Chapter 94

Chapter 94: Foiled

Drexel POV

I watched Freya waving her hand in the air, gloating about how she planned on destroying me and my pack. Leo snarled at her and charged again. My Beta was ferociously waiting to rip her apart and her brother, Kiev, who was enjoying the show

Freya continued, "For many days my planning was going on. I knew that you were keeping a track on Kiev's laptop. Yet, I built that firewall around his laptop. The firewall was nicely coded and I was expecting that your people would break it in no less than an hour, but they broke it in half an hour. Did you think that I was so naive to not understand that you were keeping your watch on me? Freya scoffed

"While you were busy with scanning Kiev's laptop, I was busy planning your annihilation

All these years I spent time gathering Alphas who were against you," she spat. "I hate you so much, Drexel, that you will suffer every inch of my hatred in the worst possible way."

A sound of thwack was heard and a loud snarl followed by howls. "Do you hear that?" She hissed. "Those are your men dying on the outside. All those who have pledged allegiance to you—they will be eradicated today. And I will take over this pack of yours and gift it to the only werewolf I ever loved. Walker!" She placed her hands on her hips as she bared her fangs. "I have destroyed you beautifully, Drexel. You will die. Just like your bloody father! Soon Walker is going to come here with the Alphas who are dead against you, and then you all will be dead."

With my chin I pointed behind her shoulder and snarled, "Do you mean these werewolves?"

Freya whipped her head behind and saw Walker along with a group of five Alphas. They were all soaked in blood

"Walker!" she exclaimed. "What a beautiful entry!" her voice carried with excitement. "Yes! You made it!" But then her eyes traveled to their hands and legs that were tied in heavy silver chains. She stumbled back. "No!" she rasped as her eyes became wide open. "No!" She looked at me and then back at her rejected mate

Walker sank to his knees, blood trickling down his forehead. There were large gashes all over his body. He was breathing heavily as he looked at me from the tangled mass of hair that had fallen in front of his face. Freya screamed a loud sob and rushed to him. "Walker. Walker," she rasped, not believing her eyes. She snapped her head towards me, tears smudging her makeup

"What have you done to him?" she shouted at me

Kiev tried to run away and that was when I lowered my hand. Leo charged at him and within a few minutes of a fierce fight, Kiev was down as Leo slammed his face on the ground

My warriors took two minutes to cuff him and keep him there

"So what were you saying?" I asked Freya as I sat down on the dais. From the corner of my vision, I saw Steven coming along with Kimberley. He came to stand next to me. "You planned my destruction?" I smirked. "You are too foolish to think that I was ignorant of your plans." I waved in the air. Eric brought Megan in and threw her on the floor. She shrieked with pain as she fell face-first

"Megan!" Freya shouted, not believing her eyes

Megan looked up at Freya, her eyes full of tears

I leaned forward as I placed my elbows on my thighs and clasped my hands. "I knew about your plans ever since Leo gave me the report about you. The report that Penelope was trying to hand over to me for a long time, but I wasn't looking at it. Penelope had come to know about your fraud much earlier, yet I turned a blind eye to it because I had committed that I would marry

"Wh—what report?" she asked, still squatted in front of Walker

I chuckled. "Penelope had dug out the frauds that you had conducted under my nose. Just to test her theory, I gave you that check which bounced in the bank. You rushed back to me to get a new check and then I gave you the real one. After that I asked my men to follow you and look what we got. I came to know that you had found your mate two years back and you were cheating on me."

My eyes traveled to the rogue mate of hers who thought that I had left him when in fact, I was keeping my strict eye on

"For him you had embezzled more than a million dollars from my account and invested in shell companies. Now that was one thing that truly shocked me. Like really, I was shaken!" I said, shaking my head. "So my first part of the revenge was to make you reject him. Did you like my plan?" I asked in a casual tone

"Fuck you, Drexel!" she spat

"Uh-huh!" I shook my head again. "I will never fuck you, whore."

"Drexel!"

"Shut up!" I hissed. "Now listen to my next part While you were under house arrest and trying to show that you were being sweet by calling all the Alphas who were under me, I knew what you were up to. Thanks to your stupid rejected mate. You asked him to collect all the dissidents. And that was how I came to know who were the ones who were against me. You made my job easier. Without you, I wouldn't have found them."

Freya gulped audibly. I think she understood that the trap that she thought she was laying for me, was in fact a trap for herself. "I allowed all of them to enter my territory and let them think that they could do anything they liked. The bastards planted bombs in hotels where the Alphas and their families were staying for my wedding. The moment they planted bombs, I asked my people to remove them."
