. The next task is very likely to be in a noisy place, right? And I also have to observe the surroundings."

So that's the reason!
