Chapter 216

Hannah nodded. "Luna and Trissy are so disgusting. Trissy used to pretend she had an affair with Lucas to embarrass you, and Luna pretended to be pregnant. She even hired someone to dress up like Lucas. They even spread rumors to ruin your reputation. I don't think you can let them get away again, right?"

Jessica smiled and said, "don't worry, I won't let anyone who dares to provoke me get away."

That included Lucas, Trissy, and even Justin... Jessica would see to it that they learned their lessons.

When Hannah heard that, she knew that Jessica already had a plan in mind. She could not help but feel a little excited. "What's your plan?"

Jessica glanced at her. "I've told you. Haven't decided yet."

It was true. There were so many people involved this time. Besides, there was one trap after another.

Since Jessica wanted to settle the scores, she naturally had to learn from the worst and give them a little surprise.

Hannah was a little disappointed. "Fine then."

Hannah had said what she wanted to say, and she blew a kiss on Jessica. "I won't disturb you anymore. I'm going to Mona's pub!"

Jessica sat on the sofa and waved at Hannah. "Sure."

When she got in the car, Hannah found a Maybach parked beside her car.

How posh!

Someone seemed to be sitting in the car, but Hannah wasn't interested. Yet she still took a photo of the car and sent it to Jessica.

Jessica glanced at it and only replied, "Boring."

At that moment, the doorbell suddenly rang.

Jessica raised her eyebrows, feeling that there were too many guests visiting her home today.

It was Lucas. Jessica didn't see that coming.

When the door opened and Jessica saw Lucas, the smile on her face immediately faded.

Taman

She held the door frame with her hand and took a step forward. Obviously, she would not let Lucas in.

Jessica stood in front of the door and looked at Lucas. "What's the matter, Mr. Thomas?"

Lucas looked at Jessica with his head bent. She seemed ready to go to bed. Jessica was in a nightgown and didn't wear any makeup. Her skin was fair but also a bit pale. He could even see the dark circles around her eyes.

She looked less domineering and tender this way, different from the woman she usually was.

For some reason, Lucas suddenly recalled Jessica's messages on the phone,

The girl who had edited those messages seemed to be exactly the one in front of him.

Lucas was absent-minded for two seconds before he said, "The news..."

Hearing this, Jessica chuckled. "I saw it. And then?"

Lucas frowned and said, "It's all my grandfather's fault. He visited your parents without being invited."

"And you are here to...?"

“I can clarify that Grandpa went to your parents’ house just to apologize for what happened before, not to let us get married again.”

“And then? What would the people on the Internet think? They would think you said that because you didn’t want a wife whose reputation was ruined.” Jessica sneered.

Lucas was a bit lost for words. “That’s not what I mean. But it is indeed tricky.”

“Why didn’t you stop your grandfather before he went to my parents’ place? Why did someone happen to see him go there all the way?”

O

Lucas paused for a moment. “Jessica, he is my grandfather after all. He is an elder. I can’t interfere too much with what he does. I did tell my grandfather not to interfere in my business.”

This was the first time he had said so much to Jessica, without any stop in the middle.

After Jessica heard what Lucas said, she suddenly smiled! You tried to stop him, but you failed. Do you think what you have said will make a difference to my life? Do you think I will forgive him because of what you’ve said? Or even thank you for trying?”

Lucas froze for a moment. He looked at Jessica with a stiff look. “I’m sorry.”

Jessica pursed her lips and sneered. “You don’t have to, Lucas!”

With that, she raised her hand and slammed the door.

Lucas put on a stern face at the bang.

Lucas had seen that Jessica might refuse his excuse and apology, but he didn’t expect her to be so hard on him.

Lucas looked at the door in front of him. Jessica had shattered his dignity.

Chapter 217

It seemed that Morgan knew Justin well after all.

The latest rumors had a great impact on Jessica and even the Hall family.

Yesterday, Morgan received two calls. The callers asked if he wanted to join forces with the Thomas Group.

That was why Jessica was so angry this time.

She was angry at Lucas not because he failed to stop Justin, but because he asked for her forgiveness when he didn't do anything to make up for her.

In the past, Jessica made Lucas the priority. That was the cause of their divorce.

Now, all the people in the upper-class society were laughing at Jessica, not for her colorful private life, but for her remarriage to Lucas within a year after her well-known divorce.

To be honest, many people looked down on Jessica.

Morgan only had one daughter. In the future, the huge Hall family was destined to be in her hands, so there were many people who wanted to marry Jessica.

However, Jessica turned back to her ex-husband. That was why people looked down upon her.

When a powerless woman married Thomas, people would admire her for her guts, since she managed to change her social status through marriage. They might gossip about her being too sophisticated, though.

Jessica had everything, but she was about to remarry her ex-husband after the divorce.

On the surface, people said the two were a perfect match since Jessica loved Lucas and Lucas was such an accomplished young man.

But deep down?

They were all talking about how silly Jessica was. By remarrying Lucas, the Thomas family would have everything the Hall family possessed now.

Morgan could guess these words without hearing them.

However, it was tricky to clarify what was going on now.

Morgan knew that Justin would not waste such a good opportunity given the timing.

As expected, this morning, Morgan received a call from Justin.

“Good morning, Mr. Hall!”

Hearing Justin’s voice, Morgan put on a grim face.

Justin was put on speaker, so May’s face darkened as well.

The two families hadn’t completely fallen out yet, so Morgan still replied, “Mr. Thomas, how are you doing?”

