Chapter 611: I'd Dare Kill Someone. What's The Big Deal About It?

The shot landed right at the short unmarried geezer's penis. After he was flung away by Si Yi, his members were shot by the latter's firing with a "bang".

There was a second of full silence before a loud wail like an animal was slaughtered tore through the sky. "Ah! My... My..."

What came next was the old man holding his crotch and rolling on the ground.

Everyone was alarmed by Si Yi's abrupt strike.

"Ah! Ge, he fired the shot!" Liu Qi was frightened by the sudden gore and covered her eyes with shaking hands. This was no doubt the most terrifying thing she had seen in her life to date.

She knew the short geezer. He was the prime example of the village's idle man. She could still remember the vile gaze the man wore each time she passed by his house. It was nauseating.

However, looking at someone familiar clutching his bloodied groin rolling about on the ground in immense pain, especially the blood that was spilling, Liu Qi was shell-shocked even when she was looking at him from afar.

She lived in a farming village but she had never seen blood. Her parents took great care of her. Although their family was not doing so well, Liu Tie had never let Liu Qi suffer a tiny bit even if it meant he had to exhaust himself.

Therefore, the horror that Liu Qi was experiencing currently was significant.

Liu Ziyun was shocked as well. He too had never seen a gory sight like this. Chills ran through him but he kept a hand patting Liu Qi's head and protecting her so she would not be scared alone. This was a brother's love for his younger sister.

At the same time, he turned to check Qing You and his father with a pale face.

Since he had seen the scars and wounds on Qing You—even if Qing You was really sold to a brothel and even if she was really in prostitution—Liu Ziyun was set to reconcile with his baby sister.

He had resented Qing You only because he assumed that she was enjoying herself and did not find her way back home earlier, thus causing their mother's death. Since the misunderstanding was cleared, Liu Ziyun had decided to slowly forgive Qing You as he was not a bad person.

He had turned to check on Qing You because he was worried that she would be scared at the sight of so much blood. Imagine his surprise when he turned and saw Qing You's indifferent expression instead of the fright that would normally color an ordinary person's face due to the gory scene in front of them.

Why was his sister not the least bit frightened? Liu Ziyun was doubtful.

"You—How dare you to shoot someone! Just you wait! You'll be caught!" An old bachelor exclaimed with a finger pointed at Si Yi and a hand covering his own crotch when he saw it.

“Caught?” Si Yi twirled his pistol with his long fingers hooked around the weapon securely. His handsome face looked extremely charming under the setting sun of winter. He shook some stray pieces of hair away lightly with a smirk that was so good looking yet dripping with hubris and replied, “I’d like to know which of you has the guts to catch me!”

His tone was arrogant and pompous but he had all the right to be!

After that, Si Yi kept his pistol and left the man to roll about on the ground. Yun Jian was standing not too far away. As he walked and tucked his pistol away, he came to her in no time and wrapped an arm around Yun Jian’s thin waist right before everyone.

“Ho-how dare you guys simply hurt people like this?” Their thoughts about Yun Jian were entirely different now. If she did come from sex trade, how was it possible that she was so brazen?

In other words, it was also impossible that Qing You was sold into prostitution!

Then and there, everyone was doubtful about Yun Jian and Qing You’s identity.

“I’d dare kill someone! It’s just his members that were shot today. What’s the big deal about it?” returned Yun Jian’s even more haughty reply.

Chapter 612: Liu Ziyun Asks, Honesty He Shall Receive

She would dare kill someone, what else was there that she dared not do?

What Yun Jian said roused everyone’s panic, especially the old bachelors who saw Yun Jian as a hooker just now. They were currently staring at her in extreme disbelief and shaking in fear.

Although Yun Jian had not fired the shot, just how Si Yi coddled Yun Jian was enough for everyone there to be alarmed.

The unmarried short geezer whose members were shot just now had only made a slight comment about Yun Jian and Si Yi had made sure his organ was defunct!

No one there dared make another sound under such tension. It would be suicidal to do so! As for the short old man flailing on the ground holding his crotch, no one wanted to care about him. After all, he had not been the most decent person usually.

In spite of it, it would be worse if he died, so some older and more experienced ones had still gone over to help the short geezer up to the only outdated clinic in Luo Village.

The rest who were there just to watch the commotion left, understandably so. No one wanted to be the next short geezer—losing their penis just for being nosy. It was too high a price to pay, thus everyone left in the blink of an eye.

Ultimately, Liu Qi’s peers left as well, almost scrambling away.

“Xiao... Xiao Xin, what do your friends do?” Liu Tie asked Qing You after everyone left, taking a frightful glance at Si Yi and Yun Jian.

Liu Tie was a farmer and had lived in Luo Village all his life. He did not get to see much of the world, so he was a little intimidated when he looked at Yun Jian and Si Yi.

“Dad...” Qing You pressed her lips together as she glanced at Yun Yi and was about to answer when a shriller voice sounded, “Dad! Look at her! What kind of friends does she have to have injured someone like that! We’re doomed! What if they come back for us! We won’t be able to pay for compensation!”

Liu Qi’s strident voice went over the words that Qing You was about to blurt.

“Humph, we didn’t injure him anyway. So many people in the village saw it. If something does come up, it’ll be their fault!” As Liu Qi spoke, she jabbed a rather fat and short finger toward Yun Jian and Si Yi.

