Chapter 31 I Don't Want Your Help

Reese realized that.

He felt distressed.

If Valerie caused a scene, he would be in the right and self-confident...

But she was calm...

“Valerie, does it hurt?”

Reyna wiped her tears and walked over, gently asking.

Valerie looked at Reyna and shook her head.

“I am fine, Mom.”

Her short reply made Jayvion and the family doctor shake all over...

Valerie had so many injuries. It would hurt like hell when the doctor helped her disperse the blood stasis. The doctor knew it.

However, Valerie didn't groan and endured the pain...

She could even talk to Reyna calmly...

The family doctor applied ointment to Valerie's wounds, his forehead covered with sweat.

Then he finished rubbing the last bruise on her ankle.

He wiped the sweat on his forehead, and his back was covered with cold sweat.

*S: Madam, I have finished applying medicine to Ms. Horton. But she also has internal injuries. I suggest she should rest at home and eat nutritious food. She is malnourished.”

The doctor’s tone had a tinge of reproach, and everyone knew what he

But no one argued back, because Valerie was skinny!

She looked pitiful.

Reese admitted his mistake in silence.

“I will come and apply medicine to Ms. Horton’s wounds again tomorrow: You should let her rest and eat good food tonight.”

Reyna was enlightened.

“That’s right! Valerie hasn’t eaten dinner! Jayvion, let’s cook for her in the kitchen!”

Reyna took Jayvion to the kitchen.

Reese looked at Bruce.

“Bruce, take Zoe back to her room.”

“Okay, Zoe, let’s go.”

Zoe rested her head on Bruce’s shoulder.

She didn’t dare to look up at Valerie’s wounds. Hearing Bruce say he would take her away, Zoe quickly nodded.

Zoe raised her head slightly...

“Valerie, good night...”

Valerie looked at the cute little girl and laughed at herself inwardly.

“Okay, you should go back to your room and rest, too.”

Bruce took Zoe away after she finished speaking, and he didn’t hear all the words Valerie said.

Kieran and Reese both felt embarrassed.

Reese rolled his eyes at the door.

“What’s wrong with him? Why couldn’t he leave before hearing Valerie out?”

Reese grumbled, He and Kieran looked at each other, and then Reese looked at Valerie who was on the bed.

The two men didn’t know what to say.

In the end, Reese walked to Valerie and spoke.

“Valerie, how do you want to solve this?”

Valerie widened her eyes as she looked at Reese.

Was this the Reese she knew?

Wouldn’t he find the perpetrator and demand justice?

Why was Reese asking for her opinion?

It was so weird.

Valerie asked tentatively.

“If I tell you, will you respect my wishes?”

Kieran nodded.

“I will. Just tell me what you think. I will respect your choice and deal with this accordingly.”

It was the first time that Reese talked to Valerie so gently.

Valerie felt flattered.

This was a good opportunity for her to express her opinions.

She looked back at the two tall men who were looking down at her.

“Kieran, Father, I don’t want to make a big deal out of this. I want to make friends on my own. I was bullied today, but I took care of it. They won’t cause me trouble again.”

After Valerie finished speaking, Reese’s face darkened.

Of course, he disagreed with her.

The light in Valerie’s eyes went out.

She turned her head and looked at the lamp on the ceiling.

She stopped talking to them.

Kieran went forward and took Reese’s arm.

Reese held back his dissatisfaction and looked at the door angrily.

Kieran walked to Valerie and knelt on one knee.

“Can you tell me why you don’t want us to help you? Do you really want to make friends by yourself?”

Valerie didn’t look at Kieran and only nodded.

“I don’t want your help...”

Valerie murmured in a daze. Kieran was near her and heard it clearly.

After Valerie finished speaking, he squinted and felt uncomfortable in his chest. He opened his mouth and wanted to speak but couldn't...

If another girl said that, she would be considered independent.

However, when Valerie said it, Kieran only felt she didn't want to be close to her family...

