

Schoolgirl 1311

Chapter 1311 Someone's Here. An Ambush

If Yun Jian were to look down at Charlotte, she would have seen her determined gaze and the crystal-clear shine flashing across her eyes.

Charlotte forced herself to sound more like she did usually but her hoarse voice betrayed her emotions.

Gripping her fists, Charlotte stared at Maena's body that was covered with a white cloth just like that. Suddenly, a drop of tear fell soundlessly from the corner of her eye into the ground. She was crying for both Maena's death and herself who was still alive in this cruel world.

"Yun Jian, I'll become a strong one for sure! Thank you for avenging for Maena and thank you for giving me and Duoya the chance to join Gu Sha Mercenaries!"

Charlotte wiped her tears and stood up abruptly to turn and look straight at Yun Jian.

"No need to thank me. You should thank yourself." Yun Jian smiled at Charlotte faintly before she turned and left.

She was not helping Duoya and Charlotte in vain. Both of them were potentials. She had let them join Gu Sha Mercenaries just to cultivate them so their talents could be of use to the organization in the future.

She was no saint. If Duoya and Charlotte were to betray Gu Sha Mercenaries one day, she would certainly kill them in person.

The mafia tea party this year was not attended by all the international big shots but it was undeniable that many of them had come.

Yun Jian and Si Yi did not resume their participation but left the rest of the matters to Snake.Lizard, Qing You and Snow Eagle. Si Yi had taken the helicopter to go back to Country Z through the night with Yun Jian.

The journey from Country B to Country Z would take some time. Other than the helicopter pilot who was flying the helicopter, there were only Yun Jian and Si Yi in the helicopter.

The pilot was currently acting like he was blind and deaf, not daring to turn around to see what was happening behind him.

Of course, this had only boosted a certain someone's "eagerness".

Si Yi was just seated next to Yun Jian with his side against hers snugly as he felt the girl's wonderful suppleness. As Si Yi leaned over to Yun Jian, the latter's face flushed a few shades of pink deeper.

When Si Yi brought his larger hand over Yun Jian's smaller one, she shrunk back a little since the pilot was just in front of them. Her bashful gaze at Si Yi made the young man's heart tingle and he pulled her into his embrace directly grabbing her hand.

"Xiao Jian..." Si Yi's deep voice sounded gruffly.

Yun Jian who was pulled into Si Yi's arms felt his firm chest and the fresh scent that was uniquely his but nudged Si Yi since they were not alone.

"Don't... be like this. There's someone here..." Yun Jian's voice was only making the misunderstanding deeper.

Once she said that, Si Yi had already held her head and dove down to kiss her lips.

No one saw the glint of murderous intent that flashed in the pilot's eyes while he sat in the pilot's seat of the helicopter.

The moment Si Yi kissed Yun Jian's lips, the pilot who had been in his seat flicked his hand and brandished a scythe. He went around the pilot's seat in lightning speed and charged toward where Yun Jian and Si Yi were holding the scythe for an ambush!

Chapter 1312 A Forced Landing. Get Ready to Jump

The pilot's action was so abrupt that it was too fast for anyone to react. However, Si Yi who had just kissed Yun Jian managed to respond in time. He left Yun Jian's soft lips and kicked the pilot to the left where the helicopter door was.

Yun Jian was also aware of the situation promptly and pulled the helicopter door open at the same time that Si Yi kicked the pilot to the door.

The pilot who tried to assassinate Yun Jian and Si Yi did not even expect both of them to stay so surprisingly alert while they were being intimate.

The moment Yun Jian pulled the helicopter door open, Si Yi kicked the pilot out of the helicopter in one thrust. Then, the pilot fell like a broken kite from thousands of meters in altitude.

Yun Jian could only hear a cry but the cry disappeared in the clouds not too long after that.

No one expected the pilot to pull an assassination attempt on Yun Jian and Si Yi but both of them were not shocked. They had already gotten used to a life like this.

What Yun Jian was slightly surprised about was the two of them had joined forces and kicked the pilot out of the helicopter door without even discussing about what they would do prior to it.

