

THE CEO'S RUN AWAY WIFE

Chapter 16 I want to be around you

"Do you need help?" A handsome tall man came in front of Sara. She was stunned by his handsomeness. She could not help but look at him up and down with disbelief. She never saw this type of handsomeness in any other men before.

"Who... are... you?" Sara asked the person stuttering. She could not believe that she was stuttering at someone whom she does not even know. His handsomeness totally blocked her mind, because he was talking to her as if he knew her. At the same time he was looking at her up and down in the same way that Sara was looking at him.

"Beautiful," he said, giving her a handsome smile that was enough to make any girl blush. Sara blushed but she quickly hid it behind her expression, because she was blushing for a stranger.

"Excuse me..." she said to him, pulling him out of his fantasies and he stopped smiling like a psycho. He pulled himself together and stopped eyeing her.

"I said who are you?" She repeated her question and Daniel smiled at her.

"I am the same angel you were asking for from God," he replied to Sara. She blinked her eyes and her heart was pounding inside her chest.

"If you don't have any problem, let me help a beautiful girl like you," Daniel said and Sara could not stop laughing as soon as she heard him. Daniel was lost in her smile. He was thinking of her as an Angel.

"Please let me," Daniel said as he took the gift from her hand, and she felt his fingers on her. He intentionally took the gifts from her hand, touching her. From his touch, she felt a spark but she quickly lowered her eyes and started to lead him down the path.

She was walking ahead and he was following her like a servant. His bodyguards were watching him in disbelief. He was not looking like their rude, arrogant, jerk boss who orders them right and left. They were about to run to him to help but Daniel gestured to them not to come near him. They all backed down and acted as if Daniel was a stranger to them.

"I think that room is around here. I am not sure, I have not come here before," Sara murmurs in confusion. This hotel was new for her. For the last 10 minutes, she was looking for a room where she had to keep the gift.

"Ummm... do you know where that room is?" she turned to him and asked.

"No, I don't know. I am also new here," Daniel said, and made a nervous face.

"It's ok we will find it soon. I am sorry you are still carrying all that stuff. If you want you can leave. I will handle it." Sarah smiled at him. And as she was about to grab the gift Daniel did not let her hold it.

"No you are thinking wrong. It is not that heavy, and maybe I am having fun. I want to be around you," Daniel said looking into her eyes. She noticed his eyes were showing some other feelings, and his words were also showing that he wanted to say something else. She was feeling nervous around him. He was too handsome but his words were making her heart beat fast.

"Hay Daniel!" Suddenly one of his friends appeared there, the owner of the hotel, and he was coming to

As he was about to come near Daniel, he quickly gestured to him to tell him to fuck off. He understood what he was trying to say and did not come near to him. He turned his feet in another direction. He looked at Sarah and gave her a sweet smile. She could not understand what happened just now.

"I think that room is over there," Daniel said and Sara started to walk in the direction he pointed. She noticed that maybe it was the right room. There was a bed too but the whole room was filled with gifts. Daniel followed her inside and Sara started to take the gifts from his hand. It was too heavy for her. Daniel did not let her continue and he himself put every gift in the right places.

Sara was impressed to see his strength. Well it was expected because his body was tall and wide. He looked very strong. The dress that he was wearing was so fitting on his body and it was clear that he was rich. These clothes made him more hot and sexy. She could not help but check him out while he was arranging the gifts. Daniel was done with his work, and he turned to see her face but he noticed that she was checking him out. He chuckled as she quickly removed her eyes and tried to hide her blush again.

"Thank you for your help. I should leave." Sara ran toward the door and Daniel panicked to see her running away. He wanted to spend more time with her but he had no excuse. He was a stranger to her.

"What's wrong with this door?" Sara said and tried to open it. Daniel came to her and saw that the door was blocked.
