

Super Spender

Chapter 41 - 41: The Forum Exploded!

Chapter 41: Chapter 41: The Forum Exploded!

Translator: 549690339

Because the guy in the last post said he had already downloaded the video and has it in his possession. Countless requests for reposting the video were left as messages in the thread.

“I don’t know who Literati Saucy Poet is, but he definitely is a master! How did he manage to get such video! Although the administrators delete quickly, the post will be quickly re-uploaded by Savvyer Mitchell as long as they don’t suspend the account.”

This thread’s owner is apparently a master himself. You can tell just by his ID, Rascal Young. He occupies the second floor of his own live broadcast thread where he communicates with the people below by constantly editing his post.

Ethan Howard saw that this post did not violate any forum regulations and thus did not delete it, or perhaps he just didn’t want to delete it deep down.

Soon after Rascal Young edited his post, a new post with the same title popped up in the forum as soon as it was refreshed. The forum was currently active with at least a thousand people. As soon as this post appeared, everyone knew the perpetrator was back.

Many people clicked onto it. Some jumped right into watching the video, while some shrewd folks clicked to download it.

Ethan Howard obviously saw it too. Although he didn’t want to delete it, he clicked delete immediately. Such post cannot be kept without care.

However, the more Ethan Howard deleted, the more people in the forum cursed. Countless people were cursing the administrator, questioning if they were still students of F University. As a forum administrator, you need to have a steadfast heart. So, Howard simply ignored the posts and deleted them all when he was free.

At this moment, Robert Thomp, who was sitting smugly in his office, was startled by his assistant who burst into the office. Before he could yell out in shock, the assistant stammered, "Director Thomp, something is wrong. Look at the school's forum. Someone has posted...posted..." The assistant didn't know how to finish his sentence. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"Posted what?!" A bad premonition rose in Robert Thomp's heart. "Posted...your videos with some female students..." The assistant gritted his teeth and finally revealed the news.

Thomp was taken aback for a moment and then his face turned pale instantly. Not bothering to reprimand the assistant, he immediately turned on his computer and entered the school's forum. As the head of the computer science department, Robert Thomp wasn't ignorant. He had studied this field thoroughly during his university years.

Upon entering the forum, he saw hot topics everywhere. Thomp's eyes reddened instantly and his face paled further as new posts popped up, including the one posted by Finn Lewis. Thomp clicked on it, not bothering to download the video and started watching it.

After buffering, the first scene appeared. Thomp's face paled instantly. How could he not recognize something he himself had shot? He even admired it quite a few times, so naturally, he knew what the content of these videos were. But now, his videos were being broadcasted! An intangible fear gripped Thomp's heart.

However, after only about ten seconds, the video was terminated. Thomp reflexively refreshed the page and saw that the post had been deleted. This seemed to remind Thomp of something. He jumped up, reached his phone, and dialed a number. As soon as the phone was connected, he roared, "What is everyone doing? If this thing blows up, you all can forget about graduating!"

Robert Thomp had naturally called the student managers in charge of the forum. Thomp's influence was still considerable. All administrators were quickly online and began to delete the posts rapidly. Not only Finn's post, but all posts discussing this matter were also deleted.

He promptly registered a new account and immediately posted the prepared post.

Now, eight administrators were watching the forum. They had system message prompts so that they would be notified as soon as new posts appeared. Therefore, Lewis's post was immediately deleted by the administrators seven to eight seconds after it was published. They then blocked the account.

"Shut down the registration process!" the administrators said in a discussion group. Most of the forum administrators were from the computer club, known to be the owners of the forum.

Now, new registrations were not just being done by Finn Lewis. Because the administrators began to block accounts en masse, many angered students were re-registering and even started uploading videos to help Finn.

The overall master administrator of the forum, Flame Nation, directly issued a command in the discussion group to close the registration channel. Only he and two other sub-master administrators had this authority. Ordinary administrators like Ethan did not have this power.

Finn Lewis was the first to discover that he could not register a new forum account, as he planned to register a few more at once. But when he was about to register a new one after registering Literati Saucy Poet 12, he discovered that the register option had turned grey.

The chaos in the forum finally eased a bit. Because the administrators were blocking numerous accounts and had now closed the registration channel, no new accounts could appear. The remaining people were astute and did not post anymore. But the forum's attention level did not decrease at all. Almost every F University student was concerned about this matter.

Many teachers found it suspicious that students were more focused on their phones than on the lecturers. Some teachers asked the students directly what was happening, while others checked their own mobile phones to investigate, as any significant event would most likely have been shared in the class group or friend circle..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 42 - 42: If You Don't Appreciate Being Given Face, Then Just Throw it Away

Chapter 42: Chapter 42: If You Don't Appreciate Being Given Face, Then Just Throw it Away

Translator: 549690339

Chapter 42: If one doesn't appreciate a face-saving measure, ditch it.

"Post this announcement now!" Robert Thomp had already arrived at the location of the F University's Computer Interest Group's activities. Such school clubs would generally have a place provided by the school for activities. Not to mention this high-end computer interest group was also responsible for maintaining the school's official website and the server for the forum.

As the head of the computer department, Robert Thomp was quite familiar with the folks here. With Thomp around, the students couldn't say anything and proceeded to post the announcement Thomp specified on the forum.

"...Attention, students of F University, the recently posted video on the forum, slandering our teachers, is entirely a fabrication. This video, from wherever it originated, is nothing but a blatant falsehood. As for the resemblance of the characters within to any, it is a pure coincidence, we hope everyone will exercise caution. Let's not allow such videos on our clean school forum. We hope everyone will resist such videos and maintain a clean academic environment in the school forum."

The announcement essentially meant this. But after reading this announcement, most students sneered at it, although quite a few believed it, given that the video, placed alongside those widely dispersed on the internet, was quite similar in content, so it was possible that a considerable number of people didn't believe it.

At this moment, Robert Green and others also got wind of the situation. Robert Green was left speechless. If this issue continues to gain momentum, it could instantly become national news, and F University could become famous nationwide, Robert Green can only fantasize what would follow!

Regardless of whether the man in the video was Thomp or not, this incident must be covered up! This is no longer just about Thomp, but about the reputation of F University! Almost all the higher-ups of F University shared the same thoughts. After a brief interchange, the Vice Principal directly came here, staying with Thomp in the forum.

"Don't you all have good computer skills? Can you trace this IP address?" The Vice Principal immediately asked the leader of the interest group.

"We have it displayed in our backend. However, it shows that it comes from a mobile server, possibly uploaded via mobile device," answered the leader of the interest group.

"What do you mean? Why can you only track the mobile server? If you log in with Wi-Fi on a mobile phone, isn't it supposed to show a physical address? And if it is through 3G or 1+G network, doesn't the mobile phone have its own physical network card and a unique IP address?" Robert Thomp, being the head of the computer department, interjected, setting the record straight.

"We're not sure—for now, it is possible that the person on the other side is obscuring these technical details," the leader of the interest group, Sea Springs, shook his head saying.

