Chapter 1301 I Should Be Killing Mira

Yun Jian was Slaying God!

The sudden realization of reality horrified Xina.

She was terrified. Did she actually offend the head of An Hun Group and the boss of Gu Sha Mercenaries just to pander to Mira?

While she thought about that, Yun Jian's voice was heard saying, "Snow Eagle, have you fetched the saw?"

"It's here." Snow Eagle who was summoned went up to Yun Jian with the saw in his hand and passed it over.

The saw was one that farmers used to chop down trees. When it could chop even trees, it was only a matter of time for it to cut a person's legs. Of course, cutting a person's legs with this saw-without any anesthesia-was no doubt a torturing death.

Yun Jian who accepted the saw placed it gently on Mira's well-maintained fair legs that were splayed below her shorts. With a soft glide, the sharp saw grazed Mira's fair and smooth thighs, making blood spurt.

"No! No! Sob..." Mira was shaking in fear but she was unable to move when Yun Jian had her foot firmly planted on the back of her waist.

Yun Jian crouched down and patted Mira's face lightly before her airy voice sounded above Mira. "This saw is quite sharp, just nice to cut your legs and arms. Hmm... I'll cut your legs first then your arms. Then I'll dig your heart out. We'll do it slowly. No hurry, okay?"

It was as if Yun Jian was talking to herself but Mira was scared witless.

"No, no... I'm wrong, I shouldn't have killed that woman. I'll do anything you want... Why don't-why don't I ask my dad not to form an alliance with Gu Sha Mercenaries? As long as you don't kill me! Don't kill me..."

It was Mira's first time feeling the fear of being at the brink of death. She could now feel Maena's struggle before her death clearly. It was just that she had become the subject this time.

Before Mira could finish, Yun Jian had already lifted the saw and dragged it over one of Mira's thighs harshly.

"Arghh!"

Mira nearly fainted from the abrupt pain but Yun Jian kept a hard press on her philtrum, preventing her from passing out. Mira would rather she fall unconscious at this moment.

"Yun Jian..." While Yun Jian planned to sever Mira's leg with the saw directly, a weak voice called out for her. She turned to see Duoya looking at her and talking to her with a pale face.

“Hmm?” Yun Jian stopped what she was doing and faced Duoya.

There was a pause from Duoya before she plucked her courage and told Yun Jian, “Yun Jian, she killed Na. I want to avenge for Na. I should be killing Mira!”

Even when Duoya had already known Yun Jian’s identity, she could still look at her in the eyes. Although she was slightly fearful, Duoya was already much braver than most men here to be able to step up after knowing Yun Jian’s identity.

“Yes, we should be the ones killing Mira!” Charlotte clenched her fists. Her eyes were rimmed red but she suppressed her urge to bawl and looked at Yun Jian like Duoya did.

Yun Jian narrowed her eyes at what they said. Looking at Duoya and Charlotte’s determination, she liked it a lot. With a small, unnerving smirk, she said after a two-second silence, “Sure.”

Chapter 1302 Do Both of You Want to Join?

Yun Jian answered and looked down at Mira who was kept under her foot. Since she had pressed on Mira’s philtrum, the latter remained conscious. What Yun Jian wanted was for her to be in excruciating pain that she wished she was dead.

With a light toss, Yun Jian threw the saw to Duoya and Charlotte without even looking up at them.

Duoya caught the saw smoothly and dashed to Mira holding it with reddened eyes. As she bolted to Mira with the saw, she cried aloud, “Die!”

The next second, Duoya swung the saw down on Mira’s thigh and sawed it vehemently, severing Mira’s thigh off straightaway!

The leg was completely separated from Mira’s body!

Mira’s pained shrieks rang instantly but she could not fight it since Yun Jian was pressing hard on her philtrum. Her screeches resounded in the air but no one cared.

Scre

After Duoya chopped Mira’s leg off, she suddenly recalled how no one in the crowd was sympathetic and there were even men who enjoyed the sight whistling when Maena was tormented to death as Mira cut her breasts off earlier.

Duoya brought the saw up to cut Mira’s other leg but Charlotte snatched it from her in a frenzy...

