Chapter 143 Cause and Effect (2)

She really didn't want to have anything to do with the Horton family.

But there was no way, everyone thought the same way, and one's mouth is just one, how could it be sealed?

"Thank you, Principal."

Valerie obediently thanked and waited for her homeroom teacher to take her to the classroom. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Galen and everyone in the Fisher family came to accompany Valerie to school.

Meredith, Ramona, and the other women were constantly talking to Valerie.

"Valerie, if the food at school was not good, you must have called us and let us know!"

"Yes! If you feel unwell, tell the teacher immediately and let the teacher contact us."

The men also expressed their opinions one after another.

Calvin and Tucker were at the forefront.

"Valerie, someone bullied you, you should call your brother and tell him, he will help you vent your anger!"

"Yes, Valerie, my brother would never allow campus violence. This school has surveillance, so you don't need to be afraid.

resolve it.”

Tucker’s brow furrowed.

He was the person involved, and when he was young, he remembered this matter deeply in his heart. Valerie, with an expressive face, confronted the netizens and gradually presented evidence to clear herself of the accusations.

Tucker’s mood could be described as extremely bad.

This time, he personally accompanied Valerie to school, and he was somewhat worried.

Calvin noticed Tucker’s uneasiness and approached him, hooking his hand around Tucker’s neck. The two of them looked toward Valerie “Valerie, you see, you have a brother who was a major and another brother who was a movie star. If something happens to you, the two of us will have more than enough to help you, not to mention all the talented people in our family.”

After Calvin’s words, Tucker’s heart relaxed a little. He looked at Calvin gratefully and assured Valerie.

Everyone vividly remembers Valerie’s childhood.

I was a little worried psychologically.

Valerie felt the concern and warmth from everyone, and her heart felt a wave of sourness.

“Don’t embarrass the Horton family.”

The comparison on both sides made Valerie sigh.

Why is the gap between people so apparent?

Just as they were about to say something to Valerie, there came a knock at the door.

“Principal, I have arrived.”

“Peggy, please wait at the door for a moment.”

The principal smiled and nodded at the Fisher family.

“Everyone, then I will escort Ms. Bowman to the door, and you can stay in the office.”

Galen nodded, his eyes fixed on Valerie, his eyes welling up with tears.

Valerie said goodbye to everyone and followed the principal out of the door.

The moment the door closed, the atmosphere in the office became gloomy.

“Ah, fortunately Valerie married into our family. Otherwise, just the thought of her marrying into another family, my heart, it wouldn’t feel right.”

Meredith spoke up first, shaking her head as she spoke.

It seemed like the intention was to eliminate the image of Valerie getting married to another family from one’s mind.

This thing was not popular.

Sure enough, as soon as Meredith finished speaking, everyone else felt a chill down their spines.

“No, no, no, Valerie had to be part of our family.”

Without hesitation, Galen interrupted this thought.

He let out a long breath.

Humph!

Even if someone liked Valerie and wanted to marry her, they had to be better than Derek!

It’s actually a bit difficult.

After saying hello to her homeroom teacher, Peggy, Valerie followed behind her to the classroom.

“We were in Class 5 of the second year, specializing in humanities. From now on, we will be in the same class, so let’s get along well.”

Peggy Garrett, in her early thirties, with round eyeglasses, had a youthful appearance. She smiled at Valerie, wanting to leave a good impression on her.

She had already recognized who Valerie was.

After all, who doesn't watch videos now?

I didn't expect such a charismatic figure in my own class.

Peggy suddenly didn't know whether this was a good thing or a bad thing.

"We arrived."

Opening the classroom door, Valerie instantly saw the smooth long hair, loosely tied up.

“Can’t say for sure, but in short, the new student who arrived today had a strong background.”

The principal didn’t intend to talk much with the security guard. He directly walked back to his office with small steps and fanned himself with the documents.

It was really hot.

