

Chapter 267

Jessica was confused, but she didn't call Terry directly.

She knew that if she called Terry, he would immediately tell her what his relationship with Oscar was.

But now, she didn't know if she could believe what Terry would say.

After getting off work, Jessica and Hannah came to Mona's nightclub together.

Caesar and Lance were there today. The few of them chatted together.

Jessica had to drive back by herself, so she only ordered a glass of alcohol-free juice.

"Jessica, that Oscar seems very active recently. Do you know him?"

No one from the Thomas Group and Thomas family had appeared in their topic for a long time, and after Caesar asked this question, the others all stared at Jessica.

"To be honest, I didn't know this person before," Jessica shrugged. "Lucas' father has been living outside and he has a child. That's all I know."

Jessica wasn't lying. She felt that Olivia and Rebecca should know something, but they would never tell her given their relationship.

She didn't feel like knowing about that.

"I really didn't expect that Oscar would actually be able to make the Thomas Group cooperate with the Davison Group." Lance also said, "My dad said that Oscar will definitely cause a storm in the Thomas Group."

"What do you mean?" Hannah asked Lance with interest.

"Terry is now in charge of the Davison Group. You should know that because of Jess, he will not cooperate with the Thomas Group no matter what. However, Oscar can actually do it. For the bunch of greedy old guys, Lucas must be in a very difficult situation."

Jessica couldn't help but feel a little embarrassed when she heard Lance suddenly mention her and Terry.

She hurriedly lowered her head to take a sip of juice.

"Oh right, Jess, why hasn't Mr. Davison come to you recently?" Hannah suddenly thought of something and looked at Jessica.

"I haven't contacted him for a while. He called me last week, but it seems that a friend came to visit, so..." Jessica said as she thought of the call that day.

She didn't know why, but she recalled what Wendy had told her today. When she saw Oscar in the Davison Group. With that, Jessica came to a short stop.

"So what? Jess?" Hannah didn't know why Jessica stopped talking halfway, and she urged.

"I still have something to do. You guys have fun." Jessica suddenly picked up her bag and stood up.

"What? It's almost eleven o'clock. What's the matter?" Hannah was a little confused by Jessica's sudden action.

"I do have something to do. I'm sorry, guys. I'll see you guys later. My treat next time." Jessica left immediately after she finished speaking, leaving the stunned crowd behind.

Originally, Jessica planned to head to the Davison Group and see Terry. But halfway on the road, she changed her mind.

She made a U-turn and headed to the Thomas Group.

She had just slowed down the car when she saw Lucas, who had just come out of the company.

Jessica saw Lucas through the car window. His figure was still tall and straight, and the look on his face was still serious and cold, but she felt that something had changed in him.

Lucas seemed to have noticed that someone was gazing at him. He turned his head and saw Jessica's car on the road.

A hint of surprise appeared in his golden eyes, but he restrained his emotions. He forced himself to turn his head and walked toward his car.

Lucas opened the car door and got in, but he did not start the car immediately.

He took out Jessica's old phone, rubbed it a bit, and carefully put it away.

Then he took a deep breath and twisted the car key to start the car.

At that moment, there was a sudden knock on his window.

He turned his head and saw that it was Jessica.

"What's the matter?" Lucas rolled down the window, suppressing his surging thoughts, and turned all his emotions into a cold question.

Jessica wanted to ask if he was doing well recently, but she couldn't bring herself to ask when she saw Lucas' haggard face.

"What's going on with Oscar?" Jessica asked with a sigh.

"He's just a clown." There was a hint of disdain in Lucas' tone.

"My assistant found that he was very close to the Davison Group recently."

"Isn't this what you expected?" Lucas laughed at himself. Then he looked at Jessica and asked seriously.