Kieran scratched his thin hand and lowered his head.

"Well, I understand. You should rest at home these days. When you get better, you can go to school again, but..."

Suddenly, Kieran's face darkened, and his faint anger jolted Valerie out of her reverie.

"If you get bullied again and come back with wounds, you must listen to us. Understand?"

Valerie nodded and agreed.

Kieran pursed his lips and stood up, pulling Reese out.

"Dad, let's go out now.

Realizing Valerie didn't want to rely on them or tell others she was a Horton, Reese was distressed.

When the two men left Valerie's room, Reese violently shook Kieran's hand away.

"Since she wants to do it on her own, let her try! We are of no help here!"

Kieran frowned in frustration and rubbed the spot between his brows.

“Enough! Dad, Valerie hasn’t cried or complained to you since she came back. What more do you want? She is wounded. If you keep yelling at her, how can she be a normal girl?”

Kieran’s tone was a bit harsh.

Reese was less angry.

It was rare for Kieran to show his agitation in front of Reese.

“Humph! Okay, I will stay out of this! You can deal with it all you want!”

After saying that, Reese put his hands behind his back and stormed into his study.

Kieran looked at Valerie’s room and stood still for a long time until Reyna and Jayvion came over with dinner.

“Kieran, is Valerie asleep?”

“Ah, Mom, I don’t know. Let me take a look?”

Kieran came back to his senses and gently opened the door to Valerie’s room.

Then he saw her sleeping face.

She put her hands on her chest and pulled her quilt to her chin. She was wrapped in it tightly.

She was small and almost invisible under the quilt.

Her face was pale from the pain she felt when the doctor helped her disperse the blood stasis.

Even her breathing was faint.

She didn’t look like she was breathing.

Reyna's and Kieran's hearts skipped a beat. They quickly went forward and put their fingers under Valerie's nose.

Valerie's faint breathing reassured Reyna. They looked at a sleeping Valerie silently.

After a long time, Reyna spoke in a flat tone.

"Do you know who hurt her?"

Kieran shook his head.

"Valerie didn't tell us who bullied her. She said those people wouldn't dare to touch her again. And she doesn't want us to avenge her."

Kieran said in a flat tone but excited Reyna.

Her face darkened, and she pulled Kieran out of the room.

After gently closing the door, she said angrily to him.

"Although she said she didn't want our help, can't you help her in secret? We don't need to let her know. Look what they have done to her!"

Reyna was so excited that she slurred.

Kieran quickly comforted her.

"Mom, don't be mad. I will tell you my plan..."

Kieran tried to calm her down.

Reyna's eyes turned red again.

He comforted her gently.

"Mom, Valerie is not herself, so we shouldn't push her. Has she been weird lately?"

Kieran's words jolted Reyna out of her reverie.

Reyna indeed found Valerie weird recently.

Chapter 32 You Can Talk About à

She tried to hold back her anger.

"Kieran, ask a psychiatrist to come and check Valerie."

He nodded solemnly to tell her he understood. Reyna then reluctantly went back to her room.

Kieran sighed, exhausted. Then he looked at Valerie's room and went away rubbing his brows.

In the quiet room, Valerie was sleeping. In a daze, she felt her limbs were in a mire.

She could feel herself sinking into it.

Her heart grew cold as she traipsed around the endless darkness.

Less and less air went into her lungs, and she madly inhaled, holding the air in her stomach for as long as possible.

She nervously looked around.

There was only endless darkness...

Ah...

Valerie suddenly felt relieved.

It felt like when she had been about to die in her last life...

So, did she trigger something bad again?

Would she have a near-death experience again?

“Boohoo...”

“Valerie, it’s all my fault...”

“Valerie, it’s my fault. I am a bad father!”

“Valerie!”

“Who are calling me?”

“Who are crying?” Valerie thought.

She turned her head with difficulty toward the source of the cry.

Suddenly, she saw a light and squinted. Then she saw what was happening in front of her.

Her vision went blurry.