"However, he shouldn't be able to post in the school forum now," Sea Springs added.

However, Thomp was getting a little uneasy. He thought of something quickly and turned to the Vice Principal: "Vice Principal Joey, help me keep an eye here, I have some business to take care of in my office."

"Sure," Vice Principal Joey glanced at him and nodded. Only after setting off did Thomp remember. The videos were saved on his own computer. Now that they had ended up in someone else's hands, Thomp believed he must destroy them all.

Unbeknownst to Thomp, Finn Lewis at his home at that moment was furious. He was livid when looking at the shameless announcement on the school forum, added to the punishment announcement that Thomp had arranged for him earlier on. Finn exploded, ordering: "Zero, I remember I got a reward to use your authority once in my task, didn't I?"

"Yes!" Zero's reply was succinct.

"I'm exercising that authority now! Block this server for me! And upload all the videos to this server! Order the title according to what I just said, from number one to the end. Blur out the female lead's face as well! Oh yes, put up my announcement first!" Finn uttered ferociously.

"Roger!" Zero's reply was equally succinct. Then, nearly instantaneously, he acted just as Finn had commanded, eradicating all forum administrators of the entire forum with a violent lot.

"Group leader! My account has been locked out!" Suddenly, a member of the interest group yelled out.

"Same here!"

"Mine, too!"

"We've all been locked out, our server was hacked!" One of the more technically proficient members proclaimed.

"What?!" Sea Springs was taken aback at first but promptly rushed to his computer! A terrible premonition surged in his heart. Although the school forum's server was often attacked and even numerous such incidents were caused by the hardcore technical guys from the computer department! But then most of the people in this interest group were technically superb students from the department.

Therefore, maintaining the school forum was a piece of cake. Sure, like their computer department had often clashed with the Tsinghua computer department in Beijing, and they targeted each other's school forums at times. But at such a critical point, the school forum getting blacked out, Sea Springs couldn't fathom that either a hardcore student from the university or those jerks from Tsinghua were responsible.

Well, perhaps he can't be entirely sure of the in-school hardcore guys not being responsible for this!

The unexpected news that just broke made Thomp, who was ready to leave, stop in his tracks. Along with Vice Principal Joey, they hastened to Sea Springs. Springs had already refreshed the school forum's homepage.

But to their shock, the homepage of the school forum had undergone a total transformation! All posts were entirely wiped out, leaving behind only one-one post or more precisely, one announcement, which stood out in glaring red!

'If they do not want face, then throw it away, Why not!' was the title of this post. Even though everyone was locked out, they could still access the forum normally. When the post was opened, both Thomp and Vice Principal Joey turned pale. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"You've refused your face, then why not throw it away? How could such a beast, such a disgrace serve as the department head of F University?! Alright, you deleted my posts and blocked my account. I dare you to do it now! I'll strip him of his fig leaf today, exposing your ugly face to everyone in the country! Students of F University, keep your eyes wide open, watch closely! Unveiling in ten minutes!"

Currently, the school forum is in very high demand. Because of the widespread among the students, at least 80% of the students are focusing on the school forum, even including some off-campus students. When their accounts were suddenly locked out, they could still access the forum perfectly.

After the emergence of this post, all students visiting the school forum, after reading the announcement, were nearly trembling with excitement. They felt a wave of goosebumps all over them. The situation was out of control! This was every student's initial reaction after seeing the announcement! They didn't expect Literati Saucy Poet to be a hacker! It wasn't long since the administrators of the school forum began blocking accounts. However, the other party had already knocked down the entire server of the school forum!

Then everyone's face was filled with excitement and passion.. Holy cow! This was nothing short of fantastic! They did not expect they would witness a hacker's infiltration at such close quarters! As for Thomp, they have been pissed with him for a long time now!

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 43 - 43: Still a bit troublesome?

Chapter 43: Chapter 43: Still a bit troublesome?

Translator: 549690339

Although they can't participate in the discussions and can only observe what's happening on the forum, people are eagerly discussing. Many students who knew about Robert Thomp's situation seemed truly excited.

"Robert Thomp's finished! I refuse to believe he can keep his position after this scandal!"

"I wonder if our director Thomp will be able to sit comfortably in his position after this. Damn, I should call my sister," went the conversations in various places on F University's territory. Most students merely circulated these comments, unsupported by evidence. However, the person who just hacked F University's forum had concrete proof!

"Quick! Shut down the forum!" Robert also saw the announcement on the forum and was truly panicking now. If earlier only a few knew about the scandal because the administrators acted swiftly, and the forum was not frequented by many, not many had seen the video.

But now, the school's forum was no longer in their control; the hacker had taken over the entire forum, expelling all the admins. Even the skilled members of the computer interest group, some of whom had already secured jobs with IT companies, couldn't reclaim control over the computer server.

As for Robert Thomp himself; forget it. He may have theoretical knowledge, but his practical operation level was probably inferior to an average student's.

"Director Thomp, the forum server is not in the school, but hosted under the Immortal Science Company." A student by his side quickly mentioned with a bitter smile.

"Then call the Immortal Science Company. Say that our school forum server has been invaded and ask them to shut it down," Robert quickly replied.

Vice Principal Joey, who was standing nearby watching the panicked Robert, finally spoke, "I will make the call. After all, this incident has major implications for F University's reputation."

The Immortal Science and Technology Limited Company might not be well-known in Celeston City or even the entire country, with many not even heard of its name. However, this company was by no means small and indeed quite famous along the southern coast.

In this circle, it was a very well-known server provider nationwide. In essence, they provided server leasing to other companies. As nearly all big or small companies have their website, most are not, however, capable of affording their own server. 90% of company servers are leased.

The F University's forum and server operation were no exceptions, even though F University had its supercomputer. Such supercomputers were assigned to specific research groups for certain projects and considered cooperative properties rather than solely F University's assets, therefore, they couldn't use these resources.

The maintenance of these servers would require a large staff, so it was easier to rent a server directly. However, advantages come with renting a server, such as not having to worry about any server-related issues, since the Immortal Science Company had personnel handling server maintenance. But it also had a drawback, just as now, the server problem couldn't be addressed directly. They could only contact the people in the Immortal Science Company.

Fortunately, Vice Principal Joey's phone call worked swiftly, and the hardware and software engineers of Immortal Science Company knew about the incident promptly and started processing. Although the students of F University failed to gain back the control of the server, the situation was different for the security personnel of the Immortal Science Company. The server company's security personnel were definitely not students.

As a company that provides servers to hundreds of companies, including several large companies with assets worth tens of billions, all the security

Upon receiving the call from F University, these personnel immediately got into action. But restarting the server wasn't as easy as it sounds! The server room of the Immortal Science Company occupied at least seven to eight floors, the electric fee generated by the large cooling equipment alone amounted to millions annually.

One school forum certainly could not take up such a substantial server. Restarting the company-standard server arrays could affect several other companies' servers. It was a common occurrence. Many server arrays house two companies' official websites to offer access to the public and make maximum reasonable use of resources.

