

69 Madam! Welcome back! [1]

Felicity sighed after looking at Mary's condition. She was standing right next to her with concerned eyes, feeling the tremendous unstable energy in her body. 1

The one that was in her body was a unique Qi of a magical beast. Although it was slightly different from humans, it was still considered a prominent Qi since everyone who was near their cultivation could feel it.

With Mary's condition, Felicity knew that she'd have to stay longer in Immortal Heaven. Although she had intended to stay for only a few weeks, her stay had been extended to a month.

She looked at the elders and then just stared at them with no particular expression. She was currently thinking of order and organizing her plans in her head.

"Have you found a proper cultivation technique that can be used in Mortal Heaven?" she asked.

Felicity did not just ask Larry to find a cultivation technique for her as well as the other members of the family, she obliged them to find one for her. It would be even better if it was a unique cultivation technique.

89 Madam! Welcome back! [1]

However, the elders didn't have any promising answers. They all shook their heads with their mouths slightly open, following their news.

"We haven't found one, Ancestral Princess."

"No, it's okay. I think I will be doing it on my own. So, should I say that you guys do everything you can do to heal my friend? I will come back after a few weeks."

The elders nodded and then answered in unison while Felicity just left the room with her hands at her back, calmly walking away.

'I need to reestablish my own connection. My family's reputation won't be used in Immortal Heaven. There are too many opportunistic hungry animals here. I should leave the mansion right away.'

That was her plan, but before she could even prepare to leave the premises, a so-called guest arrived at the mansion.

There were floating carriages, powered by spirit jewels. Although it wasn't pulled by a horse, it was still regarded as one of the most important discoveries and transportation for those who didn't like walking and flying. Especially for the one who was inside.

Inside the grandiose floating carriage was the heir of the Tsai family, Rodric Tsai. An arrogant yet handsome 'young man' in his 100's.

Felicity paused as she was on her way out of the mansion. She didn't have her disguise on, and as she was about to activate it, the door of the carriage opened.

As the door opened, Rodric Tsai was exposed, revealing his elegant robes that touched his ankle. And just as he felt Felicity's presence, he swayed his head, making an extremely arrogant posture where he brushed his hair above and looked at Felicity with some kind of poise.

Felicity just grumbled deep inside, couldn't remove Rodric's disgusting face.

"I adore you, Miss Felicity. Marry me and bear my child."

"The fuck?" 3

In an instant, Felicity disappeared from his sight, dumbfounding him as well as the guards who were at the back of the carriage.

They were all silent, speechlessly looking at Rodric.

"Did she just leave me?" he asked himself.

"Yes, she did, young master," his butler answered.

"I am not asking you! It's obvious... She still didn't recognize my presence. Maybe she doesn't know me, or she just didn't see me. I'll be back, Miss Felicity."

The guards at the back just shook their heads, hearing their young master's foolish-like remarks. Rodric was even raising his hands in the air as if he was a poetic suitor.

Meanwhile, the other members of the Zhu family just looked at Rodric with blank eyes. They still couldn't believe what kind of foolishness they had just seen.

In certainty, Rodric didn't feel embarrassed, but he was still eager to meet and talk to Felicity.

"That weird shit," Felicity mumbled as she was flying away from the mansion.

That scene earlier was unexpected, although not that much, still, it was unexpectedly stupid.

The way the man talked as if the air filling his brain was unbearable. Even before she could see him, that grandiose carriage had already hit her nerve.

"The nerve of that shit," she then shook her head trying to forget about it.

From the skies, she could see the geography, particularly the landmarks in the Cloud Continent.

Cloud Continent was one of the six mainlands in the Immortal Heaven, existing in the skies above the Surface Continent which was located at the middle layer of the Heaven. Most commonly known, the Surface Continent existed on the lithosphere of Heaven.

Coming from its name, Cloud Continent's bottom was covered with clouds, but on its land was a pure ground of a biome. Along with it in the skies above Surface Continent was the Golden Castle, another one of the six mainlands, but slightly smaller in size compared to the Cloud Continent.

Although Immortal Heaven wasn't sphere shape just like the rest of the Four Heavens, the ends of it would just bring a person back to the other end of the world, as if in a loop.