In the end when Mira’s four limbs were severed, she passed out completely even with her philtrum pressed.

Yun Jian stood aside, watching Duoya and Charlotte take turns and saw Mira’s limbs off of her, mutilating her into pieces. It was until Mira took her last breath that Duoya and Charlotte stood before Yun Jian with their hands gripped tight.

Mira’s death was a revenge for Maena, at most. Maena was dead. Mira’s death could not have brought her back.

Yun Jian looked down but did not turn away. Si Yi who stood behind her wrapped her into his embrace and ordered Snow Eagle who was at the back, "Kill everyone here."

Snow Eagle naturally knew that it did not include Duoya, Charlotte and a few others. "What?! You want to kill us?!" "Why?!"

The crowd was horrified when they heard what Si Yi said and began to flee for their lives. Even if all of them worked together and joined forces, they would not be able to rival Snow Eagle. Moreover, those who were targeted by the head of An Hun Group were bound to be dead!

V

There was no way for the crowd not to flee encountering something like this, so they ran off in berserk.

Qing You who saw the situation stepped up and helped Snow Eagle kill those who were escaping as well.

The biggest regret Xina had before her death was that she had rushed to help Mira recklessly and dumbly only to have herself killed in the end. She regretted provoking the devil, Yun Jian!

Corpses littered the surrounding space but Yun Jian and Si Yi looked unfazed. The dead were something more than common to either of them.

It should be when one was in the assassination field. One deserved their death if one was not strong enough.

It was because Yun Jian and Si Yi were strong enough, so the rest of the crowd deserved their deaths.

Yun Jian stayed in Si Yi's arms as the latter hugged her from the back, dipping his head lightly to take in the faint fragrance she exuded.

Yun Jian extended a hand to Duoya and Charlotte. With a press of lips, she asked after a while, "Do both of you want to join Gu Sha Mercenaries?"

She was happy with what Duoya and Charlotte did just now. If they were trained seriously, they would definitely become talented elites in the field!

Hearing what Yun Jian said, Duoya and Charlotte snapped their heads up in shock.

Chapter 1303 Whose Is This? Come Claim It

There was as if a flash of resolution in Yun Jian's eyes that Duoya and Charlotte were dazed by. The two of them had not expected this from Yun Jian at all.

"Do both of you want to join Gu Sha Mercenaries?"

An honor like this was something Duoya and Charlotte had never fantasized about. They did not have the wild wish of Yun Jian inviting them to join Gu Sha Mercenaries just because they had saved her, the boss, before either.

Duoya and Charlotte were well aware that they had to work hard and fight for any success. They had never dreamed of Yun Jian repaying their favor when they saved her back then.

Therefore, both of them were shocked when they heard Yun Jian's offer.

If it were anyone else, they would have nodded their head directly to join the organization first without a care for anything else.

That was not what Duoya and Charlotte did.

“We...” Duoya looked at the ground and was going to continue speaking when Yun Jian beat her to it.

“Don’t worry. I’ve never asked trash to join Gu Sha Mercenaries and I don’t look at favors either. I’ve invited you both to join Gu Sha Mercenaries because I see the potential in you!”

“I’m only the scouting eyes for talents.”

This was what Duoya and Charlotte were worried about. They were unlike others; they wanted to survive in the world depending on their own capability and not rely on their family or friends, or a lover’s influence, boasting and bragging, like Mira or Xina.

They wanted to become strong themselves! They wanted to be like Yun Jian and depended on no one!

“Okay! I’ll join!” Duoya suddenly flashed a smile at Yun Jian.

“I’ll join too!” Charlotte gripped her fists.

They wanted to become strong-only then would they not be bullied! Only then... would they not have to go through something similar like earlier where they had to watch Mira kill Maena yet could do nothing about it.

“I welcome the both of you then.” Yun Jian smiled, a sharp gleam glinting in her eyes.

She had only offered Duoya and Charlotte to join, not caring about the rest. She did not extend the offer to weaklings and the friends of Duoya and Charlotte yet to qualify. Anyone Yun Jian had asked to join Gu Sha Mercenaries was someone she foresaw as a potential! She did not take in trash!