The security personnel hence first tried to regain their server. However, they soon were shocked. They knew their servers and, although the security measures were decent, they were not world-top. Yet these security personnel, who themselves are server security staff, had back doors on the servers. A lot of the back doors were to act from the hardware, but now they were all completely deficient! Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

How is that possible?! The eyes of the security personnel widened in shock. Their protections were all disabled. They thought, is there some elite security personnel from the web surveillance department, famous domestic, and international hackers with such horrifying skills?

What the hell! Thousands of thoughts crossed the security personnel's minds. Who the hell did F University offend?! But while some were responsible for getting back the servers, some were checking the forum conditions. Ten minutes passed quickly.

When Zero, following Finn Lewis's request, posted the threads according to the previous titles with added 1, 2, 3 in order, everyone was taken aback! The evidence was not just one video!

After Finn Lewis posted over a hundred videos, not only were the students shocked, but so were the security staff. However, once their surprise subsided, these staff did not care who Robert Thomp was and started cursing in their working studio.

Most security personnel doing these jobs were otakus, and this crowd generally tended to get emotional and somewhat indignant.

"Manager, should we bother about such rubbish?!" a youth in his twenties couldn't help but push up the glasses on his nose and lashed out. The reason for this youth's anger was because he was a graduate of F University!

"Shut down the servers in this group for now. I don't want to deal with such rubbish either. But we are just server providers. We do not handle affairs like these, and given how much fuss it has caused, the police aren't blind. However, we should protect our customers." The manager waved his hand and said. Even though some felt angry, someone still turned off that group of servers.

F University's forum consequently became inaccessible..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 44 - 44: Shut Down the Server?

Chapter 44: Chapter 44: Shut Down the Server?

Translator: 549690339

Finn Lewis did not throw all of the evidence onto the forum, he kept some, which were, of course, heavyweight pieces. Among the over one hundred videos, he later found not only ones of female students, but also a surprising number of female teachers! Especially female PhDs who were about to stay at the school and even some other teachers...! search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

These materials were all arranged by Zero, and Finn initially didn't look too closely. There was too much information, too much for him to go through. Who would have thought that Robert Thomp would be so brazen. Finn could well imagine that if this information were all made public, Robert Thomp would not only be utterly disgraced, but he'd probably face decades in prison.

However, currently, Robert Thomp is still safe for the time being. In fact, even if he is safe, Robert Thomp is already in a panic. From the moment the hacker began posting the first video on the forum to the end of the 103rd video, it took approximately half an hour, and Robert Thomp's face had gone through several shades.

At the end, he was nearly ashen-faced till the Immortal Science Company's security personnel couldn't reclaim the server's ultimate right. They had no choice but to shut down the server. If the server wasn't shut down, the reputation of Immortal Science Company would also be damaged. At this point, it is still salvageable.

After all, like them, a server provider is not a professional in network security. It's normal that they couldn't withstand some hackers; the other customers would understand.

Vice Principal Joey saw the forum of F University cannot be accessed, and seemed to find a glimmer of hope. He disregarded his appearance, rolled out of the room and started making phone calls while running. Meanwhile, Vice Principal Joey started reporting the event to the principal with a headache.

This is not a trivial matter any longer, the school must address it as soon as possible. Those videos hung on the forum for at least half an hour. Vice Principal Joey does not know if ordinary visitors could download them, but whether they could download or not, at least a third of the students at F University had seen these videos.

Even if they couldn't download, these videos would find a way to be disseminated.

F University's forum server and the school's official website were shut down, and Finn touched his chin, thinking it should be enough. If such a big commotion does not attract the attention of the relevant authorities, he figured those network media should bash their heads in.

Once the online media gets involved, this would be a storm. However, Finn clearly underestimated some people's capacity. In the beginning, Finn did not plan to proceed, but he has been following these events, constantly refreshing the webpages of major portals, wanting to see when the news would break.

What Finn did not expect was that the development of things did not go according to his plan. About an hour later, F University was the first to publish an announcement. The official website of F University could be accessed again, and an announcement was issued to the outside, informing that the school's official website had been invaded.

Next, a company named Immortal Science and Technology also issued an announcement, stating that the company's server had been hacked and some viruses had been spread. Then, some of the original websites that had reported this incident also updated another headline news.

They said that a new virus is spreading. The virus contained some pornographic films from Belmare Country. The faces of some of the lead characters in the films were crudely altered, then used to smear some decent and respectable educators at the school!

And like news, it was reproduced by several major portals. Although many students at F University knew the situation, they had no evidence, and more importantly, none of the female protagonists in the video jumped out to admit it. On the contrary, in the 103 videos released by Finn, the only one mentioned by name was a young female teacher at F University. This teacher flatly denied such things.

And because Finn pixelated the face of the female protagonist in the video, there was no way to verify the truth. The storm of this matter seemed to gradually fade, and Robert Thomp breathed a sigh of relief. Even though the school leaders and the people behind him severely reprimanded him and he might even have to leave his current post, he figured it's a good thing as long as he doesn't have to go to jail.

After letting out a sigh of relief, Robert Thomp began to ponder who had instigated this. The first people Robert Thomp thought of were the female students he had forced to sleep with him. However, Robert Thomp quickly ruled this out. Since these people did not plan to appeal at the time, and after such a long time, it's even less likely that they would appeal or create such a situation.

Then it might only be other enemies, but Robert Thomp couldn't think of any, even after pondering for a long time. However, when a name suddenly appeared in his mind, Robert Thomp was abruptly awakened.

Finn Lewis? Robert Thomp suddenly remembered that he had just got hold of a discipline notice for Finn that very morning, and then this thing happened! How could it be such a coincidence! And besides, didn't Finn come upon a sum of money? Once Robert Green proved the correct source of the money, it meant that the money definitely came from selling some technology.

Finn majors in computer science, so it must be some software. A good piece of software can sell for hundreds of thousands to even millions of dollars without exaggeration. If his computer skills are that good, it's entirely possible for him to hack into the school forum! Thinking of this, Robert Thomp's expression took on a menacing look! Damn it, once the matter is over and even if he is not in this position, he will get back at him!

What Robert Thomp did not expect was that he was very angry, but Finn was even more upset! Finn was almost furious! Although Finn didn't know how things turned out this way, it was obvious that the forces behind Robert Thomp were at work. After flipping through Zero's information again, after seeing that Robert Thomp had a good relationship with a big figure in the city, and it seemed there should be a huge amount of money exchanged between the two. Furthermore, this person behind him had a huge network of relationships. Finn then roughly understood what was going on.

But Finn didn't care, he figured: "Okay, you guys are powerful and really want to cover up this scandal, right? Well, let's see if your power is greater or my power is greater!"

"Zero, I ask you, if I use your access once, what is the scope? How should I understand that?" Finn quickly asked.

"The utilization of my access has a degree limit. It's impossible to use my full power, of course, I will inform you when you have reached your level of use." Zero replied very succinctly.