While she thought of that, a series of beep rang urgently out of the blue. Yun Jian looked up with a slight change of expression.

Si Yi's lean and tall silhouette could already be seen getting to the pilot's seat as his long fingers danced across the command buttons to type in a slew of English. He scowled a little and said, "There's a latest model of bomb installed on this chopper and would erupt the engine and explode 2 minutes and 49 seconds later."

The pilot who dared attempt an assassination on Yun Jian and Si Yi in the helicopter just now must have had a will to die.

There were plenty of puppet assassins in this world trained by certain organizations or big shots. These puppet assassins were thoroughly brainwashed and the commonest characteristic they shared was that they did not mind sacrificing themselves in order to kill their targets. They were all indoctrinated with the beliefs to sacrifice for their masters and that it was an honor to sacrifice themselves.

Regular people could barely understand it but these puppet assassins only listened to instructions from their masters.

The pilot just now must have been under someone's order and wanted to die with Si Yi and Yun Jian with a deadly firm resolution.

Yun Jian rummaged for parachutes in the helicopter with practiced ease but found none.

"There's no parachute here," Yun Jian said but was not surprised.

Since someone wanted her and Si Yi dead, they were certainly not given any parachute. The helicopter was sent out from An Hun Group by Si Yi, so it also proved one thing there was a traitor in An Hun Group, not that it was time to mull over this.

"I'll fly the helicopter to the lowest point possible for a forced landing. Get ready to jump," Si Yi said and familiarly steered the helicopter to do what he just said.

Si Yi and Yun Jian both knew how to fly helicopters. To people of their background, flying helicopters was only one of their compulsory basic courses.

"Mn." Yun Jian nodded at what he said.

With the helicopter door opened, Yun Jian stood before it gripping the rail handle.

It took a short moment and Si Yi had already descended the helicopter from thousands to hundreds of meters away from the ground.

"There's a lake there. We jump in count of three!" Si Yi steered the helicopter to fall toward a lake and stood behind Yun Jian hugging her from the back.

There were only ten seconds left before the bomb would explode.

This was already the fastest they could do, completing the descend from thousands of meter in the air and jumping off the helicopter all in less than three minutes.

If it had been others, they would have fumbled helplessly. Even if it were a veteran pilot who was familiar with flying helicopters and planes, they would probably have to succumb to the explosion as well!

Chapter 1313 He'd Rather Be Severely Injured Than for Her to Get Hurt

"Three..." Si Yi began counting down.

He had just counted three when he suddenly changed his tone and directly announced, "One."

With that, he hugged Yun Jian's slim waist from behind and jumped off the helicopter with her. They were only less than ten meters away from the surface of the lake.

The countdown timer of the bomb in the helicopter was about to end. If Yun Jian and Si Yi still did not jump, they would possibly be killed by the high power and momentum generated by the helicopter explosion unless they were dozens of meters away from the site of explosion. Even if they managed to escape to somewhere that far away, it still would not guarantee their safety.

Therefore, they had to jump before the bomb in the helicopter erupted. Otherwise, they had a 99.99% chance of dying!

The moment they jumped off the helicopter with Si Yi hugging Yun Jian, Yun Jian felt the former's back blocking any sort of danger for her securely.

Si Yi had purposely jumped off standing behind Yun Jian with his back against the helicopter.

Not even several seconds after they jumped, the helicopter behind them that was crashing toward the center of the lake exploded abruptly. It made a deafeningly loud boom that scared the neighborhood into thinking that there was an earthquake as people ran out of their homes.

Si Yi made a low grunt and hugged Yun Jian tighter. As they plunged into the water, Si Yi's front was pressed snugly against Yun Jian's back. Once they were in the lake, they swam for the shore with him leading her by her hand.

The resounding boom just now attracted a crowd of those who stayed nearby. These people who were foreigners to Yun Jian and Si Yi stood by the lake but no one offered to help. After all, the locals dared not step up to offer assistance when these two people who came out of the blue caused such a commotion upon their appearance.