She saw familiar surroundings.

She had chosen this place carefully in her last life...

She didn’t know what happened after she died.

But in front of where she was lying, there was a group of people.

Valerie started to feel she could breathe normally again. She turned her head and wanted to see the people clearly.

“Valerie, I am sorry. Sorry!”

It was Zoe.

Zoe, who just came of age, was being spoiled by the Horton family.

She was wearing branded clothes, and her complexion was lovely.

Zoe was crying, and behind her, stood four Horton men.

Reyna was also crying, and her body shook.

They were both old....

Valerie's three brothers were older now. Reyna and Reese had more creases in the corners of their eyes.

They started to repent when they heard the news.

When they found Zoe, they learned she was tempted by the food a stranger offered and left with him willingly. Fortunately, her new family was kind.

The Horton family finally found Zoe,

But Valerie was kicked out of the Horton family then.

The Horton family was immersed in the joy of having Zoe back, and they forgot how cruel they were when they chased Valerie away.

When Zoe remembered Valerie, the Horton family realized they wronged Valerie.

They began to search for Valerie and remembered they mercilessly cut all ties with her and took away the things she needed to survive.

It was a sharp sting to them.

It kept making them feel guilty.

Then the police came to their house and said they found Valerie's body. The police asked the Horton family to come to the bureau to identify the body.

The Horton family were dumbfounded.

Valerie saw them repent and look for her.

Valerie, who was still falling in the darkness, couldn't feel any joy or

Chapter 32 You Can Talk About excitement.

She found it amusing as she watched.

The Horton family only realized they were wrong after Valerie died?

Valerie found it hard to accept their hypocrisy.

Even if they atoned for the rest of their life, Valerie wouldn't be alive in her last lifetime.

Her heart grew colder.

Her closed heart was shackled with heavy chains.

Her face became stiff, and she couldn't smile.

She felt the corners of her lips were being pulled by an invisible force.

She didn't feel anything that could make her smile.

She couldn't even try to force one.

She didn't want to open her eyes again.

She stopped struggling.

She just let herself keep falling with closed eyes.

A tingling sensation of electric shock went through her body from her head.

Valerie slowly opened her eyes from her deep sleep and looked at the dark room. The moon was in the night sky.

She let the uncomfortable feeling roam through her body.

Then she welcomed the strange sensation calmly.

She blinked and saw the light on the ceiling clearly

However, she was still thinking about what she had just seen in her dream just now

Her mind was in a mess

She stared at the ceiling above her head

A long time passed

A clear teardrop fell from the corner of her eye to her ear

One teardrop. Two teardrops...

She gripped her quilt and bit it to prevent herself from crying

She used all her strength to do it.

She hid herself under the quilt.

She hid there the whole night...

When dawn broke, Jayvion came to Valerie's room with medicine

He was worried about her the whole night and barely slept.

He quickly came to her room to apply medicine to her wounds at sunrise.

"Miss, are you awake?"

Jayvion lightly knocked at the door and waited for Valerie to answer him.

"Jayvion, good morning. I am awake."

Valerie's faint voice came from the room.

Her face was pale, and her eyelids were swollen. She looked weaker.

Her face showed she had cried...

“Miss, does it hurt?”

Jayvion quickly walked over and sized her up, his eyes filled with concern...

“I am fine. Jayvion, I just had a nightmare last night...”

Jayvion’s heart began to ache.

Valerie was lying.

Why?

Jayvion didn’t expose Valerie’s lie.

He applied medicine to her gently.

Then he quickly brought breakfast to her.

After all, when he had brought dinner to her last night, she had been sleeping.

She must feel hungry now without food.

As expected, after Jayvion gave Valerie food, she began to gobble it down.

She must be really hungry.

“Miss, slow down. There is more. Please have a drink of water.”

Jayvion quickly got her some water and gave it to her, afraid she would choke on food.

“Thank you, Jayvion. I don’t need to go to school, right?”