And Valerie, in the class, also received strong attention from all the subject teachers.

After all, being a newcomer, the teacher was curious about her own ability in teaching this subject.

So in every class, the teachers would call Valerie’s name and have a ‘friendly’ conversation with her.

Sarah hardly lifted her head to look at Valerie, she just kept hiding herself.

The people in the class had already become accustomed to her behavior.

She faced the curious teachers and answered their questions slowly.

When I sat down, I would glance at Sarah out of the corner of my eye.

Her current existence is like that of a transparent person.

Time quickly passed and it was soon noon. Some classmates in the class went straight to Valerie and planned to take her to the cafeteria to

Sarah sat alone in her seat, without any movement, and her classmates were used to it.

“Can I ask a question?”

“Ah? You asked.”

The classmates were eager and all looked at Valerie, wanting to explain to her as soon as possible.

“Why did the female classmate sitting next to me keep her head down throughout the entire class? Was she not looking at the teacher?”

As soon as Sarah was mentioned, the enthusiasm of the group of female classmates who wanted to explain dwindled.

“Ah... her.”

Classmates, you look at me, I look at you, and everyone doesn't want to mention her.

What is the situation?

Seeing Valerie's confusion, a girl eventually stepped forward and spoke to her.

“She came in during the second semester of her freshman year, and she didn't like to talk when she arrived.”

There was an opening, and one after another, they came to interrupt.

“Yeah, when the teacher asked her to introduce herself, she didn't say a word, and when we tried to talk to her, she still didn't say a word.”

Kieran finished his workload for today.

I quickly looked at the watch on my wrist and realized that there was still half an hour left until the end of school. I picked up the materials that had been lying aside for a long time.

Felipe gave himself the new message from Valerie.

The school was not far from the company, so I had more than enough to drive there myself.

Kieran immediately stood up, picked up his coat, and was about to leave.

When his hand touched the doorknob, he froze.

clenched.

He pondered for a while and eventually opened the door, heading toward the underground garage.

Not meeting, just looking around.

Kieran, sitting in the driver's seat, suddenly chuckled.

This was a self-deprecating laugh.

Oh Kieran, Kieran, if only you had known what would happen today, why did you do it in the first place?

What's the use of realizing it afterwards?

Wasn't it still late?

While thinking, I turned the dial and followed the navigation.

At the school gate after school, the entrance was filled with various cars and electric scooters.

The road was also jammed.

Although there were students living in dormitories in high school, there were still more students living at home.

The parents chatted about their daily lives while looking toward the school gate, checking if their own children had come out.

Kieran parked the car in a relatively distant parking lot, walked to the outermost parent circle, and hid a little more discreetly, looking toward the entrance.

"Oh, young man, came to pick up your daughter?"

"Um, no, I came to see my younger sister."

“Bruce?”

“I, I...”

I pondered over Bruce for a long time, but I couldn't figure out any reason behind it.

Kieran chuckled mockingly.

This smile made Bruce's face turn red instantly.

He glanced at Kieran and didn't respond to his words.

I came here to see Valerie, knowing her news from somewhere.

Kieran

didn't know why Bruce suddenly had a change of heart, but this couldn't change the fact that he didn't have a good impression of Bruce.

The two people stood there in the distance, and the passing parents' gazes turned toward the two brothers. They glanced at them and immediately started talking to the other parents beside them who were picking up their children.

“That little sister was so lucky.”

The parents also praised generously, which made the two brothers of the Horton family secretly delighted.

But just for a moment of happiness.

After all, Valerie didn't like them at all.

He smiled awkwardly at those parents.

They stopped talking and just silently waited for Valerie to come out.

In a small alleyway ahead, a gorgeously dressed woman frowned as she looked toward the school gate.

She didn't want to be with this group of Didi's parents.

I glanced at the school gate with a gloomy expression.

Thinking about her own daughter's unruly appearance, she was filled with anger.

