Cherry and Pete held their little heads and looked at Nora. However, they saw Nora, who usually went to bed early after taking a shower and had nothing to do, yawning as she held her phone in boredom.

Cherry blinked her grape-like eyes and asked, “Mommy, why aren’t you asleep?”

If Mommy did not go to bed, how was she going to play games?!

Nora glanced at her and yawned again. She was so sleepy that she could barely open her eyes.

If he still did not come, she would fall asleep!

Pete suddenly asked, “Mommy, are you waiting for news from Daddy?”

Nora: “?”

Her eyes instantly jumped open. She looked at Pete and coughed. Her voice was slightly hoarse and carried a hint of panic that no one else could detect. “How did you know?”

Pete sighed. “Because Daddy is in the living room downstairs!”

Nora: “???”

She asked in surprise, “What?”

Pete nodded and said, “Yes, I saw Daddy coming from outside earlier. I happened to bump into Grandpa, so I called him in. The two of them are chatting downstairs now!”

Nora: “...”

She sat up and thought about it. Then, she went out and saw two men sitting downstairs.

Justin sat on the sofa with his back straight.

Ian was sitting in a wheelchair drinking tea. The two of them sat facing each other but did not speak. The living room was very quiet.

Nora looked at them and was about to go downstairs. When she turned around, she saw Joel and Tanya sitting beside the bedroom door on the second floor. The two of them had even moved two chairs over. Both of them looked like they were watching a show.

To make matters worse, there was a plate of melon seeds in the middle.

When she saw Nora, Tanya grinned at her and spat out a melon seed skin. She explained, “The two of them have been sitting opposite each other for ten minutes without saying a word.”

Joel nodded at the side. “It looks like Justin is in big trouble if he wants to marry Nora.”

Tanya raised her chin when she heard that. “I think it was too easy for you to marry me! Many people chased after me back then!”

Joel chuckled gently. “Yes, it’s mainly because my wife cooperated well and didn’t give my father-in-law any space to rebel.”

With that, he said, “Otherwise, it would have been more difficult for me. After all, Uncle Ian is still reasonable, but Karl...”

Before he could finish, Tanya glared at him. “What are you trying to say?”

Joel immediately changed his tone. “Karl is more straightforward and not as scheming as Uncle Ian.”

“...That’s more like it!”

After saying that, Tanya grabbed a bunch of melon seeds. After some thought, she stuffed them into Joel's hands. Joel chuckled and took them over to help peel them. He then placed the seeds into Tanya's mouth.

The two of them sat very close to each other and had an intimate posture. Nora pouted and then walked downstairs.

When she went downstairs, she happened to hear Justin asking, "Uncle Ian, do you have anything to say to me? I came here today to... see the children."

Ian asked casually, "Even if I have nothing to say, can't you accompany me for a while?" Justin replied, "... Of course, I can."

He adjusted his black suit. "If you need my company, I'm free no matter how long it takes."

"..." Ian choked. "There's no need for that. I'm just a little lonely right now and need someone to accompany me."

Anyway, he was not allowed to go upstairs!

Justin coughed and nodded. "No problem. If it gets too late, I can just stay the night. I'll help you keep watch tonight?"

Who knew whose room he would go to in the middle of the night?

As Ian thought about this, he said, "There's no need for that. I'm not used to people guarding the night for me."

Justin leaned forward and poured him a cup of tea. After Ian took a sip, Justin asked, "Uncle Ian, regarding my grandmother, I'll apologize to you here! But don't worry, I'll definitely make her bow down to Nora."

Ian's attitude was cold and he was very difficult to talk to. Even now, he did not relent. "It doesn't matter if she yields or not. Anyway, Nora has nothing to do with your family."

Justin sighed. "Uncle Ian, Nora and I..."

“You and Nora had two children by accident. It’s indeed troublesome, but don’t worry. No matter what, you’re still the child’s father. If you come to see the child, I won’t stop you.”

Justin seemed to have choked. He lowered his head. “Uncle Ian, what must I do to make you agree to our marriage?” Ian did not expect him to make himself sound so pitiful, to the point that he choked on his words. He frowned and began to count his shortcomings. “The families of the Hunts are all at odds. The side family has been fighting with you all this time, right? And that grandmother of yours is not someone easy to deal with. After Nora marries you, the family matters will be too troublesome. These are all things I can’t agree with.”

Justin nodded. “I know. There are many problems at home, but I will work hard to resolve these problems before coming to propose.”

Ian frowned. “We’ll talk about it when the time comes. If there’s nothing else, you can leave!”

Justin slowly lowered his head, his expression revealing some grievance. When she saw him like this, Nora suddenly thought of the first time she had seen him. It was in the hotel. The man was like a moon surrounded by stars, dazzling. Such a person would smile when facing Karl Moore, threatening him domineeringly, but when facing Ian, he accepted the unreasonable criticism.

Nora lowered her eyes and suddenly said, “Cherry missed you. Come up and see her.”

Justin’s eyes lit up when he heard this. He subconsciously took two steps toward Nora, but then he stopped and looked at Ian hesitantly.

His expression was as if he did not dare to go over unless Ian allowed it.

Ian: “!!”

He finally understood. This fellow had not spoken since he entered and was waiting for him to speak. Whoever spoke first would lose, but why did Justin suddenly start to give in?!

So it was because Nora had come downstairs!

This pretentious guy!

However, since he had just reunited with his daughter, he definitely couldn't separate the two of them forcefully. Therefore, he said angrily, "Go." Justin revealed a happy expression. "Thank you, Uncle Ian!"

Then, he followed Nora upstairs.

Ian: "..."

He suddenly felt very aggrieved!

Justin, who was following behind Nora, smiled. He followed Nora upstairs. When he saw Joel, he paused for a moment and nodded before following Nora into the bedroom.

As soon as they entered, he said to Cherry and Pete, "I saw Mia just now. She's looking for you guys."

Nora: "?"

When Cherry saw Justin, she had already jumped off the sofa and was running toward him. When she heard this, she stopped in front of him and asked hesitantly, "It's already so late. Mia is still awake?"

Justin coughed. "Yes."

Pete glanced at the tyrant and stood up helplessly. "Cherry, let's go."

Nora looked at him chasing the children out the door. Then, with a click, he locked the door and turned to look at her. "Nora, we don't have much time. We have to hurry."

Nora: "?????"

Nora's eyes widened in astonishment and she looked at Justin in disbelief.

She really had asked him up just to let him visit the children!

Wasn't the guy a slave to his daughter?

Why did he chase Cherry out of the room when he hadn't even touched her little finger yet? Also, what was he talking about when he told her that they had to hurry?!

The corners of her lips spasmed and she subconsciously asked, "Hurry and do what?"

Almost right after she spoke, Justin turned and walked towards Nora. In just a couple of steps, he came up to her, held her around the waist, and said aggrievedly, "Although a man shouldn't be talking about going fast, I still want to have you as soon as possible."

Nora: "!!!"

With the man coming so close to her, she could smell the vanilla scent on him again. The man's masculine pheromones filled her nose and made her swallow. She wanted to push the man away, but Justin had already lowered his head and was whispering into her ear. He said, "Nora, this is my first time, so I don't have any experience. Please be patient with me."

III

The man's voice was very deep, making him sound like a subwoofer. His voice was so pleasant it could give one an eargasm.

Nora felt as if her ears were being tickled. In fact, she felt as if even the depths of her heart were slowly starting to itch. However, she could nevertheless sense that the man was nervous—his heart had started to pound violently again.

Her cheeks turned red. She wanted to speak, but the man suddenly nipped her ear.

Nora froze all over at once!

The sensation on her ears was soft and icy-cold. He nibbled on her ear gently, making her feel as though an electric current had surged straight into her heart!

She wanted to push Justin away, but it was as though all her strength had been sapped away, rendering her unable to move. The next moment, the man pushed her down onto the soft bed.

Then, his lips covered hers once more.

His lips were soft and delicate, making Nora slowly close her eyes...

Justin had always exercised self-control in everything he did, but after he kissed Nora the night before, he had dreamed about kissing her the whole night.

He never knew that kissing was this addictive.

It was as if it wouldn't be enough no matter how much he kissed her...

As a result, during the ten minutes that Ian had kept him downstairs after he arrived, he had been terribly distraught.

When he came upstairs, he couldn't wait any longer to continue where they had left off the previous evening Nora felt her chest becoming awfully tight. It was as though the man had sucked away all the air in her lungs, making her so tense and nervous that her body was becoming limp.

She was already a mother, but in her memory, this was the first time that she was being so intimate with a man. This continued until...

Knock, knock.

It was only when someone knocked on the door that the two of them finally came back to their senses with a start.

Nora subconsciously glanced at her cell phone

—they had already been kissing for half an hour... But she clearly felt as if only a minute had passed...

“Sigh!”

Justin sighed softly and said, “Time flies... Even though I’m already making the most out of the time we have, it still feels like there isn’t enough.”