The garden Yun Jian and others were at was some distance away from the banquet hall the tea party was held in.

Snake. Lizard was already here in tea party’s banquet hall, currently standing in the center of it with her arms crossed.

Plenty of people recognized her and went up to her to strike a conversation but she ignored all of them, keeping up a cold and aloof front.

“You... Elder Snake.Lizard, hello! I’m Meru, the European armaments tycoon. We met last time and I’ve suggested to form an alliance with Gu Sha Mercenaries then. It should have a conclusion by now?”

The man who called himself Meru bowed before Snake.Lizard and talked to her reverently. Meru was Mira’s father, the European armaments tycoon.

“Forgot about it.” Snake.Lizard stood rooted with her arms crossed and disregarded Meru.

Meru looked awkward at her answer but he continued to push. It was then the doors opened suddenly and a beautiful teenage girl walked in with a gorgeous young man. There was another handsome man who followed them at the back.

Said handsome man held a gunny sack of something in a hand before he tossed it in front of everyone else.

What the sack contained rolled out directly. It was a body without limbs; the body had already hardened but one could recognize who it was from the face.

Yun Jian scanned the surrounding and asked icily, "Whose thing is this? Come claim it."

Chapter 1304 Go Home for Milk. Defy Me and Die

It was an ice-cold corpse without any limb that was tossed out of the gunny sack Snow Eagle held. Meru turned to look in slight curiosity only to shriek in horror at the same time, "Ah! Darling? My daughter! Mira?!" Mira had always been the apple of Meru's eyes and was coddled and spoiled. Meru himself found it reasonable. Therefore, when he knew that Mira was in love with killing people gruesomely, not only had he not stopped her, he fetched her a bunch of living people so she could have her fun and kill them in various cruel and brutal ways.

That was right. Mira had liked killing someone in the most sadistic way since she was young.

Like how she had killed Maena just now, Mira had cut the latter's breasts off when she was fully conscious and breathing. Watching Maena's breasts get cut off that way and die was something fun and interesting to Mira.

Meru had always condoned his daughter because he was capable of allowing her to do that to others. Now that he saw his most treasured daughter had her four limbs severed and tossed to the floor like trash then heard Yun Jian call her a thing— "Whose thing is this? Come claim it," the simple words transformed Meru from his initial calm to wanting to squash Yun Jian to death and rip her into pieces.

"Ah! My baby girl, argh!" Meru screamed and growled, his face flushing red visibly. His face had turned red because of his wrath.

As Yun Jian looked at Meru's enraged face, she narrowed her eyes with a hint of murderous intent flashing across them. She then hooked a finger at Meru mockingly. There was a pause after that before she said, "Your daughter killed my friend."

With that said, Yun Jian reeled back her smirk and her expression turned cold abruptly.

"So she has to pay for it!" she said icily.

There was another pause before she pointed her finger at Meru.

"The price is... your position as the European armaments tycoon!" Yun Jian announced brazenly.

She had the audacity because she had the capability to back herself up. She was arrogant because she could afford to be!

Once she overtook Meru's place as the European armaments tycoon, Yun Jian would obtain all of Meru's wealth and influence.

The tycoon of the European armaments supply was not an ordinary small-fry or an insignificant position. If Yun Jian were to acquire the identity, it would double up Gu Sha Mercenaries' status in the world!

What Yun Jian said made the others gasp, especially those high rankers on the assassin or secret agent charts who had come here from all over the world.

Seeing a teenage girl like Yun Jian barge in and declare pompously that she wanted Meru to hand over his position as the European armaments tycoon with a dainty finger of hers, they thought that the girl must have lost her mind.

“Pft-hahaha! Little girl, why are you here for show-and-tell instead of being home for your mommy’s milk? Haha!” Someone who was amused by Yun Jian guffawed holding his tummy and went three meters in front of Yun Jian.

The other guests who were affected by the man’s laughter began to laugh as well.

While the man who was three meters in front of Yun Jian kept laughing, Yun Jian suddenly side-eyed him and stretched her arm; a blade flew over an arc to the man’s neck in a speed that bare eyes could not catch.

