

Revenge Of The Rogue Heiress

Rogue 111

Chapter

111

The white tiger was enormous and had no natural predators, which made it the king of the forest. However, this was only the case on land.

Crocodiles can't take on the white tiger on land, but their numbers give them a strong advantage in the water.

Therefore, the white tiger was lucky to be ashore alive.

Evangeline said, "Are you an idiot? The river was so wide and there were so many crocodiles in it. How dare you go down there?

"Why are you following me? Don't you want to stay in the forest

The white tiger sat in front of Evangeline like a child who had done something wrong, lowering his head and grumbling as if he were asking for attention. "Stupid tiger." Evangeline hit him on the head gently.

The big white tiger leaned over as if he wanted her to hit him one more time.

Evangeline pushed his head away, sat back on the ground, and said in a low voice, "It's fine if you want to follow me, but I have to make it clear that I don't have any medicine. You'll have to let your wounds heal on their own. Unlike the forest, the desert has no water and scarce food, so I can't help if you're hungry or thirsty. I'll be leaving in a few days, but I won't be taking you back personally."

The white tiger grumbled aggrievedly again. However, Evangeline ignored it. He lay next to her, nudged her with his big paws, and snorted again.

Evangeline glanced at him and found that he lay on his side, exposing the part of its belly that was not stained with blood as if inviting her to lay on him.

Evangeline moved over and leaned against him. The white tiger grinned and wagged its tail.

Temperatures in the desert could reach over 105 degrees Fahrenheit during the day but less than 50 degrees Fahrenheit at night. On a cold night like this, it was not a bad thing to have something fluffy to keep warm

Evangeline wanted Marian and Riley to join her, but the white tiger strongly opposed it. He wouldn't agree even if she hit him.

The white tiger grunted with a sad look after being beaten, but when he turned around, he bared his teeth to warn Marian and Riley,

Marian said, "Don't push him, Evangeline. Animals only acknowledge and submit to those who have defeated them. Since we can't beat him, he sees us as inferior. It's normal for him not to want us near," Riley added. "Marian is right. Stop pushing him and getting mad at him. He's injured. We're pretty strong and we can get over this,"

Hearing that, Evangeline didn't say anything more.

[Oh my goodness, the white tiger came to Evangeline himself. I am so moved by this loyal animal!]

[I'm sorry to see him injured.]

I'm not sure if his loyalty to Evangeline is a good thing. What should he do after the competition? Evangeline can't take him with her. He'll need to cross the river and return to the forest on his own, but he's injured now, and I'm not sure if he can make it safely again.]

The next second, however, Evangeline crawled towards him quickly. Terrible memories hat the white tiger again. He screamed in fear and turned around to run away. He decided to run from

However, the white tiger couldn't run fast in the desert while Evangeline, who got down on the ground, went a lot faster.

Soon, Evangeline caught up with the white tiger

She jumped on his back and threw her tists at him.

The white tiger screamed and sounded aggrieved, but Evangeline showed no mercy.

After beating him for ten minutes. Evangeline jumped off his back.

The white tiger's face was swollen by the beating, but he didn't get angry

He thought. I provoked her, but she didn't kill me. She hit me for a long time but didn't hurt me. It must not have been intentional She was just trying to assert her authority. It seems she's quite considerate towards me

The white tiger nudged Evangeline with his head and then trotted away happily.

Evangeline looked at his back in confusion and muttered. "Did I hit his brain? Why is he still so happy after I hit him?"

Evangeline shook her head and continued to walk. They went on without stopping, crossing the desert and reaching the fool of the mountain before dark

The mountain was too steep to climb at night.

They spent the night at the foot of the mountain. It wasn't until dawn the next day that Evangeline got a full view of the mountain.

Chapter 111

This mountain was high and steep, making it ideal for climbing training. However, there was no professional climbing equipment here, so they had to climb it by hand. Marian said, "I'm glad I got this far, and I'm not climbing up. I've used up all my strength."

Riley echoed, "I'm too weak to climb any higher. I've been pushing myself for the past few days. If I insist on continuing, I'm likely to fall along the way"

Evangeline nodded and said, "Okay, you can wait for me at the foot of the mountain. There will be a helicopter picking us up after I complete the competition, and we'll leave together." Marian and Riley nodded. "Beefy. The mountain is 0.6 miles high and if you fall, you will die.

Evangeline said, "I will" She ate some berries and had some water, then she fed the white tiger the rest of the water and said, "He a good boy. Don't hurt them."

The big white tiger howled, and Evangeline took that as a yes.

Evangeline removed all her gear and began climbing.

Meanwhile, in the viewing room, John was so angry that his eyes were bloodshot.

Evangeline had been so angry that he lost sleep for two days since Evangeline easily crossed the river and the live stream was back on.

He hadn't got the live stream done, so he couldn't stop Evangeline from getting on the top.

He yelled, "You losers! Why is the live stream still going? Didn't you hire a hacker? Why hasn't such a simple issue been resolved yet!"

Everyone's face turned pale. They felt that no matter how hard they tried, they couldn't turn the tables.

Evangeline had already started climbing. Though she climbed slowly, she could reach the summit in a day.

By then, the whole world would witness Evangeline's victory, which meant there would be nothing John could do.

The rest of them began to discuss. "It's said that the hacker can't hack into the internal system because a more skilled hacker has been constantly helping Evangeline and continuously updating the login data." "I'm done. If Evangeline wins, I'll lose everything."

"We were well prepared even with poison and guns. Why can't we win?"

"Who is Evangeline exactly? We're all top figures on the global rich lists. Even if she's here for revenge, she couldn't possibly outmatch us."

"Who's been helping Evangeline?"

There was dead silence in the viewing room. Everyone's heart sank and some of them even broke down, crying and tugging at their hair.

"How did things turn out like this? Didn't you say Jeffrey would win? Didn't you say everything was under your control? How did it slip from your grasp? Evangeline is about to win. The wealth my family has built over generations is on the verge of being taken away!"

"I joined this bet and took on the role of the house banker because you assured me that you would win, John. Look what you've done!"

"If we don't have enough money to pay, we'll be killed. This is all your fault, John. You were so confident you were going to win!"

win, but it turned out the other way

I'm leaving. I'm leaving now. I'm taking my family and my money and hiding until Evangeline and the casino staff come looking for me.

One of them stood up and ran out in panic while screaming.

The rest of them also stood up and ran out.

They planned to immediately go into hiding with their families and as much money as they could take with them.

They didn't want to lose all their money or even their lives.

The international bank brought in to vouch for them had a powerful and ruthless background.

They seemed to have collaborations with many powerful foreign countries, but they had never faced negative news even when their violent actions were exposed.

"Come back! You're not allowed to leave unless I give you my permission!" John shouted at them.

However, no one stopped. They ran so fast for fear that they would be caught if they slowed down.

John was trembling with anger, saying with a stern face, "How dare you ignore me? I'm gonna let you pay for this!"

However, no matter how John threatened them, they didn't come back. Soon, they were all gone.

John was left alone in the viewing room.

John clenched his fists and stared at Evangeline on the screen with bloodshot eyes. Evangeline had started climbing at a slow and steady pace.

She even scaled some nearly vertical slopes with ease.

John pursed his lips, clenched his fists, and couldn't help trembling in panic.

He was unable to stop Evangeline from winning. The result couldn't be changed, and if he stayed there, once Evangeline found him, he would only end up with death, possibly even worse than death. He must run now.

