

Rewriting Life Chapter 121 – 130

Chapter 121

Eliana fed the eagle mear with a wooden skewer,

Before the session of taming, Hera didn't eat the food thar Eliana fed. After that, is surrendered. When woke up from a faint, Hera ate a lot of meat

Hera was still a juvenile eagle. li would take about four to five years for it to mature into an eagle capable of surviving independently in the wild and developing strong hunting skills.

Eagles were the longest-lived birds in the world. They could live for 20 years. If nothing went wrong.

Hera'could accompany Eliana until

Before they set off in the afternoon. The boss of the courier station brought a camera and wanted to take a photo with them.

Eliana wanted to take a photo with the binsleage, but the moment the shutter was pressed, Hera flew to her shoulder. Such a photo was taken.

After washing the photos, the boss hung them on the wall and gave them use as a memento,

The Shaw family's car came to pick them up and take them to Gunger.

In the car, Eliana looked at the photo carefully. There were a lot of people in the photo. In the front, near the middle row, was her group. There was also Elogy and the boy who was second in the eagle taming record. He has a very beautiful goshawk

After taming the eagle, he stayed upstairs or in the backyard with the eagle and rarely interacted with others.

Eliana had never spoken to him and did not even meet him much. She only heard from the boss of the station that his name was Alden who was handsome and taciturn

This photograph was the only proof of their encounter. It was worth treasuring. Eliana carefully placed the photo between the pages of the book and gazed out the window at the vast grasslands stretching beneath the blue sky. She couldn't wait for the Eagle Exhibition Festival.

Just as Eliana and the others were playing on the grassland Lucy and Sebastian were participating in the Bobhana jewelry auction.

The jewelry auction was packed tonight. Admission tickets were carefully screened, and only those with assets worth more than 2 million dollars were allowed to enter. The seating arrangement was based on the guests net worth; the closer to the front, the higher their status and wealth.

The first three rows were almost all Bobhana celebrities and tycoons from other countries. Their verification funds were at least 3.000 million

Lucy and Sebastian sat in the front row of the round table, accompanied by a translator and a bid spotter.

Lucy wore a black cheongsam with dark patterns and a set of imperial green jade, making her look dazzling. Sebastian, who leaned back in his chair, wore the same color as Lucy.

They were the only Asian couple in the front row, which was a testament to their status and presence.

The seats in the front, middle and back of the round table were occupied by the Garcia family: Andy, Victoria, and Willow Willow had been taking selfies on her phone ever since she came in. How could she let go of such a rare opportunity to show off in school?

After a while, a staff member wearing a badge approached and said politely in French. "I'm sorry, madam. Photography is not allowed here. Our sign says "No photography allowed"

Andy, Victoria, and Willow did not understand French. Although a translator was available for the auction, only those with at least 1000 million dollars were qualified to use that service. As a result, they could only smile awkwardly

The staff member pointed at the sign that prohibited taking photos. Although they could not understand French, there were annotations in other Languages

Willow's expression froze. Then, she put away her phone resentfully. It didn't matter. Anyway, she had almost finished filming just now.

Not long after the staff left the auction officially began.

A middle-aged woman with her hair tied up elegantly walked to the middle of the round table and began to ask the staff to carry the auction items

one by one

Almost all the items on auction this time were world-class treasures. There were many types, including porcelain, jade, and jewelry. But the highlight this time was the jade collections.

1/2

11:09 AM

Chapter 121

Lucy liked jade very much. Almost all the jewelry she owned was made of jade. The pieces ranged in value from millions to tens of millions, and Some were even worth hundreds of millions. These pieces of jewelry had collectible value and potential for future appreciation

As the auction items passed one by one, the jade collections finally arrived

In the back row, Andy whispered to Victoria, "If the price is appropriate, we'll make a bid. After all, we can't have come all this way for nothing"

Victoria turned around and said to Willow with a smile, "Willow, if you like anything, you can tell us. We will buy it for you."

Willow smiled harmlessly. "Thank you, Dad and Mom."

Lucy, who was sitting in the front row, was also planning to buy something for Eliana.

Lucy felt a strong sense of longing for Eliana. She frowned. "Hubby, I don't know where Eliana and the others are, I miss my daughter so much. If I meet someone suitable for Eliana, I'll buy it for her

Sebastian agreed "Alright let's give her a call when we get back to the hotel later"

There were many colors in jade, and the most prestigious one was the imperial jade. Lucy had green jewelry, but young girls would look old when wearing green, so they were not suitable for Eliana

However, purple was very suitable for young girls. Purple jade was also called Violet, and it had a beautiful color.

The auctioneer put up a violet bracelet and Lucy immediately took a fancy to it. This is good. This suits Eliana”

Sebastian agreed, so he signaled the bid spotter beside him to pay attention. After the auctioneer finished introducing, he could bid.

Willow, who was in the back row, also felt that Violet’s bracelet was so dazzling. If she wore it to school, she would become the envy of everyone. Even Wendy would be envious.

Willow immediately turned to Victoria, “Morn, I want this beautiful bracelet.”

Victoria looked at the bracelet in the center of the round table and nodded. “It’s indeed beautiful. Let’s hear how much it costs later

After the auctioneer at the round table finished displaying the bracelet, he began to introduce it and announce the starting price. The bidding started at 3 million dollars.

When they heard the starting price, Victoria and Andy looked at each other. They could afford it.

Unexpectedly, before they could start bidding, a bid spotter in the front row raised his card and raised the price to 4 million dollars. It had instantly increased by 1 million dollars.

Four million dollars could buy a house in Dratora City, but now it was only enough for a bracelet. It was as if she were wearing a house on her wrist.

It was not that the Garcia family could not afford it, but they felt that was a little extravagant. Bracelets of this price could only be placed at home.

to admire and treasure.

However, for the sake of Willow, they gritted their teeth and decided to bid. 45 million dollars.”

Willow was overjoyed to see them bid.

Spotting a bid from someone in the back row, the Davis family’s hit s spotter in the front row raised his paddle crisply, announcing. “3 million

As everyone knew, the rarer something was, the more precious it was. Moreover, every bracelet was unique.

Willow shook Victoria's hand. Victoria saw her beloved daughter and raised her card a gain. "5.5 million dollars."

Chapter 122

It was normal for people to bid for the bracelet. After a while, a few more people participated in the bidding. The price quickly went from 5.5

The auctioneer held a small hammer in one hand and made an inviting gesture with the other. He professionally communicated in Estain the

Sebastian glanced at the bid spotter who wrote a number in his notebook and then raised his card. "10 million dollars"

Andy

Andy and Victoria felt a life pained. They wanted to see who the bidder was not they only saw the back of a few heads and did not see their faces.

Willow could tell that Andy and Victoria were a little heartbroken and did not want to buy this bracelet for her

She recalled that in her previous life, Andy and Victoria had spent tens of millions on a set of jewelry for Estana. It was twice as expensive as 10 million dollars

Willow's heart was filled with jealousy. Then, she pretended to be aggrieved. "Today, Mom, it's alright. Although this bracelet is beautiful, it's too expensive. Let's give up. I'm used to being impetuous and have never worn expensive jewelry. It probably doesn't suit me. Forget it, don't buy in"

Willow's trick was cunning. She pretended to be pitiful and reminded Andy and Victoria about her pitiful life before returning to the Garcia family to live a good life, they could not even buy a piece of jewelry for her Victoria's heart ached. After all, this was the child she had carried for nine months and brought into the world.