Nora: “...”

Knock, knock!

Someone knocked on the door again. Then, Ian’s voice rang out outside.

“Nora?”

Nora abruptly pushed Justin away and sat up straight when she heard Ian’s voice. She took a couple of deep breaths and glared at Justin before she finally walked over to open the door.

As soon as she opened the door, she saw Ian standing outside and pulling a very long face. Behind him were Cherry and Pete.

Cherry said “Daddy lied! Mia is already asleep! Mommy, Daddy, what were the two of you doing, though?” Nora was about to say something to gloss over the topic when Pete asked, “Were you two making more brothers and sisters for us?”

Nora: “!!!”

She almost choked on her saliva!

Her cheeks immediately flushed crimson. She sounded a little panicky as she replied, “No, we weren’t!”

Behind the children, Tanya and Joel were craning their necks and watching the excitement like the nosy bystanders they were. In particular, Tanya's pretty eyes swept across Nora's face before finally stopping at her lips. She stared at her lips thoughtfully for a while, and then a touch of a smile formed on her face.

Pete frowned. "Oh, you weren't? Mia said that her parents told her that they are planning to give her a younger sibling, so they kicked her out of the bedroom while her mom and dad slept together. That's why I thought Mommy and the tyr... I mean, Daddy were also making younger brothers and sisters for us!" Tanya: "??"

Joel: "???"

How did the focus turn to the two of them when they were just watching the excitement?!

Tanya's cheeks immediately turned red. The miffed woman glared at Joel and then, she turned and left.

Joel hurriedly followed after her. "Tanya, don't be mad..."

Tanya's spluttering voice traveled over faintly: "It's all your fault for saying such nonsense to the child..."

After the two left, Pete gave Nora a look. Only then did Nora understand that Pete was actually trying to help her. That's for watching the show and not helping out! Not only did Tanya and Joel not help, but they had pretty much even brought stools and popcorn over. Regardless, despite Pete's young age, he knew how to set up traps for others. He was simply too scheming!

Nora's lips curled into a smile and she finally looked at Ian.

Ian was glaring at Justin angrily. "What were the two of you doing?". "... Discussing that matter about modern and alternative medicine, of course," replied Justin.

Ian didn't believe him. He frowned and asked, "That's it?"

Justin nodded with a straight face. “It’s true, Uncle Ian. What else could we have been doing? Even if you don’t trust me, surely you trust Nora, right?”

Ian: “??”

The corners of his lips spasmed a little. In this instant, he suddenly felt as if he was being forced to suffer in silence.

Of course, he didn’t trust him!

He had already seen the two of them cozying up to each other outside the night before!

Now that they were hiding in the room today, they must have gone even further than what they did the day before.

But could he say that he didn’t believe what Justin said?

No, he couldn’t!

Because if he did, then Nora would realize that he’d seen them the day before! When that happened, things would become awkward for all three of them!

Ian suddenly felt like he had been tricked.

He glared at Justin furiously, upon which he heard him say to Nora, “I’ll come again tomorrow... to visit the children. Uncle Ian, you said just now that I am the children’s father, so you won’t stop me from coming over to visit them. In that case, you won’t stop me from coming tomorrow, either, right?”

Ian: “...”

Was he openly moving in now?! He felt like throwing up blood! He took a deep breath and held back his anger. At last, he said reluctantly, “Yeah.”

With a faint smile in his eyes, Justin looked at Nora with lingering affection. The look of reluctance to part in his eyes was so intense that Nora felt if it might make her stick to him.

She retracted her gaze, opened the door, and drove both Justin and Ian out. Then, she whispered, “See you tomorrow.”

The next day, it was finally time for the modern versus alternative medicine competition!

After Nora woke up in the morning and washed up, she drove straight to the New York University of Medicine’s grand hall.

Blaine had arranged for the competition to be held in the grand hall.

His purpose in doing so was to provoke the students in the school. After all, these students had yet to become part of the working society, so they were some of the most passionate people around.

When Nora arrived at the school’s entrance, she could already see reporters heading to the grand hall.

She frowned slightly, not understanding why the school wasn’t doing anything about it. Right at this moment, she heard the reporters’ voices:

“Hah, even though we had strongly requested that the medical university suspend and investigate Anti, they rejected our request and are defending her very fiercely. On top of that, they even said that this isn’t a competition of skills but more like a debate instead, and have sincerely invited everyone from the medical profession to come over and watch! How are they so confident that they can clear Anti’s name?”

“Exactly. I’m also very confused. It’s as though the university has something they can use as leverage. I don’t believe they can really clear her name!”

The two of them entered the school while discussing the topic.

Nora, however, stood where she was and broke into a frown.

A moment later, her lips suddenly curled into a smile.

To be honest, foreign universities had also invited her to become a professor or take on similar positions in their schools before, but she had rejected them all. She had only become an external professor at the medical university because of Shaw.

She didn’t have any feelings for the New York University of Medicine.

After all, the school was ridden with all sorts of issues, such as the postgraduate entrance examination the other time, as well as Michael Lange...

However, in this instant, she suddenly felt like the school was actually very cute and lovable.

Their level of magnanimity alone already put the New York University of Medicine way above the foreign universities!

The thought of all the messages criticizing alternative medicine on foreign websites made Nora narrow her eyes. She strode toward the auditorium.

She came relatively late. By then, the people in the auditorium were already split into three different factions.

One faction was made up of firm supporters of modern medicine. Blaine was their leader.

Another faction was made up of supporters of alternative medicine. Jon and Elaine were their leaders. Some students of alternative medicine in the school were also part of the group.

The last faction was made up of people remaining neutral. Dean Shaw was the leader. Michael and Lisa, as well as Sheril who was concerned for Nora, were all standing there.

Blaine and Jon were currently lashing out at each other while throwing medical terms around. Blaine even cited a few patient case studies as a challenge for Jon.

Blaine had initially proposed that each side would provide a few patients for the other side to treat, but the plan was rejected. After all, it was highly inappropriate to bring the patients to the venue.

Besides, they didn't bring the instruments and equipment used in modern medicine, either.

Both sides debated endlessly with each other, and their words became increasingly sharper.

When Nora arrived, Dean Shaw was making a concluding speech. He said, "Whether it is alternative medicine or modern medicine, both are meant for the patients' well-being. We should not be promoting one and belittling the other! Therefore, there is no meaning to the debate today at all! Mr. Myers, you're an old-timer in the field of alternative medicine. I only have one question for you—is modern medicine really inferior to alternative medicine? Can you guarantee that you have never taken any modern drugs in your entire life? Or that you have never had any CT scans done?"

Dean Shaw's words made Jon choke.

Blaine immediately let out a contemptuous laugh. However, before he could speak, Dean Shaw spoke again. "Don't be so happy yet, Dr. Jonas. My question for you is, when women with fertility problems have CT scans done, most of the time it doesn't show any problems. Can you help them resolve their endocrine disorders and problems with their weak spleen and stomach?"

Blaine also choked.

Dean Shaw sighed. “Therefore, it is utterly meaningless for us to be arguing about this. Alternative and modern medicine complement and supplement each other. The ultimate goal should be to cure the patient!”

Prior to this, both sides had already experienced intense debates, and over the course of the debate, everyone present had all gained an understanding of the subjects to some extent. Thus, when Dean Shaw said what he did, all the students became rather thoughtful.

Just like that, the confrontation between modern and alternative medicine practitioners calmed down.

Nora, who was among the crowd, felt that Shaw had handled the problem in a rather comprehensive and well-rounded manner.

However, Jon suddenly went on the offensive. He said, “Dean Shaw, what you said is indeed correct, but the person who caused this dispute is Anti, your school’s external professor! If she hadn’t made such an arrogant and ignorant claim that modern medicine is superior to alternative medicine, how would things have come to this point?”

Elaine nodded. “Yes, everyone here is an elite from all walks of life, but just because of one sentence she said, everyone has come here to fight about these issues, leading to the current situation. All of this is because of Anti!”

Blaine also immediately chimed in and said, “Yes, I was also influenced by Anti. That was why I had challenged the alternative medicine circle in a moment of pique. Now that I think about it, I feel so ashamed of myself. Mr. Myers, I was too impulsive!”

Jon waved and said, “You’re still young, so it’s understandable that you would get ahead of yourself. However, we mustn’t let the culprit go scot-free!”

Blaine and Elaine highly approved of what he said. “Yes, I strongly suggest that Anti be punished!”

Given how things had come to this point with regard to the incident, to be honest, punishing Anti would serve as giving everyone and every industry a proper explanation. With that, the incident would also pass.

Nora stood in the crowd and folded her arms.

The next moment, Dean Shaw waved and said, “Now that things have come to this, I shall just tell everyone the truth! To be honest, I was the one who told Anti to say those frivolous things!”

