Chapter 56 Stop Watching

Kieran and Bruce were watching Valerie's live stream in the study.

When Valerie said these words, the atmosphere around the two of them immediately changed.

Their mood was already unpleasant because Valerie started live streaming to explain, and they were not waiting for her to clarify this matter.

The sentence she is saying now seems to be slapping them in the face.

After all, it happened before.

They didn't have anything good to say about Valerie.

Although there were no comforting words after it happened...

Valerie didn't say what they both meant, after all, she thought her family wouldn't watch her livestream.

The speaker was unintentional, but the listener was intentional.

Only after doing it, will one feel guilty.

Unfortunately, what she said was right.

Not only them, but also those who were boasting in the live broadcast room at the beginning, now seem to have been forced to tear off their fig leaves.

Ashamed and feeling utterly embarrassed!

After Valerie finished speaking, she glanced at the live room, but she didn't care about what these people were thinking now.

What did you concern yourself with?

Talking about myself is one thing, but to also mention Tucker and say that he was greedy for vanity?

Are you crazy?

Tucker took such good care of himself, he still had to be grateful.

Hurry up and turn on the computer. Valerie continued talking about this matter that had already been settled.

“I have introduced before, this is a portable camera. Next, I will show everyone how to transfer the content inside to the computer. The video inside is the truth of this matter.”

She skillfully manipulated it, and quickly imported the video into the computer.

It suddenly appeared on the desktop.

Everyone’s breathing became heavier, and they could all feel their hearts pounding strongly.

“Before clicking on the video, I want to make it clear to everyone why I am the one doing the live stream explanation. It is because I have spoken to the Horton family and expressed my hope that this matter does not escalate. I want to resolve it using my own power.”

I didn’t intend for it to become such a big deal, but everyone still noticed the injuries on my body. I am very grateful for the concern shown toward me.

Also, I appreciate the respect from my family at home. It has always been my strong request for them not to intervene.

Family... I couldn’t say it out loud...

Valerie resisted the discomfort and eventually uttered those two words.

Kieran, who was watching the live stream in the study, felt a weight lifted off his heart.

That's great.

At least the Horton family's reputation was preserved.

This way, Reese wouldn't get angry anymore.

After Valerie finished speaking, she immediately clicked on the video on her computer desktop.

"What's the matter?"

This was the first sight.

Valerie's cold voice sounded even clearer.

The faces of Abbigail and her group of people were clearly captured in the photo!

Next, it was the scene that everyone had guessed.

They all came up one after another and beat Valerie.

While laughing, some even maliciously said, "Valerie, a commoner, dares to challenge them."

Moaning sounds of pain, pounding our hearts with each strike.

Valerie watched the video again.

He marveled in his heart.

I almost forgot how I managed to get through that time.

But the pain was really painful.

Just as the video was playing, Valerie took out her army knife.

“Snap!”

The laptop was forcefully shut by Tucker beside.

Valerie turned her head strangely to look at Tucker.

“Tucker... Dad?”

What came into sight were Tucker’s bloodshot eyes and glistening teardrops ...

“Valerie... I, we stopped watching, um, stopped watching.”

Tucker looked at the girl in front of him, who showed no signs of emotion.

She even looked at herself with worry and concern.

Why is she still indifferent when everyone in the video has been beaten up like this?

What did she go through in the end?

Damn it! The video in that post is exactly the angle at which this group of girls recorded the video!

So, were those girls shouting “thief catches thief“???

“Disgusting!”

Chapter 56

“Hey! Just now Valerie said it, ‘a smooth tongue with no backbone!’”

What the hell! Are you blind? The ones posting are the ones who beat people up. They want to slander Valerie in order to escape the blame. With such intentions, why do you still want to say anything good about her?

Whose child is it? Quickly expose their family background!

David quietly put down what he was holding and thought about calling Bruce's phone.

Looked at Valerie, who was being hugged by Tucker.

The pain in his heart shattered in his pupils.

Some of the staff nearby, who were feeling a bit soft-hearted, were already trying hard to hold back their tears and not let themselves cry out loud.

Tucker approached and embraced the slightly panicked Valerie, gently patting her frail back with his large hands.

Even though she was wearing a coat.

He could feel her exposed spine.

His nose was bright red, and the area around his eye sockets had turned red as well.

But he/she still didn't shed a single tear.

He was just feeling sorry.

"Does it hurt, Valerie?"