"Willow, don't say that. My heart will ache. We can afford this bracelet. I will buy it for you. After saying that, Victoria asked Andy to continue bidding for this bracelet.

Andy raised his sign and announced, “105 million dollars.”

Upon hearing this, a trace of happiness flashed across Willow’s eyes. “Thanks, Mom

The Davis family may not have much else, but they sure have a lot of money. Sebastian and Lucy sat in the front row. Without saying a word, the bid spotter calculated the price and raised his card again. “11 million dollars.”

Andy continued. “12 million dollars.

13 million dollars?

135 million dollars.”

The price of the bracelet had already exceeded the market price of the bracelet

While the color of violet jade was indeed rare, its value didn’t compare to that of imperial green jade. It would be more worthwhile to spend over 13 million dollars on imperial green jade instead.

The bid spotter was just about to remind Sebastian that there was no need to continue with this price. However, he did not expect Sebastian to turn his head and give him a look. The look in his eyes showed that he was determined to get this bracelet

The Davis family didn’t lack money. Besides, did he have to consider the cost–performance ratio to buy a bracelet for his daughter

The bid spotter understood. “15 million dollars. Only the bid spotter and Andy were left competing.

Willow wanted this bracelet. The higher the price, the more she wanted. This was because the higher the price, the more precious this bracelet was, and the more she liked it.

The Davis family didn’t need to worry about cost–effectiveness. However, the Garcia family had to consider it. They weren’t so well–off that they could afford to be careless with money.

Andy whispered to Victoria and finally decided to increase the price again. If they did not get it this time, they could only give up

After all, they could not exceed the bid too much. They could do a lot with more than 15 million yuan. It was not cost–effective to buy a bracelet. Moreover, it was still unknown if the value of this thing could rise in the future. “15.5 million dollars.”“

The bid spotter said, “20 million dollars”

Hearing the bids from the front row, Andy had no choice but to give up. “Willow. This price is not worth it. Daddy will buy you something else later, I don’t want this bracelet”

Willow was a little unwilling, but she could only give up. She suppressed her disappointment in her heart and forced a smile. “It’s okay. After

1/2

11:09 AM c

Chapter 122

Looking at it for a long time, I don’t think this bracelet looks good anymore

Everyone originally thought that the final transaction price of this violet bracelet would be 20 million dollars.

However, he did not expect Sebastian to suddenly say something to the bid spotter before the auctioneer’s hammer fell.

The bid spotter looked surprised for a moment before he stood up and said to the auctioneer, “Sorry, please wait a moment. Mr. Davis said that this number is inauspicious. He wants to spend 28 million to show their love for their daughter”

Everyone was surprised. “How could he add more money to it? This was too awesome. What was there to bid for? He could buy it at a fixed price

The auctioneer had never encountered such a situation before, but when it came to a request to voluntarily increase the bid, the higher the better. The owner at the back of the auction house was extremely happy.

It was said that Monoesil’s businessmen preferred auspicious numbers. This was simply vividly displayed in Sebastian Willow, who was in the back row, was also stunned. Who on earth was so rich? If only they were my parents”

The Davis couple got the bracelet. Then, the auction continued.

There were a few other bracelets, but Willow did not take a fancy to them.

She had always been thinking about the previous violet. Unfortunately, the jade bracelet was natural and could not be regenerated. Unless she bought it at a higher price, there would not be another identical one in the world.

After a while, a white glass type of jade bracelet with floating flowers was presented.

The white glass type of jade was not considered a rare color, but it was expensive because of the glass type and the floating color on it. It was crystal clear like glass.

It was as beautiful as glass. This was the highest evaluation of jade.

Willow's eyes lit up. "Dad, Mom, I want this bracelet. This bracelet is also very beautiful."

Victoria felt guilty that she did not help Willow bid for the bracelet previously, so she had to help Willow bid for the bracelet this time. She nodded at Willow. "Willow, I'll help you bid for this bracelet"

The bracelet was not as complete as the bracelet, so it was cheaper. However, the words "glass type of jade" meant that it would not be much cheaper.

Lucy also liked this bracelet. "Hubby, this looks good too. Buy it for your daughter!"

Sebastian refused. "This bead is not as good-looking as the bracelet just now?"

Lucy said, "What would a guy like you know about aesthetics! It's gorgeous. Your daughter will love it"

Sebastian finally agreed, "Alright, let's buy it then"

After the auctioneer finished his introduction, the starting price was 1 million dollars. Soon, people were scrambling to bid.

Chapter 123

won reached 1.3 million dollars.

The price soon

At this time, Andy raised his hand. "2 million dollars!"

The value and color of the bracelet could not be compared to the previous bracelet,

Two million dollars was already the highest price. If the price continued to increase, it would already exceed its value. Therefore, many people withdrew from the auction.

Seeing that the price had almost stabilized, the bid spotter in the front row wrote a number. "2.5 million dollars."

Andy originally thought that no one would bid after the price was raised to 2 dollars. However, he did not expect someone else to participate. He looked ahead and saw that it was the two people who had bid for the bracelet

He was a little angry. Why was it them again! Were they going to raise the price of the bracelet! "a million dollars!" he announced.

The bid spotter was not to be outdone and said calmly, 3.5 million dollars"

Victoria also felt that the people in the front row went too far. They could have bought the bracelet for less than 2 million dollars, but now, they had raised the price to 3.5 million dollars, "Could it be that the auction house was entrusting them!"

If not for the fact that they wanted to buy it for Willow, they would not have spent this money at all.

The bracelet from before had already been taken away. Now, no matter what, they had to get the bracelet. Andy raised his card. "4 million dollars"

The bid spotter followed 45 million dollars."

"5 million dollars."

*55 million dollars"

Lucy, who was sitting in the front row, felt that the voice calling out the bid was quite familiar.

It sounded like the person who had competed with them for the bracelet previously

Henry. Lucy turned her head slightly and saw Andy and Victoria.

Lucy recognized them. Previously, when Eliana returned home, they had investigated her adoptive parents. She said to Sebastian, Hubby, the one bidding with us is Eliana's adoptive parents."

Upon hearing that, Sebastian also looked back. Why is in them?"

Lucy reached out and shook Sebastian's hand. "Hubby, they raised Eliana until she was 18 years old. They've never mistreated Eliana before. They were the ones who competed with us for the bracelet last time. Why don't we give them the bracelet t his time?"

Sebastian narrowed his eyes. He did not want to give up. However, what Lucy said made sense.

Before Willow returned, Eliana had lived in the Garcia family for eighteen years. Andy and Victoria treated her very well, always considering her as their daughter. Who would have thought that they would later discover Eliana was not their biological child?

Thinking of that, Sebastian should indeed dunk them. "Alright, let then have this bracket "

Lucy agreed Sebastian asked the bid sporter to stop bidding. The bid spotter received t he order and did not continue to raise the price ed 5.5 million dollars, which was too ridiculous. Judging from

However, even if he called for a stop now, the price of the bracelet had already reached 5.5 its material, this bracelet was completely not worth it

Victoria said in a low voice, "Could it be that the person in front is raising the prior malici ously?"

Andy was also a little angry. "I think so."

Victoria proposed, "Since they're raising the price maliciously, let's raise the price. If the y continue to follow, we won't follow and let them innur a

Andy nodded. He raised his card and shouted, "6 million dollars!".