His words took Nora by surprise. Then, Dean Shaw said, “In recent years, there have been endless battles between the modern and alternative medicine circles, and everyone also has different ideas about the subject. I have always wanted to hold a debate like this and have everyone come forward to discuss the subject! But my position in the circle is lowly and my words unimportant, so I came up with such a method to have Anti arouse public outrage. Sure enough, everyone has turned up!” Nora: “??”

Seeing how dubious the students around her were, yet none of them were pressing the issue any further, she couldn't help but smile.

She hadn't expected Shaw to come up with such a solution. It seemed like she wouldn't have to expose her identity anymore today?

That worked out for her quite well. This way, those old stick-in-the-muds in the alternative medicine circle wouldn't come to her anymore. They were simply too much trouble.

The thought had only just formed when a voice rang out from among the students. “Dean Shaw, in order to protect that external professor, you're really giving it your all!”

Nora frowned and looked over sharply, but before she could catch sight of the person talking, an audio recording suddenly started playing

“Sir, at this point, it's kind of meaningless even if Anti clarifies that she didn't say anything like that. Why don't we take the opportunity to host a debate, and then say that it was all my idea?”

It was Dean Shaw's voice.

The principal's voice then rang out. "Shaw, it's gonna be tough on you, then!"

"Nah, it's not. For the sake of the school, as well as for Anti, this is something I should do!"

When the recording finished playing, the whole auditorium fell silent for a moment.

Then, the whole place exploded.

All the students glared at Dean Shaw and everyone started shouting. "You liar!"

"Dean Shaw, in order to let a professor with a bad character stay, you people sure are doing a lot!"

"The New York University of Medicine is the best medical university in the country, but to think it's also so dirty and corrupted! It really takes the cake!"

"My goodness, all of this is a scam!" With someone taking the lead, this immediately triggered all the students' anger at being deceived. Be it the modern medicine students or the alternative medicine students, all of them were incited into yelling furiously.

"Dismiss Anti from the school!"

"Dismiss Anti! We will not stand for being in the same school as a professor like her!"

When everyone started becoming worked up, Lisa and Sheril couldn't help but shout, "Anti really didn't say anything like that! All of this is because someone is trying to defame her!"

However, someone immediately retorted, "Some of us heard her saying that with our own ears. Dr. Jonas has also admitted to it. Are you still refusing to tell the truth? Even now, Anti is still hiding at the back and refusing to come out. I really look down on her!"

“Yes, Anti is the black sheep of the Medical University! She must be expelled!”

In the midst of all the speculation, Nora narrowed her eyes and slowly stepped onto the stage. The moment he spotted her, Blaine immediately shouted, “Anti, why did you incite us into fighting with the alternative medicine circle, yet you yourself failed to show up? You hypocrite hiding behind the crowd!”

Jon also pointed at her and reprimanded, “Do you not dare to own up to your deeds? How could you make Dean Shaw shoulder the responsibility for you?! You are such a disgrace to the medical profession!”

Elaine even shouted, “Dear students, I heard with my own ears her saying that alternative medicine is inferior to modern medicine. Given how she despises alternative medicine, how can someone like her remain in the Medical University?!”

As the three of them spoke, the students became even more outrageous.

Even the reporters were so angry that they pointed their microphones at Nora.

“Anti, why are you doing this?”

“Do you really look down on alternative medicine?”

Nora looked at all the agitated people around her. They were already starting to become violent. She looked at the reporter calmly, her voice reaching all the students’ ears through the microphone.

“I have never said that. Neither have I ever looked down on alternative medicine. To me, alternative medicine and modern medicine are both methods of curing diseases. Neither has ever been superior or inferior to the other!”

As soon as she said that, everyone stopped talking.

The reporter was also stunned.

Blaine narrowed his eyes. “That’s not what you told me in private, Anti!”

Jon also sneered, “You must be scared, right? Did you become frightened after seeing so many of us here? So you decided to compromise?! But it seems that it’s too late even if you change your stance now!” Elaine also shook her head. “Anti, making mistakes isn’t that scary. It’ll be fine once you rectify your mistakes. Even Dr. Jonas has apologized, so why can’t you just apologize?”

Nora looked at Elaine. “I told you, I didn’t say that. You and Blaine are the ones slandering me, so why should I apologize?” Elaine bit her lip. “How did I slander you? If I was the only one saying that, then perhaps I’m the one making up lies, but even Dr. Blaine has said so. You clearly meant it!”

The reporters also spoke up.

“Anti, you keep saying that you didn’t say it. Do you have any evidence?” As soon as they said that, Dean Shaw panicked.

How could anyone possibly have evidence of whether they have said something or not?

Smiles, however, appeared on Elaine and Blaine’s faces. They knew that the reporters had been misled by them.

No matter what Nora said at this point, no one would not believe her.

Unexpectedly, the next moment, Nora’s lips slowly started to curl upward. She suddenly smiled and replied, “Of course, I have evidence.”

“What kind of evidence is it?”

Elaine frowned and looked at Nora.

It was at this moment that a student in the crowd suddenly raised her hand slowly. "I... I can prove that Anti didn't say anything like that..."

Everyone looked at her in unison.

The student looked very timid. Seeing that everyone around her was looking over, she became a little nervous. She swallowed and said, "I was interning in that hospital that day, and was fortunate enough to witness the argument between Dr. Miller and Dr. Anti. From the beginning to the end, it was Dr. Miller who kept saying that Anti looked down on alternative medicine, but Anti had never agreed with it. What Dr. Anti said had no intention of belittling alternative medicine at all!"

Nora looked at the student in surprise.

She was likely a postgraduate student majoring in nursing at the school. Otherwise, she would not have been able to intern in the hospital. It indeed took a lot of courage for her to step forward and clear her name at this moment.

Without Shaw's actions just now, perhaps everyone would have believed her, but now...

Sure enough, some of the students around them believed what she said while some looked obviously skeptical. Elaine sneered, "In order to protect Anti, the school sure is doing a lot! The dean is lying together with students..."

An uproar went through the place.

The student's eyes turned red. "I'm not lying. What I said is true... Really, you have to believe me!"

However, only a few people around her believed her and stood with her, whereas the rest instantly stepped away from her as if she was some kind of virus.

Elaine sighed.

Her sigh made the students even more distrustful of the girl's words.

The student bit her lip. "I swear that everything I said is true. Otherwise... otherwise, I will never find a boyfriend for the rest of my life!"

Her oath was certainly harsh.

Some students believed her while some started to hesitate.

Jon, however, sneered, "Swear? Are college students all so superstitious these days?"

When the student heard that, tears fell from her eyes. "I am not being superstitious. I... I'm just using the oath to express my resolution. I really am telling the truth! What must I do to make all of you believe me?"

Someone next to her asked, "Are you stepping forward and saying that because Anti offered you some kind of benefit? Why didn't you say it before?"

The student bit her lip. "Everyone was condemning Anti previously. I have been speaking up for Anti in the dorms all this time, but none of you listened to me... I was also scared. When Lisa spoke up for Anti, all the students from the modern and alternative medicine majors came together to ostracize her. I was scared that it would also happen to me... But now, I don't find the incident so serious anymore. We can't dismiss Anti just because of something like this... I didn't expect things to become so serious..."

She was so aggrieved that she started to cry.

Elaine sighed and said, "Miss, you shouldn't be covering up for her. This is completely about Anti's attitude! Every school is paying attention to the cooperation of modern and alternative medicine now. In fact, our school has even launched a major that specializes in merging modern and alternative medicine! Yet here she is, instigating conflicts between modern and alternative medicine. This is really unacceptable. Why are you still trying to protect a teacher like her?"

The verbal attacks pushed the student close to a mental breakdown. “I’m really not trying to protect her! What I said is all true!”

Blaine sighed. “Alright, alright, let’s not push her into a corner anymore. Let’s just take it that what she said is true. Anti has never said that to Dr. Miller in the hospital, she has only said that to me. Will that do?”

He looked at Nora and said, “Dr. Anti, I have always admired you very much, and have also always regarded you as my idol. My purpose in returning to the States this time was also to visit you. But during my debate with the few seniors in alternative medicine just now, I have realized how ignorant I was. We were really wrong to think that way. To be honest, it’s okay to admit to the mistake openly. Science advances via dialectical discussions in the first place! You shouldn’t be too stubborn!”

Then, he looked at Shaw. “The dean was trying to defend you, too. As long as you apologize, I’m sure everyone will still be willing to forgive you!”

Nora: “...”

He sure was imposing his will on her. The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed. Although she was used to being lazy all the time, she could still detect the language trap in Blaine’s words.

Nora couldn’t help yawning.

She finally understood what he was saying. Blaine might have put it nicely, but they weren’t asking her to admit to her mistake at all. Rather, once she admitted to it, they would kick her out of the school!

Besides, it would cement all the more the belief that the female student was lying.

Shaw was a leader of the academy. If he was forced to lie because of certain circumstances, at the most, everyone would just secretly question his character, but they wouldn’t dare to do anything to him.