And what was the result of my initial dream of marrying my daughter into the Fisher family dynasty?

There was nothing at all!

Yes, this is Sarah's mother.

She had a lot of accessories on her, and they were all very expensive. It was clear that she came from a wealthy family.

Finally, Valerie came out, followed closely by Sarah.

Nowadays, parents are almost gone, and Sarah's mother couldn't bear it either.

He went straight past Valerie and approached Sarah.

Sarah was startled and forcefully shook off the punishment from her mother.

"What are you doing? Are you rebelling? You're not happy to come and pick you up anymore? Come over here!"

"I, I could walk by myself!"

Sarah still resisted her mother's attempt to reach out with a soft voice.

The middle-aged woman suddenly slapped Sarah hard on the body, not on the face.

After all, her daughter looked pretty good, so she took her to attend more parties to meet more high-quality men.

The crisp sound made Valerie, who was standing not far away, stop in her tracks.

Sarah has been missing for three days.

On the first day, the teacher only superficially asked, without delving deeper.

The teachers realized the seriousness of the situation.

The classmates in the class were discussing animatedly.

"How did he/she disappear?"

Smiling and saying this sentence indeed made the surrounding classmates shut their mouths.

Valerie looked out of the window, and the sun was shining brightly.

I wonder where Sarah could have hidden at this moment.

When she came out at that time, fortunately she encountered the Fisher family and was able to deceive everyone. But now, as a young girl, with surveillance everywhere, where can she hide?

Wish her good luck.

With such a mindset, until the end of school.

Since yesterday, she had been feeling that there was a gaze constantly fixed on her.

There is no ill intention, but it is quite uncomfortable to be stared at like this.

“Your gaze is so obvious, how can I walk away? Mr. Bruce, if you don’t have anything to find me for, please don’t come over again, it’s very disturbing my life.”

Valerie felt exhausted as Bruce couldn’t say a word but still kept bothering himself.

But now, Bruce made no sound at all.

And because Valerie said she was going to report him for harassment, he was a little scared and nervous.

give her a good place to stay.

And make sure to wash up properly.

She took out her phone and called Galen.

"Grandpa."

"Oh dear! Valerie, what's the matter with Grandpa?"

Galen, who was writing calligraphy in his study to cultivate his mind and body, received a phone call from Valerie.

The happy folds all laughed out.

Valerie roughly explained to Galen.

I hoped he could help Sarah.

Galen's writing hand came to a halt.

He was thinking.

"Valerie, Grandpa can help, but there is a limit after all, because you are still different from her."

Galen spoke concisely and expressed his opinion.

Valerie thought for a moment.

Enough.

I couldn't help her for a lifetime.

"I will come down and call you in a while, please wait for a moment."

"Ah?"

Sarah hadn't realized what was going on yet, she only knew that she had been woken up by Valerie.

Just standing there, watching to see where she would take herself.

The moment Sarah got up and saw Valerie, her mind went blank.

Wasn't she the daughter of a wealthy family?

Why did you live in this neighborhood?

Rather than living in a mansion?

However, the harsh reality prevented her from having the time to carefully consider this matter.

Just clenching his fists, he placed them on either side of his thighs, waiting for Valerie to expose herself and send him back home.

But what is the situation now?

Call yourself, is it calling yourself to go up?

Didn't you take yourself to the police station?

Sarah watched Valerie go upstairs, still thinking about her saying she would come down stairs to call her later.

She sat back obediently and waited for Valerie to come.

Sure enough, after more than half an hour passed, she went downstairs again and called Sarah to go upstairs with her.

"Um, thank you..."

"Well, you're welcome, but it wasn't me who helped you."

Valerie did not have much enthusiasm.

Sarah actually had a lot more questions to ask.

What did she do during the ten years she was missing? How did she spend her time?

Is there any method?

"I used to bully you so much when we were kids... and now you are still willing to help me..."