Si Yi had already swam the fastest he could to the shore tugging Yun Jian along.

The crowd there was a little intimidated and dared not go up to them. This was only a village and it was 7-8pm without any streetlight illuminating the surrounding. The people casted light with torches.

It was apparent that this place was not far from Country B but where it was in particular, Yun Jian and Si Yi had yet to figure out. What seemed obvious to them was that the place was not well off as the illumination here was still done by medieval torches.

It was only after the two of them got out of the water that Yun Jian got a clear view of Si Yi.

His back was soaked in blood. He was wearing the white short-sleeved shirt that Yun Jian had bought him and the back of said shirt was fully stained by his own blood.

Realization suddenly struck Yun Jian that when they jumped off the helicopter just now, Si Yi had faced the helicopter with his back. He had hugged her tightly and at the same time, protected her from being hit by the debris and strong rush of momentum due to the explosion of the helicopter.

as

The price Si Yi had to pay was his back bleeding from the injury. A look at it was enough to imagine the pain but Si Yi did not even yelp since just now as he merely kept his arms around Yun Jian.

If Si Yi had not protected Yun Jian just now, he would not even be injured. Yun Jian would at most suffer from a little abrasions by the debris that flew out from the helicopter's explosion but what Si Yi had done prevented her from even a small graze.

He would rather be injured than for her to get hurt!

Yun Jian did not know what to say as she looked at Si Yi's handsome face that was completely unfazed. She was not good in expressing herself but she was so moved now that she would agree to anything he wanted her to do without hesitation.

If his back were not injured, she would probably have pulled him into a passionate embrace.

Chapter 1314 Come To My House. A Waste of Money

Now was not the time for these, however. Yun Jian got up and scanned her surrounding before asking in fluent English, "Anyone has a small knife, boiled hot water and a towel at home? Lend them to me, my gratitude will come with a reward."

What mattered the most right now was to take care of the injury on Si Yi's back.

Si Yi did not see it as a serious injury. His back was throbbing but it was like he was not even injured as he got up and pulled Yun Jian over to check her. It was only when he confirmed she was not hurt that he felt relieved. As for the injury on his back, it was nothing to him.

Yun Jian did not know where they were, hence her use of English since it was a common language worldwide. No matter how impoverished this place was, there should probably be people who could speak English.

Yun Jian was proven right as there was someone who knew English.

A young girl about 12-13 years old stepped out at Yun Jian's question and replied similarly in English looking at her, "Sister, I have them at home. Come to my house."

The young girl was very pretty with big eyes and a small nose but she was dressed in tattered clothes.

"Mn, thank you." Yun Jian nodded and took Si Yi to follow the girl home.

Yun Jian took out all the debris and shards that went into Si Yi's back with a small knife and treated all his wounds.

The debris from the helicopter's explosion catapulted with a strong momentum going straight into Si Yi's back and caused deep wounds. If a regular person were to be so severely injured, they would have been wailing and moaning in excruciation.

When Yun Jian treated Si Yi's wounds, he kept his gaze on her. Even when he was in intolerable pain, he did not make a sound. When Yun Jian substituted surgery tools with simple equipment she could find and operated on Si Yi, he suddenly told her, "Xiao Jian, let's get married."

Yun Jian was taken aback before she answered, "We haven't come to the age for marriage yet."

Besides, they had completed the marriage pact in Yulong Mainland, had they not?

Yun Jian blushed a little.

“We’ll register our marriage overseas. We’re already of age in Country R...” Si Yi listed a bunch of countries where it was legal for girls to get married at the age of 16. He ended with “We’ll come back to Country Z for the marriage certificate when we’re of age here.”

He could no longer wait to make her his.

Yun Jian looked down, avoiding Si Yi’s gaze out of shyness. After some time, she replied softly, “Okay, we’ll get married as long as you recover quickly.”

Yun Jian promised. He was already injured to this current state because of her. In addition to thinking all that Si Yi had done for her, Yun Jian felt that she would grant him anything he asked for.

Although the tools were acquired on the spot and could barely pass for surgery equipment, the operation was still a success.