Arthur in a luxury villa, smiled when he saw Evangeline raise the flag on the screen. He finally breathed a sigh of relief.

He had been watching the live stream every day. During the time the stream was cut off, he didn't feel like eating or sleeping and was constantly worried about Evangeline

"Evangeline nailed it! We're gonna make a lot of money this time!"

Evangeline is absolutely a queen. I'll always be on her side!"

Arthur followed the sound and saw Hugo, Steven, and Finnegan excitedly shouting and even crawling on the ground.

Arthur felt speechless. It seemed that they had been assimilated by Evangeline.

They had been coming to his house every day to watch the live stream with him. Lacking other outlets for their emotions, they crawled on the ground whenever they got excited or angry which looked quite creepy.

Arthur wasn't surprised when he saw Steven and Hugo doing this, but he never expected that Finnegan, as a psychologist, would join them.

At first, Finnegan suspected that Evangeline's behavior was caused by her mental illness. Now he did the same thing she did.

It seemed Evangeline had a strong influence on others.

"Aren't you happy, Arthur? Join us in celebrating Evangeline's victory!" Steven ran over and grabbed Arthur, trying to get him to crawl with him. Arthur kicked him away and said, "Stay away from me."

Evangeline rested for a while under the flag and then found the safety rope prepared by the production team.

Having secured the safety rope, she clutched it for the descent.

With the help of the safety rope, she only spent more than ten minutes arriving at the foot of the mountain.

When Marian and Riley saw her coming down, they immediately stood up, walked to her, and asked with concern, "How was it? Are you okay?" Evangeline said, "I'm fine. I raised the flag

Marian said with a sincere smile, "Congratulations."

Riley also sent his best wishes, and the white tiger circled her.

Evangeline slapped him on his forehead and said, "Stop doing that. It makes me dizzy."

The white tiger stopped and stood beside her bitterly.

Evangeline said seriously to him, "I'm leaving and I can't take you with me/ Go back to the forest. The white ti turned around with his butt against her, looking angry.

Evangeline said, "I've made it clear. Do whatever you want. I don't care if you die e in the desert.

The white tiger was even more aggrieved, and he began to dig a hole with his paws.

Ignoring it, Evangeline walked aside and waited for the helicopter to pick her up with Marian and Riley.

They waited for a long time. By dusk, the helicopter from the production team still hadn't arrived to pick them up.

Marian couldn't help feeling confused. "It's been a long time already. Why hasn't the production team sent a helicopter to pick us up? In every previous competition, contestants would see the helicopter coming shortly after reaching the foot of the mountain. They would take it back to receive their prizes. Why is it taking so long this time?"

Riley curled his lips and said, "Could it be that the production team, seeing the winner isn't Atharian, deliberately hasn't sent the helicopter?"

Evangeline remained silent. They waited for a while, then suddenly saw the shadow of a helicopter in the distance.

"Look, the helicopter is coming!" Marian pointed in the direction of the helicopter and said excitedly.

A few minutes later, the helicopter got closer, but she frowned and said, "This helicopter doesn't belong to the production team. Every one of their helicopters has a poster on it."

The helicopters ladder was a little far from the ground, so he put a box under it.

The next second, a slender man came out of the helicopter. It was Dexter.

Wesley carefully reached out to support him to get down the ladder.

Dexter was dressed in a black casual outfit, looking rather unapproachable.

Marian gasped and said in surprise, "He's so handsome! He looked like he was from the East, not from the production team. What are they doing here?"

Riley said vigilantly, "Be careful. They could be here with bad intentions."

Evangeline looked up, paused for a while, and then smiled. "Don't be afraid. They are not bad guys."

Marian and Riley looked at her in confusion. "Do you know them?"

Evangeline laughed and said. "Yeah. He's my ill younger brother"

Meanwhile, Evangeline had already walked towards him. "What are you doing here. Dexter Evangeline stopped in front of Since she returned to the Gallagher residence a year ago, she hadn't seen him. He looked more mature and taller now.

He was even taller than her, standing at 5.5 feet. He was much shorter than her before he turned twelve, but he grew rapidly afterward and ended up much taller. She had tried supernatural methods to stop him from growing taller, like accidentally stepping over him or holding an umbrella indoors, but none of it worked.

With a smile on his face, Dexter reached out and hugged her, saying in a hoarse voice, "I missed you, Eva"

Evangeline reached out and patted him on the back. "Don't you think I smell? I haven't taken a shower in days"

He had a subtle and alluring scent of fresh grass on him.

Evangeline was embarrassed by his comparison.

Dexter held her more tightly and said, "I love whatever you smell like."

The white tiger also ran over and kept circling around them

Evangeline pushed Dexter away. However, he held her hand as clingy as when they were children.

Evangeline glanced at the white tiger who was circling happily and asked, "Why did you bring him to the forest?"

When she defeated the white tiger, she asked Arthur to send it to Dexter.

She hoped Dexter could find a suitable shelter for the white tiger, so he wouldn't have to fight humans anymore. She also didn't want him to be captured for genetic research and used to create more tigers like him;

She didn't expect Dexter to send the white tiger into the forest.

Dexter explained, "Keeping him would cost a lot, so I had him earn his living. I sold him for 50 million dollars to the behind-the-scenes sponsors of the production team. This money is enough to support him for the rest of his life."

Evangeline asked, "What? You made him earn his living and you're taking him back, right?"

Dexter said, "Leaving him in the forest would destroy the ecological balance.

"A beast of his size has almost no natural predators in the wild. If he was left in the forest, other creatures would have a hard time surviving.

"Besides, he was raised by humans and is accustomed to living with them. If left in the forest, he might go to human habitats and cause harm.

Chapter 113

Evangeline was stunned. She never thought about that. Hearing Dexter's words, she agreed that the white tiger was not suited to life in the wild.

He might make it difficult for other creatures to survive, but more importantly, he had eaten people before and was still interested in humans.

When he was in the forest, he had several urges to eat people.

If she hadn't stopped him, he would have already eaten them.

If he was left in the forest, he was likely to leave and seek out places where there were humans.

Just kill him if you don't like him." Dexter turned to Wesley and said, "Have someone kill him, Wesley"

Hearing this, the white tiger, who was happily circling, let out a disgruntled grumble and turned away, presenting its back to them. It began angrily digging a hole, clearly disappointed in them. Evangeline said, "Take him back. Maybe we can make money with it in the future

The white tiger instantly got happy with tears in his eyes. He was glad that she still cared about him. Soon, another two helicopters arrived. One of them was for passengers and the other for cargo. Marian and Riley got into the passenger one, while the white tiger was put on the cargo one.

The white tiger was kept in an iron cage to keep him from hurting anyone.

The white tiger was unwilling to enter the cage at the very beginning. However, seeing Evangeline's cold glance at him, he got into it obediently.

Dexter took Evangeline by the hand and got into the helicopter.

After flying for several hours, they finally landed on the rooftop of a five-star hotel in the city.

Evangeline and Dexter got off the helicopter and went to the presidential suite on the top floor.

Dexter said, "Go take a shower. I'll ask Wesley to go to the hotel you stayed before and bring your luggage here."

Evangeline nodded and went into the bathroom. During those days in the forest, she had wiped herself with tissue a few times but never had a proper shower. She felt like she must smell awful.

She brushed her teeth three times, washed her hair five times, and took a shower for one hour. Finally, she felt refreshed. Her luggage was brought back before she had finished her shower. Dexter left a pajama for her by the bathroom door.