Initially, he thought that the bod spotter in the bid spotter. Andy was dumbfounded ner in the from now would continue the bidding, but he did not expect that there would be no movement

The auctioneer at the center of the round table repeated this bidding for three seconds, but no one raised the price. The auctioneer made the final decision

1/2

11:00 AM D

Chapter 123

Andy and Victoria were shocked. They had shot themselves in the foot. Bidding 3.5 million dollars was already very ridiculous, Wouldn't bidding two million dollars be foolish!

However, it would be too embarrassing to go back on their words now. They could only swallow their anger and their expressions were extremely Willow who was beside them was very happy. Although there were no bracelets worth tens of millions, it was not bad to have a bracelet worth 6 million dollars. Dad Mom, thank you! I love you so much"

it"

Victoria forced a smile "Willow, as long as you like it. Although Willow liked it, they always felt that it was a loss.

The auction ended. Lucy still felt regretful that she did not help Elana buy the bracelet she liked.

At the back of the auction house, the owner of the auction house personally met them to thank them for their strong support that day-

Over the past few years, Sebastian had spent a considerable amount at the auction house. He added to that sum by purchasing today's bracelet,

As the saying goes, a long-term collaboration is based on exchanges

After the staff wrapped the violet bracelet they had bought into a gift box, they brought over another string of glass type of jade bracelet.

Lucy opened the gift box and was a little surprised to see the bracelet inside. "Why is there a bracelet?"

The owner of the auction house smiled. As the esteemed guests of the auction house, it's already our honor to have you here this year. I saw that Madam was very fond of the floral glass type of jade bracelet from before, but for some reason, you regretfully withdrew from the auction.

Lucy smiled "Because the people who participated in the auction were kind to our family, I gave them the bracelet

The owner of the auction h

house nodded and introduced the bracelet. To be honest, this bracelet is made of the same material as the previous one. However, the coating flowers on this bracelet are very rare. There are green jade, yellow jade, and purple jade. These three floating colors are rare to be seen. They are even more precious than the previous bracelet Originally wanted to collect it myself, but seeing that you are quite interested in the previous bracelet, I'm willing to give this bracelet to you as a personal gift" The auctioneer's words surprised Lucy.

She picked up the bracelet and took a closer look. Indeed, every bead on it had a different color and was very lively. It was even more exquisite than! the bracelet with only green flowers

However, the price of such a beautiful bracelet must be different from the price of the previous bracelet.

Lucy and Sebastian looked at each other. They said. "No need. We can buy it"

The owner of the auction house waved his hand. "Since I've said it, it must be a gift. There's no need for you to say anything else. We've worked together more than once. If you find it hard to accept, just treat it as if you bought it."

Putting aside the extra money they had spent the day, Lucy had also ordered a lot of jade from the auction house over the past few years. The owner of the auction house has earned a lot from them

Giving them the bracelet could solidify a major client and secure sales for the next few years. Why not! If it were another customer, the auction house owner wouldn't be willing to give it away.

After all, such a precious bracelet was rare. If someone didn't know their stuff, they would probably mistake this for a worthless piece of glass, not jade.

Chapter 124

At the request of the boss, Lucy and Sebastian accepted the bracelet

The appearance of this jade bead bracelet made up for Lucy's previous regret over not securing that jade piece. Her mood brightened as a result. "I'll give the two halves to Elina when I get back. She'll like them"

Since his beloved wife was happy. Sebastian was naturally happy too. He left the auction house.

After returning to the hotel, Lucy called Eliana. There was a six-hour time difference between the two parties. When she received Lucy's call, Eliana and the others had just arrived at Ganger. Eliana walked out of the yurt to look for Chien.

Owen was smoking with a few Monelanders outside. When he heard Eliana's voice, he quickly stubbed out his cigarette. "What happened?" he asked Eliana said. "Dad and Mom are video calling. Come quickly!"

Owen walked over and stood beside Eliana.

When he saw Lucy and Sebastian

Hobl

n in the video, he asked, "Dad, Mom, did you guys have a good time at Bobhana?"

Lucy picked up the bracelets that she had gotten at the auction house that night. "Eliana, your father and I bought something good at the auction Tonight."

Through the screen, one could see the luster of the jade bracelets. They were shining with jewelry.

Eliana exclaimed. "It's so beautiful. Thank you, Dad and Mom!"

Owen asked. "Dad. Mom, where's mine!"

Lucy put away the gift box "What gift do you want? You've already grown up. When you bring your wife back, you can let her choose a few pieces of my jewelry"

Sebastian laughed. "Eliana, did you have fun in the grassland"

Eliana replied. "I'm happy. I even tamed eagles, Owen, take your phone. I'll bring Hera over for them to see. After saying that, Eliana stuffed the phone into Owen's hand and ran to the yurt to carry the birdcage.

Owen sat on the grass and looked at the two people on the phone screen. "Mom, you're reluctant to buy it for me. Why are you using the topic of a daughter-in-law as an excuse?"

1. ry. You can buy it for your wife in the future."

Lucy agreed. "Of course It's not like you don't have money

Sebastian asked, "How is it, Owen? Did you meet anyone you like in the grassland?"

Owen looked up at the sky. “How can it be so easy to meet someone you like? Will you be willing if I bring anyone back randomly!”

Lucy uid hurriedly. “Of course, we don’t want you to do that, but you need to put some t hought into it

Eliana came back with the birdcage. Hera followed her hand out of the cage and stood on the back of her hand. “Mom, Dad, look. This is Hera It’s my little eagle”

Lucy and Sebastian moved closer to the screen. Sebastian had larand of taming rables, “Ah, this is a little golden eagle. Eliana, how long did you take

Eliana replied proudly. “Seven days.”

When Lucy heard that, her heart instantly ached. “Seven days! Owent As her brother, why didn’t you stop her? What if something happens to her?”

Owen said helplessly, “Mom, I can’t stop h

Flunud. “It’s okay, Mom. I was the one who insisted on taming the eagle”

Sebastian didn’t have such a big reaction. He thought young people needed to be traine d. “Elina, congratulations! I am happy for you”

Eluna undled. Thank you. Dads

Lucy asked, “Then where are you now?”

Eliana answered, “We’re at Gunger. We’re going to attend the Eagle Exhibition Festival in a few days”

11:09 AM

Chapter 124

Lucy nodded. “Then have you gotten used to the place you’ve been living in these few days Did you eat well? Is it cold over there!”

The video call lasted for half an hour. Thomas, Cameron, and the others rode back and chatted with them for a while. Then, Elegy called them for dinner, and they hung up the phone.

Because they came back with Elegy, the Shaw family treated them quite well.

After dinner, they lay on the grass and looked at the stars. The sky of the grassland loo ked very close as if it wa

was within reach.

During the two days, Eliana rode with them in the grassland. They were having a lot of fun

There were indeed many experts in eagle taming in the Shaw family. Eliana had also exchanged many eagle training techniques with them and learned how to blow whistles to order adult eagles to catch rabbits on the grassland

Cameron demonstrated to Eliana how to train Zeus to return to its cage.

During the practice, Eliana was surprised to find that Hera was very sensitive to whistles. Perhaps it was more agile than other eagles. This was a novel experience for Eliana.

Getting animals to do things according to orders was different from her previous horse riding skills. The former was active, while the latter was passive. It was great to be able to train an eagle that belonged exclusively to her.