In Valerie's ear, Tucker tried his best to calm his unsteady breath, cautiously asking with a slightly choked voice.

Bang!

If on the day I was beaten, I had a dream, in the dream, I found myself trapped in a dark quagmire.

So now Valerie's mood was like a glimmer of light appearing in the darkness.

Her eyes sparkled.

Such a small bouquet.

But it warmed her whole body.

Can she be infatuated?

Holding Tucker's neck tightly, Valerie didn't say a word, but buried herself in his shoulder once again.

This time, I wasn't as cautious as the first time.

She leaned against it resolutely.

She did not cry bitterly, but her eyes were slightly moist with tears.

Shaking my head vigorously, I answered resolutely.

"It didn't hurt!"

Tucker's tears eventually fell down.

He quickly got up and moved away from the camera.

He pressed his face tightly against Valerie's head.

He hugged her tightly, almost as if he wanted to weld her onto himself.

There were no words between the two of them, but the feelings between them were gradually deepening.

The Fisher family, Calvin sat next to Galen at some point in the past.

The two of them shared a tacit silence, each holding a phone and watching the live stream.

“Grandpa, what do you think?”

“... This little girl was too tired, she didn't grow up in the adoration of thousands.”

Galen took a long breath.

Walked slowly to the courtyard.

Picking up the pipe on the small table in the courtyard, he silently began smoking.

Calvin knew that this was something Galen would do when he was thinking about important matters.

Valerie's way of handling things gave him goosebumps as well.

After all, no child can be so well-prepared before being hit.

No child, either, could foresee what would happen tomorrow.

But the little girl knew to take precautions, and after helping her classmates, she continued to live in constant fear.

Even the portable camera was ready.

“Ah! He was a promising talent!”

Of course, Calvin only dared to say this in his heart.

After all, in the Fisher family, girls were considered a rare species.

And look at Galen's current situation.

Ms. Horton was also quite appealing, almost a perfect match.

Chapter 57 You Are the Best!

This live broadcast took more than an hour.

However, this one hour was enough to paralyze the internet.

More and more people entered the live broadcast room, all coming to catch a glimpse of this magical girl.

Valerie didn't care about all that. She and Tucker packed their things again without hesitation and set off to the meeting point once more.

The people from the other three groups had already been waiting at the gathering place. They gathered together and watched Valerie's live explanation.

They all remained silent.

But the children didn't understand, they only knew that Valerie was being bullied.

Carlo angrily grabbed Hallie's sleeve.

"Xiao Ma! Let's go! We will help Valerie seek revenge!"

The little one was angry and tried hard to pull Hallie forward.

It turned red all the way to the neck with exertion!

The expression of a righteous warrior launching an attack.

After spending two days together, even before Carlo arrived, Hallie had already taken the initiative to assume a stable stance and secure her footing, not allowing herself to be dragged along by Carlo.

She anticipated his anticipation.

Hahaha! These two are real jokers!

Hahaha, Carlo's reaction is the normal one, as children tend to have a strong sense of justice.

However, it is true that Valerie's counterattack with the portable camera gave me chills even now.

Upstairs, is it so cold? Do you want to come into my arms to keep warm?

Where did the pervert come from? Hurry up and come over here!

We had so much fun...

The emotionally intelligent netizens had already changed the topic, preventing Valerie's situation from continuing.

After all, this is a variety show, not a dedicated place to discuss Valerie.

Soren's expression was never good when Valerie was being beaten, and the veins on his forehead would occasionally appear and disappear.

Selina, who was standing beside him, saw Valerie being hit and noticed that Soren's mood was very low.

Children were sensitive.

She is a bit at a loss now, Valerie was beaten, and Soren is in a bad mood.

With a small head, her CPU burned out directly. Her eyes became moist, her mouth pouted, and she immediately burrowed into Soren's

The impact of the milk carton brought Soren back to his senses. He quickly scooped up the dumpling that was out of reach of his knee and patted her back.

“Selina, don’t cry. Soren has a task he wants to give you. Can Selina accept it?”

Speaking of the task. Selina’s tears disappeared. She timidly looked at Soren and slowly nodded, pouting her lips.

Soren took off the microphone clipped to his chest and whispered something in Selina’s ear.

“Could you do it, Selina?”

Selina wiped away her tears and nodded vigorously.

“Hmm! I could do it!”