Evangeline took another ten minutes of shower. Only when she felt thoroughly clean did she open the bathroom door, reach out to grab her pajamas, and put them on.

While she was drying her hair, Dexter came over and took the dryer from her. "Let me help you."

Evangeline handed him the hairdryer and looked at themselves in the mirror.

She asked, "How have you grown ev

Dexter raised his head and looked at her in the mirror. Then he said with a faint smile, "Are you jealous of my height? Ever since I got taller than you, you've been trying to keep me from growing "I'm not Evangeline denied it at once.

Dexter continued. To you think I don't know what you've done You kept stepping over me at night and holding an umbrella over me You didn't want me to grow taller?

Evangeline rubbed her nose and said, "How did you know that? And why did you never tell me?"

Dexter said. "There was nothing negative about what you did to me, but you know what? Regularly getting up in the middle of the night can lead to a lack of sleep, which in turn stifles growth. You were hurting yourself.

You used to mock me for being shorter when we were kids, so of course, I didn't want you to end up taller than me. Why would I tell you this?"

Evangeline turned around and punched him. "I treat you as my younger brother. Why would you hold a grudge against me over something so trivial?"

Dexter held her fists, tilting his body slightly to make her lose her strength.

Stunned, Evangeline asked, "Have you recovered? Do you want a friendly sparring match?"

Dexter glanced at her and said in a low voice, "No. I'm weak. I can't defeat you."

Evangeline asked awkwardly, "Did you hear that?"

Dexter shook his head and said, "No, I didn't, but I read your lips

Evangeline was speechless. Dexter had undergone medicine resistance training before her, and he planned to compete after the training.

Unfortunately, after receiving the injection, he had a severe allergic reaction. His body not only failed to produce antibodies but also suffered serious damage. That was why she underwent the same training. Thinking of this, Evangeline was a little worried about his health. She grabbed his wrist and said, "Let me have a check"

Dexter didn't resist. He turned off the hairdryer and let Evangeline grab his hand to feel his pulse.

He looked down at Evangeline who was feeling his pulse seriously, smiling.

After a while, Evangeline took another hand of his and continued to feel his pulse.

After a few minutes, she let go of his hand and frowned slightly. "Why is your pulse so erratic? And I've noticed that you seem a bit depressed lately. Is something bothering you?"

Dexter looked down at her and said, "Not seeing you for a long time makes me anxious. We've never been apart for so long"

Evangeline was stunned. She thought about it carefully and realized that they had indeed never been apart since they met each other.

She was abandoned after birth and later adopted by a homeless elderly person with intellectual disabilities.

Her grandfather died when she was three, leaving her homeless

According to city planning regulations, there shouldn't be homeless people on the streets, so she was often taken away in the.. middle of the night and sent to another city with a group of homeless people.

After a long journey, she was eventually dumped in a chaotic area of a southern border city. Although it was poor, it was tolerant and open and did not reject homeless people.

Of course, it was also full of danger and crime. She later learned that it was called the slums. She met Dexter, who was two months younger than her, and from then on, they became dependent on each other. She used to hear people there talk about people coming in and taking them back as organ banks for the rich.

She was afraid of being taken away and her organs removed. Therefore, she and Dexter hid during the day and didn't venture out for food until night

They lived in hiding for two years until, at the age of five, they met Naomi, who was five years older than them.

Because her grandfather who adopted her at the beginning had intellectual disabilities, he never gave her a name. Having learned about this, Naomi named her Evangeline.

Naomi said that her name represented happiness and peace.

The mysterious Naomi had a dilapidated house in that chaotic place.

She took them in and let them live in her house.

They lived together for five years until everything changed when Dexter and she were ten and Naomi was fifteen. She fell seriously ill, and Naomi went abroad to earn money for her medical expenses. As for Dexter, he was found by his family. He and Evangeline had never been apart from each other from three to nineteen until the Gallagher family wanted to take her back a year ago. She was curious about how her biological family differed from the Johnson family who had adopted her.

The Johnson family was very rich and powerful and they didn't agree to adopt her at first. It was Dexter's insistence that made them give in.

She didn't blame them because, after all, the Johnson family cured her illness and gave her a secure life.

Although they didn't love her, they never made her suffer.

Because of Dexter, even though they were indifferent towards her, they remained polite. She was grateful to the Johnson shag out of anger, Dexter didn't contact her for an entire year "Did you miss me, Eva?" His clear voice brought Evangeline back from her memories.

Evangeline blinked guiltily. Honestly, she didn't. She was very busy at the Gallagher residence and had no time for him.

"I know your answer, Eva. You don't have to say anything." Dexter said.

Evangeline said. Td After defeating the white tiger, the first person she thought of was him.

Dexter said in a low voice, "You don't have to explain it to me, Eva, Even if you place me last and only think of me when you need help, I won't be upset."

Evangeline's mouth twitched. She knew that every time he kept calling her Eva, it meant he was angry. He rarely used that name when chatting with her, but whenever he was upset, he would deliberately use a strange tone, giving her goosebumps.

Evangeline tried to comfort him. I'm sorry. Don't be mad at me, okay? You're starting to get a bit depressed now. Anger isn't good for your health

Dexter glanced at her seriously and said, "You have a special way of comforting people."

Evangeline laughed awkwardly.

Dexter continued, "Don't worry, Eva. Even if I get sick because of my anger, I won't blame you, and you don't need to feel responsible for it." Evangeline felt helpless. I wasn't saying that...

Dexter said. "And you don't need to pay for my funeral."

Evangeline's mouth twitched. She reached out to pat him on his head and said, "Enough. If you keep acting weirdly, I'll beat you!

Dexter pursed his lips and stared at her.

Then he grabbed her shoulder without saying a word, turned her around, and continued to help her dry hair.

After drying her hair, he walked into the living room without saying a word.

Evangeline followed him out. She collapsed on the couch and kicked him. "Can you stop being mad at me? Let's make up. okay?"

Dexter said in a low voice, "No. Never. I like being mad. It's none of your business."

Evangeline said, "If you keep doing this. I'll get mad too."

Dexter glanced at Evangeline and quickly gave in. "Fine, I forgive you this time, but remember, next time you can't go so long without getting in touch with me. Maybe when you finally think of me one day, I will be dead."

Evangeline smiled and said, "Okay" She got up to look for her phone in her suitcase. Since it had been plugged into the power bank, the phone sent a ping after half a month.

As soon as she turned on her phone, she saw countless messages pop up on WhatsApp,

She slumped back on the couch and checked those messages

Anhar and Steven sent her several text messages

In addition to them. Bethany, Samson, and Jasper also texted her. Some were concerned about her and some congratulated her on winning. Evangeline felt a bit annoyed. After adding them back on WhatsApp and live-streaming what George and Meghan did, she had forgotten to block them

Evangeline blacklisted the three men without hesitation this time.

Then she started replying to Arthur and her friends' messages.

Dexter took a nail clipper from the table, placed her feet on his legs, and silently trimmed her toenails for her.

Evangeline used to do this for Dexter when they were kids, and now it was time for him to pay back.

As soon as Evangeline replied to Steven's message, Steven directly set up a group chat and invited them for a video call. Evangeline picked it up. When she entered the group chat, there were already four people waiting for her.

Congratulations. Evangeline. You not only won the competition but also broke the record!"

You may not know how happy we are, Evangeline. Many websites crashed because of the online frenzy, and major media is congratulating you on Twitter. Also, every TV channel is reporting your story!" "Now everyone on the street is praising you!"