When Yun Jian walked out of the straw hut, the young girl who borrowed her the tools just now came to her. “Sister, is he okay?” she asked docilely.

“He’s fine,” Yun Jian said and thanked her again.

It was then she saw people teeming in front of the straw hut, no doubt following them here to simply be onlookers.

Yun Jian had asked the young girl where this place was on their way back here earlier and managed to find out that they were at the border of Country B. They were almost out of Country B as this was the intersection between Country B and another country.

The young girl had just received Yun Jian’s reply when a loud and ugly woman came out from the side.

She glared at the young girl and pulled her by the ear, scolding her in Country B’s language that Yun Jian could understand, “It’s not enough that you’re a waste of space and money, you even take people home, huh? You think we’re not poor enough? You little b*tch, you’re pathetic like your mother! You’re leaving tomorrow and you’re still causing me trouble today!”

Chapter 1315 Cane Whips. Let Go

This ugly woman had red pocks on her face and a flat nose. She was so fat that she could barely move. After she insulted the young girl pulling her ear, she slapped her right in front of others, sending the girl to the ground directly.

There was no dialect in this village as its people talked in Country B’s language, so Yun Jian could understand the comments and gossips of the crowd.

They began to murmur softly among themselves when the young girl was slapped by the woman in public but Yun Jian could hear them.

“Poor Lily. She lost her mother at a young age and her father’s really—he doesn’t care about her at all and doesn’t make any money to take care of the family.”

“It’s Lily who works and earns to support the family all these years! How is it right?!”

“Not only is her father not making money and slacks all day, he marries a tigress home. Sigh, not only does Lily have to make the living now, she gets beaten up every day!”

“I know, right? Do you know this? The tigress accepted dowry from Lumada, the chief of the village next door, two days ago. Gosh, you have no idea. Lumada is already 56 years old, like he has one foot in the coffin already, and Lily is only 13 years old! If Lily were to marry him...”

Lily was the girl who had kindly taken Yun Jian and Si Yi back to her house, provided what Yun Jian needed to help her complete the surgery, and settled both of them down in the straw hut.

She wore shabby clothes, the garment could only barely conceal certain private parts of her. It was unimaginably tattered.

Hearing what the crowd said, Yun Jian was aware of Lily’s family background and current situation. She did not forget that the young girl had helped her just now.

“Yap, yap, yap, shut up! Get the hell away!” Lily’s stepmother, this woman everyone else called the tigress, snapped her head to holler at the crowd and scolded them.

She then turned back and twisted Lily’s ear before she turned to Yun Jian, ceasing her ministrations on Lily, and barked at Yun Jian, “Get out of my house right now! We can’t afford to keep you both around!”

The woman then growled at Lily, “Pft, you’re such a waste of space and money. Haven’t you caused enough troubles? How dare you take two living people back this time? Do I look like I have enough to feed them?”

Actually, the family’s livelihood was maintained by Lily who went out to move bricks and work, but the money had all gone to her stepmother—this woman named Grace.

The woman’s name was Grace—a nice name, but almost unacceptable when it was used on her.

“No! Don’t chase them away, okay? I’ll make more money. I can carry the bricks a few more rounds. I can work another job. Please, don’t chase them away. Okay?”

“They fell into the river and big brother’s severely injured. They have nowhere to go!”

Lily got on her knees to beg Grace. She did not call her mother or mom.

The young girl was very kind. Even when she saw small animals like rabbits that got injured in the forest, she would usually bring them home and send them back after they healed.

Her kindness was visible to everyone.

In spite of it, Grace was a vicious woman. She ran off to fetch a long cane and rushed back to Lily, swinging it down at her and barking, “They’re pitiful and I’m not? Stupid girl, a waste of space! I’m whipping you to death!”

Grace brought the cane down on Lily with what she said, causing the latter to screw her eyes shut in fear.

The cane did not land on Lily, however, as a pair of fair hands grabbed the whipping cane.

Grace was alarmed. When she turned, she saw the owner of the fair hands that caught her cane looking at her icily with a murderous gaze and saying coldly, "Let go."