In the blink of an eye, it was time for the Eagle Exhibition Festival

On the day of the Eagle Exhibition Festival, not only did the Shaw family's eagle trainers come to participate, but the other families in the grassland also brought their eagles to participate

The present for this festival's rabbit-catching champion was a silver whistle. The silver whistle belonged to the Shaw family and was engraved with many totems that represented auspicious blessings. It was very exquisite.

Value was one thing, but it was more about commemoration and honor..

For newbies like Eliana and Elegy, even if they wanted to participate, they weren't qualified because the eagles didn't listen to their whistle. They could only watch the show,

Among the group, only Cameron was qualified to bring Zeus to the rabbit-catching competition.

When the eagle was released to catch rabbits, the eagle owner needed to follow the eagle on his horse. Eliana and the others sat on their horses and watched the magnificent scene of dozens of eagles circling in the sky from afar

Zeus's fur was the most special. It could be seen at a glance from the sky

The whistle resounded through the clouds. The eagles in the sky had already locked onto the target of the grassland and quickly pounced down.

As they could not destroy the grassland environment, most of the rabbits were bought by the Shaw family. When these rabbits were caught, they would be roasted at the banquet.

As soon as the rabbits were released, they would run for their lives in the grassland. Some would even crawl into caves. Within the stipulated time, whoever caught more rabbits would win.

In the blink of an eye, the eagles in the sky scattered.

Thomas

pointed. Look, Cameron is there!"

Everyone looked in the direction of Thomas's finger and saw Cameron riding on a horse on a small hill. Although his face could not be seen from afar against the light, his hand some figure could be recognized

The horse lowered its head and ate grass, Cameron's outline was faintly discernible, and the silver chain in his hand reflected the sunlight, making him look especially dazzling. After a while, Zeus returned with two fat rabbits in its claws.

Cameron caught the rabbit and threw it into the cage. Zeus flew away to catch other rabbits. After a while, there were almost ten rabbits.

Chapter 125

The

competition only lasted for h

The eagles cried out. Eliana had been observing the eagles flying in the sky with binoculars

A wave of rabbits was released every ten minutes, with three waves in half an hour. After all the rabbits were released, the game time ended

All the eagle owners carried cages, and nearly every cage contained rabbits, although a few had notably fewer in number

Cameron returned with a full load. The rabbits in his cage were almost overcrowded. The referees counted one by one. When they saw Cameron's cage, they were all surprised. Wow! So many!

The rabbits were taken out of the small cage and counted one by one. Then, they were thrown into the large cage beside them.

"A total of 36 Very good! This is the most I've come so far. The referee laughed heartily. He had high expectations for Cameron. If nothing went wrong. Cameron would be the champion of this year's Eagle Exhibition Festival

When the people in the queue saw that Cameron's Eagle had caught so many http

"Cameron" akce usanded behind.

y rabbits, they also looked at Zeus who was standing on his forearm

Cameron tamed around and saw Elana and the others rushing over on horses

Thomas jumped off his horse and asked. "How many did Zeus catch?"

Cameron replied calmly, "Fifty-x"

Elegy's eyes widened. "Wow! This is the most I've heard"

Landon and Adam stepped forward and give Cameron a fist salute. "Well done. Zeus!"

Eliana and Owen also got off their horses. "It lived up to everyone's expectations. Zeus is indeed powerful"

Eliana touched Zeus, who was standing on Cameron's forearm.

Meanwhile, Hera, who was in her cage, suddenly let out a cry. It was as if Hera was dissatisfied with Eliana teasing Zeus Hearing Heras cry, Flani retracted her hand

Owen laughed. "Why is Eagle possessive too!"

Cameron coldly looked at Hera who spread her wings.

Elegy guessed. "In the future, Hera should be bigger than Zeus."

In the biological world, the females of birds had always been larger than the males. Hera was still a baby eagle. In a few years, she would be a few times larger, perhaps even bigger than Zeus. As if it understood Elegy's words, Hera let out a proud cry.

About fifteen minutes later, the countdown ended. Cameron was indeed ranked first with 56 rabbits.

"The person who captured the most rabbits for tonight's roasted rabbit banquet is contestant 09, Cameron Wright. He's the champion of this year's Eagle Exhibition Festival, the referee announced.

Everyone in the grassland clapped and cheered for him.

It was the process, not the result of the competition, that was the most important thing. And the fragrant roasted rabbit banquet at night was also important.

After the game ended, everyone scattered to wait for the rabbits at night.

They returned to the grassland to fly their falcons. There were also people setting up bonfire racks on the grassland,

The head of the Shaw

family gave Cameron a ceremonial gift box containing the game's prize, a silver whistle.

Elegy said mysteriously. "This is not an ordinary silver whistle. This is made by my dad using a special material combined with silver water. Legend has it that it has magical effects."

Cameron looked at the whistle in the box and asked, "What magical effect does it have?"

The head of the Shaw family patted Elegy's shoulder and said, "It's not as magical as she said. This whistle was made of a material left behind by the first eagle trainer of the Shaw Family three hundred years ago when he forged the whistle.

"Legend has it that the eagle trainer can summon all the birds to pay homage to the phoenix. The material for this whistle is from the remaining materials he passed down."

1/2

11:09 AM

Chapter 125

Of course, it was impossible to use that eagle trainer's whistle, so

so there was only one-fifth of the original materials in this whistle

The Eagle Exhibition Festival was celebrated every five years by the Shaw family. Naturally, they had to show some sincerity when giving gifts. That was why such precious materials were melted into silver water to make a whistle identical to that famous eagle trainer's.

After hearing these words, they were all surprised.

Thomas asked. "Can that famous eagle trainer back then summon all the birds to pay homage to the phoenix?"

Adam exclaimed. Then this whistle is worth collecting. It has extremely high value"

Landon looked at the sky. To be able to summon all the birds to pay homage to the phoenix, what kind of magnificent scene would it be? Only special effects in movies can make it?

For some reason. Eliana was familiar with this story.

In her previous life, when she was on the mountain, her master had told her a story when he was teaching her the beast taming technique.

Their patriarch could control a hundred beasts on the p ground. On the other side of the northernmost area, there was a woman who could control hundreds of birds in the sky.

Legend had it that they were once a pair of lovers. In that life, they were not together to save the heavens, but after thousands of years of reincarnation. perhaps they would meet again somewhere in the world.

At that time. Eliana only thought that this was a story made up by her master. After all, there were a lot of such myths online

However, she did not expect to see the legendary descendant of such a family in the grassland today. Eliana fell silent, deep in thought.

At night the roasted rabbit banquet was ready. Everyone sat around the bonfire and ate the rabbit legs together. They dipped them in a special were immediately enticed by the aroma. It was a joyful moment.

sauce

pur

Of course, they did not forget to take a photo during the Eagle Exhibition Festival.

After taking the photos, Eliana sent the photos to Lucy and Sebastian to let them know how many places they had passed. The photo was kept in the Shaw family's house

During these days, they explored every corner of Gungur. Although the grassland was beautiful, it would be slightly boring after living there for a long time

Elegy also found that they grew bored with the grassland, so she suggested that they could visit the ancient monuments in the east. On the same day, they set off to visit the ancient monuments town.

When the group arrived at the town, it was already night.

Elegy contacted the accommodation in town. They put down their luggage and went out to the night market together. There were many ethnic snacks, clothes, and handicrafts in the night market.