"You've worked hard these past few days, Evangeline. Take some time to rest. When you're back, we'll celebrate for you in person."

Dexter paused and looked up at Evangeline who was smiling.

He remained expressionless and continued to trim her nails,

"Ouch..." When Evangeline was about to say something, she suddenly felt a sharp pain in her little toe. She couldn't help but gasp.

"What's wrong, Evangeline?"

"Are you okay, Evangeline?"

"Are you hurt, Evangeline? If you are, go to the hospital now."

They were worried about her. However, before Evangeline could say anything, Dexter apologized, "Did I go too deep? I'm sorry. I'll pay attention next time."

The four men on the phone stopped talking.

Rogue 115

Chapter 115

Arthur stared at Evangeline's face in the video in shock. He thought, 'Evangeline is with a man and she's wearing pajamas. And what did he mean by saying that? Even if they didn't do anything, her being in the same room with him in her pajamas is proof enough that they are close to each other?

Arthur became upset instantly. He opened his mouth but didn't say anything. Two seconds later, he directly ended the video call.

"Well, I'll leave you alone. Evangeline. We'll hold a celebration party for you after you come back." Steven, Hugo, and Finnegan quickly ended the video call too.

It happened so fast that Evangeline didn't have time to speak. She put down her phone and looked up at Dexter. "Did you do it on purpose?"

Dexter stopped, raised his head, and looked at her with a puzzled expression in his eyes. "Do what?"

"You know what I'm talking about!" Evangeline said.

"Are you saying I cut your nails too short? Why would you think I did it on purpose? Do you really think I'm a bad person?" he said in a muffled voice, sounding aggrieved. Evangeline took a deep breath. I'm talking about what you said just now!"

Dexter looked even more puzzled. "What's wrong with that? I cut your nails too short so I asked you whether you felt okay. I didn't see anything wrong with that. Evangeline's mouth twitched. She said, feeling speechless, "You don't say the word 'deep!'"

"Why?" Dexter was confused.

Evangeline felt helpless. She felt that she could do nothing about this childish man. "Never mind. You don't understand. You'll know what I mean one day?"

The Johnson family was very traditional, and Dexter's parents were extremely strict. They had Chester, Chad, Wesley, and Scott taking care of him around the clock, so he had no exposure to anything sexual. Therefore, it was normal for him not to see anything wrong with that word.

Although Dexter was around the same age as her, he had been well-protected by his family, so he remained an innocent boy.

In contrast, she was much more mature than he was.

She thought, Come on. How can I suspect that Dexter is trying to create a misunderstanding between Arthur and me?" "Can't you explain it to me now? Dexter looked at her with a simple and harmless smile, dying to know more. Evangeline put the other foot on his leg and changed the subject, "Hurry up. Stop talking nonsense."

"Okay." Dexter held her feet obediently and continued to trim her toenails carefully.

Evangeline picked up her phone and clicked on the group chat that Steven set up. She wanted to explain, but she felt that more explanation would only make things worse as if she were trying to cover something up. Besides, they were just friends to her, so she didn't think it was a big deal.

After Dexter finished trimming her toenails, Wesley, who was waiting in a corner, suddenly came out and half-knelt beside Dexter. He disinfected his hands with alcohol and then carefully wiped them three times.

Chapter 115

Evangeline couldn't help kicking Dexter and said, "Wash your hands yourself. Do you have to ask Wesley to do it for you?"

Wesley said. "Ms. Castillo, it has nothing to do with Mr. Johnson. It's an honor to take care of him. I'm well-paid, but I don't have much work to do. If I don't do something for him, I will feel I don't deserve my salary."

The Johnson family paid Chester, Chad, Wesley, and Scott a total of 1 million dollars a month, with each of them receiving a quarter of that amount. Therefore, they took care of nearly every aspect of his life. They never felt that wiping Dexter's hands was a humiliation. If Dexter hadn't objected, they would have even stood by while he used the bathroom, ready to hand him tissues at any moment. However, their careful attention to Dexter wasn't entirely due to their high salary. Dexter looked so perfect that they couldn't help but protect him as if he were a treasure.

Evangeline was the only one who found him weak and foolish, and constantly complained about him.

Dexter took Evangeline's feet off the couch, sat down beside her, grabbed her hands, and began to trim her fingernails. When Evangeline was in the forest, she used to bite her fingernails. Her nails weren't long, and she had chewed them

Dexter trimmed her fingernails beautifully with patience.

After trimming her nails, Dexter helped Evangeline lie down and put her head on his lap.

Wesley handed him an ear pick with both hands.

Dexter took the ear pick and carefully cleaned her ears.

up into

After thoroughly cleaning up the mess on her body, Dexter was finally satisfied. Then he began to peel the fruit for her.

Wesley brought a lot of fruit, and the variety on the table was even more abundant than at the market stand.

Among the fruit, Evangeline saw a plate of familiar fruit—the myrtle berries.

Although she was mocked as a child for being constipated after eating too many myrtle berries, she still had the urge to eat some of them whenever she saw the fruit.

However, having them in front of Dexter made her feel awkward.

She somehow felt that Dexter had become dirty, especially his hands.

Although Dexter helped her when she nearly died from constipation, she could never forget how, after solving her problem, he looked at her with awe and said, "Your excrement is as hard as your will." That incident happened when she was four years old. She had forgotten many things before the age of four, except for that one. She clearly remembered every word they said that day because it was extremely embarrassing for both her and Dexter. After being silent for a few seconds, Evangeline said to Wesley, "I don't feel like eating. Take the fruit away."

Wesley nodded and said, "Okay, I'll take them right away. If you or Mr. Johnson would like anything to eat, feel free to tell

1. me.

In order not to be attacked by her embarrassing past, Evangeline changed the subject and asked Dexter, "What about the rich men behind the competition? Have you got them under control?" Dexter said, "They've all escaped"

Evangeline was confused. "How?"

Rogue 116

Chapter 116

In Clusia, there was a remote small village that had been overwhelmed by a mudslide two years ago. With the help of the govrinnepi, almost all the residents there moved away. However, there were two families who quietly moved back later. No one knew whether they originally lived there or chose to stay there because it was uninhabited

The two families chose to live in two adjoining houses.

Between the houses was a pigsty,

At this time, a middle-aged couple with severe burn scars on their faces came out of the left house, with the man holding a tallet

They headed for the pigsty. When they arrived, they turned on the light which illuminated the pigsty.

In the pigsty were two pigs and two amputees. The two people were covered with pig's excrement. They were so dirty that it was almost impossible to tell whether they were human beings. That middle-aged couple's eyes were full of joy when they saw the two people's filthy appearances.

In fact, the couple's poor daughter was killed by those two people and was humiliated before she died. Therefore, the couple.. wanted to make the two people suffer a lot.

They would not kill the two people. Instead, they would make the two people suffer and tormented to pay for what they had done to their daughter.

Moreover, the couple wanted to torture the two people by hurting their hearts.

With a faint smile, that middle-aged man said to the two people, Mr. and Ms. Gallagher, you haven't seen your family for some time. You must miss them very much, right?" He continued, "We have your family's news. I'll show it to you."

Hearing the man's words, the two motionless people raised their heads with difficulty and looked at him in a daze.

The middle-aged man turned on the tablet and showed them a video.

As the video played, the two people in the pigsty gradually became excited. Waves were aroused in their dead eyes again, and they began to tremble uncontrollably.