The blade slit his throat!

The laughter of the man who had been laughing died in his throat as he collapsed to the floor in the next second.

Everyone else who was laughing and mocking Yun Jian for being a mere child clammed their mouth shut instantly. The hall fell silent.

They then heard Yun Jian’s cold voice resonating in the vicinity, “Defy me and die!”

Chapter 1305 Half of Your Forces

Meru had been growling to charge forward but that impulse faltered in the next second because the man who had mocked Yun Jian just now was killed by a flying knife from her! The girl was definitely not as simple as she seemed!

Meru’s plan to rush forward and kill Yun Jian on the spot was abruptly held back. He was the European armaments tycoon after all. To be able to ascend his way to this position that countless people were eager to take over, it meant that Meru was not someone who acted on his impulses.

Even when his daughter was viciously murdered, Yun Jian’s terrifying display of skill caused Meru to only be able to stand farther away and glare at her resentfully. Compared to Meru, the other guests were baffled. Those who had mocked Yun Jian together with the man who had just been killed shut their mouth.

It was silent in the hall. The crowd watched Yun Jian walk over to Meru while Si Yi who was next to Yun Jian did the same. Snow Eagle who was behind them followed as well. Qing You, Duoya and her friends did not make their way over as Qing You was still contacting Gu Sha Mercenaries to take care of what happened earlier. It was then someone in the crowd recognized Snow Eagle who was behind Yun Jian and Si Yi. “H-he’s one of An-An Hun Group’s four commanders, Snow Eagle?”

The exclamation shocked everyone that even Meru’s eye twitched. He gripped his fists, however, for Yun Jian had killed his daughter! He was not going to let her off the hook!

As he thought about that, he suddenly felt a tall and lean figure who felt cold and distant walk past him.

It was Snake. Lizard, with her alluring figure, who was walking toward Yun Jian with a sway of hips.

Meru's heart thumped at the sight. Looking at Snake. Lizard's icy expression and Yun Jian who looked equally aloof, he thought that Snake.Lizard had grudges against Yun Jian! Now that she was making her way to Yun Jian, was she...

"Elder Snake. Lizard, as long as you kill her for me and avenge for my daughter, I'll give you half of my wealth and forces!" Meru wanted nothing more than for Yun Jian to be torn into pieces, so he was willing to sacrifice what he had.

As long as Yun Jian who had murdered his poor daughter could be killed, Meru did not mind giving out half of his wealth and forces!

He knew that what he offered was tempting and assumed that Snake.Lizard would definitely agree to it. After all, obtaining half of the influences he had as the European armaments tycoon could further strengthen Gu Sha Mercenaries' international status! Moreover, killing this teenage girl before them should be a piece of cake to Snake.Lizard.

Meru's offer did not receive Snake.Lizard's response but he was confident that she would help him kill Yun Jian.

Watching Snake. Lizard go to Yun Jian while the latter furrowed her brows, Meru was even more certain of his thoughts. To have Snake. Lizard kill Yun Jian faster, Meru had even shouted at her, "Hurry! Hurry up and kill her! Kill her! Kill her and I'll give you half of my wealth and forces!"

Meru's face had gone crimson in rage.

Just as he finished, though, he heard Yun Jian asking, "I'm only worth half of your armaments status? I might as well kill you and take everything you have, isn't that more worth it?"

Yun Jian's words bewildered everyone. What was this girl talking about?

While they wondered, Snake. Lizard had come to Yun Jian.

Before she could speak, a man suddenly came in through the door and looked around before locking his gaze on Yun Jian. He made his way over and called out to her, "SG! You're here. Sister Snake.Lizard's been looking for you." The man was Berserk Dragon. It was only after that Snake.Lizard nodded her head at Yun Jian. "Sister Jian."

Chapter 1306 Never Intervenes in Any Dispute

Once Berserk Dragon and Snake.Lizard spoke, everyone in the hall looked toward Yun Jian with terrorized eyes. All of them stared at her.

SG?

While the regular people Yun Jian had known prior to this did not know what SG stood for, no one standing here was uninformed of the initials' significance.