After thinking for so long, Sarah finally asked the question she wanted to ask the most.

This was the thing she cared about the most.

Valerie turned her head and looked at her, replying in a calm manner.

“That was a thing of the past, and I also retaliated against you. Now it’s a different matter, and you haven’t provoked me either. Judging by your behavior, you probably don’t want me to ask or say more, do you?”

While speaking, he found a set of casual clothes for her.

“Go wash up first and clean yourself.”

Valerie gave Sarah her casual clothes and some unworn underwear.

Then I turned around and went to the kitchen to cook.

Sarah pursed her lips.

When she received the clean clothes from Valerie, she didn’t dare to open her hands to receive them.

Because there was mud all over her palm.

She was afraid of getting her clothes dirty.

Shaking my head, I didn’t let myself think too much.

Even if the body is not washed, the hair still needs to be washed.

With such a mindset, Sarah entered the bathroom.

And Valerie’s Line messages were already overflowing.

Tucker: “Valerie, Grandpa said you helped a little girl? Our classmate who went missing for three days?”

Calvin: “Ah, I might be thinking a bit negatively, but is it running

Galen’s words implied that the little girl came from a well-off family, as they didn’t seem too concerned even after their daughter had been missing for three days.

He wasn’t really a good person, now that I think about it.

Ramona: “Oh my goodness, what is happening now? Is this how you treat your own child? Then why bother giving birth?”

In the Fisher family, people were sighing one after another.

The parents nowadays, exclaimed.

Valerie also sent a message inside.

Valerie: “Dear family, don’t worry, I talked to her and once she decides what to do next, she will leave here. I won’t have any trouble.”

Tucker, who had just finished taking his portrait photos, smiled wryly. Valerie was still so kind-hearted.

Was it really the only reason that made you think about helping the other person?

“Mr. Fisher, let’s proceed to the next set of photos.”

A clear and mature female voice entered Tucker’s ears.

Tucker snapped back to reality and looked at his new co–star in the film.

Hallie Sutton.

“Okay, Ms. Sutton, I will be ready right away.”

Although a regular in the entertainment industry, I haven’t really collaborated with Hallie for almost ten years since that one variety show ended.

The director of this film, this time, chose Hallie as the female lead.

When Tucker first found out, he was a little surprised.

Does fate eventually bring us back together after all the twists and turns?

Smiling, Tucker closed the screen of his phone and returned to his workstation.

At the same time, Sarah also washed her body and hair, and sheepishly tiptoed into the living room.

“Um, Valerie, I...”

“I was no longer a part of the Horton family.”

Sarah glanced at Valerie with a complicated expression.

Do you really want to give up such a prestigious family?

Under the eaves, people had to lower their heads. She still whispered and called out softly.

“Okay.”

“Let’s eat first.”

There was a heating plate on the dining table, so the food was still warm.

This made Sarah drool as she spent three days without properly eating, relying only on the one big piece of torn bread in her backpack to get by.

My stomach started growling.

“You sit down, I’ll talk to you about something.”

Valerie gave her spoon, knife, fork, and a bowl, and Sarah obediently sat down.

“Over the next few days, you stayed with me first. You thought carefully about whether you wanted to venture out on your own or go back and endure a little longer before coming out again.”

Sarah just put the food in her mouth and instantly found it not tasty.

Just as Valerie said, I need to think carefully about this matter. Should I cut off ties with my family directly or should I endure a little longer and wait until I reach adulthood before cutting off ties with them?

“You might think I’m being nosy, but I still want to remind you that this society is truly treacherous and dark. If you go out directly now, the suffering you will endure will be several times worse than others. Take some time to think about it yourself, but for now, let’s have a meal.”

Valerie said indifferently and started eating, but Sarah had lost the peace of mind she had at the beginning. Her mind was a mess, pondering Valerie’s words.

I said you can take your time to think, there’s no need to rush, I’ll give you half a month to think it through.”

Half a month!