"Okay, so you're saying I haven't used up this right yet, right?" Finn asked very directly.

Search the * website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 45 - 45: The Godly Hacker, Overwhelming

Chapter 45: Chapter 45: The Godly Hacker, Overwhelming

Translator: 549690339

Finn Lewis initially thought that, if his power ran out, he would just borrow points from ZERO. But now, his power hadn't run out yet. Great!

You guys are helping covering up, huh? Let's just see how you do it! Seeing that the forum and official website of the university had returned to normal, Finn Lewis gave orders without hesitation, after all, he's not afraid of the turmoil now.

In fact, even though it had been a couple of hours since the incident, and clearly, some force was behind Robert Thomp, most of the students were still browsing the forum. The registration channel of the forum had not been opened yet, but the functions of browsing posts and replying were already available.

Even though countless students were cursing on the forum, this didn't affect the overall situation. The university and Immortal Science Company were relieved, seeing no problems in the short term. Especially Immortal Science, which had called over all its security personnel who not only closely monitored all the company's firewalls, they were also keeping an eye on the university forum.

However, just as the supervisor of Immortal Science Company relieved, one of the security staff blurted out, "Damn it!"

"What happened?"

"I got kicked out again!" With this security staff's words, all of the security personnel quickly found out that they had been kicked out from the server, as were administrators and regular students from the university.

"Damn it! How is that possible?" The security staff of Immortal Science Company were nearly bugging their eyes out. They had been monitoring the company's firewall but now... everybody was looking at each other before turning their eyes back to their computer screens. There seemed to be nothing wrong with the firewall!

How did the other side get in? They all found it unbelievable! However, what happened next was even more unbelievable!

"Damn! Have a look at the university forum!" Following the shout from a security staff, everybody quickly brought up the university forum. It was back to how it had been before, with an announcement posted at the top.

"Hah, that's quite some fig leaf, covering so many people. Is this a Belmare Country porn film? Are you insulting the porn films from Belmare? Why did you find such a sleazy and fat actor? Also, when have Belmare porn films ever been in Flame Nation dialects? Alright, whatever you say. And that female teacher, you're not the actress, right? Okay, I'll just put this video up without any mosaic!"

"Also, you, the websites and servers that helped cover this up. Is this a virus? A virus my ass! Don't you, the security staff, know the difference between a virus and a hacking attack? If you don't, let me teach you! Bro, this is not a virus, it's a hacker attack!"

Following the announcement, the hundred plus videos that had just popped up were visible, and the number had actually increased with twenty more new ones. Moreover, some bank account transaction records and secret recordings were also updated.

Not to mention how shocking these evidences were, the announcement itself made everyone burst into laughter. It wasn't that these companies didn't know what a virus or hacking was, they were simply trying to distract the public's attention.

The ordinary students were shocked by the newly released material, especially the teacher who denied she was the one in the video. With the original video posted without mosaic, one could clearly see the faces. If you weren't familiar with the people maybe you wouldn't recognize them, but those who were familiar would surely know, right? The most tragic part was, the female teacher was already married.

However, the people in Immortal Science Company didn't have time to think about all this, as all of them had been kicked out and couldn't access the firewall page.

"Direct... Director! Our... all of our host servers have been hijacked! All of the company's webpages have reprinted that announcement from the university forum, along with the videos and related links." A security staff stuttered.

With successive reports from staff, the head of security at Immortal Science almost dropped his jaw. This was impossible! Although all the servers were hosted on the same platform, they were actually divided, and there were safety measures between them.

And now, all of them had been hacked into so quickly?

But soon, he didn't have time to be shocked, as the clever security staff quickly opened some news websites that had helped Robert Thomp clear up the situation, which were also hacked! That includes several major domestic portal sites, all of which were completely infiltrated! At this point, the security director was not just shocked, he was covered in cold sweat! What kind of person was behind this! This was a completely unorthodox move.

And this power was too terrifying, wasn't it? Like those famous portal websites which were on their own servers and not hosted by other companies. Those companies were powerful and certainly no weaker than them, but what was the elapsed time?

It must have been less than half an hour since those websites published the clarification notice and then got taken down. That person took down those websites all by himself. This power... Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

However, these portal websites were quick to react, instantly rebooting all the servers. Similarly, Immortal Science also had to reboot all their servers, as all the companies they hosted had called them up! And the boss of Immortal Science yelled at him for a full three minutes on the phone!

The phrase "the fig leaf is a little big, covering so many people at once," quickly went viral online. No surprise, considering how significant this event was! If the university forum only targeted the students of the university, the traffic on those portal websites came from netizens all across the country!

This matter quickly became well-known across the country, with other websites that didn't catch the first wave promptly reprinting this second wave of the event. The news spread like wildfire across the country. The subsequent events that worried various website operators didn't happen, because ZERO informed Finn Lewis that his usage permission was over for now.

But they did not dare to speak for the protagonist in the video anymore. To these Internet companies, it was better to offend government officials than a top hacker. And judging by the ability shown, the guy could easily make mincemeat out of a website like theirs!

For example, for websites like NetEase, a website was not their main business, but gaming was. Pissing off a professional of this caliber and having them target your gaming servers – can you imagine the losses for a single day? Continuous attacks for a month and they would be either completely crippled or severely compromised.

Robert Thomp had already completely collapsed. Given the magnitude of the situation, which had set the entire city abuzz, Robert Green had already ordered Robert Thomp to be under house arrest..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 46 - 46: Is it you?

Chapter 46: Chapter 46: Is it you?

Translator: 549690339

Chapter Forty-Six: Is It You?

Although Finn Lewis felt a bit regretful, he had initially planned to stir up even more trouble, however, he had already exhausted all his system privileges and could do no more. Despite studying computer software engineering, he was still far from mastering the hacker activities, and he couldn't even call himself an outstanding programmer yet.

Even though he couldn't do anything more, Robert Thomp couldn't escape what was going to happen. If Thomp could still brush this off, Finn would have to admit he was impressive.

Before Finn could finish his considerations, his phone rang. He picked it up to find several missed calls. He was so engrossed in his game that he didn't notice them. It was a call from Chubby Callum. Finn quickly answered. From the other side of the line Callum's distinct laughter sounded, "Hahaha! Mr. Finn, where are you? Do you know?"

"Really?" Finn immediately asked, thrilled by the exciting news.

“Of course, it’s true. Mr. Finn, quickly come over here and join the commotion, the school’s atmosphere is festive.” Callum’s voice was filled with more laughter over the distant noise.

“I’m on my way.” Finn readily hopped out of bed, hung up the phone, rushed into the dressing room to put on a casual outfit and grabbed his G65 car key before heading downstairs. Finn had longed to show off his marvelous car in front of his classmates. Now that he got the chance, he wouldn’t let it slip through his fingers. Search* The website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

He liked the G65 more than the Ice Horse. He went downstairs and headed straight to F University. Students driving to school weren’t a rare sight, so Finn easily drove into the campus. He didn’t stop and drove straight towards the teaching building.