Soren looked at the adorable milk dumpling in front of him and warmly rubbed her head.

Thinking back to the live stream I just watched, Valerie being beaten, he imagined for a moment, what if it were Selina...

He was unsure if he could still hold on.

Tucker and Valerie’s car arrived at the scene quickly. As soon as the two got out of the car, the people at the gathering immediately applauded!

The staff and those three couples were still there!

Carlo clapped his hands and suddenly took a big step forward, rushing toward Valerie.

Staring at her eyes with a serious expression.

What did you do?

Even though Valerie, who was as steady as an old dog, faced Carlo like this, she still looked at Hallie with a pleading look in her eyes.

“Valerie!! If someone bullies you next time, tell me! I will help you fight back!”

Carlo shouted loudly.

The courtyard fell into silence...

Hallie helplessly touched her face with both hands.

If this were to be broadcasted as a late-stage variety show, it would definitely be replayed three times.

Sure enough, after an awkward moment, people burst into laughter.

Valerie also came back, and she didn't expect that everyone had watched what she had just livestreamed!

"Um, thanks, thank you Carlo, but fighting is not right."

"But did they hit you?"

Four-year-old Carlo tilted his head in confusion, he didn't understand.

Why didn't he fight back when he was being hit? Naively, he only knew that he couldn't be bullied!

At this moment, Selina in Soren's arms also came down, pitter-pattering, and arrived in front of Valerie.

"Valerie! You were really brave! So amazing! Selina should also become as amazing as you in the future! When encountering problems, can she use her brain to fight back?"

After speaking, she turned uncertainly to Soren, asking him if she had said it correctly.

Soren smiled helplessly and nodded in agreement with Selina.

Hahaha, I hit someone on the head!

One slapped back, one hit someone's head, although it was meant as a comforting praise, but it really made me want to laugh.

Boohoo, everyone was so adorable!

Soren is so good at taking care of children! Oh my, my heart was already pounding like crazy!

The atmosphere was really good, I hope Valerie could ease the cracks in her heart.

Netizens marveled at the interaction in this small courtyard, which was in stark contrast to Valerie's live broadcast just now.

Ada also came up, and the four children gathered together, with the adults standing behind, silently comforting and supporting Valerie.

What is this commotion?

For the first time, Valerie was overwhelmed by so many people's concerns and she immediately became stuttering.

"Thank you, thank you everyone!"

She widened her eyes and looked at Tucker in confusion.

Tucker smiled and rubbed her head.

"You see, everyone was very worried about you."

"Yes! We were all very worried about you!"

Like a little adult, Ada repeated Tucker's words.

I approached and quietly held Valerie's hand, accompanying her.

"Valerie, you were really amazing. Even if I had encountered such a situation, I would have been down for a while. But you not only didn't give up, but also fought back in your own way! You are truly incredible!"

Trevin squatted down beside Valerie, meeting her gaze at eye level, and earnestly explained his thoughts after watching the live stream.

Valerie's big eyes were never small.

Her watery eyes blinked and fluttered, feeling a bit tingly inside from all the compliments.

This feeling was so mysterious!

But it wasn't bad.

After a brief exchange of greetings, David clapped his hands, bringing an end to their heartfelt conversation.

"Alright, we were delayed a bit just now due to some issues, but we still have to complete today's task. Do you see the baskets behind you? Today's task is quite simple."

Later, we went to the designated mountains to pick some mushrooms or other wild vegetables that could be used.

"Come back before evening, and the team that picks the most can enjoy the luxurious dinner prepared by the crew..."

"Boom!"

David hadn't finished speaking yet, but Carlo and Hallie couldn't wait any longer. They immediately got up and turned their bodies toward the tools, ready to run away at any moment.....

"...I haven't finished speaking! Why are you two in such a hurry? Do you know what mushrooms you picked today?"

For the first time, a cross-shaped mark appeared on David's forehead.

He looked helplessly at the two children who, feeling embarrassed, sat back down.

There was an inexplicable sense of bitterness in my heart.

These two people have been constantly bothering the production team these nights because they were hungry.

The staff responsible for their work complained to him incessantly.

No matter what mushrooms he picked today!

He was feeling very uncomfortable anyway!

In Kieran's study.

Bruce and the two of them looked at the blacked-out phone screen, unable to say a word.

Veins bulged on Bruce's forehead and arms.

He was angry to see Valerie being beaten up in the video.