However, the female student’s life in school would be utter hell in the future!

At this point, Jon also spoke up. “Nora, you are Yvette Anderson’s daughter and can be considered our junior in the alternative medicine profession. It’s not like we can’t give you a chance to turn over a new leaf if you make a mistake! Your mother was so impressive in the alternative medicine circle back then, but why are you not studying and practicing alternative medicine but so obsessed with modern medicine instead? Sigh! Just apologize. Once you’ve apologized, on behalf of the alternative medicine circle, I won’t hold it against a zealot like you anymore!”

These people were really coming at her one after the other without any pause in between. They practically weren’t giving her a chance to speak at all.

Following Jon’s words, everyone looked at her in unison. Nora finally retorted slowly, lazily, and coldly, “Who says I didn’t study alternative medicine?”

Her words immediately stunned everyone at the bottom of the stage.

Jon frowned. Right at this moment, the auditorium doors were pushed open once more.

Everyone turned to the doors in unison, upon which they saw a 60-year-old man stride in. He was in good spirits and looked very kind – he was Silvester’s son!

Although Silvester’s son wasn’t a top-class physician in the world of alternative medicine, he was nonetheless very impressive when compared to others. Moreover, with Silvester’s status in the alternative medicine circle, his own status was also very high.

At the sight of him, Jon and Elaine hurriedly went forward. “Mr. Zabe, why are you here?”

Silvester’s son smiled and said, “I heard that you guys are holding a debate on modern and alternative medicine here today. My father was a little worried, so he told me to come over and take a look.”

Jon nodded. Then, he pointed at Nora and sighed. “Mr. Zabe, you saw that, right? That’s the young lady who visited the Zabes the other time. She openly said that alternative medicine is inferior to modern medicine, and even now, she still doesn’t even have the courage to own up to her mistake. Sigh!”

He had deliberately pointed out that Nora had visited the Zabes before, so that Silvester’s son could not openly defend her in front of the public!

But unexpectedly, as soon as he said that, Silvester’s son said in surprise, “There’s no way she would ever say anything like that!”

Jon frowned. He was about to question Silvester’s son as to whether the Zabes had been bribed when Silvester’s son turned to Nora...

The next moment, Silvester’s son walked up to Nora and said, “Nora, Dad has a message for his disciple-he wants me to tell you not to stir up so much trouble outside.”

The whole place suddenly fell silent.

Everyone looked at Silvester’s son in disbelief. Even Jon was dumbfounded. In fact, he even wondered for a moment if he had misheard.

However, the next moment, he frowned and asked, “His disciple? Mr. Zabe, how come I’m not aware that Dr. Zabe has taken another disciple?”

After questioning Silvester’s son, Jon sneered and looked at Nora again. “No wonder you keep saying that you have evidence. So, this is why you visited the Zabes the other time? Hah, what impressive means! Do you think you can speak justly and righteously today just because you’ve become Dr. Zabe’s disciple? The Smiths sure have impressive means! They are absolutely top-notch at dealing with public relation crises!”

He was implying that Nora was just putting on an act by becoming Dr. Zabe's disciple!

The students became even more furious when they heard this.

Elaine, who had also recovered, sighed. "Are the wealthy all so brazen? All they do is cover up when they make a mistake, and will never admit their mistake! They really have no respect for the law! Also, for the university to protect her like this, might the Smiths have also given them some kind of benefit?"

Her words were becoming more and more overboard.

The reporters at the side snapped away with their cameras. Some even started filming them, intending to publish articles attacking the Smiths.

"They are too much! The Zabes are simply disappointing! Dr. Zabe is so highly respected, yet even he has been bribed!"

"Gosh, as expected, no matter which industry it is, there are always inside stories!"

"Has Dr. Zabe been threatened by the Smiths?"

Amid everyone's speculations, Nora let out an icy sneer.

This was exactly what people were like in society. No matter what one did, they would always be questioned by others. Had she been an inconspicuous nobody doctor in the alternative medicine field, she really wouldn't be able to get through this today! Her gaze swept across all the students present.

There was a rather eclectic mix of people present that day. Apart from the school's students, there were also some outsiders. The reason why she had been dragging this out and staying quiet was to observe who the ones guiding public opinion in the crowd were!

After that... she would catch them all!

Seeing that the situation had more or less sufficiently developed and that the few people guiding public opinion in the crowd were basically done speaking, at last, her lips suddenly curled into a smile. She said, "Who says I am a newbie to the profession?"

Jon frowned. "Heh, Dr. Zabe only has those few disciples. It can be said that even I have studied under his tutelage before. If you are not a newbie, then what are you?"

Famous doctors in the alternative medicine field like Silvester only took a few disciples.

Nora's lips curled in a smile. "Are you sure you've met all of my teacher's disciples?"

Jon sneered, "Of course. Except for the very last disciple that Dr. Zabe took, I have met all of his other disciples!"

However, when he said that, Nora looked at him with a half-amused look on her face.

Jon frowned and carefully recalled the conversation they just had. Suddenly, he realized something and his eyes widened abruptly. A look of disbelief formed on his face. "Y-you... you... surely you can't be..."

Silvester's son stepped forward with a smile and said, "That's right, Nora is my father's last disciple! She is also the one and only official disciple that Dad has ever taken! Dad often says that Nora's medical skills have already reached what his were like when he was at his peak!"

The peak of Dr. Zabe's medical skills? Then didn't that make her the top physician of alternative medicine in the world?

It went without saying that Jon knew that Silvester was full of praise for his one and only official disciple. He had a strange personality and rarely agreed to meet with others, but once he did, and whenever someone brought up that disciple of his, he would always sing praises of her.

Therefore, it was pretty much tacit agreement among everyone that his one and only official disciple, who had never made any public appearance, possessed the most top-notch alternative medicine skills among all the practitioners at the moment.

But... how could that person be Nora?!

Elaine was even more flabbergasted. “T-that’s impossible! If she were Dr. Zabe’s official disciple, why would she study modern medicine?!”

When Silvester’s son heard that, his expression darkened. “Alternative and modern medicine are but means to cure illnesses. Medical universities have already established both modern and alternative medicine majors. Can’t Nora study a bit of modern medicine if she wants to?”

Elaine swallowed.

Everyone at the bottom of the stage felt that what he said sounded extremely reasonable, yet also found it unreasonable... After all, who would become the top master surgeon of modern medicine just by studying “a bit” so casually?

Silvester’s son even lowered his gaze and said, “It was because Dad didn’t have anything else he could teach to Nora back then, so he told her to try studying modern medicine. That was why she started studying it... Nora started studying alternative medicine first. The Carefree Pill from a while back was only developed after she improved the formula. Why would Nora ever call alternative medicine inferior to modern medicine?”

All the students were stunned. They all looked at Nora.

Everyone who studied alternative medicine knew that Dr. Zabe had an official disciple, but that person’s whereabouts were always a mystery, and no one knew who they were. No one would have ever thought that it would actually be Anti!

Just how outstanding must someone be in order to stand at the pinnacle of two industries?

There wasn't any need to say anything else anymore this time. Everyone believed it now! The female student who had stepped forward to speak up for Anti couldn't help but burst into tears with a loud wail. "I told you I was telling the truth, but none of you believed me. Sob..."

Everyone was speechless.

It wasn't so much that they didn't believe her. It was mainly because Elaine and Blaine were so adamant about it...

When the thought formed, everyone looked at Elaine and Blaine in unison!

Elaine was already as pale as a sheet. It seemed like she hadn't expected such a plot twist. She swallowed hard.

As for Blaine... Wait, where was Blaine?

The place where he had been standing just now was empty!

In the instant that Silvester's son had said that Nora was his father's disciple, Blaine had already figured out what was going on. While Jon was confronting Silvester's son, he had already taken the opportunity to slip away!

He had already reached the door at this point. The students also finally remembered him. They pointed to the door and shouted, "He's running away!"

Hearing this, Blaine hurriedly opened the doors and quickly slipped out!

But as soon as he stepped through the doors, he was detained!

Brenda looked at him with a big smile on her face and took out his cell phone. Sure enough, she discovered that he was in the midst of a call and the other party was none other than Trueman!

At the hotel.

In the room, Trueman's furious voice rang out. "Shit! I got played by her again!!".

Caleb sighed. "I already told you a long time ago not to go against her!"

Trueman was livid. "But how could she possibly be top-notch in both alternative and modern medicine? Not to mention that she is also Q... It is impossible for someone to have that much energy to achieve top status in three different industries... unless..."

He suddenly realized something and his head whipped up. "Unless!"

But before he could finish, the door of the hotel room was suddenly kicked open. Morris immediately rushed in and shouted, "Freeze, Trueman Yale!"

Nora had deliberately arrived a little later and prevented the debate in the school from ending right at the beginning. Firstly, this was because the students had become a little carried away during this period of time after being incited by others, and they had nowhere to vent all their passion and enthusiasm. It was indeed good for them to have a debate and vent their emotions.