Chapter 1316 Test the Taste of Death

Grace's eye twitched at Yun Jian's words, especially with the sight of the latter's piercing gaze.

Grace was feisty and aggressive but she had never seen a young lady wear such terrifying sense of murder in her eyes. When those eyes were trained on her, it was like they were going to kill her.

Grace was a mere woman in Country B. After getting scared by Yun Jian's glare, she pretended like she was not startled and cleared her throat before scolding Yun Jian, "Why should I let go just because you ask me to? Who do you think you are? You used my knife and water and towel and now you demand more? God, how could there be such shameless people in the world..."

Grace began to wail and yell.

Yun Jian had already caught the cane. With a soft tug, she gripped it in her hand and whipped it down on Grace harshly. The woman fell to the ground directly and panted. She was not actually in pain from being whipped to the ground but she began to shout again, "Goodness! She hit me! She's going to kill me! All that help and it's not repaid!"

"One more word and I'll kill you right now!" Yun Jian's words stopped Grace's wail abruptly.

Yun Jian tossed the cane away and pulled out a dagger from her pants pocket. She unsheathed it and threw it at Grace.

Yun Jian did not use her butterfly knife because a person like Grace did not need it.

The dagger flew right above Grace's head.

Shocked, Grace was stunned paralyze and could clearly feel the knife skim past the top of her head.

The dagger flew above her head and went into the soil behind her, the excellent skill surprising the crowd. Needless to say, Yun Jian's technique was amazing. They then watched as Yun Jian pulled Lily away to the side.

Grace who was intimidated by Yun Jian dared not make another move while Yun Jian tugged Lily to her room.

Lily told Yun Jian about a lot of things, including her own background and where this place was. When she talked about herself, she hung her head and told Yun Jian, "My stepmother is selling me to someone else a few days later but I already have someone I like..."

Lily said that the person she liked came from a poor family too and they knew each other from moving bricks. The boy she liked was 15 years old this year and knew a little English because he used to go to school.

Lily wanted to go to school too but she could not afford it, so the little English she had learned was picked up secretly from the boy.

Yun Jian asked Lily several more things and listened to her talk about her background before she closed her eyes and came up with a plan.

Yun Jian slept with Si Yi. The next day, she was woken up by noises outside the door.

When she went out, she saw three to four men trying to drag Lily away. The old man who stood in front even had a cigar between his fingers and looked to be in his fifties, old enough to become Lily's grandfather.

This old man was Lumada, the chief of the village neighboring theirs. He was considered rich in an impoverished place like this.

"You waste of space! I really can't stand you another day longer. Get out right now! Consider it your fortune that you get to go with Chief Lumada!" Grace scolded Lily from the side.

It was her who went to ask Chief Lumada to quickly take Lily away.

Chief Lumada had his eyes set on Lily a long time ago and could not wait to pin Lily below him and have his way with her. Now that he heard Grace wanting him to take the girl, he came over early in the morning.

The scene that greeted Yun Jian was Chief Lumada getting his men to drag Lily away. Her gaze darkened at the sight.

While the men planned to shove Lily into a gunny sack and take her away forcefully, a sharp female voice rang with an irresistible sense of command, "No one's ever succeeded in grabbing someone right under my nose. Do you guys want to test the taste of death?!"

Chapter 1317 Isn't That Country B's President?

The audacity in Yun Jian's voice was laced with a sense of authority that could not be overlooked.

These men who stood before her quivered from what she said but they snapped back to reality swiftly.

"Who the f*ck is this?" Chief Lumada had been smoking his cigar between his fingers leisurely but startled and turned to Yun Jian when he suddenly heard a girl's voice he had never heard before.

Lily was halfway into the gunny sack. She was flailing and rolling about, wanting to squirm out to speak, but was stuffed back into the sack by those men. Since her mouth was covered by a piece of black tape, she could only make muffled noises to cry for help.

Chief Lumada was impatient to make his move on Lily, so he looked over to Yun Jian with a resentful glare once he heard her voice.