Callum had already told him where Thomp was held. Apparently, he was held in the computer club. Finn hadn’t expected a large crowd of students would be observing there when he drove up. The incidence was bigger than he thought.

Finn had watermarked cars that appeared to belong to inspection authorities. He didn’t find Callum in there, so he called him, “Hey Callum, where are you guys?”

“We are right at the entrance of the teaching building. Mr. Finn, have you arrived? Where are you? We can’t see you.” Callum replied.

“I drove over. Did you see it? The black Flying Horse.” Finn responded.

“Dude, Mr. Finn you’ve bought a car? Cool! It’s a Flying Horse! I see it, holy smoke, it’s a G65! It’s unreal, you’ve fulfilled your long-standing desire!” Chubby Callum was full of excitement, and in no time, the guys from the dormitory arrived including the three grassy buddies, the fat Daniel Pan, and the unusual David Hale.

Daniel Pan elbowed himself into the co-driver’s seat, while the remaining three guys squeezed into the back seat. Callum was left with his mouth hanging open, stuck on the ground. Although the G65 had a large seating capacity, Callum’s massiveness filled it. The three guys in the back were thin, but it was clear they wouldn’t let Callum in.

“Stop arguing, you will get a chance to sit here later.” Finn shook his head in amusement while speaking to Callum.

“Hehe, sure.” Callum giggled twice and stopped quarrelling. The car door wasn’t closed and the five guys continued their chortles.

“Wow, Mr. Finn. This transformation is unbelievable. You used to work part-time every day, but now you’re driving a luxurious G65? It’s out of control.” Daniel Pan touched the real leather seat he was seated on and spoke with a face full of admiration.

“Of course, once our money’s used up, we earn more. What do you think? The car’s cool, isn’t it?” Finn proudly replied.

“Show a lower profile, man.” Prince stated while tapping the backrest of the front seat.

“I don’t need to pursue a low profile. If I had money, I would drive my car to the School of Foreign Studies every day and see who dares to look down upon me. But Mr. Finn, could I borrow your car for a few days?” Chubby Callum growled angrily. There had been a girl in the School of Foreign Studies who left him for a rich senior student, so he was holding a grudge against the university.

“Sure, you can take it if you want to.” Finn happily agreed.

“Oh my God, here they come!” Daniel Pan on the side suddenly hollered excitedly. Finn and the others immediately looked outside. Indeed, Thomp was being escorted out of the teaching building by two middle-aged men, while another man was having a conversation with Robert Green.

“Move aside everyone, move aside.” The school’s security guards were called. The place was attracting a lot of students, and it was uncertain what might happen.

Many students stepped back, revealing Finn’s domineering car. Seeing Thomp being escorted inbetween the two disciplinary officers, Finn laughed and opened the driver’s door and stepped out of the car.

Finn’s voice drew everyone’s attention, and some students recognized him. Seeing Finn, Thomp’s eyes immediately reddened. He wanted to lunge at Finn, but the two men grabbed his arms and pulled him back.

“Stop it! Behave!” One of the officers shouted at Thomp.

“I accuse! It must be him! It must be him who hacked into the school server and affected so many websites!” Thomp had teary red eyes. He knew he was in trouble, but he wouldn’t let Finn walk out scot-free. He aimed to bite him back at least once. He knew that the consequences of hacking into various websites were very severe! If he could make Finn go to prison, his own imprisonment would be worth it.

Hearing Thomp’s accusation, the two officers turned to look at Finn. Finn instantly stepped back, displaying a fearful expression and said, “Oh dear, Director Thomp, don’t scare me. I am naive and ignorant, you need to have evidence to accuse me of hacking. If you accuse me without proof, I’ll sue you for defamation. And why would you think that I, like you, record my deeds? It must be said that your recording device is fucking small! Have you had surgery?”

While speaking, Finn continued to gaze in astonishment at Thomp’s lower area, making a clucking sound full of regret..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 47 - 47: Unfortunately, You 're Not the Impressive One

Chapter 47: Chapter 47: Unfortunately, You 're Not the Impressive One

Translator: 549690339

Chapter 47: Pity, You're Not The Tough One

“Student, is it true what he said? Did you break into the school’s computer room?” The middle-aged man turned directly to Finn Lewis. Finn glanced at him, wondering whether he was being foolish or if he thought Finn was. Even if it were true, was he really going to admit it?

“Sir, let’s be clear. If you make baseless accusations, I can sue you for defamation! When something like this happens, there’s only one explanation culprits should have no place to hide.” Finn replied defiantly.

“It was him! It must have been him! He’s just retaliating. I gave him a school discipline warning this morning, and then all this happened. How could it be so just coincidental?!” Robert Thomp was disregarding everything now, with so many pieces of evidence, he couldn’t escape anyway.

“Oh, you know, if I hadn’t got into this mess today, I would have loved to dig up some evidence against you. But someone beat me to it. A school discipline warning you say? You doled that out yourself, didn’t you? Did the school discipline me? Do you think you’re so tough that you can run things single-handedly at this school? Unfortunately, the real tough guy is not you! You’re just like a homeless dog now, tsk tsk.” Finn said with a smirk.

Thomp’s face turned beet red, Finn wondered if his blood vessels would burst. Seeing him about to say something, Finn waved him off, pointing at the surrounding students and yelled, “Do you fucking see this? Do you know why so many students are gathering here? Do you think they’re here to defend you? Let me tell you, they’re all here to celebrate! To celebrate the fact that you, you son of a bitch, are finally getting what you deserve!”

Finn spoke out loud enough for everyone around him to hear. Feeling unsatisfied, he jumped onto the hood of his car and shouted, “Fellows, tell me, are we here to see this bastard get taken down today or not!” By the end, he was almost screaming.

‘Yes!’

“Well said! We support you. We’ve been sick of this old bastard for a while

“Well put! I regret not putting a bag over his head when he was heading back home at night!”

Choruses of approval echoed around them, followed by loud cheering. Finn bowed to the crowd. The middle-aged man couldn’t help but smile; he, of course, knew Thomp was crooked, but he had no idea Finn could be so outspoken, especially given the youthful energy of the students around. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

“Young man, come down quickly. This is just an investigation, nothing’s settled yet! When it is possible to spare someone’s feelings, then those feelings should be spared,” the middle-aged man responded helplessly.

“Sir, sparing people is not said for someone like him! I won’t let him go. I’m going to tell everyone here. I believe some might know the victims personally, so I’ll just say it! Whoever can contact the victim, willing to testify in court, proving that Robert Thomp harassed her, I’ll personally pay out 20,000 Flame Nation coins as compensation for the victim! No limit! Everyone look, Headmaster Green is here, and I’ll donate 20 million Flame Nation coins to the school as a starting fund! If that’s not enough, I’ll top it up! If anyone can provide direct evidence, I’ll personally give an extra 50,000 as a reward!”