Moreover, it was true that science advanced and developed from the constant debate and overthrowing of theories in the first place. She believed that after a debate like that, medical students would gain a deeper understanding of alternative and modern medicine.

Furthermore, she wanted to stall for time.

After taking the stage, she had rebutted them a little, claimed that she had evidence but delayed producing it, and allowed the people at the bottom of the stage to spout nonsense in order to buy Morris time to arrest Trueman. After all, Trueman would definitely pay attention to the debate competition. Through elimination, Morris had already locked on to a few guests staying at the hotel and was currently investigating them one by one.

It was also to let Brenda arrest the people who were pretending to be students, but were, in fact, here to stir up trouble.

Brenda slowly walked into the auditorium with Blaine's wrists held firmly in a tight grip. She wore a pair of high heels and sashayed as she walked.

In the auditorium were also a few plainclothes officers holding down the few students who were guiding public opinion in the crowd just now.

The place was in chaos. Shaw didn't understand what was going on at all. When the students were arrested, he became even more anxious. He stepped forward and asked, "Who are you? What are you doing?"

Brenda gave Blaine a clean and swift kick and made him take another step forward. She fished out her credentials and waved it in front of Shaw and the students. Then, she said, "Dean Shaw and all the students here, today's incident is related to a criminal case that has been ongoing a long time! A foreign organization tried to recruit Ms. Nora Smithin other words, Anti—but was rejected by her, so they became angry and deliberately set this up! Their purpose in doing so is to drive Anti away, so that America would lose a highly sophisticated medical talent! Blaine Jonas is their spy!" As soon as she said that, an uproar went through the students.

No one had ever imagined things to develop this far!

Everyone swallowed.

Someone reacted:

"No wonder people have been dragging Anti's name through the mud on foreign websites! So that's what was happening!"

"Anti is the top master surgeon in the world. Most importantly, she is still very young. The future of such doctors is absolutely limitless! These people are too despicable! We almost fell for it and drove Anti away ourselves!”

“Yeah, if you think really carefully about it, this is really terrifying! Think about it, if Anti weren’t Dr. Zabe’s official disciple, even if she had a thousand mouths, she would never have been able to explain herself. Even if the officer steps forward and tells us it’s some kind of foreign Internet conspiracy, we may not believe it! We would think that this was a trick the medical university had come up with to keep Anti! Gosh, what a devious move!”

“Yes, even if Anti were to stay in the school, she probably won’t be respected by the students anymore. If I imagine that... this is too scary!”

While everyone was realizing what was going on, someone said, “Blaine Jonas is a spy, that’s why he defamed Anti. But what about Jon Myers and Elaine Miller?”

At once, everyone looked at Jon and Elaine in unison.

Elaine was already swallowing hard when Brenda entered the auditorium and announced that this was an operation to arrest spies. She became even more terrified in this instant and immediately said, “I didn’t! I..”

Before she could finish, Jon rushed up to Elaine and slapped her. He pointed at her furiously and shouted, “Fess up, did you collude with them? Is that why you came to me and misled me into standing up for alternative medicine with you?!”

Elaine: “?”

She knew that Jon was planning to abandon her. At once, she narrowed her eyes and retorted furiously, “I didn’t! All I did was badmouth her behind her back, but you were the one who really blew up the matter! Mr. Myers, don't forget that you even said that you wanted to drag Dr. Zabe into this! All just to deal with Nora! Because she is an Anderson, and because she gave the Andersons the Carefree Pill! I'm sure everyone in the alternative medicine circle is aware of your grievances with the Andersons. Don't think that you can whitewash yourself..."

"I was misled by you!"

While Jon and Elaine were having a dogfight with each other, Brenda sneered and took a step forward. "Excuse me, are the two of you done quarreling?"

Elaine and Jon immediately shut up and looked at Brenda. Elaine swallowed. "Captain Brenda, y-you must believe me. I have also been part of the police force. I will never do anything to betray the country..."

Jon also anxiously explained, "Ma'am, I really was wronged..."

Brenda's fiery crimson lips curled upward. She smiled and said, "I don't have the eyes that can see through everything. I'm not going to be able to tell if the two of you are spies or not,

SO..."

She stepped back. Then, her voice suddenly became frigid and she ordered, "Take them into custody and interrogate them in accordance with the regulations!"

"Yes, ma'am!"

As the exchange took place, another two people emerged from the students and caught Jon and Elaine on the left and right respectively!

Jon and Elaine panicked.

"Ma'am, I'm really not a spy. Listen to me..."

"Captain Brenda, I'm innocent. I just found Nora an eyesore, that's all. I did not betray the country..." Unfortunately, Brenda couldn't be bothered to listen to them. She curled her lips disdainfully and ordered, “Bring them back!” With a wave, her men immediately took out all the people they had just arrested, leaving behind only the New York University of Medicine students.

Nora glanced at them and followed Brenda out.

However, before she could step out, Shaw stopped her. “Anti, if you already had something planned, why didn’t you tell me in advance? I wouldn’t have had to make up that story for you. Who knows what the students are saying about me behind my back now?!”

Nora raised her eyebrows and said coolly with a smile, “It’s not like you’ll lose weight if someone ostracizes you a little.” Shaw: “...”

He heaved a huge sigh. “I don’t care, I have suffered a lot of physical and emotional damage because of this. I did it all for you, so you have to compensate me!”

Nora: “?”

Shaw then said, “Look at how passionate about learning our school is! Why don’t you stop being an external hire and just take up an official position in the school? What do you think of the position of deputy dean of the School of Neurosurgery?”

“No, Nora is Dad’s student. She should be working in the School of Alternative Medicine instead!”

Silvester’s son was the dean of the School of Alternative Medicine in the university. Upon hearing what Shaw said, he hurriedly rushed over.

Shaw panicked. “But I was the one who got Anti to become a professor here!”

“Heh, that’s because I didn’t say anything. If I were to make a request, do you think Nora would dare to refuse?”

While the two were arguing, Nora slipped away quietly. After going out, she took a deep breath and went straight to the special department. She was going to visit Trueman!

Nora had just left school when her phone rang.

She got into her jeep and picked up the call. Mr. Zabe's voice immediately sounded on the other end of the line. "Nora, where are you?"

Nora: "...Silvester, I still have something on. I'll take my leave."

Mr. Zabe said, "You can't leave. Let me tell you, I'm already old. I'm in my sixties and about to retire! The position of New York College of Traditional Medicine's director must be yours!"

As soon as he said this, she heard Dean Shaw's voice. "Anti, as the world's number one surgeon, you are destined to hold a scalpel. Don't be fooled by Mr. Zabe!"

"What fooled? This is my father's order! As my father's disciple, she should take over!"

"Heh, you know she's a disciple. But is Anti your disciple?!" "...Don't be unreasonable here. Let me tell you, it's a waste of Nora's talents to hold a scalpel!"

"Why is it a waste of talent? She can solve many unsolved human mysteries! She can provide great help to the advancement of medicine! It would be a waste of her talents if you make her study alternative medicine!"

"Tsk! Dean Shaw, you're shameless!"

"Mr. Zabe, you're the shameless one, aren't you? You're clearly threatening her by using your father to suppress Anti!"

As the two of them argued, Nora said, "Why don't..."

The voices on the other end stopped instantly. Then, Dr. Zabe and Dean Shaw spoke simultaneously. "Nora, who do you choose?"

“Anti, you can’t betray me! I lied just now because of you!”

“Heh, did Nora need you to lie? What an unnecessary move!” “...You!”

Seeing that the two of them were arguing again, Nora raised her eyebrows and suddenly said, “Sigh, Silvester, Dean Shaw, what are you guys talking about? I entered the tunnel and there’s no signal. We’ll talk later... Ah? My phone ran out of battery too? It’s switched off?”

With that, she turned off the phone, afraid that the two of them would call again.

It was... a headache.

Nora touched her forehead and kept driving.

It was finally quiet. 20 minutes later, she arrived at the special department. When she entered, she saw that the staff members were all very busy.

Voices could be heard from every interrogation room. Some people were still locked up in cells. As there were not enough interrogation rooms, they had not been interrogated yet.

There were probably too many people who had just been arrested.

Nora thought about this and walked straight into the interrogation room. It was as if he had heard that she was here, Morris welcomed her.

The man was still wearing his jacket and leather boots. His long legs were thin, making him look very capable and masculine.

Nora admired it silently for a while before retracting her gaze and asking, “Which interrogation room is Trueman in?”

Although there were not enough interrogation rooms, an important core member of a mysterious organization like Trueman would definitely be in the interrogation room.

The two of them had been texting for so long and had even exchanged messages. Nora was really curious about Trueman. She did not know what this person was like.

Unexpectedly, when she said this, Morris's expression froze. He lowered his eyes and said, "I didn't catch Trueman."

Nora: "??"

A question mark slowly appeared in her mind. When she was at the university, she had clearly heard Captain Ford rushing into the hotel through her Bluetooth earpiece.