Sarah was shocked. She thought she only had a few days here, but she didn’t expect it to be two weeks.

So during this period, I had to take a good look at myself and see if there was any way to keep myself alive.

With a little comfort in her mind, Sarah slightly opened her mouth and began to eat quickly.

She was really hungry.

Valerie watched as Sarah ate quickly but still maintained a good posture, and she felt a wave of emotion in her heart.

Indeed, educated people are different. In her every gesture and movement, there was still a hint of elegance.

Different from my previous life.

In my previous life, I did not receive any education from my family, so it was really difficult to survive in the early stages after coming out.

Sarah, maybe it was different.

If she had chosen to be alone, she would have been much stronger than she was.

Now it was Valerie's turn to not enjoy her meal. Search The website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

She chewed the food for a long time and barely swallowed it.

"The fast food is in the refrigerator, you just need to boil water and heat it up."

Valerie finished her explanation and left the room without waiting for Sarah to say anything.

There was only Sarah left alone in the empty house.

She opened her phone and started browsing through some job websites to see if there was anything she could do.

I was about to come of age in one or two months.

At that time, any job could be done.

Her heart was filled with a special beauty.

Even started to fantasize about a worry-free future, living a peaceful life relying on the money earned from working.

The entire morning, she spent all her time searching for a part-time job.

Time had reached noon, and she had not noticed.

Sarah didn't snap out of it until she heard a knock on the door.

"Who is it? Could it be Valerie coming back?"

But she clearly said she would come back in the evening.

Sarah's heart suddenly sank, could it be that those people had found her?

True, Valerie has now separated from the Horton family. What abilities does she have to protect herself and prevent those people from discovering her?

There came a knock at the door again.

Along with the knocking sound, there was also the sound of childish voices.

But still obediently greeted Sarah.

“Hello, may I ask what business you had with that sister?”

The door was opened, the person was seen, and Sarah could only help ask.

“My mother said to give my sister some steamed buns to eat.”

The little boy smiled happily, reached out and took out the sugar-filled steamed bun from the bag, and handed it to Sarah without any caution.

Sarah smiled as she accepted it, but she also felt a bit nervous inside. Children have the fastest mouths, and she worried that he would spill the beans about what she was doing here.

“Child, my sister cannot let anyone know that I am here right now due to a small matter, so I may have to ask for your help. Please do not tell anyone that I am here.”

The little boy tilted his head.

“What’s the matter?”

This question left Sarah speechless.

“Um... it’s a very important matter, concerning my sister’s future, so I need your help. Can you keep it a secret from others?”

The little boy nodded in confusion, agreeing to Sarah’s strange request.

Then he carried the big bag and headed straight to the couple downstairs to deliver the sugar-coated steamed buns to them.

Seeing him nod, Sarah felt a little relieved.

She was still holding a warm brown sugar steamed bun in her hand.

She glanced at it and put one in her mouth.

So sweet...

The little child seemed to say that he did it with his mother.

That's great.

Sarah felt a thousand emotions in her heart.

I was extremely envious.

In an instant, the sweet brown sugar in my mouth didn't taste as sweet anymore.

I brought the tasteless steamed bun into the kitchen and placed it on an empty plate.

Sarah continued to look for a job with a low mood.

I didn't feel like eating lunch either.

When Valerie came back in the evening, she saw that the house was pitch black, with only a faint light shining on the sofa.

"What were you doing?"

Frowning, Sarah turned on the living room light and her eyes instantly narrowed.

"You're back! I was looking for a part-time job."

Valerie's brow furrowed even more, but she didn't say anything.

Just silently placed the things in my hands at the entrance.

Then, he walked silently toward the restaurant.

Ah.

Forget it.

I’d better not say much anymore. This is her choice, and I shouldn’t interfere too much.

I opened the refrigerator, and sure enough, nothing inside had moved.

And the person involved, Sarah, was still trying to find a suitable part-time job.