Elegy led them to a clothing store, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do. Go in and change your clothes, let's go!" When they entered, they were dressed in modern clothes. When they came out, they were already dressed in traditional ethnic attire.

Robes, belts, boots... Every part was in the original grassland style. Eliana was wearing a white robe, and the headdress on her head hung down. making her look like a fairy.

They walked on the streets of the town attracting lots of attention

When they came across a handmade jewelry stall, everyone stopped to choose their accessories. Eliana picked up a pair of earrings and placed them on her earlobes to look in the mirror.

Elegy leaned over. "It looks good. Buy it."

Eliana gestured. "It does look good, but it doesn't match my clothes. Forget it, I'll buy something suitable next time

Chapter 126

Eliana put down the earrings and went to choose another style. However, it was a pity that she couldn't find anything good.

Elegy held Flana's hand. "I know a very good shop in front, and there are good ser materials. I'll bring you there to choose." With that, she pulled

Eliana over

Owen called. "Eliana! Wast. They quickly chased after her

Cameron looked at their backs as they left. His slender hand picked up the earring that Kuna had placed on the stall. The garnet carring looked extremely exquisite in his palm

"How much" Camemo asked.

"30 dollars," the seller replied.

Cameron quickly paid for it. Then, he put the carrings in his pocket and clined after the m as if nothing had happened.

After visiting the night market, they went to the guesthouse.

When he had breakfast. Eliana was still in a daze. She sat at the table and yawned. She suddenly realized that there was a pair of earrings on her plate. She picked them up and saw that they were the pair she liked last night.

Cameron was eating breakfast alone. She looked at Cameron in confusion. "This is..."

Cameron said. "It's for you"

"For me? When did you buy it?"

"Last night."

Last night. Eliana felt she didn't have the right outfit to match the carring, so she didn't purchase them. Now was different. The earrings were not expensive, so Flunu RMB was accepted.

However, she felt this she could not accept Cameron's gift for nothing, so she decided to buy something for Cameron on the street later.

The small town in the morning was not as lively as it was at night. Eliana went out to shop and pick a gift with Elegy

While strolling, Eliana saw a fountain pen shop. She felt that it was a good idea to give Cameron a pen, so she walked into the s shop.

Many pens were displaying on the containers in the shop. Eliana was carefully chosen in front of the containers. However, none of them were of good quality

Eliana came to the counter and asked the boss. "Hello, do you have a better pen!"

The boss replied leisurely from behind the counter. "A better one? Yes, I have the crown's pens. Which one do you want?"

"Let's take a look

The owner got up and took a box from under the counter. "Here"

When the box was opened, there was an extremely high-quality pen inside. It was much better than the ones on the shelves outside.

If Eliana was mistaken, this pen seemed to be the same as the one in the museum.

Eliana said calmly, "I like this one. Can I try it out!"

The boss chuckled. "Young lady, you want to buy it?"

"Right"

"You have good taste, I made this pen myself. It's different from the common ones made by the factories. However, perhaps you don't know much about writing rules. If you want to buy my brush, you need to know how to write. Do you know how to write!"

"What?" Eliana shouted, "Hey, aren't you looking down on people a little too much? Now even three-year-olds can write"

The boss stroked his beard. "You're too naive." He walked out from behind the counter with the temperament of a scholar. "I can say that if I claim to be second in the country, no one will dare claim they're first?"

How arrogant!

1/3

11:10 AM c

Chapter 126

The boss added. "Many people want to buy my pen, but I only want to sell it to people who can write. If they write well and can convince me, I'll even give it away for free

Elegy said. "That's good, bring me the pen and ink,

I'll do the writing.

It was a lance that the pens taken Eliana felt that things were not that simple. With her eyesight, she could tell at a glance handmade products. Indeed, the price could not be compared to ordinary goods.

at by this boss were all top-notch

Moreover, there seemed to be a seal engraved on it, but the palm print was too small for her to see clearly

He was so arrogant. Could it be that a famous person was hiding in this town?

"Elegy do you know how to write with a pen!" Elana asked.

Elegy nodded, "Of course. I've been practicing writing for six years, let me try

From behind the screen, a young man came out with a pen and ink:

While grinding. Eliaria smelled a faint fragrance lingering in the air. It seemed to be coming from the ink "To this fragrant ink?"

The owner of the pen shop suddenly turned around and looked at Eliana in surprise: "I didn't expect you to have such good taste. That's right, this is fragrant ink, one of the most famous inks."

It had the characteristic of ink that fell on paper like lacquer, with a black and lustrous fragrance its color that did not fade over time, and it also had a unique ink

Such a precious thing was valued according to its grammatical value. The value of such a piece was not cheap.

However, this ordinary pen shop contained such famous ink. It seemed that the owner of this shop was not ordinary Elegy didn't realize the seriousness of the problem. After she finished preparing the ink, she picked up a pen next to her, dipped it in ink, and began to write on the paper.

as very good

Judging

from Elegy's decisiveness, she had indeed practiced writing. Her Flower Small Regular Script was

It was already good for an ordinary person to be able to master writing like this. After all, most ordinary people would probably not be able to write pretty characters.

Elegy wrote her name on the paper. She smiled and asked Eliana, "How is it?"

Eliana nodded. "Very

"good"

Unexpectedly, the owner of the pen shop came over to take a look and snorted. This is nothing. It's just a scribble. It's a waste of my ink. Take the ink in.

Elegy was angry. "What are you talking about? What's wrong with my writing? Your expectations are too high

The boss said. "Do you know how much this pen costs? If the requirements are not high, doesn't that mean that everyone can get a pen made by Mr. Hudson!"

"Hudson Eliana found this name familiar. However, she did not remember it for a while.

Elegy's small face was red from the boss's scolding. She was so angry. She placed the pen on the table and pulled Eliana's wrist. "Eliana, let's go. This old man is simply too uneducated. I don't want to lay his pen. I don't want it even if he gives it to me for free

The boss waved his hand in disdain. "Hurry up and leave. Why should I give it to you for free? Ridiculous!"

Eliana wanted to say something, but before she could say anything, she was dragged out of the shop by Elegy

When they came out of the shop, Elegy was cursing along the way. "I've been practicing for six years. Many people are not as good as my handwriting

| writing. I'm so angry

"It's fine if he says it's tingly, but he said that my handwriting is a scribble. It can't even be considered good w Eliana held back her laughter. "Alright, don't be angry anymore. I guess his criteria for judging words are different from ours. He probably has stricter requirements."

Eliana had wanted to write something just now. But before she had the chance to show it, she was pulled away by Elegy

Chapter 127

Eliana and Elegy returned to the guesthouse. Elegy was furious. After returning to the homestay, she was still complaining.

They sat on the swing outside. Eliana thought to herself that the pen was indeed very good.

In the afternoon, she had to go to the shop again to see if her writing would catch Hudson's eyes. Then, she would bring back the exquisite pen

With that thought in mind, Eliana finished her meal and prepared to go to the pen shops,

When Owen saw Eliana running out after the meal, he asked. "Eliana, where are you going?"

Eliana turned her head and smiled at him. "I'm going out to buy something. I'll be Adam told her. "Eliana, we're going to watch a wrestling competition later. Remember to come back quickly."

"Alright!" Eliana left the homestay and went to the pen shop,

However, she did not expect that before she reached the pen shop, she would hear the sound of things being smashed in front of her. Many people gathered around to watch the commotion.