“Yes, Miss. Your cuts and bruises have been dressed, but it’s unclear if you have internal injuries. You need to be examined in the hospital.”

Jayvion poured her another glass of water and said to her gently.

“I understand, Jayvion.”

Valerie accepted what was given to her calmly.

She would rest for a few days and work on sachets.

She had nothing but time now.

After breakfast, Jayvion took Valerie to the hospital.

Then she would have a lot of examinations.

Her doctor looked calm at first, but then his face became serious.

He looked at Jayvion, confused.

“The girl is malnourished. Apart from her cuts and bruises, she suffers from internal wounds and inflammation.”

Valerie had wounds to prove that she was beaten up.

Jayvion looked concerned, so the doctor guessed she was bullied outside her home.

But the doctor didn’t understand why she was malnourished.

“You should let her rest, or she might have chronic diseases.”

“Thank you, doctor. We will do that.”

Jayvion listened to the doctor carefully and looked at Valerie with worry.

Jayvion’s eyes were also serious.

He was overly anxious.

Valerie felt she was being checked by Jayvion in a daze. She felt so sleepy.

“Jayvion, when can we go back?”

“Miss, they also need your blood. After they take it, we can go home.”

Jayvion explained to her patiently.

She curled her lips and was pulled by him to get her blood drawn.

There were a lot of people in the hospital. On the way for the blood collection, Valerie was suddenly attracted by a person not far away.....

He was tall and had a straight back.

He was wearing black clothes and shoes.

Even his cap was black.

But his black outfit couldn’t cover his aura.

Calvin’s hands were in his pockets, and he was waiting for the results of the tests.

He suddenly felt a hot gaze.

He quickly looked over.

Then he saw Valerie's bright eyes.

He was rooted to the spot.

He squinted at her.

He was confused and intrigued.

Calvin spent most of his time in the military and undertook various missions. He was familiar with Valerie's gaze.

He had seen it a lot.

It indicated she made peace with death because she experienced it.

When his comrades left him, they had such gazes.

Calvin had yet to react.

But Valerie was taken away by Jayvion.

"Ah..."

Calvin raised his hand automatically and looked at Valerie's back.

He scratched his head helplessly.

"What is going on? Do we have the test results now?"

A resonant voice sounded.

"Grandpa, you startled me!"

Galen looked at Calvin in disgust.

Then Galen pushed him away hard and went to get the test results.

Somehow, Calvin couldn't stop thinking about Valerie's scary gaze.

"Grandpa, I just found a child. Her gaze was weird."

Galen turned his head to show Calvin that he heard it, but Galen didn't answer.

"Her gaze told me she experienced death."

Galen's hand holding the report paused, and his eyes were filled with doubt.

"You are not kidding?"

"Grandpa, I wouldn't joke about this."

Even if Galen thought Calvin was still not a good man, Calvin was the best fighter in his team.

Chapter 23 Let's Talk

Calvin sounded convincing.

Galen thought for a moment before becoming calm again.

"So what if she has experienced death at such a young age? Maybe it is fate. She is still alive, which means she has pulled through. It doesn't matter that we know she almost died."

Galen gave Calvin an impatient look before reading the report again.

Calvin felt wronged, his arms akimbo.

Galen let him take some time off but still reprimanded him.

If his brother hadn't gone on a business trip abroad, Calvin wouldn't have been doing this in the hospital.

After Galen gave him a sharp look, Calvin stood behind him holding some scans...

Valerie, who was taken away by Jayvion, got her blood drawn and slept in the car.

Last night's nightmare made her gloomy and tired.

Jayvion didn't say anything and just drove, taking her home.

When she arrived home, she was sleepy, and Bruce walked to her in the living room. It was rare for him to do that.

"Let's talk."

"What?"

Bruce saw the dark shadows under her eyes and softened his tone.

"You can eat lunch first. We will talk after that."

Valerie was sleepy. After she had lunch, she just wanted to go back to her room and take a nap.

