

Runaway 54

Chapter 54 When Isaac took the sheet of paper and saw that Irene's name was on it, he frowned."

This isn't the driver!"

The driver he saw was a young man!

The secretary had no idea why Isaac was suddenly hostile, but admitted, "The SUV was registered under Ms. Spencer's name..."

"And that makes her the culprit?" Isaac growled as he got off the hospital bed and leveled an icy glare at her. "Is she the one you punished?" The secretary kept her head down in silence. Fuming, Isaac bellowed, "I'm asking you a question!" "Yes, sir," the secretary finally replied. Isaac was hyperventilating from sheer frustration, and the secretary quickly apologized. "Sorry, I slipped up..."

Isaac completely ignored her and stormed outside. Whitney, who had been standing by the door and trying to get in, saw him coming out. After that accident, it was perfectly reasonable to say that she had lost their child, and Isaac would not be able to say anything against that. "Isaac," she called out, and reached for his arm... Only for Isaac to knock her away furiously. "Move!" Whitney dropped to the floor right then, but no one came to help or ask after her.

While Isaac's secretary quickly headed outside and opened the door for him, he got into his car while making a call. Soon, Zachary picked up. "Do you know where Irene is?"

"I do," Zachary replied. "She's been admitted to a hospital. I'm with her right now." Isaac said nothing else and hung up, and told the secretary to drive to Central Hospital.

They arrived soon enough, and Isaac quickly alighted and strode inside, heading to the ward where Irene was.

Zachary was standing outside when he saw him, and approached him, saying, "Irene's pregnant, but she suffered a miscarriage. I'm sure you know why."

He said that on his own volition, because he did not consider Irene a stranger-she was Isaac's wife! Now that she had made up her mind to keep the surviving twin, she was definitely going to divorce Isaac.

At the same time, Isaac's tense reaction faded as his cheeks clenched. "What did you say? She's pregnant?"

As Zachary nodded, he felt as if his breath left his lungs as his chest tightened terribly!

She was pregnant? Whose child was it?! It could not have been his because he had never touched her!

"Calm down, Isaac. You both cheated on each other, don't you think? Whitney Cox is pregnant with your child, so you're both even. Don't get too upset, and try not to blame Irene too much. Just part ways amicably..." Isaac, however, simply shoved Zachary away as he roared furiously, "Fuck off!"

He kicked open the door to Irene's ward, but she did not react much because she knew he was there. Getting agitated now would only hurt her child, which was why she must show restraint.

"Let's get a divorce, Isaac," she said calmly.

However, Isaac's eyes were flaring with rage, his chest heaving as a fire seemed to spark within. "Divorce? Just because you say so?"

While he could not help feeling heartache as he saw her lying feebly in bed, he was incensed by the fact that she was pregnant with someone else's child!

Even as he resisted the impulse to strangle her, he growled, "Who's the father? Tell me.

Irene remained calm as ever. "You knew I was sleeping with other men already."

A vein bulged over Isaac's temple right then as he glared at her furiously. "Weren't you taking morning after pills? Were you cheating on me again after that?!" "Yes, I did," Irene replied. "I've cheated on you on more than one occasion, so let's get a divorce."