“Mr. Hall, thank you for asking. I’ve been a little exhausted these days. I guess when you are old, you are old.”

Morgan sneered. May glanced at Morgan and whispered in his ear, “He has lived long enough!”

Morgan looked at his wife and felt much better. He hugged May and comforted her.

Morgan comforted May while saying to Justin, “You are far from being old, aren’t you?”

Justin, who was on the other side of the line, laughed. The two of them pretended to be polite for a while.

After about two minutes, Justin could no longer hold himself back. He took the initiative to mention what happened on the Internet yesterday. “Mr. Hall, have you seen what happened on the Internet yesterday?”

Morgan said, “The Internet is full of fake news. I rarely read anything from it.”

Justin sighed. “That’s true, but sometimes things will get out of hand. It’s not good to be a target of gossip, right?”

Morgan’s face was cold and his attitude hardened. “I have always respected Jess. I will not interfere with her business.”

Justin pretended not to understand Morgan’s words. “Young people nowadays all have their plans. As elders, we really can’t do anything! But sometimes, we cannot indulge them too much! Both our families are not ordinary families, and now the people in our circle are also spreading the news. Mr. Hall, we can’t let the kids handle it. At such a point, we have to take over!”

Morgan couldn’t help but sneer, “Then what are you suggesting?”

“The comments on Miss Hall on the Internet are too unfriendly. These people commented without even knowing the truth. A girl's reputation is still very important. The whole thing was hyped up. Jessica has been despised a lot in our circle."

LILIEN

Justin was saying that Jessica had lost her reputation. It was the best choice to remarry Lucas. After all, the Thomas family was a good match for the Hall family in all aspects.

Chapter 218

Morgan had been in the business world for so many years, how could he not understand what Justin was implying? However, Morgan's achievements today meant that he was not the kind of person to be trifled with.

No matter what Justin said, Morgan only just said, "Mii Thomas, I understand your concerns, but I'm old and have already seen through these things. I still respect my daughter's choice."

Justin did not expect that early in the morning, after wasting so much time, all he got from Morgan was "I just hope Jessica is happy. She can do whatever she wants."

When he heard that for the third time, Justin had run out of patience. "Mr. Hall, you are such a good father! Since you are very busy, I won't disturb you anymore."

Justin then hung up the phone. He didn't reach an agreement with Morgan.

Justin did not expect that Morgan still did not care about the rumors at all.

Justin was baffled. Didn't Morgan know how people commented on Jessica now?

How could Morgan talk about respecting Jessica's choice when her reputation was all ruined?

Justin snorted. He didn't know Morgan was such a kind father.

It was still early in the morning, but Justin was so irritated by Morgan's attitude that his face turned grim.

war

Dwayne could tell Justin's anger. But he didn't dare to say anything

..

In fact, Dwayne had already guessed this result. Justin was used to playing tricks. He saw Morgan as someone of the same kind as him and thought that the Hall family cared about reputation and interests as much as he did.

However, what Morgan cared about most was still Jessica, his baby girl. With so many things happening one after another, Morgan naturally had his suspicions. He was no fool after all.

Besides, Justin seemed to be overly eager to make Jessica marry Lucas. For commoners, it would be a blessing to marry into the Thomas family. But for the Hall family, which was no worse than the Thomas family and even better, things would be different. They could keep a sober mind since they were looking for anything from the Thomas family.

Of course, Dwayne did not dare to say these words to Justin.

He had been working for Justin for years, so he naturally knew how stubborn this old man could be. He was just not good at listening.

Thus, Dwayne chose to keep mum. Dwayne would never interfere unless Justin hurt himself.

After venting his anger for a while, Justin calmed down. "Let's find Jessica!"

Hearing this, Dwayne's face changed slightly. "Mr. Thomas, Lucas said before that he did not want us to see Jessica."

Those were not the right words to say. Justin glanced coldly at Dwayne. "So what if he finds out about it? Am I not helping him?"

Justin

was overbearing when he was young. As he aged, he became more and more domineering.

Dwayne pursed his lips and said, "Alright, I'll go make an appointment."

Dwayne didn't dare to say anything more. After responding, he turned and went downstairs to ask the driver to prepare a car, heading for the Hall Group.

In fact, Dwayne wanted to remind Justin that Jessica might not be willing to see him.

However, given how mad Justin was, Dwayne was afraid that Justin might kick him out of the Thomas family. Dwayne dared to say one more word.

Jessica was at a meeting. She had just left the meeting room when Wendy came in and told her that Justin was there.

Jessica heard Wendy and knocked on the table with a pen. "Is he outside?"

Wendy nodded. "It's not proper for us to stop him."

Jessica smiled indifferently. "Let him be. Tell him that I'm at a meeting and ask him to wait for two hours *"

Wendy paused for a moment and realized that Jessica was doing it on purpose. She also smiled. "Alright, I see, Miss Hall."

Jessica smiled. "Sure."

Jessica could roughly guess why Justin was here today.

After Wendy left the office, she went to the guest room with a polite smile. Justin and his secretary were waiting there.

When Dwayne saw Wendy come in, Dwayne asked, "Wendy, is Miss Hall available?"

Wendy smiled politely at Justin, and then said, "Sorry, Mr. Thomas, Miss Hall is at a meeting now. She will be available in about two hours."

"Mr. Thomas, Miss Hall asked me to tell you that she is sorry She's too busy today She'll visit you someday."

Someday meant never.
