

No Escape From My Ruthless Alpha

Chapter 74

Chapter 74: Reject Me

Freya POV

Walker and I had one of the best times after we cashed two hundred-thousand-dollar check from Drexel. Walker had used it to fund his new project. We were back in the lodge, celebrating another achievement. Since Drexel was forcing me to marry him, both Walker and I were getting impatient to roll out our next plan in which we had to corner Drexel

I had already prepared a list of Alphas with whom Walker would form an ally and then attack Drexel

The plan was that I would go back to the Crescent Moon Pack and then buy more time from Drexel in order to prepare for 'our wedding'. I would have a grand ring ceremony where we would exchange rings

In the meantime, Walker would get his allies

The attack wasn't going to be on the whole pack. It was simple. I was going to take Drexel out alone and then all the Alpha's and their warriors would attack him. That would ensure that he would be dead

After that, it would be extremely simple. Walker would mark me and with the help of my allies, we would oust Beta Leo and Gamma Eric and all other trusted men of Drexel

At the same time, I wasn't happy when Alpha Steven hadn't given me a chance to talk with him. He had refused to meet me and I knew that his pack was located in such an area that it would be very important for trade. He had a diamond mine in his land which not many knew about. He was trying to come to an agreement with the humans about the mine, but I wanted it

Since he wasn't even talking to me, I decided that after I would take over the Crescent Moon pack, I would take him over. His pack was small

Walker and I were discussing our plan while having sex when Drexel called. I was so close

So close to my orgasm. And only a few days close to my final destination, but I wasn't expecting that Drexel would have gotten his men to follow me. I wasn't ready that Drexel would sniff that something was wrong

"No Drexel!" I shouted. "You are making a big mistake!" In the past ten minutes, every castle I had built for my ultimate ascension to become the Luna of the Crescent Moon pack along with my mate, Walker, shattered. I couldn't see it. All my years of planning disappeared in a flood of panic. "I can't reject my mate!"

"Boris." I heard Drexel's icy voice. "Kill him," he commanded

"Noooooo!" I screamed as I lunged at my mate to protect him, but Walker grabbed my hands and pinned them up. He straddled my thighs. The phone slid out of my hand and dropped to the floor. I was so panicky that I kicked beneath him, struggling wildly with my emotions

"Walker, run away!" I shouted. "They will kill you!" I knew that Walker was no match for Drexel's warriors. They would kill him in an instant. I heard heavy footsteps on the outside of the lodge. They were in the portico and around the house

But Walker stared at my face with tears streaking down his eyes and very quietly said, "I, Walker Lampant, reject you, Freya Jones, of the Crescent Moon pack, as my mate."

Shock and pain exploded in my chest as I stared at him with blank eyes and a numb mind

Walker's voice went low. "Now accept my rejection, Freya," he said in a quiet voice

Drexel's cold voice crackled on the phone

"Wait."

"W-Walker ..." I stuttered. There was so much pain in my chest that I wanted to curl my body in a fetal position. "Don't..."

"Reject me," Walker ordered me, his eyes blazing with rage. "Else they will kill me. Do you want me killed?"

I shook my head slowly

"Reject me. Now."

A sob worked its way up from my throat and in a hoarse voice, I said, "I Freya Jones, accept your rejection."

After that, I became dizzy as excruciating pain blasted in my chest. Walker struggled to get up on his feet and then sat on the edge of the bed with his head in his hands. I heard heavy footsteps approaching us and soon everything became a blur. I remember someone throwing a sheet on my naked body, lifting Walker up, and taking him out. Someone picked me up as well and put me in the backseat of a car

The lodge was thoroughly checked up. I don't know what happened after that because I had lost consciousness. Rejection was not easy to take. It wreaked havoc on my body

I don't know for how long but when I got up, I saw my mother's face. She was sitting in a chair beside my bed, sleeping and looking paler. I realized I was in Kiev's house and not Drexel's apartment. It was early morning and the windows were closed because of the chill on the outside

"Mother..." I called her, licking my dry lips, feeling depressed

My mother jerked open her eyes. "Freya!" She rushed to my bed and sat beside me. Holding my hands tightly, she said. "How are you?"

"Walker...?" I asked

My mother pursed her lips as tears formed in her eyes. She sucked in sharp air before telling me that Drexel had thrown him in the prison and under maximum security. I lifted my eyes to the ceiling. Drexel had royally fucked me. I wasn't going to leave him. I was going to give him back and give him back so badly that he wouldn't even realize what went wrong

"I want to meet Drexel," I said to my mother

"But sweetie you are so unwell," she sniffled

"I will be fine, Mother. Just arrange a meeting with him." I was going to marry him and then after he mated and marked me, I will reject him

I already had the allies with me. Alphas who hated Drexel

I was going to take my revenge

"Okay..." my mother replied. "Take a nice rest in the meantime. You have woken up after two days!"
