

61 I Am Someone Who's Powerful

Lucas approached the members of the faction led by Mike Wong. And as they went again, to a room with an oval table in the center, Lucas started talking about his sentiments. 1

"I want to stop becoming a disciple." Lucas abruptly said, making everyone shocked and dumbfounded.

"What?! Why are you saying an obvious, stupid word?! Don't you know what our sect's rule is?!" Mike Wong suddenly exclaimed in fear as he got agitated as soon he heard it.

"Junior Lucas, can you tell us why you particularly want to stop being a disciple?" Lucy Shim asked.

"Yes, do you want to die?"

It was as if Lucas was deafened by their sharp and loud voices. But as he wasn't particularly a person who had one position and one goal, he just sighed and started explaining it.

"I'm sorry. But I wanted to become a normal disciple for a moment, but I can't. I am an aimless person who can't stay in one place."

Lucas said in a calm tone, and as they heard it, they became silent pertaining to his truthful words.

"Then why did you even join our sect? Do you know what our rules are? Someone who wants to leave the sect without even doing well inside will get their knowledge removed. And much worse, they become stupid. How does a person like you, who has a greater future, become what you say?" Mike Wong said his worries about.

Everyone agreed. They didn't want to lose an important asset, and since Lucas was a highly talented person, from what their eyes told them, they wanted to support him. But it seemed like Lucas didn't want it.

"I don't know about it. But it won't happen to me since this will not be the last time I will be associated with the sect."

Lucas's words gave them hope, but it was futile since it was coated and vague. Trying to understand it, they'd become overwrought thinking about it.

"Urgh! Can you please tell us what you really want? Why did you join us? I know that you know you are talented." This time, it was Kin Chan who talked, but he wasn't like others, he was a bit more irritated asking about it.

"Array. I want to learn array formations."

Just like that? Lucas's words were somewhat stupid since an array couldn't be easily learned by just joining their sect. Even for an array specialized sect like Profound Symbol, they don't just teach disciples array formations. A fundamental subject an array master needs is good cultivation, hence, becoming an array master meant also being a good cultivator. However, studying array was different from being just good at observing and other basic necessities on studying array. Practical application was also needed.

"You... Do you want to die?" Kin Chan mumbled but it was audible that Lucas reacted to it.

"Elder Chan! Please watch what you are saying!" Pauleen Fong exclaimed.

"Watch my mouth? This kid is arrogant. Does he think we'll beg him to stay here?! We are better than that. He was just arrogant and it was wrong to eye him in interest!"

The factions continued arguing with one another's opinions. And as Lucas was just observing and watching them, he couldn't help but giggle.

His giggling started to be heard, as there were also snorts in between, and Kin Chan couldn't help but be more irritated.

"You dare to?!"

"Fellow Daoist Chan!" Lucas exclaimed, but his voice was like the roar of a lion that even the concrete of the room trembled.

They were all startled and looked at Lucas with wide eyes.

As they became silent, they just stared at Lucas, uncertain of what to feel.

Lucas somehow started revealing his real cultivation base. But for a person like him who wasn't able to keep his concentration on cultivation and was unaware of it, he suddenly released it.

The sect elders inside felt the tremendous energy flowing from Lucas. Gradually it made them nauseous, and then, fortunately, faded as if he turned to be a normal mortal.

'Heaven! He was an expert all along! And even higher than the Master Spirit Realm cultivator? Where did this person come from.'

'I am disgusted by what's happening right now. For some reason, I can feel that my life has become shit, but please... my precious body, please be reasonable. Why now? You destroyed my timing!' Lucas just screamed inwardly and contained himself as his body started to reveal his real cultivation base.

"I am someone who's powerful."

'What the fuck.'

"But I don't know arrays since I have a different way of understanding cultivation."

'Bullshit.'

"That's why I wanted to start learning it as a

'normal' disciple, but after some reasoning, I got tired of it and decided to have an exclusive relationship instead."

'Yeah. Run your mouth, Lucas!'

"But somehow, this is what happened. I want to apologize for my shortcoming. I didn't mean to deceive you all. I truly want to learn an array but not as a disciple because it tires me out."

Lucas somehow unintentionally bowed in despair, but when he was late in realizing it, he just let it happen and didn't stand up.

The sect elders didn't have anything to say. It was as if a supervisor came to their department to observe them. And as they truly understood what was happening now, they all looked at each other and helped Lucas stand up straight.

'He is someone powerful. Maybe enough to destroy the sect and seek out everything we have. However, he didn't use those tactics to learn array formation?'

'If I was powerful like him, I wouldn't bother becoming a disciple or even please the sect itself. I'll just grab what I want since I've worked hard to gain strength for the reason of being at the top.'

'Daoist Lucas is really different.'

They all thought differently, but all of the contexts were approved by Lucas. They didn't see him as someone who tried to deceive them, and they might have realized that Lucas didn't know how the cultivation world works.

But they all knew one thing for sure. Because he is powerful, Lucas didn't seem to be arrogant or ignorant. Instead, he wanted to live with others and tried to enjoy things.

'How long did he live to be tired in one place?' Mike Wong scoffed as he thought of Lucas's attitude.

"Please, Daoist Lucas. We understand. Please let us have time to talk about this."

Lucas finally snapped back to reality and his face became nonchalant.

"Thank you," he said in a somewhat uninterested tone.

Mike Wong was just dumbfounded because of the sudden change in personality. And as hesitant as he was, he tried to ask Lucas.

"Uhm... Senior?"

"Stop, Fellow Daoist Wong."

"I see. Fellow Daoist Lucas, what happened to you?"

"I accidentally bowed, but as soon as I realized it, I just didn't retract and continued acting that way."

Hearing it, an awkward smile came from the sect elders.

"Ah... Hahaha..."
