

The Revived Me Surrounded by Adoration as a Supporting Role

Chapter 326

Chapter 175 Please Protect Her (2)

“Zoe, don’t be afraid, don’t be afraid! Mom will take you home!”

Reese squatted on the side, watching Zoe covered in dirt, completely different from her usual clean and delicate self.

His heart rarely ached like this.

The image of Valerie’s shabby appearance from the previous life came to mind again.

Living in a moldy basement, hiding under the blanket and silently crying.

And there was that lifeless gaze.

Just like staring at oneself straight in the eye, there was no anger, no condemnation, no hatred.

Just like looking at the air, looking at oneself.

From somewhere in the dream, I just watched myself.

Smiling coldly.

His heart suddenly beat rapidly, causing sharp pain in his entire chest.

The pain made him unable to breathe, and the sourness made his nose and eyes turn red.

He controlled himself, preventing tears from flowing out, and simply reached out, carefully placing it on Zoe’s body.

When his hand rested on Zoe’s back.

Zoe trembled violently for a moment.

Terrified, she turned her head to look at Reese, tears streaming down her face. In her clear eyes, there was a deep fear written all over, a fear of herself.

She was afraid that Reese would blame her and hit her.

Reese was taken aback and suddenly became speechless.

He immediately removed his hand from his daughter's back, stood up, and made room for his three sons to take care of Zoe.

He looked at his hands in disbelief, they had never been so cold before.

Was it so painful to be feared and alienated by one's own family in the past?

Since the Horton family woke up, everyone in the house walked around as if they were entitled to do so and thought it was only natural.

"Sorry..."

Reese muttered to himself.

He seemed to have aged several years all of a sudden, with his weak hunched back, not knowing who exactly he was apologizing to.

In the same situation, there was also Bruce and Kieran.

They also thought of Valerie.

The things in the dream made them never forget. Today, Zoe was saved and it was purely good luck.

But Valerie was truly being bullied in the orphanage and in society
when she grew up

Should we be grateful?

Was Valerie not targeted by human traffickers at that time?

The atmosphere suddenly became heavy.

"Excuse me, are you Zoe's family?"

"Yes, we were."

The voice of the police officer who came in to handle the procedures brought them back to their senses.

“Okay, please come over here and sign your name, go through the process, and then you can take the child away. It’s best to take the child to the hospital for a check-up, to ensure there are no physical injuries. There might be some psychological trauma, so family members should pay close attention.”

“I understood, thank you, comrade.”

Reese took the lead and left with the police officer. He felt that he needed to leave for a while first, otherwise Zoe would feel uncomfortable if he stayed here.

Sure enough, when Reese left, Zoe breathed a sigh of relief.

But she still hid in Reyna’s arms, unwilling to look up.

After all, there were still three older brothers.

Long-lost elder brother and the frequently quarreling Bruce and Tristan.

Seeing her made him feel embarrassed.

So she nestled in Reyna’s arms and gradually closed her eyes.

Perhaps the matter had ended, and the current place was also safe. Zoe felt a heaviness in her eyes.

In a daze, she seemed to see Valerie outside, chatting with some relatives.

She opened her mouth and weakly shouted a sentence.

“Valerie...”

After saying that, she closed her eyes and fell into a deep sleep.

The Horton family stood still in place.

Valerie?

Where were you?

Following Zoe’s gaze just now, they all looked over.

Sure enough, I saw Valerie wearing freshly changed camouflage clothes, chatting with the family members outside.

The ones held in the arms of their family members were the little boy who was taken hostage by the man with red eyes. The little boy refused to go to the hospital no matter what, saying that he would go after meeting his family.

Now, due to exhaustion, I fell asleep in the arms of my family.

“Thank you so much! Really, thank you! If it weren’t for you, my child’s life would have been in real danger!”

“It’s okay, this is what I should have done.”

Valerie smiled and gently pushed the family forward with both hands.

“Hurry and take the child to the hospital for another check-up, time is running out.”

“Oh, oh, oh, good! Good! Thank you again!”

After saying thank you to Valerie, she hurriedly took the boy to the hospital for a check-up.

Valerie’s head was also wrapped in bandages to treat the large bump that had been knocked out.

But in the eyes of the Horton family, Valerie had already been seriously injured.

Kieran’s eyes instantly turned red.

He opened his mouth, wanting the air to flow into his mouth.

Because now he was so heartbroken that he couldn’t make a sound at all...

“Is this Valerie?”

Reyna straightened her body and looked at Valerie, whose head was wrapped in bandages. She widened her eyes and looked at her eldest daughter, who was smiling and saying goodbye to someone over there.

Her heart was pounding.

Was Valerie also caught? So she got hurt?

Bruce, like being shocked, instantly lowered his head and dared not look at Valerie.

He felt guilty.

Kieran stood in place, watching Valerie's busy and bustling figure.

I hesitated a bit about whether to approach her and start a conversation.

Valerie naturally felt the gaze directed toward her, but she didn't have much energy to pay attention to them now.

Kieran thought the same way, so he didn't say to leave immediately and take Zoe to the hospital for a check-up.

Several people just watched Valerie busy herself there.

He also interacted with people around him who were wearing military uniforms.

Several people blinked their eyes. Has she already joined the team now?

Did you get injured in order to save the child?

Reese finished signing and returned to their side.

"What's wrong? Aren't you leaving?"

I looked at Reyna and her three sons strangely.

Following their gaze, he also caught sight of Valerie's figure.