Eliana quickened her pace and walked forward. "What's wrong? What happened?"

A kind-hearted woman said to Eliana. "Half a month ago, the Throne family came to this shop to order some brushes, but they were scolded by the boss. The Throne family is powerful in our town. They came a few more times later, but they were still scolded. Today, the young master of the Throne family came.

This boss is so stubborn. If he doesn't want to sell, so be it. He even criticized the young master's handwriting, and that was the end of it.

As they were talking, a piece of paper floated out of the shop. Flaana took a step forward and picked up the paper to take a look. There were a few word, written on it.

It must have been written by the young master of the Throne family. At first glance, these words were written terribly.

Previously, when Hudson criticized Elegy's handwriting, he used very demeaning language, calling it a scribble. It seemed the young master's calligraphy was even unbearable to look at.

"You have to sell it today even if you don't want to. The sound of cursing came from the shop.

Eliana threw away the paper and walked into the shop. The young assistant in the shop protected Hudson. The shop had already been smashed into

The man in his twenties on the chair next to the shelf should be the young master of the Throne family.

Hudson was very stubborn. "Your handwriting is not worthy of my pen. Even if you beat me to death today, I won't customize a pen for you."

When Silas heard this, he was furious. "Alright! You're still stubborn. Go, beat him up!"

"Yes, Sir. A few servants stepped forward and raised their fists, preparing to give Hudson a beating.

"Stop at Eliana took a step forward and stopped them. "Don't hit him. Hudson was already so old. If you injured him, who would you ask for a pen from

The maids were stunned for a moment and retracted their fists.

Silas sat on the chair and was stunned for a moment. Her gaze landed on Eliana la Davis's charming face. He asked. "Who are you?"

Eliana replied. "Why do you care who I am? Is there no law? Why can you just hit people at will!"

Silas leaned back in his

Hooked at Eliana with a teasing gaze. “The law? Here, the Throne family represents the law”

Eliana was surprised. The last time she met such an arrogant person was Suri, at the relay station. Eliana lowered her eyes and ignored him. She turned around and helped Hudson up

Although Hudson was stubborn, he did not waste outsiders to get involved in this matter. Therefore, he said to Eliana. “Don’t worry about it. They have more people. You’re just a little girl. Don’t hurt you!”

Fluna did not expect that although Hudson had a sharp tongue, he was still quite like an elder caring for the youngsters. She immediately changed her opinion of this stubborn old man

Eliana said to Hudson, “No need. You’re worrying too much. These few people can’t hurt me

1/2

11:10 AM d

Chapter 127

“You sure talk big” Silas rubbed his chin and looked at Eliana with a hint of wretchedness. “What’s your relationship with this old man? Your looks suit my taste. If you’re this old man’s granddaughter or something, perhaps you can say a few nice words to coax me and I let you go.”

Eliana frowned slightly.

Hudson shouted, “You bastard Your mother failed to raise you properly. You’re a wastrel. No matter how vast your family’s wealth may become, you’ll inevitably squander it all away through your reckless ways!”

As soon as he said

this, the Throne family servant’s eyes widened because what Silas hated the most was being called a wastrel.

As expected. Silas was furious. “Beat this old man to death! If he still has the strength to curse, beat him until he can’t speak “Yes!” The servants swarmed forward.

Eliana pulled Hudson to the back. Then, she picked up the broken wooden board of the cabinet and swung it casually. With a few clangs, the servants in front of her were beaten up by Eliana and fell out of the shop with the sounds of screams.

The crowd at the door instantly dispersed. The servants of the Throne family fell to the ground. Some clutched their chests, while others clutched their legs. In short, they could not get up.

Hudson and his assistant looked at Eliana in surprise. They did not expect the girl in front of them to be so good at fighting.

Silas, who was sitting on the chair, became a general without an army. He clicked his tongue and stammered, "You"

Eliana walked over and patted his stunned face with the wooden board. "You what? Hurry up and get lost with your men. Give me your chair!"

Silas quickly stood up, then staggered and kicked the broken thing beside him. Then, he rolled out smoothly and happened to fall on the servant outside.

"Mr. Throne, are you alright?" a servant asked hurriedly.

Silas hurriedly got up from the ground. He was extremely embarrassed. He roared, "You bunch of useless things. You can't even defeat a woman. What are you still doing here? Go back quickly!"

With that, the group of people hurriedly ran away. After a while, they could not be seen.

When Eliana saw them leave, she turned to Hudson and said. "Your shop has suffered heavy losses, I think only this chair can be used. Take a seat first

Hudson asked. "Why did you come back! Didn't I tell you this morning that the words you wrote were scribbles? You can't get my pen. You can give up

Eliana teased him. "Oh my, why are you turning your back on me? I even helped you just now?"

Hudson straightened his cuffs. "That's beside the point. I have strong principles."

As you like the words, you can give them

Eliana said, "I don't want you to give me a pen for free. I'm here to write. Didn't you say before that as long as to me for free?"

"You can write?"

"Alinic"

Hudson thought of how Eliana had swung the wooden board just now and was pleasantly surprised. He said, "Alright, go get a pen and ink?"

His young assistant quickly nodded and went behind the screen to get tools.

Chapter 128

The assistant took out the paper and ink.

Although

In most of the things in the shop had been smashed, there was still a small cabinet that could be used as a cushion. The little servant was refilling the pen with ink beside, Eliana casually picked up the fountain pen that was scattered on the ground. After that, she dipped it in the ink and began to write on the paper. With a few fluid strokes, Eliana composed a poem with ease as the words came to her pen.

Jon a monolit night, a curtain of dreams, the spring breeze is gentle |

After writing. Huna handed the paper to Hudson.

Hudson took the paper and had a look. His expression turned slightly solemn. Then he slowly opened his mouth and said, "The strokes are full of viger and the lines are strong and forceful It's rally good How long have you been practicing this?"

Eliana lowered her eyes slightly. "I forgot" If one were to calculate it, it was a long time that spanned two lifetimes.

won a writing award in

She started drilling in pen writing at the age of seven in the Garcia family. She vaguely remembered that the hard even won a middle school

"How old are you?" Hudson asked.

"Eighteen this year, Eliana answered.

Hudson turned to his assistant and said, "Go and get a longer piece of paper.

(this poem."

Then, he looked at Chana. "I want to see you finish writing t

Eliana agreed.

The assistant took out a long piece of paper and Eliana dipped the pen in ink again. A complete poem slowly appeared on the paper.

Hudson watched from the side until Eliana finished writing. He nodded. "That's a good stroke. You wrote well"

Eliana smiled. "When can I get the pen you gave me for free! I want the one you showed me in the morning"

Hudson walked behind the screen and asked while holding a pen, "Do you know the origin of this Faber–Castell pen?"

Before Hudson could take out the pen, a voice came from outside the shop. "It's here! Sir, this woman is still insider

When Eliana heard this, she looked sideways and saw that the Throne family, whom she had previously chased away, had returned sitas had lost face previously. When he returned, he called over many thugs to get back at her.

Silas pushed through the crowd and walked out from the back. When he saw Eliana standing in the shop, he narrowed his eyes Bercely and said. "Good! I thought you had left. This saves me the trouble of looking for you.

Do you dare to go against me? I must teach you a lesson today: Aren't you very good at fighting? I want to see how good you are."