They had found the other party's hotel. How could they not have caught Trueman?

As she was hesitating, Morris sighed. "Trueman escaped and was not in the hotel. We only caught a group of bodyguards. When we entered the hotel, we realized that Trueman had been on a video call with them."

Nora: "!!"

She frowned. "When did he escape?"

Morris shook his head. "I'm not sure. I was there personally to keep an eye on him, but I didn't sense him leaving at all. Besides, the bodyguards were all around, and he was the only one... It was as if he could predict that we would arrest him, so he ran away in advance!"

Nora was not very surprised by this conclusion.

Trueman seemed to have a high status in that mysterious organization. He had always been called Little Master. It was not unusual for such a person to be cautious.

Furthermore, it had been a few days since he checked into the hotel. If it were her, she would definitely have changed places.

She sighed. "What a pity."

"It's not a pity." Morris suddenly said, "Because we've captured many key figures this time, especially those bodyguards. They've all come into contact with the core information of the mysterious organization. The clues they can provide are definitely more than ever before!"

Nora nodded.

At this moment, she realized that Morris was looking at her. He seemed to want to say something but stopped himself.

Nora frowned and asked, "What are you trying to say?"

Morris was silent for a moment before saying, "We caught someone you know."

Nora: "?"

She asked in surprise, "Who?"

"... Caleb."

When Morris said this name, Nora was a little surprised!

Caleb's status in that organization should not be low. How could he be captured so easily?!

She frowned and asked, "How did they catch him? Are they sure he's related to the mysterious organization?"

Morris said, "When we rushed into the hotel room, Caleb was talking to Trueman. Trueman seemed to trust him very much. I'm sure he has a deep relationship with the mysterious organization!" Nora frowned.

Morris continued, "Because we still don't know Caleb's identity in the mysterious organization, we don't dare to torture him. But he hasn't said a word since he was arrested." Nora was about to say something when her phone suddenly rang. She picked up her phone and realized that it was Trueman who had sent her a message. "Little servant, I lost this game, but Caleb's health is not good. If possible, please give him a cup of hot water and the medicine found on him. He needs to take his medicine on time. Thank you." Nora: "..."

It was as if they were in cahoots!

She frowned and replied in front of Morris: "Why should I help you?"

Trueman: "Didn't you want to ask me some questions? I can answer them for you."

When she saw this, Nora's eyes narrowed.

She clenched her jaw and finally asked the biggest question in her heart: "Tell me first, how did I get pregnant back then?!"

She knew that at this point, Trueman was begging her to cooperate. He would not dare to lie to her! Therefore, she would definitely get an answer now!

After Nora sent the message, Trueman replied: "Give him the medicine first."

Nora: "..."

This person knew how to bargain.

She looked at Morris.

After all, they were in the special department. If Morris did not agree, this deal could not be completed.

Morris was silent for a moment. There was a look of deep thought on the man's determined face. Then he nodded, his cold facial features filled with determination. "Ok."

The two of them arrived at the storage area and saw the medicine Caleb had taken out when he was detained.

Nora looked at the medicine bottle. It was a medicine to treat coughs and also had some function to clear the lungs. In order to prevent Caleb from hurting himself, she even specially opened the medicine and took a look. The medicine inside was a mid-tier drug. She crushed a pill, smelled it, and tasted it. Finally, she nodded at Morris to confirm that the medicine was fine.

Morris turned around and brought Nora to the interrogation room.

The two of them came to the innermost interrogation room, completely made of metal. No matter how strong the person inside was, they could not escape.

Morris pushed open the dark iron door, making a creaking sound.

Nora saw Caleb sitting there immediately.

I saw

He placed his hands in front of him obediently and lowered his head. When he heard the sound, he did not turn around. It was as if nothing around him had anything to do with him.

He was coughing and holding a piece of tissue in his hand. There were traces of blood on the tissue.

“Cough, cough, cough!... Cough, cough, cough!”

The entire interrogation room was filled with his coughing sounds, making one feel uncomfortable.

Nora frowned.

She picked up a paper cup and took a cup of water from the water dispenser beside her. Then, she walked to Caleb and placed the medicine in front of him before handing him the water.

Caleb took the water and medicine. His hands were trembling slightly as he lowered his head and said, "Thank you."

This was the first thing Caleb had said after he was arrested.

Nora replied, "You're welcome."

Caleb's fingers paused slightly. Then, he looked up in surprise. When he saw Nora, he seemed to freeze.

Hesitation appeared in his eyes. Then, he returned to normal and took the medicine.

After taking the medicine, he drank the entire cup of water.

Seeing that Caleb still seemed to be coughing, Nora took the cup and walked to the water dispenser at the side. She helped him get another cup of water and handed it over again. Caleb stared at the cup and his gaze landed on Nora's slender and fair fingers.

He was silent for a moment before taking the cup and drinking again. However, he did not look at her again as if he was unfamiliar with her.

Nora looked at his expression and was slightly stunned.

The next moment, she realized. If the two of them acted too familiar, perhaps it would arouse the suspicions of the special department? That was why he was deliberately cold to her.

Nora hesitated for a moment before sitting opposite him.

Morris had already closed the door, cutting off the probing outside.

He sat down with Nora and took out a notebook and pen. It seemed like he needed to prepare some statements. "Mr. Gray, may I know what your relationship with Trueman is?"

Caleb coughed, but it was clearly much lighter than before. It should be because of the two glasses of water and the medicine.

He looked up at the two of them. “You don’t have to rack your brains to interrogate me. I won’t say anything. I have nothing to do with Trueman.”

The moment he said this, Morris said coldly, “If that’s the case, why would he text Nora to give you medicine? A person like him doesn’t care about the lives of others, but he gives you special treatment!”

Trueman was a very cold-blooded person.

So far, he had killed four people.

One of them was Abigail, and the other was Victor. After the two of them were defeated by Nora, one died on the spot, and the other was arrested. In the end, they died in their cells.

Then, he gave Hillary the drug, and she died from pain.

He even killed Yvonne.

Now, the other bodyguards were being tortured in all sorts of ways, but he did not care at all. He only cared for a sickly Caleb.

As soon as Morris finished speaking, Caleb suddenly raised his head. He stared at Morris and Nora in disbelief. Then, he said with a trembling voice, “Don’t make any deals with him!”

This sentence was filled with vigilance.

Nora frowned.

Morris hesitated for a moment and glanced at Nora.

Obviously, it was good progress now that Caleb was speaking after Nora entered!

Morris interrogated him. “Why? He only asked Miss Smith to give you medicine, and then he would answer some of her questions. This doesn’t seem to do Miss Smith any harm!”

Caleb’s expression became nervous. He said to Nora again, “Listen to me. Don’t make any deals with him!”

Nora: “...”

She frowned. “You should be more concerned about yourself!”

Caleb took a deep breath. He still lowered his head. Even in the dark interrogation room, he looked gentlemanly and refined.

His voice was rich and powerful. “Miss Smith, Captain Ford, you don’t have to waste your effort on me. I still say the same thing. I won’t say anything. You can torture me... Cough, cough, cough...”

A flurry of coughs interrupted him.

He coughed violently, looking as if he was going to cough his lungs out. It was unbearable to watch.

After this bout of coughing passed, he said, “My broken body is already riddled with holes. I won’t be afraid of any pain, so your torture is useless against me. Of course, you can try... Cough, cough, cough...” Nora and Morris looked at each other.

Without even trying, they knew that this violent cough would tear someone’s throat apart. His organs would definitely be very uncomfortable. At this time, any other stimulation would be good for him. He could divert his attention.

Besides...

Looking at Caleb’s body, he would probably not be able to survive if he was tortured too much.

This was also one of the reasons why Morris had not used torture.

Nora stood up and walked to Caleb. She reached out and pressed his wrist.

Caleb wanted to pull his wrist out, but Nora used a little strength and he could not break free. He could only frown and say, “Miss Smith, it’s useless even if you try. If it was possible, I would have let you treat me a long time ago. Cough, cough, cough...”

Nora frowned and ordered, “...Shut up.”

Alternative medicine practitioners hated it when patients moved or talked. They had to be calm. Her fierce words made Caleb choke. He could not even cough.

Time passed by slowly. Nora frowned tightly.

She looked at Caleb in disbelief. She seemed a little indignant as she closed her eyes again and continued to take his pulse.

A minute later, Nora opened her eyes in surprise.

Caleb retracted his hand silently and covered his mouth with the tissue beside him again. Because he was holding back his cough, his mouth tasted like blood.

He let out a shaky breath and some blood sprayed on the tissue.

It looked like he was going to vomit blood and die the next second...

Morris asked, “How is it?”

After learning that Nora was Dr. Zabe’s disciple, Morris trusted her medical skills even more.

Nora hesitated for a moment. Just as she was thinking what to say, Caleb said slowly, “End-stage lung cancer. I know.” Nora: “...”

