

No Escape From My Ruthless Alpha

Chapter 155

Chapter 155: Baby Shower

Drexel POV

Though I wanted to throw the baby shower for my Penelope, there were too many who wanted to throw it for her. And the foremost were Leo and Eric along with Blake. Jarlen belonged to this band of scoundrels but he was too busy with marriage ceremonies across my pack. He was earning well. Sometimes, I joked that he should give me a share of his income

I thought that there was so much into planning a baby shower, but these boys did it in a day. [am sure that they took help from multiple women

The three of them were discussing the best location to throw the party. I suggested, “Why don’t you do it in the main hall of the pack house? It can house three hundred guests easily.”

“And what if our guest list is longer?” Blake countered

Penelope was eating her afternoon snack of sliced fruits with a good helping of custard. She said, “We can have it in the garden that overlooks our villa.”

Leo clasped his hands in excitement. “Yes, let’s have it there. That place is big enough to host over five hundred people.”

Villa. I chuckled. Penelope called it a villa. The garden overlooking the villa was rife with weeds and tall grass but over time, Gerhardt had got it cleared because he wanted to build a treehouse for my pups. He was doing it for free because he liked Penelope a lot. According to him, if she became an architect, she could give him competition. And one day he even joked that she should join him if she planned on getting her architecture degree

“Five hundred people?” I snapped. “Are you fucking mad? Penelope needs air. Five hundred people will overcrowd the place. She doesn’t even know that many people.” I looked at her and the thought of her surrounded by a sea of people gave me jitters

“Drexel is right,” she said. “I want to invite the people who are close to us. I don’t want people to feel obliged to attend. I mean I don’t want to end up being the hostess-with-the-mostest trap and invite every other person

Eric burst into laughter. “I liked that hostess- with-the-mostest word!”

“But Penelope everyone wants to attend the baby shower,” Blake made her understand. “You are bearing the pups of our Alpha. Do you know how sacred that is to all of us?”

Why was it that I felt that all the werewolves wanted to attend the ceremony mostly because she was a red wolf. Maybe they felt like they should protect her and her pups

Penelope understood what Blake was trying to say. “I understand,” she said in a soft voice. “Go ahead and call whosoever is willing to come.”

For the entire evening and the night and then the next morning until afternoon, Blake, Leo and Eric were busy preparing for the baby shower. A hotel was given the order to make yummy food. An event planner was given the task for a couple of games and decorating the garden. Although I asked Penelope to put items on her registry before the invitations went, she said, “Please write ‘No Gifts’ on the invites.”

I was surprised but she came to me and kissed my lips. “Darling, we have everything. I just want people to come and bless us.”

I wrapped my arms around her shoulders and buried my face in her head. “T love you,” I

murmured softly

When I entered the venue of the baby shower party, I was... stunned. The boys had done everything they could for it. I didn’t know this soft side of my wolves Strings of lights hung overhead and it looked as if you are walking beneath the stars. On one side the grills were fired up. They had created a mini golf course for the kids and an area where only water balloons were tossed. As soon as pack members saw us, they bowed to us immediately. I was overwhelmed. “Please carry on,” I said to them with a grin

The kids started jumping and squealing all over again. It made my wife laugh so hard. Her eyes were wide with excitement. She said, “Drexel, soon we are going to do all that for our pups!”

My gaze went to all the pups who were jumping and giving a tough time to their moms. I couldn’t help chuckling when I imagined that my pups would do the same to their mom

The event planner, a she-wolf of about twenty- five-years, came to us. She bowed to us and then turned to Penelope. “Luna, we have planned a few things for you.” She pointed at all the she- werewolves of the important members of my pack. They were eagerly looking at Penelope Penelope looked at me for my approval. “I kissed her temple and said, “Go ahead. It is your day.” I watched her leave and mingled with other werewolves. While I was talking with all of them, my eyes were on my mate. She was seated in the middle of an enclosure. Two girls sat on each side of her. They were giving her a manicure. Penelope was giggling and talking with them and all other she-wolves out there

They continued to give her a pedicure. She looked so relaxed and happy that all of it was worth it

The night lasted till about 10PM when all the parents gathered their pups to head back home despite all of them protesting. I heard many parents shouting, “You have school tomorrow!”

I rubbed my chest. Soon I will be sending them to school, changing diapers, taking turns to wake up as I watch them grow. I was going to have my family. Goddess. I had come so far

After the party was over, I looked around for Leo, Eric and Blake to thank them, but the wolves were busy tossing water balloons at each other. I shook my head and then lifted Penelope in my arms to carry her to the car. She wrapped her arms around my neck and kissed my neck. “I love you, hubby.”

Next day I had to go to the human world where Madam Lestrangle had lodged the complaint

Leo and Eric had gone there a month back and they stayed for a week. While sitting in the helicopter with me, I asked Leo, “Will Madam Lestrangle be there?”

“Most likely, yes. She is planning to file a suit against you for hiding Penelope.”

“Bitch!” I muttered. We flew in silence to the town. When we reached the police station, we found that she was sitting there in her expensive silks along with her pety of a son. As soon as she saw me, she narrowed her eyes for a moment and then her lips lifted into a smirk

“Ah there he is,” she said, getting up. “The guest of honor.”

I ignored her useless remark and walked to the police officer. I nodded at him and sat, opening the button of my jacket. She was flanked by her lawyer and two burly men. And I had my men with me. Leo, Eric, Boris and two more gamma warriors. The five of them looked too intimidating, as if they wanted, they could rip the entire police station in minutes. Which they could but they wouldn’t. Not until I ordered them

When I didn’t react to her, Lestrangle growled

“Arrest him. He has kidnapped Willow’s daughter!”