Other than Slaying God, no one else in this profession could be called SG!

Furthermore, Snake. Lizard had addressed Yun Jian respectfully!

“That man’s An Hun Group’s Berserk Dragon and he’s recently joined Gu Sha Mercenaries! This means that this girl here is S-Slaying God!”

Yun Jian had attended larger scaled events like this in her past life too but each time she appeared, it had still stirred exclamations from everyone around her. Of course, other than gasps from the lesser significant ones, the big shots narrowed their eyes and looked challengingly at Yun Jian.

Meru’s ability was not to be underestimated but in events like this, the rank of his identity was only close to the bottom. When he heard that Yun Jian was Slaying God and recalled how he asked Snake.Lizard to kill her, he felt like a thunderbolt struck him as he stood frozen on the spot. Yun Jian was indifferent to either the guests’ shock or skepticism. She only frowned a little.

Back when she attended events like this, she used face masks and divine disguising skill to transform herself completely.

Everyone in the profession knew this, so even when they had seen her, no one would go after Slaying God based on what she looked like. As time passed, no one would do something foolish like this.

Yun Jian also knew that despite showing her true face today, those who were here would still assume that she was attending with a face mask and no one would investigate her using this face. Even if there were, she had ways to nip it in the bud before the person wanted to track her down.

Gu Sha Mercenaries was incapable of doing these in the past but the current Yun Jian was able to do it, so she no longer had to disguise herself!

The outsiders assumed that she was mysterious in her past life but the reason Yun Jian did not expose herself back then was because she was scared of not being capable to protect herself once her identity was exposed! After all, there were excellent and skilled individuals everywhere in the world-and countless of them were eager for her spot of being the top on the secret agent chart.

Yun Jian had stretched her hand toward Meru, taking two steps toward him without a change in expression, and said, “Hand over your European armaments authority and I’ll let you keep an intact corpse when you die!”

Yun Jian had never been one to act impulsively.

To be honest, it was not just for Maena when she came to Meru today. Maena’s death was an excuse. What Yun Jian wanted had been Meru’s control over the weaponry market in Europe!

Snow Eagle who stood diagonally behind Si Yi knew that the latter was not planning to disclose his own identity once he received a look from Si Yi. Despite that, he also knew that his young master must be willing to do anything if it meant it would protect Yun Jian.

Snow Eagle gulped and cleared his throat lightly before turning to look at others. “An Hun Group has reached an agreement with Gu Sha Mercenaries. From now on, anything to do with Gu Sha Mercenaries has to do with An Hun Group! Anyone who defies it is an enemy to An Hun Group!”

Snow Eagle’s declaration felt like a bomb dropped in the crowd. Everyone knew about An Hun Group’s significance.

It was so powerful that its armed forces could compare to a developed country. Fortunately, it had never intervened in any dispute and had stayed neutral all this while. Did it make an exception for Gu Sha Mercenaries' boss, Slaying God, today? Huh? Why?!

Chapter 1307 Newlyweds. Come On Up

If people there knew that this was the expression of love by An Hun Group's head to Gu Sha Mercenaries' boss, they would most probably be stupefied.

Meru who had clung to a sliver of hope just now was thoroughly crushed at this point. Forget about a small European armaments tycoon like him, the late Inferno Ring that was known worldwide was previously annihilated through the union of Gu Sha Mercenaries and An Hun Group!

"I'm doomed-doomed! My lifetime effort... it's all doomed..."

Meru was well aware of his current situation. He howled at the sky with both arms out like he had lost his mind before falling to the floor and going completely limp. He was doomed. There would never be no one to take over as the tycoon of the European armaments business but offend Slaying God-offend the boss of Gu Sha Mercenaries and he could forget about staying alive! The others paled in fright as well, affected by Meru's cries.

"Liz, all yours," Yun Jian told Snake.Lizard after another nonchalant glance at Meru.

"Sure." Snake.Lizard nodded.

Meru was unable to escape his fate-death. Taking the person out once and for all was Yun Jian's principle. She would not allow Meru a chance to start over.