She looked at Caleb in shock.

Caleb smiled. "I knew about this illness before I returned to the country, so I haven't asked you to take a look at it. It's useless because there aren't any good anti-cancer drugs."

Nora's mouth tightened.

Caleb coughed again and wiped the corner of his mouth. "You don't have to look at me like that. I know I won't live past thirty."

He was 29 years and 10 months old now. He only had two months to live.

Furthermore, lung cancer was a very torturous disease.

Actually, dying early was a form of relief.

Of course, he did not say that.

Nora nodded at Morris.

Morris's expression instantly darkened. Facing such a patient, the Special Case Department had no other means.

He looked at the guard at the door and said, "From now on, set a fixed time every day. Remember to give him medicine."

"Yes."

After giving his instructions, he then looked at Nora and gave her a look. Nora nodded.

She stood up. "Mr. Gray, you... have a good rest."

With that, she walked out with Morris.

However, just as she reached the door, she suddenly heard Caleb's voice. "Miss Smith, I have something to say to you."

Nora looked at him. "Please speak."

Caleb was silent for a long time before finally saying, “There may be some stones better left unturned because the truth will definitely be cruel.”

The truth was cruel...

Was he implying something?

Nora clenched her fists. “What do you mean?”

Caleb lowered his head, looking like he would not speak again. Nora left the interrogation room full of thoughts.

She arrived at the lobby of the special department with Morris. Then, Nora took out her phone and sent a message to Trueman. “He has taken the medicine. Do you need me to send you a video to prove it?”

Trueman replied quickly: “No need.”

Nora: “Then where’s my answer?”

Trueman’s reply this time was a little slow. He was probably editing the content. It took him five minutes to send a message. When she saw his answer, Nora’s eyes widened in shock...

Nora stared at her phone. She looked at the content of the message. She did not expect such a reply. She had imagined countless possibilities and guessed all kinds of situations, but she was unwilling to believe this.

Trueman’s message was very clear: “It’s artificial insemination.”

Artificial insemination... These four words allowed her to imagine that after she fell asleep back then, someone had entered her room and injected her body...

Even her giving birth was a conspiracy by others?

She clenched her fists tightly.

Morris was also staring at her phone at the side. As Trueman was involved in the mysterious organization's case, he had been observing their chats the entire time. When he saw this reply, he looked at Nora in surprise.

He had originally thought that Nora's children were born because she and Justin were truly in love. He did not expect this to be the case... He was in disbelief, let alone this woman.

Nora's fingers tightened around the phone. Her chin was clenched tightly and her face was expressionless, but one could vaguely feel the anger surging out of her.

From the first time Morris had met her, he had always felt that Nora had a calmness that could not be affected even if Mount Everest collapsed in front of her. It was as if nothing in the world could stump her.

Later on, he also realized that the girl was very skilled. Be it in alternative medicine or modern

An outstanding person should have their own pride.

At this moment, she must be feeling furious.

At the thought of this, Morris took a step back and decided not to look at her messages anymore. He did not want her to feel even more embarrassed and indignant.

Nora was indeed very angry.

She had clearly been working hard to learn all kinds of skills and knowledge since she was young. She was clearly not afraid of anything now, but how could she be controlled by others?

Even when giving birth, she was given no choice!

As she lowered her eyes and stared at her phone, Morris suddenly said, "It will take some time to interrogate all the people. This is not your specialty. Why don't you go back first?"

When Nora heard this, she narrowed her eyes.

She looked at Morris and nodded. "Okay."

With that, she turned and left.

After she left, someone came to Morris's side and said, "These people have very tough mouths. They haven't said anything yet."

Morris frowned. "Interrogate them again."

The other party nodded and sighed. "Our interrogation methods are indeed advanced, but they are still not top-notch. From what I know, the world's number one killer, Black Cat, has an interrogation method that can make criminals talk about anything!"

Morris glanced over.

The other party immediately shrugged.

Brenda appeared out of nowhere and said, "No matter how powerful Black Cat is, he's not in our special department. What's the point of saying this? Let's go. I'll accompany you to take a look."

As the two of them spoke, Morris's gaze was fixed on the door.

The girl's back was stubborn, but there was a sadness he had never seen before.

He suddenly wanted to comfort her, so he took two steps toward the door. When he reached the door, he suddenly saw a tall man standing in front of the girl's car in the parking lot...

Morris stopped in his tracks.

Nora lowered her head and walked to the jeep in an extremely bad mood. She took out her car keys and unlocked the car.

When she got closer, she suddenly looked up and saw Justin leaning against her car, looking at her silently.

The man had his back to the sun. His black suit made him look capable. His legs were thin and long, and he was wearing black leather boots.

On his fair skin, those dark eyes were staring at her deeply. The mole at the corner of his eye was obvious.

Nora was stunned to see him. She asked, "Why are you here?"

Justin opened the driver's seat door very naturally and got in. Nora walked around to the front passenger seat. After she sat down, the man started the car and answered her question. "I'm here to pick you up from work."

Nora: "..."

The two of them went back home. Nora was silent and did not say anything.

Justin seemed to have sensed her emotions and asked, "What's wrong?"

Nora suddenly looked at him. "I know how I got pregnant back then."

Justin was slightly stunned before he smiled. "How did you get pregnant?"

Nora saw that his expression was relaxed and pursed her lips before saying, "Artificial insemination. So the night you lost your memory, you were probably taken by someone..."

She did not say the rest, but Justin definitely understood.

Nora felt that her and Justin's lives had been plotted against. The moment he heard this, the man would definitely be very angry and furious.

Just like herself, he had a helpless resentment toward things that he could not control and was clearly schemed against.

Unexpectedly, Justin's expression was calm, as if he was not angry at all. He even answered casually, "Oh, what a pity."

Nora: "?"

Just as she was confused and did not understand what this meant, she heard him say, "Unfortunately, you didn't get pregnant naturally."

Nora: "!!"

She frowned and asked, "You're not angry?"

"No."

Justin answered simply with one word. At a red light ahead, he stopped the car and waited. He turned to look at Nora. The man smiled and said, "Actually, I've never been interested in how you got pregnant. I only know one thing." Nora was stunned. "What is it?" "I'm very happy and thankful that you're the mother of my children. I'm even thankful to the person who schemed against me."

Nora: "??"

She frowned. "What kind of thinking is that? If it were someone else, would this matter be any different from... being raped?" Justin smiled when he heard this. "I'm not angry because it's you!"

The light turned green. Justin looked ahead and started the car, his deep eyes staring at the road ahead.

There was something he did not say.

If the two of them did not have a child, he probably would not have had any interactions with Nora in this life, right?

At the Smiths.

Ian and Joel were sitting on the sofa, anxiously waiting for news from the Medical University.

The matters over there had just been settled. The reporters had not released any news yet. Nora's phone was switched off again, so they did not know the results.

At this moment, the butler walked in. "Mrs. Hunt is here."

Ian frowned. "What?"

With that, Mrs. Hunt walked in and smiled. "Ian, I'm here today for the marriage between Justin and Miss Smith."

Ian pursed her lips. "Mrs. Hunt, why would they get married?"

Mrs. Hunt smiled and lowered her eyes. She sat on the opposite side of the sofa and did not have the attitude of asking for Nora's hand in marriage. Instead, she looked high and mighty. "Miss Smith has caused so much trouble and gone to the School of Medicine to participate in some debate today. I heard that Dr. Zabe sent his most capable disciple to the school. I'm afraid Miss Smith won't get any benefits this time!"

Hearing this, Ian and Joel looked at each other, their eyes filled with worry.

Initially, the Smiths had planned to help with this matter. Ian and Joel had many plans to handle this matter.

However, when Nora found out about it, she only told the two of them not to worry. She had a way to stop them from interfering and ruining her plan. That was why the two of them did not make a move.

On one hand, they believed that Nora had the ability to handle it.

On the other, they were still worried.

Hearing Mrs. Hunt's words, Joel said, "Are you sure Dr. Zabe's last disciple has gone there? Is he... the one who treated someone's pulse through a curtain?"

When Nora was young, she had come to New York with Henry. She had once gone to look for Dr. Zabe. Coincidentally, someone questioned the ability of Dr. Zabe's last disciple. Therefore, Dr. Zabe let Nora take someone's pulse through a curtain. His medical skills instantly got their fame back.

Therefore, all these years, although Nora had never traveled around New York, the fact that Dr. Zabe's last disciple had good medical skills was recognized by the alternative medicine world!

When they heard that Dr. Zabe's disciple was going, Joel and Ian became worried.

Mrs. Hunt smiled. "Yes, that's the one! So, I'm afraid Miss Smith is in trouble this time. I wonder if the Smiths have prepared some follow-up public relations plans? We can't let Miss Smith become a pest in the medical world, right? Also, I heard that many people at the school are proposing to remove her from her position as an external professor! If that happens... Will she really have to hide overseas?"