This video was specially edited by the middle-aged man. It was a clip of Evangeline participating in Xtreme Survival abroad.

It only covered the scene where Evangeline overwhelmed other competitors and finally reached the top to watch the national flag rising.

In the video, Evangeline was like a superhero, as much glorious as it could be.

Apart from the footage of Evangeline's participation in the competition, the middle-aged man also showed the two people's comments from those who were proud of Evangeline, the news reports on Evangeline, and the statement of the state spokesperson who praised Evangeline and claimed to select Evangeline as the youth representative.

In short, it was all about the good reputation of Evangeline and people's admiration for her.

George and Meghan screamed, staring at Evangeline on the screen with their blood-shot eyes wide open.

George and Meghan were in great pain now, while Evangeline was living so well and arrogantly and even became the pride of Clusia. George and Meghan were not convinced. They didn't think things should have gone in this way.

Chapter 118

In Meghan's opinion Evangeline should have been inferior to her while she should have been the one who attracted much attention. In Meghan's eyes, everything should have been the opposite and her life and Evangeline's should be exchanged.

Meghan tried hard to roar, but she could only make a hoarse and unpleasant voice.

George's eyes were full of remorse. If he hadn't been greedy for Beauty and had treated Evangeline well, he would still have been the CEO of the Gallagher Group. Like Evangeline, he would have been admired by everyone, too.

Unfortunately, a wrong choice led to his disaster. Now Evangeline lived an unrestrained life, while his life was extremely painful. He felt like he was living in hell every moment.

George hated his tenacious vital force so much. He was mutilated after being tortured, but he could still survive. He wondered why he couldn't die easily like those who fell to death.

"Ahhh... George also shouted in a hoarse and unpleasant voice.

The middle-aged woman outside the pigsty laughed, "Honey, look how happy they are. We should show them videos of Evangeline often to make them happy."

The middle-aged man nodded. At this time, the couple in the other house heard the noise and came out. They also had burn scars on their faces.

They walked to the pigsty and enjoyed the aggrieved looks of George and Meghan inside.

Then, the man from the other house couldn't help but say. They are so tenacious. They can still be alive after being tortured like this. Their wounds have not been infected even after they stayed in the pigsty for so long."

He added, "Does the evil really live a long life:*

His wife thought for a while and said. I found that Evangeline is good at medicine when I watched the show. Did she help them take care of their health when she lived in the Gallagher residence before, so that they can still be alive?"

The other three nodded at the same time. That makes sense. Evangeline is so powerful. She seems to be able to do it." George and Meghan in the pigsty froze suddenly

They seemed to be enlightened and realized why they could still be alive.

When Evangeline came to the Gallagher residence, she personally cooked to please the Gallagher family for some time.

Evangeline also mentioned that some special ingredients were used to help improve their health. However, none of the Gallagher family cared about it back then. Now, George and Meghan believed so.

George screamed more painfully. This was not good news for him now. The longer his health was, the longer he would suffer. He only wanted to die now, Meghan was shouting and crying, too. She wondered, 'God, why are you so cruel to me? I just wanted to keep my wealth and property. Is that wrong? God, you are so unfair to me.

A woman outside the pigsty spat at them and said with hatred. "You bastards, just live to atone for your sins. Evangeline was so nice to you. How could you hurt her? Now what she has done for you turns into a sword that stabs at you. You deserve it You turned the blessings into your disaster

The four people outside the pigsty Laughed fiercely at George and Meghan and then went back home happily.

When they got home, they took out their phones and spoke up for Evangeline on the Internet.

As long as they read some sarcastic comments on Evangeline, they would retort and curse the people who sent the

Although George and Meghan were handed over to them by Edward, it was thanks to Evangeline that the Gallagher family collapsed

If the Gallagher family hadn't collapsed, Edward wouldn't have given them those two bastards.

Therefore, Evangeline was their benefactor and the one who contributed most to their revenge.

The four people swore to be Evangeline's big fans and would defend her at all costs.

In a hotel in Nardor, when Evangeline was half asleep the next morning, she suddenly felt an itchy nose.

"Achoo." Evangeline couldn't help but sneeze, awakened instantly

She opened her eyes and saw Dexter's handsome but disgusting face.

He was now holding a strand of her hair and brushing her nose with it.

Dexter said. "Eva, wake up. I'll take you out to have fun."

Chapter 117

Evangeline slapped Dexter's hand away impatiently and then turned over and covered her head with the blanket. She didn't want to talk to him.

Dexter stretched out the blanket to expose her head.

Evangeline didn't move. Dexter sat on the edge of the bed, reached out, and poked her side cheek. "You have slept for twelve hours. You can't sleep more." Evangeline turned her head quickly to bite his finger.

Because of her anger she bit it hard and soon felt a faint smell of blood in her mouth. However, Dexter didn't say anything or withdraw his hand. Evangeline opened her eyes, stopped her action, and pushed his hand away. She asked, "Are you stupid? Why don't you take your hand away?"

Dexter replied, "I'm afraid of hurting your teeth."

Evangeline didn't know what to say.

She rolled over irritably, lay face down on the bed, and then squirmed to slide toward the ground.

When she was about to fall to the ground, Dexter picked her up and said, "Eva, elegance."

"I see." Evangeline kicked him away, turned over to the ground, and crawled gracefully.

Dexter was speechless.

Evangeline didn't stand up until she reached the bathroom door

After this move, she was completely awake.

She walked into the bathroom. When she was about to reach for her toothbrush, Dexter took it away.

Dexter said, "Wash your hands first. I'll squeeze the toothpaste for you"

Evangeline glanced at her palms and felt they were pretty clean.

She thought. You used to play in the mud when you were a child. Why do you have mysophobia now?

Evangeline turned on the tap and rinsed her hands, then took the toothbrush from Dexter and began to brush her teeth.

After she finished, Dexter handed her a wet towel Evangeline took it and wiped her face.

She walked into the living room and found breakfast was already on the table.

The assistant who was working today was Scott. He cooked pasta for Evangeline.

Seeing Evangeline coming, Scott smiled and said, "Ms. Castillo, I made pasta for you. But I don't know if you like it. If you don't, I will cook something else for you." Evangeline said, "No need. Pasta is fine. Just go get me a bottle of cola"

Scott glanced at Dexter and nodded when he saw that Dexter had no objection.

Evangeline was very satisfied with the pasta and cola.

111

Chapter 117

While eating, she tried to look at Dexter and asked, "Did you have breakfast?"

Dexter smiled and said, "I got up five hours earlier than you, so already finished breakfast"

Evangeline said nothing more and continued to eat.

After breakfast, she sat on the sofa to rest. Dexter came over with a makeup bag and helped her apply skincare products and the makeup.

It was not an ordinary makeup, but one that could help her disguise.

With the makeup, her original appearance could not be recognized.

Dexter looked at her face with satisfaction and smiled. "Well, we can set off now."

Evangeline looked at herself in the mirror with a look of disgust. She felt that she was so ugly now. Her eyebrows were so fierce that she didn't want to look at them again.

However, she figured it out soon. She couldn't see her own face anyway. It was not herself who would feel disgusted. On the contrary, Dexter would always look at her. So, he would be the victim of his own deeds.

Evangeline and Dexter went out together. After leaving the hotel, Evangeline asked, "Where are we going?"

Dexter asked back, "What do you want to play?"

Evangeline said, "I want to play with mud. Thus, Dexter took her to the beach.