Finn shouted at all the students around him. Robert Green and others were initially preparing to talk Finn down when they heard his earlier words, but before they could reach him, they were shocked by what they just heard.

“You!” The middle-aged man below was also dumbfounded. He never expected Finn to take such steps. This had nothing to do with him, yet he was giving away 20 million! This wasn’t two hundred, or twenty thousand, this was twenty million! How many people even make this much money in their whole lives, and here he was just throwing it out there!

“Look, man, we won’t take your money. Rest assured, as long as there’s evidence, we’ll definitely hand it over to the police! But for the victim compensation, we should thank you on behalf of the victims!” Another strong voice echoed from the crowd, sounding like a northerner.

“Haha, that’s straightforward! But, I’m a victim too, oddly enough, given a punishment. But, I’ve decided to pay, after all, there’s a saying – I’m rich and I can be willful!” Finn laughed heartily.

Inside the car, Finn’s roommates were astonished, almost dropping their jaws. “Holy shit, is this the same Finn who could barely let out a fart in a day? This is some gap, isn’t it?” Daniel Pan stuttered.

“I mean, bro, no words, Finn is just... Awesome!”

Finn had already jumped down from the hood of the car amidst the applause.

Seeing Headmaster Green up close, Finn walked over and said, “Headmaster Green, could you please give me the school’s account? I’ll transfer 20 million there in a bit.”

“This...” Headmaster Green couldn’t help but smile bitterly. A 20 million donation, to be honest, the school had never received such a large amount from a single person. The question was, wasn’t this putting the school on a hot plate? There was such a big problem in the school and it was the students who were paying for it?

Problem was, if he didn’t accept it, his reputation would probably be ruined. “Alright, I’ll have my secretary tell you the school’s account in a while. Also, students, please disperse. This serious incident occurred, and as the headmaster, I bear inescapable responsibility. I don’t have as much money as Finn, but if the related departments confirm that these incidents are true, I will personally donate 200,000 as compensation to the affected students. The amount might not be much, but it’s a token of my apology.”

Green’s words were sincere and heartfelt. Finn rolled his eyes at him, man, politicians sure know how to gain favor. The momentum Finn had gathered was half snatched away by Green’s words. But Headmaster Green was a decent man, so Finn didn’t take it to heart.

Two middle-aged men flanked a faint Thomp, due to anger, and started walking towards their car. Finally, the leading middle-aged man walked up to Finn with a peculiar look on his face and said, “Young man, you’ve got some spirit. But even if you’ve got money, you can’t be so prodigal. Do more useful things for society.”

Unable to hold back, Finn burst out laughing. “Uncle, we’re still young, if we don’t go crazy now, when would we? Besides, this money I’m offering is compensation for the victims, that counts as doing something useful for society, right? As for being prodigal or not, I earned this money myself, I’m happy to spend it.”

The middle-aged man choked on his words, not saying anything further, waving his hand and walking away..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 48 - 48: The Restart Task with Upgraded Difficulty

Chapter 48: Chapter 48: The Restart Task with Upgraded Difficulty

Translator: 549690339

Chapter Forty-Eight: The Elevated Difficulty of the Restart Task

In the crowd, Cora Franklin, looking at Finn Lewis on top his car, regretted so much that her intestines were almost green. How could this have happened?! Why did this happen?! She was dumbfounded. How did a dirt poor guy suddenly become rich? And not just rich, but the kind of rich where you can throw away tens of millions without batting an eye?

If she had chosen not to leave him before, even if she broke up with him half a month later than she did, wouldn't she be able to buy whatever she wants now? The car Finn Lewis was driving, Cora knew about it because Finn had told her it was his dream car, almost four million bucks!

Back then, Cora had only laughed at Finn's daydream. But now, that car was under Finn's feet! Judging by his carefree look, it was obvious he didn't consider the car as anything special!

But it's too late for regrets now! And it's not only that she didn't benefit from anything, she got so tired of Yuri Lucas that he started annoying her. Clearly, her reputation at the university is ruined; who would dare to approach her now?

Cora regretted so much it hurt. Watching Finn standing there, Cora was secretly determined – no matter what the cost, she would step on him once again and make him kneel before her feet!

Of course, Finn didn't notice the resentful stare from the crowd. Even if he had noticed, Finn couldn't care less. The Finn Lewis of now was completely beyond Cora Franklin.

Taking pleasure in Robert Thomp's misfortune, Finn was delighted. After feeling happy, he went out with several of his roommates for some fun, although he didn't participate in the late-night activities. Finn paid the money, but he didn't attend. It wasn't that he didn't want to participate, but, he was currently experiencing a tragic sex-drive lockdown phase. There was no point in participating.

Returning to his room, before Finn could ask Zero for anything, Zero's voice automatically came out: "You have a compulsory task that you must accept."

"How can a task be compulsory?!" Finn was shocked. Wasn't it previously stated that the tasks are optional? How come there is a compulsory task now?

"The tasks you have previously accepted but failed to complete will turn into compulsory tasks the second time." Zero's reply, as always, was coldly blunt.

Damn it! Finn suddenly remembered his first failed task, the one that had a deep impact on him. His sex drive was locked because of that fucking task.

The problem is, that task was a bit sick in the head. Even if Finn accepts it, he might not be able to complete it.

“What would happen if I refuse to accept the task?” Finn tentatively asked. “The punishment for the initial task failure becomes permanent.”

“Damn, I’ll take it.” Without hesitation, Finn declared his decision. Wouldn’t a permanent punishment mean he’d never have a hard-on for the rest of his life?

Looking at this compulsory task, Finn felt a chill down his spine, damn the punishment for failure is doubled?!

“What does this 2-star difficulty mean?” Finn was too busy to consider the punishment for failure, he was definitely accepting it nonetheless. If he doesn’t accept, the cost Finn would have to bear would be unbearable. It’d be better to let him die.

“All tasks generated for the first time have a default difficulty of one star. If you fail the first time and restart it, the difficulty increases by double to two stars. The same goes for every increase in difficulty: every additional star doubles the difficulty.”

“Understood. What does this ‘monthly spending limit increased by 2 million’ mean?” Finn was extremely curious about this. This is a new development.

“You can think of it as pocket money I’ll give to you every month.” Zero rarely let out an icy joke.

The pocket money... Finn immediately warmed up, even though he had been spending a lot of money before, but those were only allowable during tasking periods. Finn’s usual spending was his own money, like the 20 million he donated today was his own money, leaving him with only 40 million now.

“So, you mean this money is for me to use freely, right?” Finn understood the meaning immediately.

“Yes!” Zero’s confirming answer made Finn’s heart incredibly warm. If it’s 2 million every month now, wouldn’t the figure grow to 20 million a month or even 200 million a month in the future after completing more tasks? Thinking about having 2 billion in pocket money every month, Finn felt his heart jumping with excitement!

Right now, Finn suddenly found Zero adorable again. Looking at the task displayed on the phone, Finn immediately started pondering, he must complete this task! This is related to his future fiscal prospects! Initially, Finn thought that after becoming a billionaire, there was no more way to make money, until he could exchange advanced technologies from Zero.