This time. Bruce took her to have lunch in the dining room.

Zoe, Reyna, and Reese went out to have fun.

Zoe was disturbed by what had happened with Valerie last night.

Reese doted on Zoe, so he wanted to take her out to relax.

Now only Valerie and Bruce were at home.

“What do you want to talk to me about?”

Valerie’s tone was flat, but Bruce was eating and didn’t reply immediately.

He just said it could wait until after lunch.

How annoying.

Valerie hated it when she was intrigued but had to wait.

Perhaps Bruce often did the same thing to his artists.

Valerie held back her dissatisfaction and quickly finished lunch.

She wanted to get it over with as quickly as possible.

Bruce noticed she was exhausted and paused before eating faster.

They spent more than 20 minutes eating lunch.

“Let’s go into my room.”

Bruce used a stern tone, and Valerie sneered coldly inwardly.

She remembered that not long ago, Bruce came out of his room looking embarrassed, but when he saw her he regained his usual look.

It seemed he had thought this through.

He might have made the decision for her.

With that thought, Valerie’s face became grim.

But she still followed him into his room and wanted to hear what he would say.

She gently closed the door and stood by it, waiting for Bruce to speak.

“Come and sit.”

Bruce frowned and looked at Valerie who was standing still at the door.

Since she was in the room, he could make her say yes.

With that thought, his tone became harsh.

It was different from the one he used when he asked for her help.

Valerie looked at him coldly. He was supposed to be her family...

She said coldly.

“What is it? Quickly speak. I am really sleepy now.

She didn't pretend to be close to him anymore and said indifferently.

Bruce expressed his discomfort and dissatisfaction.

Bruce watched as she reached for the door handle, He panicked.

“It's nothing. I just want to ask if you are willing to attend a reality show.”

Valerie understood what he wanted.

She remembered.

In her last lifetime, not long after she was kicked out of her own house, a reality show became popular.

It was called “Hi, Cutie Patooties”.

The show had popular and talented young people in showbiz.

They would be parents for a week and take care of the cute children in the show.

Zoe became famous through this show.

Everyone in the country adored her.

Besides, she was a Horton.

It would be easier for her to enter showbiz when she grew up.

In Valerie's last lifetime, she saw Bruce was busy with this show and felt blue sometimes.

Maybe he was upset and worried because he didn't want Zoe to suffer at a young age.

In Valerie's last lifetime, the show was recorded in villages and small towns.

The environment was different now.

So. Bruce stalled until Zoe could get used to the show?

But what about now?

Zoe still couldn't do it.

So. Valerie, who was covered in wounds, had to do it for her?

Bruce was so cruel.

He was so cruel to Valerie.

"You want me to be in the show?"

“Yes.”

“What is in it for me?”

“Excuse me?”

Bruce didn't know how to reply.

Valerie was still a child.

Why was she asking him that question?

How could she understand what was at stake?

Bruce was confused but didn't show it much.

“What do you want?”

Chapter 93 Record the show (1)

Valerie frowned.

“Money. And get me a bank card.”

Bruce was more confused.

“You don't have a bank account?”

“No.”

Valerie replied in a flat tone, but Bruce was shocked,

Even Zoe had a bank account, and her allowance was hundreds of thousands of dollars.

If Valerie didn't have a bank account, how much money could she get a month?

Bruce remembered his brother had told his father about this.

But Bruce didn't care then.

Suddenly, he felt guilty.

He stopped using a stern tone toward Valerie.

“Do you concur? If not, I won’t attend the show.”

Valerie was losing her patience.

Bruce realized she was really tired and quickly took out his file.

“This is your appearance money. You are a Horton, so you will also get money.”

Valerie took the file and saw the number.

She was instantly excited.

Valerie’s eyes were the size of saucers.

Bruce could even see the red veins in her eyeballs.

She was so short of money?

It seemed she didn’t get much money every month.....

Bruce had a lot of money, and he just wanted his company to be more famous

“I will give you the money and open a bank account for you. So, you agree to t his?”