Evangeline looked at him and said, "This is sand, not mud. I want the kind of mud where I can roll in it."

Dexter looked at her and said. "No way. I know-what's in your mind. You want to push me into the mud and cover my body with it, don't you?"

Evangeline said disdainfully, "You wish. I won't reward you in this way."

Dexter was speechless. Although he enjoyed himself in the mud when he was a child, he had no interest in that now. However, Evangeline seemed to still believe he liked it.

In his childhood, he played in the mud because it was too hot in summer. With mud on his body, he could cool down and keep himself away from mosquitoes,

Besides, he didn't do so alone back then. Evangeline was with him.

At that time, they often walked outside with mud covering their bodies, even disliked by the human traffickers. Thus, they dared to walk outside during the daytime.

Evangeline said, "Forget it. Since we are here, let's have fun right here."

She was in denim shorts and a tank top, so she didn't have to change into her bathing suit.

She took off her shoes and went to the beach. After looking around, she walked back to Dexter and said seriously, "Dexter, even if you are against the whole world, I will support you Dexter was confused. He asked, "Why would I be against the whole world?"

With a smile on her face, Evangeline said, "Because I want to offend the whole world."

Dexter was more confused. Before he could understand what Evangeline meant, she had been among a dozen children under the age of ten who were playing volleyball.

She said something to the kids and joined them.

Then, those kids lay down one by one.

Within ten minutes, the children fell all over and cried loudly.

Their parents rushed over from all directions.

Evangeline ran towards Dexter and hugged him on purpose to show people that Dexter was together with her. Then she ran away, leaving Dexter in his place.

Soon, the parents of those kids rushed to Dexter and scolded him angrily. Those people came from a different country from his and spoke a different language. However, Dexter could understand their scolding words.

People spoke one after another. "You know that crazy woman, don't you? She made my child cry. You must give me an explanation."

"She is an adult. How could she bully children? What's wrong with her?"

"Ask her to come here and apologize to our children."

"Is she your girlfriend? If you don't call her back, you are obligated to take responsibility for her mistake."

Dexter raised his eyebrows and said with a smile, "I'll compensate each of you with 10 thousand dollars. Is that enough?"

The anger on the faces of those people suddenly disappeared.

Though their children cried, they were not hurt.

However, their children's crying would help them get 10 thousand dollars. It was a good deal for them.

If they could get more money, they could even make their children cry more. Anyway, experts said that the occasional tears, were good for one's eyes.

Dexter had Scott transfer money to people. People laughed even happier when they received the money, in stark contrast to their children's crying.

They began to flatter Dexter. "You are so nice to your girlfriend. You will be a good husband."

"Your girlfriend is so lucky to have you"

"Girls are cute when they're lively. Your girlfriend did nothing wrong. It's our children's fault."

"You are so handsome, but your girlfriend isn't that good-looking. So, you don't pay attention to superficial appearance, do you? You are really a good man."

"You love your girlfriend so much. I'm so envious. Can we exchange our phone numbers? If possible, Lean introduce my younger sister to you."

With a straight face, Dexter looked at the person who said Evangeline was ugly and the one who wanted to introduce her sister to him.

Then Dexter asked them politely. "If I want to beat you, could you allow me to do so?"

The two people froze. They were shocked by Dexter's unreasonable demand with politeness, wondering if they had misheard it Dexter said, "If I give you 50 thousand dollars each, can I beat you?"

Rogue 118

Chapter 118

Although the two people felt that Dexter's request was weird, they were tempted by the large amount of money he offered. Therefore, after they were stumped for a few seconds, they nodded hurriedly. "Sure. You can beat us. It's fine by us."

Those who had not been chosen looked upset. They wondered, "Why didn't he choose me?"

With people's consent, Dexter showed a polite smile on his face. In that case, please spare me."

Screams soon came on the spot. Scott silently took out a palm-sized notebook from his pocket.

On the cover of the notebook, there were three words "Scott's Note". There was a pen hanging on the notebook. Scott wrote down the following words in the notebook.

[At 10 am, on August 3. It is a sunny day today. Mr. Johnson came to the beach for fun. A group of rude foreigners abused him for five minutes. Mr. Johnson quieted down their anger with some words. He solved the problem with superb means. showing a noble demeanor.

Mr. Johnson suddenly wanted to do some exercises and asked people politely if they could be his training partners. Moved by Mr. Johnson's sincerity and courtesy, the other party readily agreed. Then, Mr. Johnson began to exercise. People were really happy to be his training partners. They shouted cheerfully and even rolled on the ground with joy.

Mr. Johnson gained a healthy body, and people gained happiness. Mr. Johnson can get along well with others in a foreign country. How good his social skills are!]

Scott then put the notebook into his pocket and watched Dexter "exercise calmly.

Dexter stopped soon. The two people he beat were lying on the ground crying, with their faces bruised and swollen.

Scott stepped forward and transferred the money to them. The two people were very happy when they received the money, crying and laughing simultaneously.

Then, Scott took out a wet tissue from his pocket and carefully wiped Dexter's hands.

Dexter turned to look behind him, looking for Evangeline.

As soon as he turned around, he saw Evangeline running towards him, followed by a group of people chasing her. There were even several dogs chasing after her, barking fiercely.

Soon, Evangeline ran up to Dexter and hugged him in the same way to let those people behind her know that Dexter was together with her.

"Dexter, deal with them." After saying that, Evangeline ran away again, like a merciless jerk.

Dexter felt his temples throbbing. Evangeline was really going to offend the whole world. She then put him in charge of cleaning up the mess she made. No wonder she said she would support him even when he was against the world. He was actually forced to be so.

People quickly chased over. Since they couldn't catch up with Evangeline, they had to get even with Dexter. Dexter could only solve the problem with money again.

After Dexter dealt with these people, Evangeline had made trouble on the other side of the beach.

The worst part was that Evangeline carried away a bride who was taking wedding photos with her groom, with the groom and photographer chasing after them frantically.

Evangeline carried the bride to Dexter and said, "Dexter, I stole a bride for you." After this, Evangeline ran away again.

Chapter 118

Dexter was rendered speechless,

The groom and photographer came, panting. The groom stared at Dexter and said angrily, "What's the relationship between you and that crazy woman! She has gone too far. How could she take my bride away?"

Before Dexter could speak, the bride suddenly said excitedly. "This is the first time that I have been held since I became an adult. I'm so happy. Can she hold me again?"

The groom was speechless and felt insulted.

He couldn't even carry his bride who was with 100 pounds.

However, before he could speak, his bride ran after Evangeline.

Everyone was speechless.

The groom was so furious. He said to Dexter angrily, "Your girlfriend took my wife away. You must give me an explanation. Is she insane

Dexter narrowed his eyes and glanced at the groom..

Dexter's calm eyes made the groom chill all over his body.

The groom immediately explained, "I mean, she carried my wife. If my wife asks me to hold her in the future but I can't do it she will be angry. This will affect our relationship." Dexter said in a low voice, "You can't even hold your wife. That's your problem."

The groom said angrily. "My wife is with 160 pounds. It's reasonable that I can't carry her!

Dexter said, "She is only with 160 pounds, not 160 kilograms. If you can't even carry her, that's really your problem."

He added, "Besides, even a girl can hold her. How dare you complain your wife is heavy?"

The groom was speechless. With his face turning red with shame, he ran after the bride in anger.

Dexter asked Scott to deal with those who asked for an explanation, while Dexter ran to chase after Evangeline.