No matter what, she is still my younger sister, but now she suddenly developed a strong sense of being my older brother.

"Brother! We cannot let those who attacked Valerie go unpunished!"

Kieran snapped back to reality.

Kieran glanced subtly at Bruce, his younger brother whom he knew very well. The reason he was so indignant now was because his own family had been attacked, and he couldn't bear it.

Well, Valerie already shouted it out.

I wish he could live with the present Valerie.

He would just become more disgusted.

Kieran tightly gripped his phone and nodded slowly at Bruce.

"You're right. Although Valerie said that we shouldn't get involved in this matter, it has already become such a big issue. If we don't express our opinion, some malicious people might say that our family is heartless."

Doing this would also make Reese shut up a little bit.

Bruce flipped through the documents in his hand with force, and the study room made a rustling sound.

The hearts of the two individuals were not relieved at all.

In the live broadcast, Valerie and Tucker were casually picking wild vegetables and mushrooms. Seeing this, the members of other teams immediately followed suit.

The cheerful atmosphere of the group of people made Valerie's mood also become cheerful.

Bright eyes, visibly became warm.

Bruce watched the live stream, and the more he watched, the more unsatisfied he felt. He stood up, left Kieran's study, and called David.

"Hello?"

"Hey! Mr. Horton! Good afternoon, good afternoon. Are you calling to inquire about Valerie's condition?"

David, who was working behind the scenes, suddenly received a call from Bruce, thinking it was to inquire about Valerie's condition.

I quickly answered the call and proceeded to report Valerie's situation.

"No, I came to ask how many tasks are still unfinished. Finish all of them within these two days and let her come back early."

The smile on David’s face froze.

What does it mean?

Weren’t you here to ask about Valerie’s situation?

“Mr. Horton, are you suggesting that Ms. Horton continue recording?”

When David asked, he didn’t dare to breathe, staring with wide eyes at Valerie in the camera.

The whole person remained motionless...

Bruce on the other end of the phone suddenly became irritated, and his tone was not very pleasant.

“The program had already started, so of course it had to be recorded till the end. She only appeared in this episode; can’t she even complete one episode?”

David was tongue-tied!

His mind is a bit confused now. With all these things happening, he still thinks about the show?

“I, I asked Ms. Horton.”

David angrily hung up the phone.

He watched Valerie picking mushrooms seriously on the screen, holding his chest, staying silent with a different expression.

The sky was blue, and the flowers were fragrant.

The wind gently blew across Valerie's rosy cheeks.

She stood in the open space, leisurely sitting on the ground, looking at the fields below.

In the previous life, when Zoe was watching the variety show recorded by her, she already had a strong liking for this place.

The last place we found was also this place.

Familiar location, familiar scent of grass.

"Valerie? Have you finished picking? Get ready to go down."

Tucker's pants were covered in mud, but he seemed to not care about it anymore.

Because the time limit for the task was approaching.

"I have finished picking, let's go down."

Valerie snapped out of her thoughts and quickly got up to join Tucker. The two held hands and went downstairs.

The courtyard was bustling, and everyone was sharing what they had picked.

Only Valerie, she was once again stopped by David on her way.

This time, Tucker's expression turned dark, and his tone sounded a bit impatient.

"What's wrong again?"

David smiled apologetically at the two of them and eventually squatted down to have a face-to-face conversation with Valerie.

“Valerie, it’s for you. Your brother just told me that we need to complete the task as soon as possible so that you can go back early.”

Tucker now felt that his head was a little insufficient.

“Is it Valerie’s brother who said that? Since he is so worried, why not just come and pick her up? Why does he still insist on completing all the tasks under high pressure? Isn’t that contradictory?”

The more he talked, the stranger it seemed. Even before, Tucker had felt that the Horton family wasn’t as good to Valerie as he had imagined.

It seems now that it was indeed the case.

Valerie grabbed Tucker’s hand and patted the back of it.

“It’s okay, Daddy. Don’t be angry.”

Valerie gently comforted Tucker and then turned to face David expressionlessly.

“David, could you please lend me your phone for a moment? I need to make a call back.”

David was a bit hesitant, but under Valerie’s urging, he reluctantly took out his phone and dialed Bruce’s number, placing it in her tiny palm.

Valerie turned on the speaker.

Because they were intercepted, there were no cameras or microphones for recording on this side, only the three of them.

The phone didn’t ring for long before it was quickly answered.