Strictly speaking, this task is not that difficult, even though it has now been upgraded from hiring one to five assistants, with the additional requirement of physical appearances, Finn knew how strict Zero was on beauty ratings. To Finn, a girl who scored more than seventy points was a beauty.

And now, the requirement was 85 points! The good thing was, the timeframe was more inclusive than last time, overall, Finn was still confident in completing this task.

After going through the task requirements, Finn immediately turned on his computer, and started searching the entire city for large-scale job fairs.

Firstly, the previous job market was an absolute no-go, how could one possibly find high-quality beauties there! Should he want to find high-quality beauties, he must go to places where high-quality beauties gather. After a search, there seemed to be no large-scale job fair in Celeston lately, this was eliminated.

The second choice was universities. Finn firstly targeted film schools, where beauties were commonly found. Unfortunately, most of the top 10 film schools in the country are in the capital. In Celeston, there's only Celeston Drama College. And Finn didn't have time to fly to the capital.

Unfortunately, Finn searched and found no job fair happening in this college. Plus, the students here most likely aspired to join the entertainment industry. If Finn held a recruitment event, he could only do so alone. There was a risk that he might be beaten up by the people there. He'd have to at least disguise it as a job fair.

With this in mind, Finn loosened his restrictions and started searching which universities in Celeston held job fairs. In college, he should be able to find a few beauties, right? Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

But before searching, Finn prayed in his heart, hoping it wouldn't be a technical college holding a job fair..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 49 - 49

Chapter 49: Chapter 49

Translator: 549690339

Chapter Forty-Nine

This period is the most frequent for recruitment fairs at major colleges and universities – after all, within a month, a fresh batch of students will be graduating.

So, Finn Lewis quickly found his target. Tomorrow, Shining Pearl University is hosting a recruitment fair at its largest facility, Bright Stadium. While it's not exactly a film or teacher-training university, which fit Finn's expectations, it still ranks within the top ten universities of the Flame Nation, just falling two places behind his own university, F University.

Although Shining Pearl University is technically classified as a science and technology university, it has basically developed into a comprehensive university. And in such a university, there should be quite a few beauties amongst its various faculties. Although there are other film and teacher-training colleges holding recruitment drives, those schools are smaller, even technical ones, with far fewer students than Shining Pearl University.

More importantly, based on his previous mission, Finn feels that with the capriciousness of the system, this recruitment for a full-time female assistant might have various underlying performance metrics. If such metrics do exist, the better results would likely be given to applicants with higher education and prettier faces.

And there's no shortage of students at Shining Pearl University; they should be able to find some pretty girls. After getting his target, Finn started making plans – primarily, he knew his last-minute recruitment plan was a complete failure. There were hardly any pretty girls who showed up, and Finn had to make sure he was better prepared for tomorrow's visit to Shining Pearl University.

First off, he had to go by car, and he decided to take the Ice Horse. He would also get the other guys from his dorm to drive his other cars over. By the way, he had to dress up a bit for tomorrow. Of course, suitable recruitment paraphernalia was also going to be needed.

Only after visualizing his plan for tomorrow did Finn lie down on his bed and set his alarm for six in the morning. He then called his dorm mates and notifying them one by one to come over and help him tomorrow morning, and only afterward did he fall asleep.

The next morning, Finn woke up early, taking his time to choose a low-key but luxurious outfit from his dressing room. After dressing up, he took a look in the mirror and complimented himself, "Looking good!" He then took all the car keys and went downstairs.

The three dorm mates who could drive soon arrived: Chubby Callum, Daniel Pan, and Prince.

"I say, Mr. Finn, why did you call us over this early? Did you buy a house here?" Chubby Callum and the others arrived shortly after getting off their floors.

"Yes, I bought a house here. Come over when you have time. Besides, you have to help me out. This is related to an important aspect of my life. Please help out, bros." Finn saluted the three of them and said with a big smile.

"Alright, no problem, just tell us, what is it?" The three of them glanced at each other and asked.

"Help me drive these cars to Shining Pearl University." Finn directly threw the car keys in his hand.

"Damn! An Ice Horse!" Prince, who received the keys from Finn, couldn't contain his excitement and shouted out loud. The remaining keys in the hands of Chubby Callum and Daniel Pan belonged to the white G65 and Lanquema R8 respectively.

"Holy cram Mr. Finn. you bought three cars? Are you planning on showing off and soaring high with us today?" Chubby Callum couldn't help but shout.

"Brothers, today's matter seriously concerns my lifelong happiness! You mustn't neglect it. Once everything's over today, you can ask me any favor." Finn said quickly. If this fails, the day when his junior junior is unbanned might be indefinitely postponed. The thought of that filled Finn with dread.

The three looked at each other, and though they didn't understand why Finn was so solemn, they promised to help him out without any hesitation. Finn immediately opened all four of his garage doors.

Upon seeing the cars, Chubby Callum gave Finn a strange look, "Damn, Mr. Finn, you are a real-bloody-millionaire! No, Deity Tycoon suits you even better!"

"Damn, too extravagant. I can't resist, I'm in." Daniel Pan exclaimed and rushed towards his Lanquema R8. Chubby Callum and Prince also darted towards their allocated vehicles.

"Hey, wait a minute. Just park the cars next to the entrance of Shining Pearl University Stadium. Got it?" Finn shouted out loud. "I'm going to pick up some stuff. I'll be right back."

"Understood, don't worry, Mr. Finn, I'm going first!" Daniel was the most anxious. Despite looking chubby, his driving skills were genuinely outstanding.

He was the first to start the car, and amidst the roaring engine, he zoomed off. Chubby Callum and Prince followed closely behind.

Only then did Finn get into his G65, close the garage door, and follow them out. Once all the cars were out and the garage door was closed, Finn quickly drove off. He was familiar with the nearby businesses and quickly found an interior design shop. He designed a large billboard listing his recruitment needs before he popped off the back seats of his G65 and loaded the foam board billboard into the boot.

By the time Finn got to Shining Pearl University, he noticed that there were already quite a few people at the stadium. His three mates seemed to have parked the cars fancifully, not because the cars were extraordinary, but because the parking spots were simply too unusual.

“Hey, hey, hey, are these cars all yours?” As soon as they parked their cars as Finn instructed and went off to pick up items, a few students from the Shining Pearl University student council, responsible for maintaining order, saw Finn parking his car in the same spot and walked over to question him.

“Yes!” Finn replied, getting out of the car.

“Damn! You can’t park here. Go park somewhere else! Can’t you see that a job fair is being prepared inside? You’re parking right at the entrance. What are you trying to do? If your car gets scratched amidst such a crowd, who’s going to be held responsible?” The student council member began complaining.

“So, what if I take responsibility? If I’m not afraid, what are you afraid of? Plus, I’m here to recruit.” Finn retorted.

“Recruit?” The student obviously didn’t expect this response but quickly continued, “The job fair is inside. If you want to recruit, do it inside the tent.