“Yes, as long as I will be paid, I am in. I am going to sleep.”

Bruce wanted to talk to her about the environment.

However, she slammed the door shut loudly.

She was really drowsy.

Bruce withdrew his hand.

“Forget it. I will talk to her about this again and have her prepared.

“Well, does she know where the show will be recorded? And she doesn’t care?” Bruce thought

He quickly negated that thought.

It couldn’t be. His team just found that location recently.

“Well, I will talk to him about this again.”

Bruce cheered up knowing Valerie would attend the show.

Valerie took many days off.

Mica was worried about her.

Mica even went to find Sophie and asked her about Valerie's home address.

But Sophie answered him impatiently because she didn't care.

Sophie showed Mica Valerie's family information.

Sophie couldn't afford to offend the children in her class.

Mica perused the documents many times.

However, he didn't find Valerie's home address.

"Why doesn't it have her home address?"

Mica was confused and worried.

That morning, when Valerie was surrounded by the group of girls, Mica knew Valerie was targeted.

The next day, Mica couldn't find Valerie.

He looked back at Derek and calmed himself down, walking toward him.

"Do you know where Valerie's home is?"

Derek looked at Mica and smiled.

“What is going on?”

“I don’t know. I am scared!”

“I just went to the bathroom. I didn’t dare to enter through the back door, so I took a detour.”

“Was Mica like this before?”

“I don’t know, but I am sure he changed because of Valerie.”

“Why didn’t she come?”

“I don’t know. Maybe she is sick?”

The students were guessing what was happening.

Mica and Derek stared into each other’s eyes for a long time before relaxing.

“Alright, I guess you don’t know, either.”

“How can you be so sure about that?”

Derek chuckled.

Mica rolled his big eyes at him.

Alright, Mica was right about Derek.

It didn't feel good to be seen through.

Mica saw Derek's face become hostile.

Mica suddenly felt cheerful.

Mica went to his seat without looking back, not caring how angry Derek looked .

Mica felt good about himself after sitting down.

Then he realized he hadn't achieved his goal.

When Valerie returned, he would ask her where she lived!

Valerie was at home and taken care of carefully by Jayvion. Her complexion was getting better.

Her sallow skin was now fair.

She looked much healthier than before.

Well, it was that place again.

"I am fine with it. We have a deal. Is the shooting about to start?"

Bruce quickly caught the file coming his way and looked shocked.

"Are you sure you are okay with this environment?"

After all, he felt it was too harsh for a girl to live here.

To his surprise, she threw the file back at him after reading it.

"I am. The houses here are like warehouses."

Valerie said in a flat tone, but Bruce, who was still sitting on the bed, didn't know how to reply.

And her voice was so cold...

He took a big breath.

“It will probably start the day after tomorrow. Someone will come and pick you up. By then, the show will be recorded.

“Tucker will be your father in the show...”

Valerie’s eyes lit up. She didn’t hear clearly what Bruce said next...

Tucker... The famous rich young man from the Fisher family.

He was the only young adult man in the Fisher family who entered showbiz without joining the military first despite the family tradition.

It was not that

Tucker didn’t want to join the military. It was because he was born with poor health and couldn’t withstand the military’s harsh training.

He was short-sighted and had a low lung capacity.

He was a weak man physically.

So, it was impossible for him to get stronger through exercising.

Galen tried to make him strong but failed.

Tucker almost died from Galen’s training.

Valerie learned that from her last lifetime.

Tucker didn’t tell the public he was from the famous Fisher family.

To the outsiders, he was just a reserved and hardworking man.

Besides, he was no pushover.

He was once sued but won easily.

But he had one shortcoming...

He was born under an unlucky star.

Thinking of that, Valerie felt her body go stiff.

Well...

It should probably be fine.

How could it be worse than her hut that would only cost her 25 dollars a month?

Feeling relieved, Valerie accepted the arrangement...