“What happened?”

The voice on the other end of the phone conveyed Bruce’s impatient tone.

“It was me.”

Valerie, who hadn't heard the Horton family's voices for a long time, visibly furrowed her brow.

But it was quickly calmed down.

Before Bruce could respond, Valerie continued speaking.

“David has already told me that you want me to go back early and complete the task within a few days. May I ask why?”

The tone of inquiry is like that of a telephone customer service representative.

It doesn't sound right no matter how I listen to it.

Bruce suddenly stood up from his chair. Could he say that he felt a little jealous seeing her having fun with this group of people?

Of course not!

“You made such a big fuss about it; do you think there is any meaning for you to stay there? Come back quickly! Don't embarrass yourself outside!”

Huo!

Tucker on the side widened his eyes and leaned forward, ready to retort.

Valerie quickly covered his mouth, signaling for her to finish speaking first.

“Bruce, the incident of being beaten at school, it's not like I wanted it to spread. I have been very careful, carrying my phone and a portable camera with me. After the incident happened, I immediately live-streamed to clarify.”

“And I didn’t embarrass you either. This matter should be over and has nothing to do with the upcoming tasks, sir...”

With the same disgusted tone as before, Bruce finished speaking and immediately hung up the phone.

If Bruce was making excuses for Valerie to go home earlier, now he really wants Valerie to come back quickly.

Did you defy him?

The bond between us was instantly destroyed when Valerie was beaten just now.

Look.

Everything was as Kieran had said.

Bruce was still so domineering toward Valerie.

“Beep–beep–beep...”

The three of them remained still in their original positions, frozen for a second or two.

Tucker’s pupils contracted intensely as he looked at Valerie in disbelief.

On a young and innocent face, it remained so plain.

Light and breezy, it seemed unrelated to oneself, but those eyes began to lose their sparkle again...

As Tucker grew angrier, his heart began to grow colder...

Valerie seemed a bit strange...

He squatted down next to Valerie.

“Valerie! Did you tell your brother the truth? Is your family treating you like this?”

Valerie’s chaotic eyes finally snapped back to reality as Tucker was now earnestly questioning her. His slightly chilled hands gripped Valerie’s shoulders, trembling slightly.

“Thanks... Tucker, it’s not like that. I’ve just been having some conflicts with my Bruce recently, so our relationship has become a bit strained.”

But what she received in return was Tucker’s face full of complete distrust.

At this moment, Valerie chose to remain silent.

Silence is the best explanation.

“Okay, I understood. Are you going back tomorrow?”

Valerie nodded, otherwise, according to Bruce’s personality, he would really come running and forcibly drag her away.

Tucker nodded heavily.

“Okay, tomorrow I will go back with you.”

“Didn’t you continue recording, Daddy?”

“You were not here anymore, what’s the point of me being alone here?”

Tucker gently patted her little head and went inside with a backpack on his back. The two of them didn’t speak a word in tacit understanding. After entering, they immediately blended into the crowd and began to share their spoils.

David was alone, holding a slightly warm phone in his hand, reminiscing about the recent phone call. He looked at Bruce’s name in his phone contacts.

He scratched his hair irritably.

“Tsk, bad luck!”

Angry, Bruce changed the name of the phone, but he still went in and continued to command the scene.

This time’s harvest, the ultimate winners were Carlo and Hallie.

The reason was that when Carlo fell down on the mountain, he found a place full of mushrooms, and all these mushrooms were edible.

When should we pluck it if not now?

The two of them had a meal together, and their two backpacks were almost unable to fit everything.

The two of them excitedly high-fived each other, a luxurious dinner! They have arrived!

Tucker and Valerie lightly applauded and then immediately got into the car and went back.

Before getting on the car, Soren approached Tucker and handed him some fast food he had received today.

“Tonight, Selina and I were cooking together, sorry about that.”

Tucker took the fast food from Soren.

“Thank you, Soren.”

After bidding farewell to Soren, the two of them sat silently in the car and returned to their own mud hut.

“Valerie, shall we have some fast food for dinner? Will it be enough to satisfy us?”

Back in the mud hut, Tucker finally saw the instant food in his hand clearly under the dim light, and it didn't seem like much.

“It's okay, Daddy. I couldn't eat too much.”

Valerie shook her head sensibly, she is small now and indeed cannot eat too much.

“However...”