What are you doing out here?”

“Uh, I am recruiting some staff for my own company, and it hasn’t even started yet. They won’t let me in.” Finn was well-prepared for this question.

“That doesn’t matter. You can’t park here; quickly move your cars.” The student came up, insisting.

“Mr. Finn, we’re here, we’re here.” At this time, the voices of Chubby Callum and friends came. The three of them walked over carrying two tables and a chair.

Finn ignored the student and went over to help his dorm mates set up the tables and chairs in line with his car. Then he said, “Thanks, guys. As soon as today’s affairs are over, just let me know your needs! I’m in no position to decline.”

“Enough, heh heh, but you should tell us what you’re trying to do.” search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Finn scratched his nose. He had planned to dismiss this trio of mates. But if the truth came out and he ended up losing face, that’d be unfortunate. Finn was doing it for the mission, but who knows what these guys would think..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 50 - 50: Recruitment Begins!

Chapter 50: Chapter 50: Recruitment Begins!

Translator: 549690339

Chapter 50 Recruitment Begins!

Finn Lewis glanced at the time. 8:00, the job fair was about to start on time. At this moment, no students were allowed in the stadium yet but outside, already a crowd had gathered. Only 15 minutes until 8 O’clock, time really waits for no one.

With a helpless shrug, Finn decisively went to the trunk of his car, opened it, and retrieved the foam advertisement board that was already prepared. He walked over to the two tables, not wasting any words, he promptly lifted the sign.

Chubby Callum and other two companions looked at Finn in confusion, wondering what he was up to this time. But as soon as Finn put the sign up and they saw what was written on it, they almost bit their tongues.

Chubby Callum and the others watched Finn with odd expressions, speechless,

“Mr. Finn, you are so bold! Do your parents know about this?”

“Damn it, Mr. Finn, isn’t this a bit creepy?” Prince said to Finn with a speechless expression on his face.

“Get lost, stay out of it, don’t disturb my recruitment process.” Finn rolled his eyes, “God knows I don’t want to do this, it’s not like I want to do it for the rest of my life!” Search* The website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

“I think we’d better step aside? The energy here is kind of intense, isn’t it?” Daniel Pan tugged at the sleeves of the other two and pointed at the shocked T University students flaring at the board and then spoke mysteriously.

“Err, right, let’s move out of the way.” Chubby Callum glanced over there and immediately retreated, all three quickly hid behind Finn’s car.

Seeing the suspicious looks of these three guys, and then looking at the wave of startled students at T University, Finn’s scalp prickled, “Oh god, please don’t let me get beaten up.”

“Damn! Why so arrogant? Is this a job fair? Who is this guy? He’s so creepy.”

. Wait, there’s a recruitment here, for a full-time female assistant... I swear!

Is he recruiting a mistress?”

Listening to the flurry of comments from the crowd, Finn’s face twitched in muscle spasms, even so, he kept his calm. Seating expression-less behind his chair, the content written on the board wasn’t any different from what he had written at the job market.

Recruiting full-time female assistant, Requirements: Good appearance, Excellent academic record, Available 24/7 , Good remuneration, Generous perks, Monthly salary, Continuous tips, All expenditures included.

No wonder the students of T University were all astir. This kind of recruitment ad was typically asking for trouble.

But Finn’s strategy did indeed work. Although no girls had come forward yet, at least a number of people had taken photographs and spread the news straight away. Luckily, Finn had come prepared. On the way, he had bought a very large pair of sunglasses. Putting them on now, it would conceal most of his face.

“Hey, mate, what do you think you’re doing? You can’t park here, nor can you recruit. Didn’t you hear?” One of the male students from the student union, along with several other boys, walked over to him and said with a rather displeased expression.

Damn, this guy is definitely not from T University. Our T University girls are like exquisite dishes all gouged by fat pigs like you!

“I am settled here for today. You guys have two options. First, beat me up and send me to the hospital, Second, smash my cars. Otherwise, move aside!” Finn pointed to the several cars behind him.

Combined, these four cars would be worth at least over fifteen million! If they wrecked them, they’d have to afford to pay for it.

The atmosphere suddenly dropped a degree. At this moment a female voice sounded, “Excuse me”, the men immediately turned around to look, Finn also followed the sound and looked over, but was a little disappointed. This girl was just as ordinary-looking as Cora Franklin, although she was quite delicate, she definitely wasn't able to score 85.

"Handsome, are you recruiting for a female assistant here?" The girl came directly to the table, sat down in front of Finn and pointed at the recruitment advertisement behind him as she asked.

"Yes, but I am sorry, your appearance doesn't meet my requirements." Finn responded forthrightly.

The girl was immediately stunned. Her face quickly turned angry, stood up and murmured, "You are recruiting a girlfriend here, aren't you?"

"Regardless of whether I am recruiting an assistant or a kept woman, at least I am young, right? I am much better than those middle-aged men." Finn sneered and didn't bother to pay her any more attention. After all, he still had plenty of time and he didn't believe he couldn't recruit just 5.

Finn and the girl's voices weren't small at all, and many students around heard. Immediately, there were whispers among the girls. Indeed, most of them had thought Finn was recruiting a mistress when they saw the recruitment advertisement, but his words gave them something to think about. Yes, even if that was the truth, at least Finn was very young, right? If they could snare this handsome guy, they might have a chance to marry into a wealthy family.

Just when Finn was helplessly thinking about how much longer it would take for a real beauty to come forward, suddenly another figure walked out from the crowd. Everyone, including Finn, as well as the onlookers, shifted their attentions to her instantly. Following that were buzzing voices of discussions:

"It's Fishy Wells."

"She... she's not going down that road too, is she?"

"Fishy, don't do anything stupid!"

"That's right, Fishy. We have so many classmates who could help you."

Finn looked strangely at the crowd. He found that after this girl came out, at least half of the people around her seemed to know her. For the remaining people who didn't recognize her, they immediately realized who she was when they heard the chatter: "So, she is Fishy Wells."

Finn didn't know what was going on with this girl, but he didn't take his eyes off her. When he saw her looks, he was slightly taken aback, well, she wasn't very beautiful in the traditional sense. She did have beautiful long black hair and was wearing an old-fashioned large framed pair of glasses, not a bit of makeup, dressed in old clothes and holding a stack of books.

“Score: 90.” The automated voice rang in Finn’s head, surprising him because he didn’t consider her a beauty.

However, when Fishy came to the table in front of Finn, upon close inspection, he realized... she was indeed rather pretty.

Her skin was very delicate, no blemishes, it looked quite ordinary probably because of the clothes she was wearing.

Although people around were advising her, no one came forward to pull her away. Until Fishy sat down in front of Finn’s table, not caring about what people were saying, Finn kind of guessed why she had come to apply.

She looked at the advertisement board and then bit her soft pink lips, and asked, “Do I need to put on makeup?”

“No need. You already fulfill the requirement at the top.” Finn replied promptly..

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.