Although Yun Jian was more or less a free boss since she had passed some of the organization matters to Snake.Lizard and Tiger.Leopard, she still personally managed most major decisions.

Si Yi tugged her away and left before the third international mafia tea party ended.

The gathering began early in the morning and would go on until 12am. It was just that Yun Jian was pulled away by Si Yi halfway through the event. The guests noticed it but no one dared make any comment. That was Slaying God!

Si Yi was not bothered by An Hun Group's matters at all. It had always been Snow Eagle executing his orders. If Yun Jian were not attending this tea party, Si Yi was certainly not coming; since she decided to attend, things were different.

Qing You, who had just taken care of what happened earlier and entered the banquet hall, saw Snake.Lizard and Berserk Dragon who stood next to her. Blinking, she went over to them and asked looking at Snake.Lizard, "Master, where's Sister Jian?"

Snake.Lizard turned around at the question and was about to answer when Snow Eagle who was nearby took her turn.

Since no one was standing around Snow Eagle at that moment, he told Qing You openly, "It's been a while since young master went out with young madam."

Qing You did not pursue it further hearing his reply.

Country B was mostly surrounded by deserts that it rarely had green pastures. Water sources were scarce too. Nonetheless, the location of the tea party was fixed at the most developed area in Country B even though said area looked like Country Z's most impoverished area.

Commonly, though, anywhere with a water source would be the country's most developed location.

There was a long river nearby with fishermen catching fish on their boats. The river was rather wide as well, so it made good sense to row boats there.

Si Yi held Yun Jian's hand all the way to the river and saw a pair of husband and wife who had docked their fishing boat by the riverbank.

No matter how poor the locals were, they were not greedy for money. Si Yi did not want to ruin the original order that was there either, so he took Yun Jian over directly. Smiling, he spoke to the fisherman who was standing by the riverbank in fluent local dialect.

Yun Jian knew how to speak Country B's language but like Country Z, each area in Country B had its own local dialect.

Since Si Yi was talking to the fisherman husband and wife in the local dialect, Yun Jian did not understand it.

The woman chuckled with a hand over her mouth when she heard what Si Yi said, then she told Yun Jian in Country B's language, "You're newlyweds huh... Come on up! Young lady, your husband loves you very much!"

Chapter 1308 Superbly Soundproof

What the fisherman's wife said momentarily stunned Yun Jian. Did she just call her and Si Yi... husband and wife?

She turned to look at Si Yi in a trance.

Si Yi was tall and even though Yun Jian was not short, she was not as tall as he was, so she looked delicate and fragile standing next to him.

When Yun Jian looked up, she was met with Si Yi's sculpted jaw. His gorgeous facial outline warmed her heart.

When the fisherman's wife—the woman who spoke just now—saw it, she giggled behind her hand even more gleefully. She then extended a hand to pull Yun Jian into the boat hospitably and told her, "Lovey-dovey newlyweds, yes? You two make a great match! The young man is so handsome and pampers you so much. Young lady, you're very lucky!"

The woman had tugged Yun Jian onto the boat as she spoke and even patted the back of Yun Jian's hand and told her, "Ah, mine wasn't even this nice to me back then. If he'd treated me this nicely, I'd have given him everything I could!"

The woman was joking with Yun Jian but Yun Jian was flummoxed hearing her compliment toward Si Yi. She turned to look at him with confusion written over her eyes. What had she said just now to cause the fisherman's wife to praise him like this?

Si Yi beamed at Yun Jian when he saw her looking at him. It was a smile that was bright like the sunshine that came from the bottom of his heart. He then caught the fisherman and his wife's doubtful gazes out of the corner of his eye.

Smiling, Si Yi once again talked to the husband and wife in the dialect Yun Jian did not understand. "She's unable to leave me, anxious even if she's only a meter away from me."

The fisherman and his wife drawled an "oh" in a teasing tone at that. The woman then patted the back of Yun Jian's hand again and told her in Country B's language which Yun Jian could understand, "Don't worry, don't be scared. The both of us aren't bad guys!"

The fisherman's wife then showered a few more compliments about Si Yi that Yun Jian was simply baffled about. She really wanted to know what Si Yi had told the fisherman and his wife but she did not ask aloud in front of them.