Mrs. Hunt's words seemed to be filled with concern for Nora, but every word seemed certain that Nora would not be able to get through this.

Ian frowned. "You don't have to worry about this! After all, this is our family's business!"

Mrs. Hunt smiled. "Ian, I have a suggestion this time. I have a way to let her avoid this matter!"

Filed to Story:

Joel and Ian looked at each other again. They both felt that there was no way this old witch could be so kind?

Joel narrowed his eyes and asked unhappily, "What way?"

Mrs. Hunt did not sense his unhappiness at all. She smiled. “If Miss Smith marries Justin, with the power of our families, we will definitely not let her suffer in New York!”

Joel and Ian frowned.

Mrs. Hunt continued, “In the past, the two families had an engagement. Now that the two children like each other, our family is not one forget righteousness when it comes to benefits. If we see that Miss Smith is in trouble, we can’t do something like trying to clear our ties. Therefore, once Miss Smith becomes Madam Hunt, even if she does something ridiculous, who in New York would dare to rush in front of her and say nonsense?”

She said, “This is a mutually beneficial thing. Ian, you won’t reject me this time, right?”

With that, she smiled at Ian. The wrinkles on her face were almost sticking together! Ian sneered. “Who said Nora would definitely lose? Don’t you have any confidence in her?”

Mrs. Hunt immediately said, “It’s not that I’m not confident in her. I’m just too confident about the last disciple of Dr. Zabe! We don’t care about alternative or modern medicine. As long as she can treat illnesses, she will be a good doctor. But do you know that the last disciple of Dr. Zabe developed Zabe Corporation’s Calming Pill?”

At the mention of this, Ian and Joel’s expressions turned a little ugly.

Yvonne had spent a lot of money to buy a pill, but she did not give it to Ian, who needed it more. Instead, she had given it to Mrs. Hunt to curry her favor.

At that time, Joel was angry.

Later, when something happened to Ian at the Hunts, he had used that pill... It was as if the gift from the Smiths was being taken back!

Speaking of which, the Smiths did owe Mrs. Hunt for this matter.

Joel lowered his eyes. Just as he was about to say that he would pay a high price again to buy Zabe Corporation's Calming Pill, he heard Mrs. Hunt continue, "That pill is a priceless treasure. As for that pill, it's a little overboard to say that it can bring the dead back to life. However, at the critical moment, it's still useful to save lives! Not to mention that Ian used this pill to extend his life back then, later on, when I returned to my mother's house, my sister-in-law suddenly had a cerebral hemorrhage. At that time, the family doctor said that there was no hope. However, I took out that pill and fed it to her. Even when she was sent to the hospital, she was still breathing and had recovered!"

Mrs. Hunt was full of praise as she said, "So, I don't have to say much about the effects of Zabe Corporation's Calming Pill, right? And how skilled must be the person who can make it? He must have already mastered alternative medicine! In that case, he can be considered my sister-in-law's savior! How much of a chance does Nora have of winning against him?"

When Ian and Joel heard this, they felt even more uncertain.

Actually, if Nora won this debate, people would at most say that she was young and frivolous. She had the true ability, so it was nothing.

The worst outcome was that they would be mocked if they lost! If Dr. Zabe's disciple really arrived, would Nora really lose? As the two of them were thinking, the butler at the door spoke again. "Sir, someone from the Andersons is here."

The Andersons?

Ian hurriedly said, "Please come in!"

With that, Simon and Melissa walked in quickly. The moment they entered, Simon looked around and asked anxiously, "Where's Nora?"

Before Ian could speak, Mrs. Hunt said, "You guys heard about Miss Smith too, so you're anxious, right? She hasn't returned yet! She might have lost the competition and lost face..."

Simon was surprised to hear this. “Lost the competition? How could she have lost? Sheril called just now to tell us about the competition. She didn’t lose!”

Mrs. Hunt said confidently, “How is that possible? I received news that Dr. Zabe’s last disciple has gone there to participate in the debate. How could Miss Smith win?”

Simon looked at her and said with a strange expression, “Do you not know who Dr. Zabe’s last disciple is?”

He was shocked to hear the news and had come to seek confirmation!

Mrs. Hunt sneered. “It doesn’t matter who it is. Even if it’s the Hunts or the Andersons, we can’t give in to her in this matter... After all, this is a conflict between alternative and modern medicine! Unless... Miss Smith is that last disciple, this matter won’t end well!”

Mrs. Hunt had just finished speaking when Simon smiled and asked, “How did you know?”

Mrs. Hunt: ?? What did she know?

She looked at Simon in surprise and recalled what she had just said. Then, she was stunned. It couldn’t be what she had said...

Ian and Joel were also stunned as they frowned at Simon.

At this moment, the sound of a car stopping could be heard from the door. Then, Nora and Justin walked into the living room. The two of them had just entered when they were stunned to see the people in the room.

Nora’s gaze swept past Mrs. Hunt and the Andersons. She called out in surprise, “Simon, Melissa why are you guys here?”

Simon immediately welcomed her with a smile. “We came to see you. What other surprises do you have that we don’t know about?! You’re Dr. Zabe’s last disciple?!”

As soon as he said this, Ian almost stood up from the wheelchair, but his legs softened and he sat back down.

Joel was slightly surprised.

The person who was the most shocked was Mrs. Hunt. She stood up suddenly and held the butler's hand. Then, she looked at Nora and Simon in shock. "What... what did you say? She... she's Dr. Zabe's last disciple?"

"That's right!"

Simon smiled. "When Sheril called to tell us, I couldn't believe it!"

At this point, his eyes turned red. "Yvette's medical skills really have a successor! Nora, you must continue to learn from Dr. Zabe and try to surpass him!"

Melissa immediately pushed him and smiled. "What are you talking about? The child will definitely be more outstanding!"

Simon instantly nodded. He took out a tissue and wiped his tears. Then, he looked at Nora. "You've really brought glory to Andersons! As expected of Yvette's daughter!"

Melissa also said, "Yes, you're outstanding in not only alternative but also modern medicine... You really surprise us! What else are you good at?"

Nora: "Actually, it's nothing."

As soon as she said this, Cherry's voice was heard. "Mommy, don't you know how to hack as well?"

Simon smiled. "Oh, do you know programming?" Nora: "...A little."

"Tsk!"

A laugh sounded. Nora turned around and saw Justin suppressing his laughter and saying, "Yes, just a teensy bit." Nora glared at him and motioned for him not to say anything. Simon smiled. "It's okay. If you like it, you can treat it as a hobby! You don't have to be too good at it. The two things that cross borders in medicine are already the best!"

"Yes, there are specialists in every field!" Melissa agreed. The two of them looked at Nora with eyes almost glowing

While the few of them were chatting, Ian looked at Mrs. Hunt again. When he saw her shocked expression, he said, "Mrs. Hunt, why are you so agitated over such a small matter? Nora is only average at alternative medicine. She just happened to create Zabe Corporation's Calming Pill and happened to save your sister-in-law's life. She's just your family's benefactor. Don't be so agitated. Calm down!"

Mrs. Hunt felt like she had been slapped in the face and was speechless.

Joel's lips twitched.

Uncle Ian, who was the one who stood up in shock and fell back down! He spoke as if he was very calm...

However, he could not poke Ian's sore spot. He smiled and said, "Uncle Ian and Aunt Anderson were both outstanding figures back then. How could the child you two gave birth to be any less capable? Nora's intelligence and genes are definitely stronger than yours! Now, no one will dare to slander Nora anymore, right? I want to see who in New York dares to look down on her?"

Mrs. Hunt's face turned even redder.

Simon raised his chin and said proudly, "Back then, Yvette's suitor shook the entire New York. Almost all the young talents liked her! Now that Nora is so outstanding, who would dare to look down on her? Nora is the second Yvette!"

Mrs. Hunt knew what they were hinting at.

Back then, people who wanted to marry Yvette could line up for days! They were indirectly praising Nora!

When Mrs. Hunt thought of what she had just said, she was instantly furious. She jabbed the walking stick in her hand on the ground and said angrily, “Miss Smith can’t compare to Yvette back then, right? After all, Yvette didn’t have two children! No matter how good Miss Smith is, some people will still be calculative about this! I think it’s better if she’s with the children’s biological father.”

Ian frowned.

Justin’s face darkened. “Grandmother!”

Mrs. Hunt instantly smiled. “Alright, don’t be angry. I’m done talking. I just heard that the Smiths were looking for a son-in-law a few days ago! But I haven’t seen many people coming. The only one who came seems to be that Blaine? Look, wealthy families still care about this...”

The Smiths fell silent.

Mrs. Hunt’s words were very true. There were indeed no outstanding people coming to seek Nora’s hand in marriage. After all, many wealthy families would shrink back at the sight of a woman with a burden.

Unexpectedly, the butler rushed in hurriedly after that. He looked a little anxious. “Sir, something bad has happened! A group of people has gathered outside! They said they want to marry Miss Nora!”