Felicity knew someone in the Mortal Heaven, it would also mean she definitely knew someone in the Immortal Heaven. The person she knew even had the slightest chance to die since Immortal Heaven is where people who'll live a thousand years exist. And the people she was thinking were, of course, people who had accomplished extraordinary feats.

Felicity sought help from the person she knew because of her cultivation. If she wanted to become safe in this heaven, she should learn how to touch the limits of the individuals around her. For that reason, she should be safe since ancestral bloodlines were targets in this heaven.

It was even a stupid thing to be that exposed, but learning the abilities of those cunning families to gather information, she wouldn't be shocked.

Even the commotion she caused was stupid, but she could only shake her head at it because she couldn't control her rage at the time.

After a few minutes of flying, she then saw a tall pavilion. It was at least 18 floors tall, and knowing that this heaven uses reinforced materials, she was sure that the place in her memory was this one.

Felicity's current cultivation was at least at the 2nd level of the Immortal Emperor Realm, second to the last of the Immortal Cultivation Realm. And just when she hit this cultivation base within days using a prominent cultivation technique, she had already reached her limits.

The abundance of the Qi in her surroundings was getting less strong, hence she couldn't raise her cultivation at an appropriate time.

What Felicity sought now was speed. And that was why she has to visit people she could approach, to at least learn how to improve her cultivation in this heaven.

Well, from what she could remember when she visited this heaven a few thousand years ago, was that she didn't really reach the peak cultivation of individuals in this heaven, which was the Immortal True Sovereign Realm. Felicity just took an immediate trial since she had an ancestral bloodline.

After another few minutes, she slowly descended on the gate of the pavilion as a sign of respect. Immortals in this heaven were not a joke after all. If she only showed some disrespect, especially to this place, she has to forget about her objective.

Felicity then used her disguise and approached the gates. There were two immortals in the Immortal Saint Realm guarding the gates that had red and yellow vertical stripes.

When the guards noticed her presence, they immediately faced her with no hostility. And because the guards realized she was of a higher realm than them, they greeted her with respect for the time being.

"Greetings, Senior."

Felicity now had black hair and also, and she lessened her beauty. She had to at least not take everyone's attention. Well, it was just thanks to the unique technique that she knew that not everyone could see through.

And since she already had the perfect disguise, what she should only do was be civilized towards those lower than her.

Of course, she didn't discriminate nor looked down on people just on a whim, but on rare occasions, she tends to forget it when something occurred that hit the variable differently.

Felicity then shared her greeting as well. She looked at the two guards who wore black armor, and, of course, reinforced it with Qi.

"I am here to visit. Is there any chance that I could see The Great Immortal of the River Stream Blue, Senior Hui?"

The two guards were perplexed after hearing it. That nickname that Felicity pronounced was something out of date since not all immortals knew anything about it.

And as a reaction, the guards showed more respect to her since the respect towards their master was the respect that held the same respect to those who mention it.

69 Madam! Welcome back! [1]

"May we know the name of this senior so that we can tell the Master about your presence?"

Felicity nodded.

"I am called The Immortal Fairy of Unending Falls. My name is not important. Only that, you can be allowed to know." Felicity said it with grace and an otherworldly aura.

"Yes, we understand. Please follow me." One of the guards said.

And with it, Felicity nicely followed the guard.

The pavilion up close was huge. Of course, but what was notable were the colors that reached her eyes. It was red with a touch of blue at every end on the pillars.

It wasn't the best compliment, but it was about the master's preferences.

Felicity was brought to a waiting room, and just when the guard left her there, she inspected the area.

Sliding paper doors, as well as paintings on the walls that resemble traditional Mortal Heaven art. This sight, she still couldn't forget.

After a few minutes of waiting, the door on the other side made a loud thud and was opened by a man who had the figure of a young man. And just when Felicity was sure who it was, she smirked.

"Oh wow. You look more vigorous, Senior Hui," she teasingly pronounced.

The immortal at the other end was just speechless. Then he looked more intently at Felicity who was just sitting nicely, bare-footed at the side of a short table.

"Madam! Welcome back!"