"It's someone this waste of space brought back! Chief Lumada, this girl's even threatened me with a knife yesterday and I took them in because of that. You have to seek justice for me! This girl is insolent!"

"A poor family like mine can't feed them at all! It'll kill us! Chief Lumada!"

It was like Grace found her savior in Chief Lumada as she began to cry for help wailing. There was no difference between her and an unreasonable stealing wretch who cried thief and asked for others to clear her name.

Chief Lumada obviously did not want to get involved. His goal was only Lily.

“Hey, hey, hey, you settle this on your own. I have no right to intervene in your village matters either.” Chief Lumada did not even regard what Yun Jian said; instead, he waved at Grace dismissively and shoved her away.

He then gestured for his men to leave carrying Lily who was already in the gunny sack.

“Did you not hear what I say?” Yun Jian’s question rang slowly just as Chief Lumada was about to leave with the men who carried the gunny sack containing Lily.

This time, Chief Lumada was not taken aback by Yun Jian’s piercing words like he had in the beginning. He now thought that what Yun Jian said was a joke.

“Let’s go, come on. What can a girl like her do? Could she lay a finger on us?” Chief Lumada said disdainfully with a wave of hand.

Grace panicked when she saw that the man was ignoring her and rushed up to try and stop him. “Hey! Chief, you can’t go. What should I do after you leave...”

“Piss off!” Chief Lumada shoved Grace away.

Just when he was about to usher his men to keep moving carrying Lily, he felt like his back was brutally kicked. He then clearly felt himself falling to the ground from the kick.

After Chief Lumada was kicked down to the ground, he caught a silhouette weaving past his side to his men like a flash of light out of the corner of his eye.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

There were three loud thuds of bodies hitting the ground.

The three men Lumada had brought along with him were kicked to the ground as well by Yun Jian. It was only then Lumada broke out of his daze and wanted to get up but Yun Jian had a foot on his back.

Her icy voice rang aloud. “I’ll pay for the sum Lily’s sold for. You guys better get out of my sight immediately or I’ll get Peele here tomorrow and we can talk about it.”

Grace and Lumada’s backs straightened up abruptly at Yun Jian’s threat.

Peele was their president in Country B! Did she... know Country B’s president?!

Chapter 1318 I’m Getting Involved With Lily’s Matter

What a coincidence, Yun Jian actually did know Country B’s president, Peele.

She was incredibly calm looking at Grace and Lumada’s shocked faces.

“You... you k-know... Mr. President?” It was not just Grace who was shocked, Lumada who Yun Jian had stepped on the ground shuddered and asked her in an alarmed tone.

Village Chief Lumada was the head of a village, after all, while Grace was only an ordinary village woman. The shock that washed over her was surely greater than Village Chief Lumada.

Taking in both their astonishment, Yun Jian crossed her arms in front of herself and lifted her one leg on Village Chief Lumada's back.

"He's just a defeated opponent of mine," Yun Jian said without any exaggeration.

Back then, she had received a mission to kill the ministers under Country B's president, Peele. The man had just become president not too long ago and was in dire need of his ministers to help establish and secure his position.

Yun Jian's consecutive assassinations of Peele's ministers nearly threw him off the cliff of despair. The man was quite capable, managing to find Yun Jian after a long search, and offered immense fortune to plead Yun Jian to stop killing his men.

It was not an exaggeration to say that he was on his knees begging her.

That was because Peele was powerless about it. He was unable to find Yun Jian even when Country B utilized all its military prowess, forget about killing her.

That time, Yun Jian was already planning to leave since she had accomplished her task but there was no way she was not accepting the offer when Peele came to her with so much valuable treasure. Who was she to reject wealth?

After that, Yun Jian unintentionally heard from others that Country B's president, Peele, had gotten a side effect out of his fear for her. Once, someone had mentioned the name Slaying God in front of Peele and the latter fell off the dining table in fright.

Village Chief Lumada and others did not even think that Yun Jian was joking when they heard her. After all, they had witnessed her ability just now.

