

The Revived Me Surrounded by Adoration as a Supporting Role by Dedaul Chapter 168 -

Chapter 168 What Is She Doing?

Valerie arrived at the designated location, which was a convenience store.

The boss was an old man who was resting.

He lay on the rocking chair, swaying back and forth, slowly waving the fan in his hand.

A few white hairs sparsely floated on the bald head.

A moment of contentment.

The surrounding area was also filled with some old houses.

At the entrance, there were grandfathers and grandmothers all waving big fans, watching their grandsons, granddaughters, great-grandsons, and great-granddaughters.

Some neighbors also let the children play together, watching their own precious little ones with straight eyes.

Afraid that someone might suddenly emerge and take it away.

Valerie seemed to be looking at the items in the convenience store, but in reality, she was carefully observing her surroundings.

At first glance, there didn't seem to be any major issues.

But it was also the place with the highest rate of missing children.

Valerie felt her heart had jumped to a point where she could barely control it.

Although Calvin deliberately trained himself and Derry in their skills since childhood.

But I have never had any practical experience either.

This was my first time, using it in such a special situation in a serious.

manner.

She is now filled with some bad scenes and unexpected events in her mind.

See if you can handle it.

He entered a state of alertness, emitting an aura that kept people at a distance.

The people who were hiding in the dark observed with strange frowns on their faces.

Looking at Valerie, who seemed a bit strange, the once eager heart suddenly calmed down.

Take another look.

Valerie had a hidden tracker on her.

A very small one, stuck on a certain part of the body.

Calvin looked at the slowly moving red dot on the instrument and felt- slightly relieved.

maintain a certain distance, and if the target red dot suddenly starts moving quickly or stops in a place where the car cannot enter, make sure to catch up as soon as possible to ensure the safety of the target individual!”

“Yes!”

The team members of the squad stared closely at the red dot above, ready for any sudden situation.

Suddenly, the member who was receiving the live situation in front frowned.

His hand unconsciously rested on the microphone placed on his ear, and he nodded solemnly!

Immediately, he came to Calvin’s side.

“Captain! There was a message received from the front, saying that there were two children behind us, and it seems like they were following the target individual.”

“What?”

Calvin’s eyes widened instantly as he looked at the member who had come to report to him, unable to believe what he was seeing.

At this critical moment, who was following behind Valerie?

Is it the child from the old town? Did they see Valerie and then follow her?

This is not good; we cannot let the others disturb Valerie.

And those who had been observing would definitely act faster if they noticed two more children.

At that time, the focus was on saving people, making it difficult to find their hideout.

“You sent someone to attract those two children.”

“Captain... The person behind is Miss Horton from the Horton family.”