Is this already a firm decision to come out?

Valerie looked at Sarah, who was earnestly searching for part-time jobs. on the couch, and suddenly felt a sense of powerlessness.

She silently took out the instant food from the refrigerator and, after preparing it, placed it in front of Sarah.

“Let’s have a chat.”

Suddenly, a voice sounded and there was also food in front of her. Sarah then woke up from the chaos.

Her stomach suddenly growled, and a feeling of hunger rushed over her, accompanied by a sharp pain in her stomach.

“Thank you.”

“Don’t worry, during the days you accommodated me, I will keep track of all the meal expenses. I owe you.

Sarah mumbled, her mouth already stuffed with a lot.

It seems like I was really hungry.

“Sarah, are you so determined to go out and work on your own, have you decided to leave and rely on yourself?”

The sudden question made Sarah pause her eating.

Her heart surged with a mixture of bitterness and restlessness.

After a long time, she finally managed to utter a sentence.

“If I go back, will I have a better life? You must have seen how my mother treats me, like a commodity, only caring about herself.”

“And I’ve been away for so long this time, I wonder how she would treat me if I go back, you probably wouldn’t know.”

After the words were spoken, the emotions loosened up a bit, and all sorts of words blurred out.

Sarah felt very aggrieved in her heart, and she happened to have an outlet to vent. She didn’t care who was in front of her, and her voice was slightly louder when she spoke.

When she calmed down and came to her senses, she realized what she had just done.

“Um, um, I’m sorry, I didn’t mean to...”

“Sarah, it may sound strange coming from me, but if you really decide to leave home, it’s better to do it after you become an adult.”

You were almost an adult anyway, right?

Why are you in such a hurry at this moment? Before becoming an adult, you should carefully plan your future plans. I think there is still time.

Otherwise, it would be like coming out at the age of thirteen, not knowing anything, not understanding anything, and then slowly improving only slightly by the time I turned sixteen and became an adult.

Sarah ran out on her own, but in her previous life, she was kicked out.

The psychological gap made Valerie feel uncomfortable as well.

She took a big sip of water and calmed herself down.

“Anyway, I’ve said enough. You can think about it yourself.”

After Valerie finished speaking, the atmosphere between the two became extremely awkward.

Sarah could only feed herself one mouthful at a time.

They sat face to face without saying a word until they finished eating.

“Valerie, actually, I ran out because I really couldn’t bear it anymore...”

Her mother was on par with the people from the Horton family.

Valerie mocked herself inwardly and rubbed her throbbing temples.

"Your mother's actions were indeed wrong. This time when you go back, I can probably guess what you will be facing. How much longer until you reach adulthood?"

"Two more months to go..."

Sarah spoke cautiously, glancing at Valerie as she spoke.

"Two months, quite a long time..."

Valerie murmured for a while, touching her chin as she pondered.

"I can let you stay with me for one month at most, and for the remaining month, you can either go out or go back."

Sure enough, she helped herself.

Sarah looked at Valerie across from her, her mind filled with a thousand thoughts.

When Valerie stood in front of Mica, facing the upperclassmen, her heart had already developed cracks.

If only I could have half of her.

Sarah was sincerely grateful like this.

“During this month, try your best to avoid encountering the residents of this building.”

If we accidentally bump into each other, I will say that you are my distant relative and now I will introduce you.

The little boy who brought you brown sugar steamed buns today was from a single-parent family. He lived with his mother, and there was also a married couple remaining.

They were in their forties and didn't have any children.

“Didn't they give birth?”

Sarah was a little curious, and she immediately blurted out the question.

Valerie looked up at Sarah and stared for a while.

“Sarah, you are actually going to enter society. One skill you need to learn now is to be cautious and speak less, so that you won't attract too many troubles to yourself.”

Their couple's child went missing when he was seven or eight years old. When he was finally found, it was at a criminal gang specialized in child abduction.