Which regular girl was this good? If it had been an ordinary girl, she would have cried for her daddy and mommy in fear now due to what Village Chief Lumada did earlier.

"Cough, cough..." Village Chief Lumada had to reevaluate Yun Jian now. He stared at her for a total of two seconds then asked her meekly, "You... you really know Mr. President?"

The status of Mr. President was basically someone they would never be able to meet in their lives be it to Village Chief Lumada or Grace. Hence, when they knew that Yun Jian knew the president—no matter the truth, their attitude toward her transformed drastically.

Yun Jian had long lifted her foot that was on Village Chief Lumada's back. She was currently standing at the side aloofly.

"It's just your president of Country B. Do I have to make it up?" Yun Jian retorted lightly.

Village Chief Lumada's eyes swirled around before he ran over and kicked the men who put Lily into the gunny sack, growling, "Quick, let her—let her out!"

The men were surprised but they swiftly pulled Lily out of the gunny sack and untied her as well as removing the black tape over her mouth.

Lily panted loudly but she did not look scared.

Her stepmother, Grace, ran to Yun Jian; long gone was her aggressive attitude as she told Yun Jian obsequiously, "It was my fault. I should... I deserve to be hit! I should be hit! Don't hold a grudge, yeah? I'm harsh with my words but I have a soft heart, I—"

Yun Jian did not listen to what Grace said. She took a step back and told Grace, "I'm not interested in what you do. We'll be staying here for two days. What we've used, twice the payment will be made after that."

"But I'm getting involved with Lily's matter!"

Chapter 1319 You Didn't Tell Me You're Hurt

She was taking charge of Lily's matter for sure!

It was because Lily had helped her. Yun Jian had always been one to avenge grudges and requite gratitude. Moreover, it was an easy feat for her while it was something that would impact Lily for a lifetime.

Yun Jian who thought of this casted her eyes down.

Grace was still standing in front of Yun Jian. When she saw Yun Jian looking down, she was afraid. She could care less if Yun Jian really knew their country's president because she would not be able to afford offending her even if she had a hundred lives if this was true.

Yun Jian turned to go to her hut but paused and turned to Grace with an unnerving smile.

"I hope I won't have the chance to see the scene just now again or I'll grab Peele here to talk to you guys about it tomorrow."

Yun Jian knew that what she said dealt a fatal blow to both Village Chief Lumada and Grace. In other words, they were scared that she would really get their president here. This meant that Lily would be safe temporarily.

As for her and Si Yi leaving this village, Yun Jian believed that Snake, Lizard and Snow Eagle would find them here very soon following the location of the helicopter crash after she and Si Yi lost contact with them. That was why she said that they were going to stay here for two days.

Yun Jian closed the door after she went inside. Not only did Village Chief Lumada not stop her, he heaved a loud sigh of relief. He then fled with his men, not even asking Grace for the dowry money back.

Lily was relieved as well since Grace no longer dared pick on her.

Yun Jian saw Si Yi sitting on the bed and watching her come in upon entering the room, so she went over to sit down beside him. After staring at him for two seconds, she shifted her gaze to the ghastly wounds on his bare shoulders and back and asked softly, "Do they still hurt?"

Yun Jian had already removed the debris that stabbed Si Yi's back when the helicopter exploded but the scattered wounds on his back were still painful to look at.

Si Yi had been injured before too but his severe wounds this time was in exchange of his mere intention of not wanting Yun Jian to even be grazed.

Hearing Yun Jian's slightly hoarse voice, Si Yi pulled her into his bare chest.

"They don't," he told Yun Jian softly, so gentle that it did not sound like he usually did. He had and would always be different when it came to Yun Jian.

"Don't do that anymore. You could've been fine. I—"

Yun Jian was going to say more but Si Yi sealed her lips just in time.

"Mmh..." Yun Jian had both hands pressed against Si Yi's bare chest, not daring to hug him back because she was worried that she would come in contact with the wounds on his back.

Although the injuries on Si Yi's back did not involve internal organs like the heart and whatnot, superficial wounds hurt the most. If others were injured to this extent, they probably would not dare to even more as a twitch would already be unimaginably painful.

