

THE CEO'S RUN AWAY WIFE

Chapter 9 I was dying to see this feeling in your eyes

"Now I understand, you are that bitch!" Daniel shouted, and she smiled at him.

"I am glad that you recognize me. Nice to meet you again, but my wish is also not fulfilled. I still want your dick inside me," she said in his ears and Daniel just turned away from her.

"You know it is lucky for you to be a woman. If there was a man, I would have already pulled his tongue out and tied it around his neck!" Hearing Daniel, she panics and walks in with him. Daniel saw Jacob and Jackson as he went inside. They were both sitting in a chair.

"Hey! I was waiting for you," Jackson told Daniel, Jacob smiled upon seeing him. He gave both of them a boring look. The girl was surprised to see all of them.

"Why are you three taking this kidnapping so lightly? Are not you afraid?" The girl asked the three of them.

"There is no such thing as fear here. It would be good for you to let the girls go from here or else your result will be even more terrible than you thought," Jackson told the girl. The other men present there were surprised to see the three of them. They were all behaving as if they had come to visit.

"So you are right, that bitch is not Sara," Jackson said and Daniel stretches out his hands.

"Yeah, she tried to play well but could not even play 1% of my Sara. She got her face but she could not give up her slutty character." Jackson and Jacob laughed loudly at him. The girl got angry and she slapped Daniel.

"You know what? I will kill your Sara in front of your eyes. But before killing you, I will fuck you! And don't worry, there are so many men that want your Sara in their bed! She will be fucked by every man in this room before her death. I heard you married her. Glad to hear it, but I am sad she would be fucked not by you but others!" The girl laughed loudly with another man present in the room. Daniel did not say anything to her and only stared at her angrily. He was keeping everything in his mind. She slapped him too many times in anger.

"Don't you think you are digging your own grave?" Jacob said to her angrily as he could not see that she was slapping Daniel. Their hands were not tied up but they could not move from their chairs. They were holding the girls hostage, and if any of them tried to move, they were going to kill the girls. Daniel had already guessed about this threat as soon as he saw Jacob and Jackson. Daniel gestured to Jackson and Jacob that there was no need to say anything to her. They both understood what he was trying to say.

"Why don't you call Alexander without wasting my time so that I can talk directly to him," Daniel told the girl, and she was surprised to hear him. She looked at Jacob and Jackson's faces and they were also giving the same look.

"Wow, I had no idea that you were so clever," Alexander came out of the dark, where he was sitting, watching and hearing everything.

"Did you already know that I am behind all these conspiracies?" Alexander asked Daniel, laughing. He sat some distance from Jacob and Jackson too. He could not afford to sit close to the three of them.

"Not from the beginning, but as soon as this whore said that Jackson and Jacob are my brothers and kidnapped them, it became very easy for me to guess. Seeing this girl changed my suspicions into affirmations," Daniel replied. Alexander angrily turned to the girl after listening to Daniel. She ignored his angry stare. She made a huge mistake.

"Whatever it is, from now on you will do what I tell you," Alexander said to Daniel, and Daniel closed his eyes. Alexander became enraged by his closed eyes. He knew very well what it meant. For the past several years, Daniel has always treated him in the same way. It was his best move, to ignore Alexander.

"If that is your answer then..." Alexander started to say and suddenly Daniel heard Sara's scream. He opened his eyes and saw a man was dragging her out of a room. He had clutched her hair violently. As Daniel saw this he gritted his teeth in anger and got up from his chair. He kicked Alexander's chest and at the same time Jackson and Jacob also moved.

Daniel gave a back kick to the man who was holding Sara. Sara fell on the ground and then he ran to her. Daniel hugged Sara tightly. He untied her hands. She hugged him back. Daniel saw that she was crying loudly. He was too nervous to see her crying like this.

"Why don't you call Alexander without wasting my time so that I can talk directly to him," Daniel told the girl, and she was surprised to hear him. She looked at Jacob and Jackson's faces and they were also giving the same look.

"Sara, calm down. I am here," Daniel said, but she was crying non stop. Jackson and Jacob handled all the men, and they also noticed that Alexander had run away. They both looked at Daniel and Sara.

"Don't worry, I will handle everything here. You go and save Mia and Lisa. Don't wait for me and get out of here with them. Do you hear? Don't wait for me and do what you need to do. Just get them out of here. I am here with Sara," Daniel said to both of them. Jackson and Jacob ran out of the room so that they could save Mia and Lisa. They already knew where they both were.

"Sara..." Daniel said in a soft voice and Sara looked up to him.

"I... I swear... I did not run away," she told Daniel, and now he understood why she was crying so much. She was thinking that Daniel would harm Ryan because she ran away. He had already warned her that night what he would do if she would run away.

"I know. I know you did not run away. I know that letter was written by you but you were forced to do it. I will not do anything to Ryan. He is safe," Daniel told Sara and wiped her tears.

Suddenly both of them heard that someone was coming. Daniel understood that many more men were coming to them.

"Sara get up. We need to get out of here. They did not hit you, right? Are you in pain? Do you want me to hold you?" Daniel asked her and she shook her head.

"No, they did not beat me, but what's wrong with your face? Who slapped you?" Sara asked, touching his lips. Daniel smiled and kissed her palm.

"I was dying to see this feeling in your eyes," he said. Sara lowered her eyes.

"Let's go," Daniel said and they both got up from there. As they both only took four steps more than 10 gunmen surrounded them. Daniel was holding Sara's hand tightly.

"Sara, calm down. I am here," Daniel said, but she was crying non stop. Jackson and Jacob handled all the men, and they also noticed that Alexander had run away. They both looked at Daniel and Sara.