Eliana glanced at them and suddenly smiled. "You're here for revenge! Alright, I'll play with you guys"

The shop was already almost destroyed. If they fought again in the shop, it would become a mess. So Eliana went out. The people on the street quickly retreated.

After Eliaru walked out, she was surrounded by them. At Sila's comma ten tall wrestlers swung their lists at Eliana. In terms of size, there was a huge difference in strength between the two sides.

Unexpectedly, Eliana nably dodged their fists and used softness to counter hardness. She used her bare hands to grab their hands to leverage the

Carron and orders were walks were walking over towards her

"Cameron, you came out to look for Eliana Thomas chattered non-stop p like a chatterbox. "Eliana left the fork after finishing her meal. I wonder Ah, what's going on up ahead? They're fighting

Thomas had sharp eyes. He saw a fight in front of him at a glance. They looked over and saw many over and saw many people gathered. "Let's go and take a look"

They walked forward. Before they got close, they heard the sound of some people Lilling to the ground.

Chapter 128

"Fight, you idiots! Which way are you going to punch!" Silas was angry

Eliana was having a great time. The heavyweight wrestlers in front of her were like clumsy puppers..

When Cameron pushed through the crowd and walked over, they said thar Eliana was the protagonist of the fight. A party was toyed around like a Thana" Thomas was surprised.

had just finished dealing with the last fatty when she heard Thomas's voice. She turned) al with a smile. "It's you. Why are you Landon smiled and said, "Why did we plan to watch the wrestling competition in the afternoon? If we had known earlier, we would have come here

To watch

Adam agreed. "That's right. 111 had known enlier, losubflave come over to take a look. This show in free."

Silas's people were all beaten up by Eliana again. He was so angry that his face and neck turned red.

Thomas asked. "Eliana, you left so quickly after eating. So you came to fight"

Eliana replied. "That's right. I'm here to get the pen. I happened to see them looking for t rouble, so I played with them?"

Cameron glanced at the people lying on the ground and then at the brush shop beside h im. Silas saw that the situation wasn't good and was about to sneak away.

Ehana reacted quickly and grabbed him. "Mr. Throne, don't leave. You've ruined the sh op. Aren't you going to compensate us?"

Silas was scared to death. He originally thought that this woman could only fight normall y. He had brought a wrestler home, but he was beaten to the ground by this woman.

It was too terrifying.

"I'll pay for it! Silas immediately said, "How much is it? I'll send it over later"

Eliana said. "No, you're here. Call someone to pay!"

Silay was a coward. "Alright"

Then, they walked into the fountain pen shop. Hudson had already found the pen. "Here 's what you wanted"

Eliana took the box and opened it. The Faber– Castell pen was lying inside which was beautiful and of high quality.

When Cameron saw the pen, he immediately called the name of the pen. "The Faber– Castell pen

Hudson said, "You have a good tante".

Eliana looked at Cameron cuniously, "How do you know the name of this pen?"

Cameron replied. "I used to have one at home.

y have it! The same item of this pen was previously consecrated to the palace. The same one is

Hudson narrowed his eyes. "How could you possibly I still in the musrum"

Cameron suddenly smiled and did not answer the question. Instead, he said. "You made this pen? Your surname is Huff?"

Hudson answered, "Yes, Fam Hudson, the 23rd generation dextrant of the Imperial Court's Imperial Pen Legacy"

Jana was enlightened when she heard Hudson's words..

She was wondering why Hudson's name sounded so familiar. It turned out that he was the successor of the palace's imperial pen.

No wonder he dared to say that his pen was the best in the country. No wonder he had such a strange temper. He did have some background. Therefore, many rich people came to him to c customize pens

Hudson hid here and opened a small shop. He did not expect to be so lucky to be met by Eliana.

Chapter 129

Silas squatted at the side: He had already made a call. Now, he was just waiting for the Throne family to come over and compensate for the losses of the shop and bring him back.

However, Silas had a plan. He had called his second uncle, who had always doted on him the most and even had a position in the city. As long as his uncle came, he wanted to see how this woman would continue to be arrogant.

If his uncle found out that he had been beaten up, not only would he not have to compensate this shop, but these people would also be in trouble. Just thinking about it made Silas happy.

Eliana got the pen. Everyone packed up the things in the shop and calculated their losses, which added up to about 25 thousand dollars.

Fortunately, the goods that he had smashed in the shop were all ordinary goods. The fine brushes that Hudson had made had been properly stored behind the screen, so they were not damaged.

Thomas walked up to Silas and asked. “Hey, when is your family coming!

Silas paused and subconsciously raised his hand to cover his face. He thought they were going to hit him. They’ll be here soon”

Eliana warned him, “Don’t play any tricks on me!”

“How would I dare?” Silas said. He lowered his head and a sinister look flashed across his eyes. Just you wait When my uncle comes, you’ll all be in trouble!

The assistant brought over a few stools behind the screen for them to sit on. Cameron sat on the stool and sized up the Spotted Bamboo Section Jade Tip pen

Hudson was very curious about what Cameron had said previously. He went forward and asked, “You said that you also have a Spotted Bamboo Section Jade Tip pen at home!”

Cameron placed the pen in the box and looked up at Hudson. “Right”

Hudson frowned. Then your pen must be fake.“

Adam, who was sitting at the side, could not help but laugh when he heard Hudson’s words. “Mr. Huff, how can you be so sure?”

Hudson widened his eyes and said. “There are only two Pens from the Huff family. One was made by me, and the other was made by my great- grandfather a hundred years ago. The one made by my great-grandfather is in the museum now, The one I made is here, so your family’s must be wanted to explain. “To be honest, Cameron was. He hadn’t finished speaking when the sound of a car pulling up came from the doorway.

Take.

Adam

Silas, who was squatting on the ground, looked at the door expectantly. When he saw the man getting out of the car at the door, he jumped up happily. He was instantly filled with confidence.

He pointed at Eliar and other people in the shop and said. “My uncle is finally here. Just you want!!

“Uncle, you’re finally here. They’re bullying me” Silas ran out of the shop.

Thomas followed him out and saw a middle—aged man wearing gold-rimmed glasses getting out of the car outside. He looked like an intellectual Silas stood beside Knox, looking as if he had a new backing. He was completely different from his listless state just now.

Eliana also walked towards the door. When she saw the middle-aged man at the door, she asked. "Are you from the Throne family?"

Silas said proudly, "He's my unde

Elana said indifferently,
"I don't care if he's your uncle or your father. Since you're here, hurry up and compensate."

Seeing Eliana's expression, Silas was very angry

He turned around and said to Knox, "Uncle, you have to help me investigate this shop. This shop might be operating without a license

"Also, this woman and the men inside just attacked me on the street. They must be idle people from society. They're all unstable factors. They might have a criminal record"

As Silas spoke, Cameron walked out of the shop,

When Knox received Silas's call, he drove over Originally, he didn't plan to come over for such a small matter, but because he also had a meeting in the city, he came over by the way.

1/2

Chapter 129

As he listened to Silas, he casually glanced into the shop. Initially, he thought that he could just find someone to deal with such a small shop However, he was stunned when he saw Cameron walking out of the shop

The moment he saw Cameron, he instantly recognized him. He's the son of that prominent figure.

Knox interrupted Silas in disbelief. "You're saying they're unemployed?"

Silas nodded. "That's right! You have to believe me."