“Shall we divide it first? If you can't finish it, Daddy, if you don't mind, you can take it away to eat.”

It seems like this is the only way, Tucker chuckled and pinched her little cheeks.

With tenderness.

“After eating, I will give you medicine. This time, you need to apply it all, understood?”

“Understood.”

The two of them happily ate this not-so-delicious fast food, still with satisfied faces.

It was late at night, after the two of them had finished washing up, Tucker held medicine in his hand.

Before applying the ointment, he carefully applied it to Valerie, even reinserted his contact lenses, and got ready to go.

The staff stood a little further this time and only captured Tucker's upper body, without capturing Valerie lying on the bed.

The camera couldn't see, but it doesn't mean that these workers couldn't see.

A cool breath exhaled heavily from his nostrils, hitting Valerie's belly.

He blinked and adjusted himself, this time, he carefully squeezed out the ointment and applied it on her body, little by little...

"Valerie, did your family know about you being beaten?"

"Hmm? Hmm, I found out when I came back that day."

Tucker wanted to give himself a brain teaser.

How could it be possible not to know when everyone has been beaten up like this?

“Ah, did you have another sister?”

Quickly change the subject.

Valerie’s body trembled.

Zoe’s little face appeared in her mind.

“Well, I had a younger sister...”

Tucker didn’t notice anything wrong and continued to ask questions.

“It’s great to have a little sister. You are amazing too. Many seven–year- old children can’t cook or make sandwiches, but you are very responsible and independent. You are the most talented and admired child Daddy has ever seen!”

The phone call this evening left Tucker feeling uneasy, and he wanted

Suddenly praised, Valerie lifted her little head and smiled slightly at Tucker.

Seeing the man in front of her, who treated her even more gently than her own family, her heart faintly felt a tinge of sourness.

“Daddy, do you know what I liked to eat?”

As if possessed by a ghost, she lowered her voice and whispered...

“What do you like to eat? Tell Daddy, Daddy will buy it for you!”

With Valerie, Tucker also whispered to her in a hushed tone.

“I liked to eat strawberry mille–feuille cake!”

Dong!!!

After getting off work, he rested in his own room and watched Jayvion's live stream. He felt a sharp pain in his heart and lungs, causing numbness throughout.

He stood barefoot on the floor, regardless of how chilling the coldness on the floor was. However, he let the tears in his eyes drop one by one onto his feet and the floor.

Watching the live stream, the rarely smiling lady followed Tucker's warm interaction.

Tucker, with a surprised expression on his face, said that he was very lucky today as he found out what her favorite food was.

Chapter 60 The Cake

Did Valerie really love eating strawberry mille-feuille cake?

Actually, she herself was not sure.

No one asked her what she liked to eat, and no one wanted to know what she liked to eat.

In the previous life, the longest time I saw Zoe was when she was eating a thousand-layer cake.

The sweet strawberry flavor, along with the creamy texture that makes one's mouth water, and the pink and tender color.

Once upon a time, it was also Valerie's favorite and admired color.

She watched as Zoe ate hungrily, and she also found herself salivating.

"Mom, Mom, I also want to eat."

In the beginning, she would also timidly ask Reyna, but every time Zoe heard that, she would become anxious, thinking that Valerie wanted to snatch her food.

When she was anxious, she would start to breathe rapidly and her face would turn pale.

Reyna, Reese, or the other brothers instantly panicked and immediately took her to the hospital. Before leaving, they even said Valerie was not sensible.

But she just wanted to have a taste.

After being kicked out, she used her own salary to buy her first gift, which was a strawberry mille-feuille cake, on her birthday.

0.00%

She devoutly looked at the cake she had bought with her own strength.

The whole person was excited and satisfied in an unusual way, she stared at a small triangular layer cake for a long time.

She was so moved that tears welled up in her eyes.

Afterwards, silently and with tears, she consumed this delicious yet heart-wrenching cake.

In the following years, every time it was her birthday, she would buy herself a small strawberry mille-feuille.

Even on my 20th birthday when I found out I had a terminal illness, I still bought a strawberry mille-feuille.

That night, Valerie had a dream. In the dream, she arrived at a warm place that she had never felt before, and the entire place was filled with a pink and tender color.

There was a crowd of people surrounding her, all hugging themselves affectionately.

Until the end, there was a blurry figure that was completely different from the others, coming toward her.

Just like treating a rare treasure, gently holding her hand and saying something.