"Valerie?!"

Involuntarily, I exclaimed in a low voice and was momentarily speechless as I looked at the bandage on her head.

So the Horton family, in agreement, did not leave this place.

I just found a place to sit and waited for Valerie to finish her work.

Until the remaining few children, whose homes were too far away, stayed overnight, things also settled down a bit.

Valerie, who was resting, had just breathed a sigh of relief when a black shadow suddenly flashed by in her peripheral vision.

She couldn't ignore the blatant gaze.

The gaze turned toward the Horton family sitting in the lobby.

Valerie suddenly understood.

Regardless of anything, immediately ran out.

The sudden action made everyone in the police station feel uneasy. What happened?

The members of Calvin's team exchanged glances and quickly followed Valerie's footsteps, running outside.

"What happened?"

Running up to Valerie, the teammate asked her seriously.

"I had a rough idea of who they were targeting. They had their eyes on Miss Horton from the Horton family. Just as I felt an uncomfortable gaze, I looked over and saw a person wearing a duckbill cap, dressed in all black, running away."

Valerie ran to the entrance of the police station, but that person had already disappeared.

Chapter 176 Please Protect Her (2)

The team members understood in their hearts. He picked up the walkie-talkie and sent someone to track and investigate.

"Are you sure it was Ms. Horton?"

"He looked directly at Zoe, and it was quite obvious. The children inside the police station were taken to better rooms, getting ready to be taken to the hospital for examination. Only the members of the Horton family were present in the lobby."

Most likely, they targeted the Horton family's property, so they targeted Zoe.

The team members furrowed their brows.

"You should also worry about yourself more."

Although she had already left the Horton family, in the eyes of outsiders, she was still a member of the Horton family.

Since Zoe was targeted, it indicates that Valerie was also likely targeted.

“I got it, I will pay attention.”

The team members nodded their heads and continued with their own tasks.

Valerie rubbed her slightly sore neck and twisted her head.

Alright, let's now address the members of the Horton family.

Just ran out by myself, they didn't know what was going on and followed me out. Now standing at the entrance, they are just staring at 1.

Valerie understood that what had to come would always have to be faced.

And now, he is no longer a member of the Horton family. No matter what they say, it doesn't matter to him.

Turned around and walked toward the few people at the door.

“Sirs, although Ms. Horton's condition is currently stable, it is still advisable to take her to the hospital for examination as a precautionary measure.”

Valerie followed them and observed their expressions as they spoke,

They all seemed stiff, not knowing what to say.

They wanted to call her Valerie, but after all these years, they knew they were not entitled to do so.

I could only awkwardly smile and face the calm Valerie without any waves.

“We found out, um, did you get injured? Is it serious? If you don't mind, we can take you to the hospital together...”

Kieran took the lead and looked at Valerie's head, expressing his concern.

“Mr. Horton.”

Before Kieran finished speaking, Valerie interrupted him.

“You crossed the line, Mr. Horton.”

Dong!

In just five words, the men of the Horton family felt as if they had fallen into an icy cave.

All the words I wanted to say got stuck in my throat, as if someone was choking me, and I couldn't utter a single word.

The goosebumps all over their bodies made them realize that this was reality.

Chapter 330

Chapter 176 Please Protect Her (3)

“Yes, I'm sorry...”

The man who once dominated the shopping mall, now lowered his head in front of a young girl who had not yet come of age.

The tone also lost its former enthusiasm.

Reese also just pursed her lips, her eyes reddened as she stared at Valerie, whom she hadn't seen in a long time.

I didn't know what to say.

Valerie looked at Reese in surprise.

In the Horton family, she found the most difficult person to handle was this extremely chauvinistic man.

But now, he not only didn't criticize himself, but also had red eyes.

What does this look mean?

Feeling sorry for oneself?

Damn it.

But what needs to be said still needs to be said.

“Mr. Horton, there is something I need to remind you of. It seems that Ms. Horton has been targeted, with the aim being the Horton family’s assets. Please be vigilant of Ms. Horton’s whereabouts from now on.”

If you need to go out, it’s best to bring a bodyguard with you. At that time, we will also send someone to protect Miss Horton’s safety.

Valerie’s short statement made these big men turn pale.

“You, are you saying that Zoe is very likely to be caught again? And then they will demand money from us?”

“Yes, but those people were extremely cunning and didn’t seem like they would keep their word. In the worst-case scenario, Ms. Horton would have been captured and they would have targeted her after receiving the ransom.”

Valerie touched the back of her head and it started itching.

Kieran talked with Valerie, while Reese watched Valerie the whole time, with a fixed gaze.

It was impossible to ignore.

Valerie could only pretend not to care.

“Could we choose the people who would protect our daughter ourselves?”

Just as Valerie and Kieran were discussing, Reese suddenly spoke up.

“What?”

The situation was too sudden, and Valerie didn’t know how to respond all of a sudden.

“I wanted to invite you to our house to protect my little daughter.”

Valerie furrowed her brow and looked at Reese with doubt.

What’s going on? Has this so-called biological father’ of mine undergone a sex change?

Did that irritable person from the past really say “no” and mean it?

Now, they are unexpectedly inviting me back so kindly, to protect Zoe.

He even said the word “please”.

Valerie was still puzzled over here.

But in Reese’s eyes, she saw it as a disguised rejection.

He felt a slight sourness in his heart.

But he wouldn’t give up, not this time.

He had to take good care of his two daughters.