In an instant, Knox knew that his stupid nephew must have caused a huge disaster. He was so shocked that he ignored Silas and quickly walked up to Cameron and the others

His expression was completely different from before. "If I'm not mistaken, you're Mr. Wright's son, right!"

Adam chuckled. "Cameron, there's someone who knows Mr. Wright. He might even be an acquaintance"

That's right, Cameron's father was Chester Wright. Cameron's gaze landed on Knnos. He had no impression of him at all.

Knox quickly waved his hand. "No, I'm not familiar with him. I'm just lucky to have seen him before."

About two years ago, the city was going to hold a commendation ceremony, and Chester was invited to be a witness.

As a small leader. Knox had even taken a photo with Chester. The photo had been framed and hung at home. After all, this was probably the only his life that could take a photo with a big shot.

line

Knox only knew Cameron's appearance because he had heard from Chester's peers that his son had gone to climb the snow mountain this year. He had even been written into a magazine column by an editor.

Therefore, Knox secretly paid attention and specially bought a magazine to read. There was an indistinct frontal shot of Cameron. Only then did he recognize him.

Now that he saw Cameron in person who was a talent with a noble temperament,

When Salas saw that Knox did not stand up for him but went to chat, he was first surprised. Then, he walked forward and tugged at Knox's sleeve.

Uncle, what are you doing? They were rude to me just now"

"Shut up"" Knox turned around and glared fiercely at Silas. "You brat, it's been a while since we last met, and you've become so bold.

"This shop has already been smashed by you, and you still dare to blame others! Apologize! Hurry up!"

Knox slapped Silas's head. "Hurry up and apologize

Chapter 130

Silas was stunned by the slap and he felt dizzy. He

He covered his head. "Uncle, are are you crazy?"

Seeing that Silas still dared to be stubborn. Knox kicked him again. "You bastard, apologize quickly!" If Silas didn't apologize, he might lose his job if Cameron pursued the matter was very regretful at this moment. If he had known earlier, he wouldn't have come over and gotten involved in this matter.

Knox

Silas's expression was very bad

Knox pressed further. "I asked you to apologize. Do you not understand what I'm saying?"

"I'm sorry. I was wrong," Silas lowered his head and said in a deep voice,

Knox quickly looked at Hudson with a smile. "You're the boss of this shop, right? Don't worry, I'll bear all the losses today. I'll discipline this unfilial son when I bring ham back. I won't let him show off again"

As he spoke, Knox gave the driver a look. The driver also served as a subordinate. He quickly walked forward and prepared to transfer the compensation money on the spot. The compensation and apology were all in place

Eliana smiled and looked at Silas, who had a defeated expression on his face. She mocked him. "Looks like you still have to learn from your uncle"

Knox's face averted between white and red. "It's indeed this bastard's fault for what happened today. We'll bear all the subsequent responsibility. I wonder if he injured anyone. If he did, we'll also bear the cost of curing."

Silas frowned: "Uncle, where are they injured? Our people were beaten up."

"How dare you talk back?" Knox turned around and slapped him in the face. "You have no sense of limits. I'll lock you up when we get back today! If you dare to come out again, I'll break your legs!"

Silas felt extremely aggrieved. Initially, he thought that Knox was here to support him. However, he did not expect that Knox, who had always been protective of him, would not stand on his side for the first time.

Knox shouted, "Get in the cart Don't be an eyesore here"

Salas got to the car, feeling wronged. The famous heir of this area was being lectured strictly here, and he didn't dare to say anything.

Knox apologized and specially performed in front of Cameron. Cameron had no impression of him, so Knox's performance was nothing for him.

Hudson was not an unreasonable person. As long as the compensation was paid, he did not say anything else.

Knox offered to treat them to a meal but was rejected

Half an hour later, the Throne family moved new containers and, under Knox's supervision, almost renovated the simple pen shop.

Hudson realized that Knox did not want to compensate him. It was just because of Cameron. In the backyard. Hudson walked up to Cameron and asked, "Is your father's name Chester"

Cameron nodded.

Hudson retracted his gaze and heaved a long sigh of relief. "No wonder you said you had a Spotted Bamboo Section Jade Tip pen at home" Hudson had already guessed Cameron's identity.

Landon said, "The pen your great-grandfather made was donated by the Wright family to the museum's collection" There were still many such items in the Wright Family

In the eyes of others, they were all antiques. However, in Cameron's eyes, it was just a joy.

Eliana gave the pen to Cameron Cameron found it funny-

When Eliana saw Cameron smiling, she asked, "What are you laughing at Du you dislike it Although it's free, it's made by a famous person"

The Wright family sent one away and another one came back. If the Wright family lacked the pen, it would not have been given to the museum back then

However, this pen meant a lot to Cameron, so he would treasure it. "Yes, I'll keep it well and bring it to the comb"

“Into the tomb” “These words sounded strange to Eliana.

However, since Cameron cherished it so much, Eliana could not say anything.

1/2

Chapter 130

After leaving the pen shop, they went together to watch some wrestling matches. When betting on the wrestlers, Eliana lost two bouts but won five. With their winnings, they feasted on a whole roasted lamb out on the grasslands that night.

After eating roasted meat for a few days. Eliana woke up with a red pimple on her left cheek. It was not big, but it was red and very eye-catching on Eliana’s fair face. From afar, one would think that she had a red mole on her cheek.

When she went downstairs to have breakfast, she was teased by Thomas. “Wow, Eliana, why do you have pimples on your face!”

Eliana complained. “It’s all because I’ve been eating barbecue with you guys for the past few days.”

They looked at Eliana’s face. Eliana sighed helplessly, “I love to eat light food in the future. I can’t keep eating hot food™”

Cameron said in a cold voice, “Indeed, we’ve already played around the surroundings recently. It’s time to consider changing places.”

They came out, passed two relay stations, and now arrived at Gungur. In the blink of an eye, almost a month had passed, and the summer vacation was already halfway through.

Horse racing, eagle training, living in a yurt, watching wrestling competitions. They had experienced all.

Adam proposed, “I’m tired of playing in the grassland. Let’s go take a look at the seal.”

Landon placed one hand on his seat. “Then let’s go to the island in the North Sea. We can take Owen’s Sunrise out to play.”

Thomas said excitedly. “That’s great. Eliana, Eliana, what do you think?”

Eliana replied. "I have no objections. Anyway, I'll play with you guys, Owen, is the Sunrise your yacht?"

Owen nodded. "Yes" The Sunrise is a superyacht. Back then, it cost hundreds of millions to build. It was almost the largest private yacht in the world.

Owen would occasionally meet up with them when they were discussing business, but most of the time, the yacht was idle.

They immediately decided to go to the beach together. After bidding farewell to Elegy at noon, they set off in the afternoon.

At the same time, Willow, Andy, and Victoria were at the airport, preparing to leave Bobhana and return to Aragow.

Ever since the precious jade bracelet was auctioned off, Willow has posted many photos on her Instagram, including the bracelets and also the auction venue.

However, their seats at the auction were in the middle and the back row. However, Willow was very skilled at taking photos. Visually, it was as if she was sitting in the front row. She had photoshopped the people in front,

Before boarding. Willow deliberately called Wendy to show off "Hello, Wendy. I'm boarding the plane back to Avragow later. How was y the island?"

Wendy was lying on the beach sunbathing. "It's alright. The sun is very good. I'm sunbathing"

7002

Willow said, "Did you see the photo I posted on my Instagram? Bobhana is good. It's a pity that you didn't come."