The fisherman and his wife were great people, rowing the boat and taking Yun Jian and Si Yi from the head of the river to the tail. They caught fish standing on the boat and took turns chatting with Si Yi. Once Si Yi said something, the fisherman's wife would turn to Yun Jian and compliment him to her.

As usual, Yun Jian was confused. She turned to slightly pout and glare at Si Yi only for him to look at her innocently. This was the first time she had the shorter end of the stick.

In the past, she had never been played like today just because she could not understand the local dialect. There were plenty of local dialects in the world that one might lose count if all of them were added together. It was impossible for Yun Jian to pick up all the dialects in the world within a decade and more in her teenage life.

It was just that she did not expect Si Yi to know this town's dialect either.

While she had the thought, the boat jerked suddenly and Si Yi who sat beside her "accidentally" fell on her.

He had pinned Yun Jian on the deck directly with his abrupt fall, causing the fisherman and his wife to quickly avert their gazes.

By the time Si Yi was pushed up by Yun Jian from his "accidental" fall, the fisherman's wife chuckled and said in Country B's language that Yun Jian understood, "You young people are really passionate! If you don't mind, you can stay the night at our place. We don't have much but our house is superbly soundproof!"

Chapter 1309 A Pop. Did You Hear Something?

What the fisherman's wife said flustered Yun Jian and made her blush crimson. Si Yi did not answer but he enjoyed how it felt.

When the fisherman's wife saw that Yun Jian got shy, she came over to pull Yun Jian to the other side of the boat—the end of it that was three meters away from Si Yi and the fisherman—and told Yun Jian secretively holding her hand, “Young lady, no need to be shy and don't find me wordy. You didn't know that the man I have is the only one in our town who doesn't cheat!”

“I quite like you, so I'm going to teach you how I keep the leash on my man!”

The fisherman's wife had even stuck her head to peek at Si Yi who sat on the head of the boat and the fisherman who was rowing the boat as she spoke. Upon seeing that both of them were not looking over, she began to pass the knowledge of her “killer move” to Yun Jian.

Yun Jian did not resist it when the fisherman's wife leaned her head close to her ear. She then heard the woman slowly speaking, “Let me tell you. As a woman, you can do whatever you want usually but once you get on the bed, you've got to please your man in earnest and don't feel shy about it...”

Yun Jian listened to what the fisherman's wife said but once she processed it and thought about her and Si Yi... she could not help blushing while her heart thumped wildly.

As the fisherman's wife tugged Yun Jian back to the head of the boat where Si Yi and the fisherman were and passed Yun Jian's hand to Si Yi, she eyed Yun Jian with a “you know, I know” look.

She had wanted Yun Jian to be... raunchy when it came to sleeping with Si Yi.

Once Yun Jian thought about it, she dipped her head and blushed even redder.

“What were you two talking about?” To make things worse, Si Yi had to come next to her ear and ask her softly.

“Nothing.” Yun Jian felt a zap numbing herself from Si Yi's puff of breath when he spoke so close to her and gave him a light shove.

“Xiao Jian, that's naughty of you.” Si Yi smirked and stared at her.

His blatant gaze had only made her shier.

The boat flowed into a cave by then with the fisherman and his wife standing in front to row it. Both of them were cautious when they passed the cave because they could easily capsize in the cave if they rowed it wrongly.

If their boat were to capsize outside, others could see them. There were a lot of vagabonds here and they were united, so they would surely save the victims if they saw them falling into the water. However, capsizing in the cave meant that those vagabonds could not see them at all and it would be futile to even cry for help.

Therefore, the fisherman and his wife rowed in utter seriousness with their backs against Yun Jian and Si Yi.

The moment they entered the cave, Si Yi suddenly crouched and held Yun Jian's head with a hand while his other hand directed it toward himself. He then dipped his head and kissed Yun Jian's lips before she had the time to react.

It was a thrill because the fisherman and his wife were just standing nearby and it was not like the cave was completely dark.