But I couldn't hear clearly.

What was he saying?

Valerie tried to get closer to him, but still couldn't hear anything.

Suddenly, the screen shattered, and the pink world turned back into a pitch-black color.

“Ah...”

The feeling of weightlessness made Valerie shudder all over, waking her up directly from her sleep.

Forehead and soles of the feet were covered in cold sweat.

She was still haunted by fear.

The sky outside the window was already dawn, and the sound of busy footsteps from the workers had begun.

“Daddy, good morning?”

Valerie curiously nudged Tucker, who was still asleep. In the past, he would wake up at the slightest sound.

When Valerie’s hand touched his body, she, who had an overflowing life experience, suddenly understood.

Tucker had a fever!

Valerie’s drowsiness vanished in an instant.

I promptly covered Tucker with a blanket, and I also covered him with all his jackets. I efficiently put on my own jacket.

I got out of bed and ran outside.

“In the morning...”

“Sir! Daddy had a fever!”

The staff members saw the door of the mud hut open and were about to say “good morning” when Valerie spoke up first.

The loud shout made by this person caused a pause in the activities of the program crew.

Tucker's agent immediately stepped forward, and the middle-aged man in front of him looked at Valerie with a serious expression.

"Valerie, was Tucker emotionally excited yesterday?"

Tucker was not in good health, and only when his emotions were extremely high would he trigger some old problems.

What happened yesterday, he needs to figure out, otherwise...

It was difficult to explain the situation to the Fisher family.

"I"

"Tucker was just excited when he heard about me chatting with some investors yesterday, there was nothing else."

David stood in front of Valerie, speaking for her.

Bruce was indeed an investor, and Tucker was indeed using his phone. It was only after listening to Bruce's words that Tucker became emotionally excited.

No problem.

The agent was a bit skeptical, but now it doesn't matter so much, taking care of people is more important.

He skillfully took out his own large bag, which was filled with a pile of medical supplies.

He walked into the mud hut and started taking care of it earnestly.

Valerie stood still, hesitating, while the staff went inside to look for

Tucker. Valerie was the only one left outside, wearing thin clothes.

With a bewildered expression, unsure whether to go in or not.

“What’s wrong? Why aren’t you going in? It’s so cold outside.”

Before David entered the mud hut, he turned his head and saw Valerie standing alone, rubbing her hands, standing in place, and staring fixedly at the mud hut.

He hurried forward and grabbed Valerie’s icy cold hand.

“Um, David... it was me who made Daddy sick...”

At this point, Valerie closed her mouth and habitually lowered her head.

It’s all her fault.

David pursed his lips, picked her up, and hugged her tightly as he strode into the mud hut.

“What are you thinking? It is precisely when your Daddy is weak now, he may still need you, and besides, his emotional turmoil and illness have nothing to do with you.”

Didn’t I say it? It’s all because I was talking to the investor and your righteous Daddy overheard, was he emotionally excited?”

David protected Valerie’s self-esteem.

If it were him, he would not want everyone to know how poorly his family treated him.

He felt so embarrassed that he couldn’t bear it.

Valerie closed her mouth; she had something to say.

But at this moment, she didn’t know what to say.

She could only enter the mud hut by David’s light.

Tucker was panting and his face was flushed.

The skin turned completely red.

The agent frowned besides, measuring with a thermometer, while the medical staff of the crew also began the examination.

Let's see what type of disease it was.

Valerie clenched David's collar, staring at the extremely uncomfortable Tucker

“Valerie, you don't need to participate in the variety show today. Go home with Tucker and rest well.”

I didn't care about the traffic or anything else, I just considered it as if I had stepped into a pile of shit this time.

How many days has it been?

David is now exhausted, more tired than filming several months of TV dramas.

Valerie's mind regained a bit of sanity.

She looked at David, who had a slightly troubled expression on his face, and let out a long sigh.

“David, let Daddy go home and rest. It's okay for me to complete the task alone today! Besides, I still need to say goodbye to Ada and the others.”

David's brow furrowed for a moment.

He looked at the little guy in his arms with scrutiny.

Her expression was so sincere.

His intuition told him it was not possible.

But reason told him that if this variety show goes through another Valerie, it would really be blown away.

He was very conflicted!

Just as he was caught in a dilemma, Valerie gently placed her hands on his shoulders and muttered softly.

“David, I didn’t want to go home...”