Si Yi did not care. His beloved Xiao Jian was right in front of him. If he managed to hold himself back, then that would be...

Si Yi kissed Yun Jian on the lips. Shortly, both of them had unknowingly taken off their clothes and Si Yi had even pulled Yun Jian's jeans off. Once Yun Jian's denim pants were removed, Si Yi saw the bloodstain on Yun Jian's underwear. He furrowed his brows immediately and without any lingering passion or intimacy, touched the bloodstain on her underwear before he wanted to yank it off, questioning, "Xiao Jian, you got hurt? Was it from yesterday? Why didn't you tell me?"

Chapter 1320 Naïve Si Yi and the Flabbergasted Women

Si Yi's tone was tinged with a hint of anger, the kind that was angry when he suddenly found an injury on Yun Jian but she had not told him immediately.

Moreover, the blood on Yun Jian's underwear had stained the entire garment. Si Yi just knew from the sight that the wound must be deeper than his and she actually said nothing about it?!

He tugged at Yun Jian's underwear where her "wound" was in slight fury.

Yun Jian who had been caught in a trance snapped back to reality suddenly. She had never kept up with her menstrual cycle and this body had menstruation since she took over.

In her past life, she was not bothered to track her period either and she often had it during her missions. Even then, she went into the water if she had to. She was accomplishing her tasks even if it meant she was bathed in her own blood.

In a way, Yun Jian had taken better care after her rebirth.

Despite that, she still did not have the awareness for her menstruation cycle time and each time, it was Qin Yirou who prepared sanitary products for her.

This time, Yun Jian was completely unprepared. She also did not realize that she was having her period at this time... Worse, she did not bring any sanitary pad with her.

“Stop... It’s not an injury.” Yun Jian held Si Yi’s hand to stop him at once.

She was blushing, however. The pink dusting her cheeks made her look shy.

“But there’s so much blood? And it’s not an injury?” Si Yi asked raising his voice.

His brows were currently locked in a deep frown as he looked at Yun Jian with brimming worry. He had always been one to act instead of speak. Right now, he had one hand pinning Yun Jian on the bed with another hand pulling her underwear down.

“Xiao Jian, you’re going to be mine sooner or later. I’m just taking a look, it’s fine. Don’t be scared.”

Si Yi spoke and had already yanked her underwear off.

Yun Jian was almost curling into herself out of embarrassment, so she quickly explained, “It’s a physiological phenomenon! It’s not an injury. Girls have it all the time!”

Yun Jian swore that she had never been this embarrassed in her life before. How could Si Yi not know this! Yun Jian could understand, though.

Si Yi was still skeptical after what she said and crouched to check... It was until he had thoroughly checked Yun Jian that he believed her...

Yun Jian had already redressed herself and sat back down on the bed.

Si Yi believed it now and was slightly awkward. However, once he recalled that he had seen his Xiao Jian’s... Cough-cough!

After a moment, Si Yi went out of the room. He and Yun Jian were the only two people in the room; Yun Jian’s pants were stained with blood, so she could hardly go out. Although Si Yi was injured on his back, he could get what Yun Jian needed for her.

As he walked out of the room, he saw a group of Country B women from the village sitting together in the front yard. Grace was there too, standing up quickly when she saw Si Yi coming to them.

Si Yi and Yun Jian were together. Since Yun Jian knew their president, Grace’s attitude toward her and Si Yi had taken an one-eighty. She dared not be rude to either of them.

As she got up and Si Yi came over, there was no change of expression on his aloof face. He went over and asked directly, “Do you have sanitary pads?”

The women who were sitting together stared at Si Yi in disbelief. The young man looked decent and was gorgeous but why was his mind in the gutter?!

“What...” Even Grace was stunned.

Si Yi repeated frankly, “I need sanitary pads. You have two minutes to hand me some sanitary pads.”

He probably did not know what sanitary pads were or how to use them but he spoke straightforwardly and did not think anything inappropriate of it. The women were flabbergasted.