Yun Jian thought that if the fisherman's wife saw what she and Si Yi were doing right in front of their faces... would that not prove that she and Si Yi were indeed young, passionate, and insatiable?

She gave Si Yi a few shoves but the latter sat kissing her without budging. It was when they were about to exit the cave and moments before the fisherman's wife turned around that Yun Jian pushed Si Yi away.

Due to the slightly forceful shove and both of them being not quite experienced, their lips that were attached to each other made a pop when they separated the moment Si Yi was pushed away.

The sound made Yun Jian straighten up.

It was then the fisherman's wife turned around in time. Hearing the pop, she asked doubtfully, "Huh? Did you guys hear something?"

Chapter 1310 Her Last Wish-Take Her Home

Yun Jian who sat up straight shook her head at the question from the fisherman's wife and told her, "No, nothing."

She looked absolutely precious like this and Si Yi felt a tingle watching her. He felt like he should wrap his Xiao Jian in his embrace so no one would see how delightful she was because all that of hers belonged to him-and could only belong to him!

"It's probably the fish kissing in the river being in their mating season! There are all sorts of fish here in this river and it's summer now, so they've all come out to mate!" The fisherman explained with a laugh and continued to row the boat.

There was no end to this river but it was already the end to where the fisherman and his wife usually fished in their boat. If they went farther, they would not know if there would be any danger there, so they did not plan to keep rowing

"You young ones, enjoy your life and each other!"

The fisherman and his wife snuggled against each other lovingly as they watched Yun Jian and Si Yi, waving at them, when they bid them farewell. It was the wife of the fisherman who spoke to them very kindly. The fisherman and his wife had insisted not to take a penny from Yun Jian and Si Yi for the boat ride and claimed that they had just brought them along their way.

Yun Jian and Si Yi thanked the fisherman husband and wife. When they were about to leave, the fisherman's wife made an attempt to ask them to stay with a grin. "Are you sure you two don't need to stay the night at our place? Our place is the best in soundproofing within ten miles of the neighborhood."

What she said made Yun Jian blush instantly again while Si Yi rejected the offer naturally. It was only then they went on their way back.

Since Yun Jian and Si Yi left around noon, they had spent about the whole afternoon going from the top of the river to the end. When they returned to the banquet hall again, it was already time for dinner. Despite that, they did not plan to have dinner there, going back to Longmen City in Country Z directly instead.

This time, Si Yi had gotten a helicopter to return to Country Z straight with Yun Jian.

Snow Eagle, Snake.Lizard, Berserk Dragon, and the others were still staying here, only going back the next day when the tea party ended.

Duoya and Charlotte had covered Maena's body with a plain white cloth and did their best to reattach the parts for her. What Mira had damaged, however, was no longer salvageable.

When Yun Jian went to meet them, both of them were kneeling silently before Maena who was covered with a white cloth.

Yun Jian placed her hands on Duoya and Charlotte's shoulders respectively as she went to them. After a momentary silence, she said, "Only when you become strong can you protect those you want to."

Hearing Yun Jian's voice, Duoya turned to look at her, recognizing the slight grief in her voice. She asked Yun Jian instead, "You're so strong yet you have times when you can't protect those you want to?"

Yun Jian clenched her fists suddenly at Duoya's question. The deaths of the little girl and Yun Jian's own younger brother in her previous life were vivid in her mind. She loosened her grip shortly, not a change of expression on her face. She was as quiet as death.

Just when Duoya thought that Yun Jian would not reply, she heard her saying grimly, "Yes."

Yun Jian was strong but she was no god. She was not an omnipotent presence. She, Slaying God, had her misses too!

"I heard that you're going to Country M first before reporting to the mercenaries?" Yun Jian broke the silence.

It was Charlotte who replied this time. With an empty gaze and pale lips, she seemed like she was reminiscing. "Country M is Na's hometown. She was abducted by the assassin organization when she was 15."

"We knew each other in the organization too and she told me a long time ago that she had family. It's just that she didn't want her identity as an assassin to burden her family. She once said that if she dies before she gets to become so strong that she could openly go home, she wants me to bring her back home."

"This is her... last wish, so... I'm taking her home this time!"