By the time he caught up with Evangeline, she had offended everyone on the beach.

Several teenagers in the period of rebelling knocked off by Evangeline thought she was pretty cool. They even wanted to be her followers with admiration on their faces.

The bride also caught up with Evangeline and shyly begged Evangeline to carry her again.

Evangeline directly handed over the task to those teenagers, saying that it was a test for them.

The teenagers were not afraid at all. After winning the bride's consent, the tallest boy picked her up and ran away.

Although he was tired after walking for a short distance, at least he could pick her up.

Then the teenagers, working together, carried the bride on their backs or held her now and then. The bride had a great time. However, the groom behind was very confused. He wondered why those boys who were not as strong as him could hold his wife. He felt that was unreasonable.

Dexter took this opportunity to hold Evangeline's hand and led her away from the beach.

Back in the car, Dexter said seriously, "Eva, I'm sorry. I promised to let you play whatever you want, but I didn't make it. I was wrong. Don't be angry. I'll ask Wesley to prepare for it, and let's play with mud tomorrow, okay?"

Chapter 118

Evangeline said, "I'm not angry. Why do you think I am?"

Dexter said, "You made a scene on the beach. Isn't it because you got angry and deliberately punished me?"

Evangeline said, "I was not making a scene. I was just playing with people and having fun."

Dexter was speechless.

Evangeline smiled and said, "Sand and seawater cannot compete with people."

Dexter was silent.

Evangeline patted Dexter on the shoulder and said, "Okay. Let's go to the spook house to play with ghosts."

Dexter glanced at her and hesitated to say something. He was shocked that she didn't mean to see the ghosts but to play with them.

Finally, Dexter took Evangeline to the spook house.

They came to play an escape room game called "The Abandoned Hospital". It was played in an abandoned hospital that covered a huge area.

This kind of large-scale game was usually played by a group of people together.

Dexter paid a lot of money to book the whole venue. All the windows in the building were sealed so that no light could penetrate, except for faint sources of light at intervals. The light sources were just to help the players know which direction to go. Yet they couldn't see the road at all

They could only move forward slowly against the wall.

With the horrible background music echoing around and the occasional cold wind blowing from underfoot, it was indeed quite terrifying.

They had just walked forward not far when a harsh scream suddenly came from the front

A beam of red light went on at the same time as the shout sounded.

The red light shone from bottom to top, reflecting a terrible face half decayed and half gray.

Dexter immediately leaned against Evangeline and firmly grabbed her hand. "Eva, it's so scary"

Evangeline patted the back of his hand and said, "Don't be afraid, I will protect you."

As soon as she finished speaking, she shook off his hand and walked towards the "ghost", carrying it on its shoulder and running away.

Dexter was shocked. He wondered, 'Didn't you say you would protect me? Shouldn't you carry me?'

It was so dark that he couldn't see Evangeline soon and could only call her name.

He shouted, "Eva, don't leave me alone"

Evangeline's voice came from the front. "I will take away the ghosts in the front, so you won't meet them. Just walk slowly against the wall. Don't be afraid."

Dexter was speechless. In his imagination, Evangeline would accompany him, hold his hand, and protect him closely. However, she now carried the ghosts away instead of carrying him. He wondered what had gone wrong. After pondering for a long time, Dexter believed that something was wrong with Evangeline's mind.

Rogue 119

Chapter 119

Dexter walked behind Evangeline in a distant helplessly. The scream of the "ghosts" kept coming from the front.

Originally, it would take at least three hours to pass the game, but Evangeline finished the whole process in one hour. She even caught all the "ghosts"

She tied the clothes of those "ghosts" together. Thirty-five "ghosts were tied in a line and taken out of the abandoned. hospital. It was quite a shocking scene,

Looking at his employees who pretended to be ghosts, the boss of the spook house wanted to say something but hesitated. In the end, he didn't say anything, because Dexter paid too much money. The boss finally decided to give each of his employees 200 dollars for mental damage.

Evangeline handed the rope for tying the "ghosts" to the boss and said, "The way they scare players is too simple and identical. They always suddenly rush out and scream loudly. Even if someone suddenly screams in one's ear, one will be startled. You should improve the scaring means.

The boss received the feedback and sincerely hoped that Evangeline would give some advice.

Evangeline suggested that he ask the 'ghosts" to crawl on the ground and prepare some props such as skulls, broken arms and animal viscera and throw them toward the players.

The boss thought it was a great idea but still declined her suggestion, saying that he was afraid of scaring people to death and would go bankruptcy and even go to jail.

"Eva, you would rather talk so happily with others here than pick me up. Have you forgotten about me?" Dexter's faint voice suddenly came from behind.

Evangeline looked back and saw Dexter's aggrieved face. She was surprised. "Why do you come out so late? You're so slow. I cleared all the ghosts for you, but you are still so slow. It seems that it's useless to have long legs."

Dexter glanced at her and then walked out in depression.

After taking a few steps, he found that Evangeline didn't keep up with him. Then, he slowed down his pace.

"Why are you so cowardly when you walk? Is that so scary?" Evangeline caught up with him and asked with concern.

Dexter was speechless. He decided to ignore her for three seconds. After counting for three seconds in his heart, he said, "I was scared. I need you to accompany me."

Evangeline said seriously, "Have you ever heard that two negatives make a positive? Let's play it again. You won't be afraid after you are scared twice."

Dexter gave her a deep look and sighed, "I'm suddenly not so scared. We don't need to play anymore. Let's go."

They played around outside until evening. After dinner, they returned to the hotel.

Dexter helped Evangeline remove her makeup. After Evangeline washed up and went back to her room, Dexter called Scott over.

Dexter asked, "Did you catch those who ran away?"

Scott replied, "Yes, Mr. Johnson. They were sent to the place you arranged

Then he added, "But they have fled hundreds of miles away, and they don't have many relatives."

Dexter said, "It doesn't matter. Just arrest all those we can

Scott then took out his notebook and wrote down the following words.

After reading this diary, both Bradley and Laura were lost in thought.

Dexter in the diaries of the four assistants was strange to them.

The description of Dexter in the diaries was totally different from what Dexter was like in reality.

Bradley and Laura wondered if the assistants didn't fully know Dexter because of their busy work.

However, the assistants followed Dexter every day. Therefore, they must know Dexter better than Bradley and Laura do.

Bradley and Laura thus felt deeply guilty and then transferred some money to Dexter to compensate him.

At this time, in a luxurious house in Hofcaster, Arthur locked himself in a dark room behind the study.

There were many priceless antiques and gold bars.

Arthur was lying on the gold bars, staring blankly at a valuable painting on the roof.

The phone in his pocket rang again..

Since last night, his phone had been ringing, which was very annoying.

It only rang once every hour during the daytime. However, the ringing was non-stop now, noisy and annoying.

Arthur took his phone out and picked it up without checking who the caller was.

"You finally answered the phone. Where are you? Why didn't you answer my phone? Gerald said that you didn't go to the company today. Everyone has been worried about you. Steven's voice came from the phone.

Hugo and Finnegan were chattering beside Steven, but Arthur didn't hear what they said.

Arthur said in a low voice, "I'm healing"

Steven asked, "Where are you healing? If you are in a bad mood, you can come to us, and we can have a few drinks with you to help you ease your mood." Hugo said, "Didn't you say that you have no feelings for Evangeline? Why are you hiding and secretly healing after you heard that she was with another man?" Arthur was speechless. He directly hung up the phone and threw it aside. Then he rolled over, lay face down on the gold bars, and continued to heal.

His phone rang again soon. Arthur had no desire to answer it at all. However, it kept ringing. He was a little impatient by the noise and picked up his phone. He said, "Don't bother me. I'll stay alone for tonight. I will be fine tomorrow,"

An old voice came from the phone. "Well, Mr. Ferdinand, this is Benson, Did you mistake me for someone else?"

Arthur said me ekte "What's the matter?"

Beos, the butler in the Rour residence, said. "Mr. Ferdinand, Mr. William Rouse's health is getting worse day by day. Are you really not going to come back and inherit the family business Arthur seered. "Don't you have another son let him inherit it leave me alone?"

Hemon sighed and said. "Mr. Ferdinand, are you still holding a grudge against your parents and Mr. William Rouse for what happened back then? It wasn't their fault. They had no choice but Benson suddenly paused and said apologetically, "I'm sorry, Mr. Ferdinand. It doesn't matter if you don't inherit the family business. But it will be Mr. William Rouse's ninetieth birthday soon. Could you come back and attend the birthday party? He will be very happy to see you

Arthur said in a still cold voice, "No."

Benson said. "Mr. William Rouse said that as long as you are willing to come back, he will pay for you two gold bars for each mile you take

Arthur was shocked. He asked, "How many grams each?"

Benson replied. "Standard 300 grams.

Arthur fell into silence.

Beton persuaded him. "Mr. Ferdinand, Mr. William Rouse has been living with guilt all these years, and he apologized to you. You are a family. Could you put aside your hatred for him and let him have a happy birthday?*

Arthur said in a deep voice. "Unless he pays more

Benson was speechless.

Arthur said. "I have to come back if TRU

there. I want four gold bars per mile."

Benson was silent for a while and then said, "Mr. William Rouse agreed.

He then said, "The birthday party will be held on the twentieth day of this month. Remember to come back on time, Mr. Ferdinand"

Arthur hung up the phone and then called Gerald. Arthur ordered, "Help me cancel all the schedules on the 19th and 20th day this month and book a ticket to Lyrendia on the 19th day. The flight should be as long as possible."

In the face of money. Arthur would sacrifice his hatred,

Evangeline and Deori quem a set of five days in Nandor

That was the compensation he got for betting on Evangeline's woning.

Dexter her a billion dollars. At the odds of 33 to 1, he earned 110 billion dollars in total.

Des wat the only one who be Evangeline's winning Actually, the total bet on her winning was more than 20 billion dollars

Therefore, the total amount of compensation that the bankers had to pay was more than 700 billion dollars.

Fortunately, people who bet on her winning were Clusian. Therefore, the currency they used was not that valued, otherwise those who lost the bet couldn't afford the compensation at all.

Ah, luckily, there were more than 30 bankers in total, who were all rich investors. The values of all their assets and real estates was almost enough for the compensation. For the rest part they couldn't pay, their guarantee bank would help them. The bank would then arrest those rich men and ask them to repay with their bodies.

Evangeline heard that Dexter had contacted the people in the intermediary bank. Dexter asked for less compensation and offered to arrest people while asking the bank to stay out of it.

That was because the rich men had signed a contract when they accepted the guarantee. If their assets were not enough for the compensation, the guarantee bank could reasonably and legally control them and dispose of them and their families, who would also have to come forward to sign the contract.

In other words, if people couldn't afford the compensation, they would become slaves to the head of the bank who could do anything to the people.

After Dexter reached an agreement with the bank, the bank sent the contract signed by those rich men to him.

That was to say, Dexter was dealing with that group of people legally,

That kind of contract was illegal in Clusia, but it was legal and valid abroad.

In addition to the large bets placed by rich people like Dexter, many Evangers also made small bets.

At first, they didn't think Evangeline could win. They made bets just to increase her popularity.

Some fans invested thousands of dollars, and some rich ones invested tens of thousands of dollars. These fans also received compensation these days. They were so excited to see their money suddenly increase by 35 times, and they shared their feelings online, which attracted the envy of many people who didn't bet.

After receiving the compensation, Dexter handed Evangeline a bank card with a huge amount of money.

Evangeline took the card and looked at him in confusion. "Why do you give it to me? That's what you earned. Keep it yourself"

Dexter put the card directly into her pocket and said softly, "If it weren't for your hard work, I wouldn't have gotten this money. That's what you earned. You should keep it

Evangeline sighed, "You are sensible now. You begin to be nice to me."

Dexter glanced at her and said. "I have been nice to you, okay? I used to be nice to you outside. For instance, when I was four years old:

Examine was excited. Then don't waste the time. Let's go

Demer asked his men to prepare a private plane.

Two bounen Evangeline and Demer boarded the helicopter and flew away from Nardor.

Aber a day and night, the plane landed on a huge island surrounded by the sea.

Dexter's four assistants had already arrived on the island with their men and arranged everything.

As soon as Evangeline got off the plane, she heard the roar of a beast not far from her left.

She looked over and saw a huge cage covered with black cloth.

Without lifting the black cloth, she knew what was in there just by hearing that scream.

"Did you bring the big white tiger here Evangeline turned to look at Dexter.

Demer nodded and said. "Yes There is no vehicle on the island, so I brought it here for you to ride"

Evangeline smiled. That's really thoughtful of you."

She motioned for Wesley to let the white tiger out. Wesley immediately took the key and opened the cage.

Before Evangeline came, Wesley and others didn't dare to open the cage, for fear that they couldn't control the white tiger and be hurt by i

Only when they saw Evangeline did they dare to open the cage.

As soon as the cage was opened, the white tiger couldn't wait to fish out and jumped excitedly. Then it ran to Evangeline, rubbed its head against her, and began to circle around Evangeline and Dexter. Evangeline patted it on the head and said, "You like spinning around so much. But stop it. I feel dizzy"

The white tiger snorted a few times in protest, but it still stopped obediently and stood beside her, whining.

Dexter glanced at the white tiger which seemed to have sensed the danger and looked back alertly. Immediately startled by Dexter's eyes, the white tiger quickly stopped clinging to Evangeline with grievances but sat down obediently to dig the soil.

"Why is it so afraid of you?" Evangeline looked at Dexter in confusion.

Dexter shrugged his shoulders. "I don't know. I am very kind to it. I don't know why it is afraid of me."

The big white tiger immediately shouted to protest, as if it were saying, "He is lying. He often beat me. He is so bad. He is just a terrible homo erectus, Evangeline said, "All right. Let's go meet those people.

Dexter nodded. The big white tiger immediately walked to Evangeline and lay down, so that she could ride on its back easily.

Evangeline didn't refuse and sat directly on it.

The white tiger stood up happily and moved with small steps on four legs.

Dexter followed them silently. After walking for a few minutes, he accidentally fell to the ground, letting out a muffled grunt. Evangeline immediately stopped the white tiger and turned to Dexter. "Are you okay?" Dexter nodded gently and said, "I'm fine, Eva. Don't worry about me,"

Scott looked at Dexter and then said to Evangeline, "Ms. Castillo, Mr. Johnson is in poor health and can't be overworked. This journey is not easy for him. Can you let him ride the tiger with you?" Evangeline said, "Let Dexter ride it. I can walk."

Scott shook his head and said, "That won't do. Mr. Johnson is in poor health. He will fall off if he rides it alone, and this will make his condition worse. He needs someone to support him