“I’ll bear the responsibility,” Qing You spoke up crestfallen with her eyes cast down.

“Xiao Xin...” Liu Tie was anguished. He had finally found his youngest daughter who had been suffering for years out there but his son and other daughter were at odds with her. There was nothing more that would catch him in a dilemma than this.

“Dad, it’s okay.” Qing You smiled at Liu Tie but it looked forced.

She now knew that it was incredibly difficult for her to make peace with her elder siblings—even when that was not the case with her father. She was Liu Tie’s birth daughter even if she did indirectly cause her mother’s death.

“Xiao Xin, I’ve made you suffer!” Liu Tie said tearfully as he patted the back of Qing You’s hands with his wrinkled ones.

“Liu Xin, there’s no one else now. Tell us what you have done all these years?” Liu Ziyun asked again, noting that there was no other outsider now.

His tone toward Qing You was no longer as aggressive as it was in the beginning.

Pressing her lips together and looking down, Qing You ultimately shifted her gaze to Yun Jian. She was asking the latter if she should be honest.

Chapter 613: Some Things Are Better Left... Explained

Qing You was a high-ranking member of Gu Sha Mercenaries. To be honest, her identity called for absolute secrecy.

Gu Sha was an international mercenary organization and Qing You, as one of its executive members, needed to keep her identity confidential.

Of course, Qing You wanted to tell Liu Tie and Liu Ziyun the truth purely because they were her family and the closest people she had. She wanted to be honest to dispel the misunderstanding.

Being honest could come on multiple levels. One was coming clean completely and another was for Qing You to only disclose that she used to be an assassin. Both meant more or less the same thing but it was obviously not the right move to spill everything about Qing You’s identity.

She was, after all, Gu Sha Mercenaries’ high-ranking member, and the organization had its rules. Yun Jian had been the one to set them and even she could not break them easily—what was more, this was Qing You.

Yun Jian was biased to her own people but she would not give in when this had to do with a bottom line.

When Qing You turned to look at Yun Jian, Liu Ziyun was bewildered. He was not stupid. He could gauge from Qing You and Yun Jian's interaction that they must share some kind of relationship. The nature of it, however, remained unknown—unless Qing You revealed the truth.

"Xiao Xin, it's fine. We're home now. I wasn't capable of finding you and letting you suffer out there. I'll take care of you from now on. I won't let anyone bully you, Xiao Xin, I..."

Liu Tie thought that Qing You just did not want to revisit her past. His wrinkled face was dreary as he spoke. Halfway through it, tears filled his eyes and his calloused hand came up to wipe them away.

Seeing that Qing You was adamant about keeping where she had gone to from their knowledge, Liu Tie was certain of one thing. His Xiao Xin had indeed suffered a lot of hardship.

"Dad, this isn't your fault. It isn't mom's either. If one must be blamed, it was me who had been playful." Qing You stood beside Liu Tie and patted his back to comfort him, feeling her heart ache.

"Tell them," Yun Jian said suddenly when Qing You had decided to drop the matter.

Qing You's hand that had been stroking Liu Tie in soothing him paused. Looking at Yun Jian, she asked in surprise, "Sister Jian?"

If it had been Yun Jian in her past life, she would not support Qing You in being honest. Slaying God in the previous life was heartless. Back then, even when her younger brother died, she was sad but she was not crushed by the incident.

After her rebirth, however, Yun Jian who had spent such a long time with other people realized that a strong kinship could exist between people.

There was no one who did not yearn for a family. Yun Jian did too in her previous life, but what she yearned for was perhaps only the bond, the feeling of being cared for, not a tangible person.

It was until now when little Yun Zhu, Qing Yirou, Yun Yi and others had thoroughly blended into her life that she understood what family was. She knew that no one else could replace either of them.

"Mn!" Qing You nodded strongly after receiving Yun Jian's permission.

Yun Yi could not help perking up his ears seeing that Qing You was about to reveal the truth while Liu Ziyun was standing in attention. Liu Qi was the only one who still wore a nonchalant gaze.

The next second, Qing You's melodic voice rang. "After I was abducted back then..."

Chapter 614: Qing You's Past—I'm An Assassin

"After I was abducted back then, I was taken to an island directly. I found out later that there were at least a few hundreds of kids who were captured there just like me." Qing You paused when she got to this part, as if she could still recall the fear she felt back then.

"I was terrified but I couldn't cry. I remember what you said, dad, if I forgot the way home one day, I should stand there and wait for you. Because you'd find me, no matter where I am in the world, you'd come looking for me."

Qing You clasped her hand over Liu Tie's old and larger hand.

Before Qing You was abducted, Liu Tie pampered her, his youngest daughter. He was a born and bred farmer; when he went farming in the past, he would take Qing You along and tell her stories. When he had spun too many tales, he would tell her philosophies that the girl could yet to understand at that age too. Liu Tie had not gone to school but he gained a lot of insights after living for more than half of his life.

The only thing that Qing You could understand was this. Many parents would remind their children to watch out for their safety as well but to Qing You, what her father told her was a maxim she kept in her heart for life.

Tears slid off the corners of Qing You's eyes slowly. She continued to speak at everyone's attention, "I kept standing there, not daring to go any farther. There were children who ran because they got scared."

"When one kid started to run, the rest followed. But that was an island. Other than the island itself, the surrounding was a borderless ocean. Those children who ran away got killed. A bunch of men with machine guns killed them. Their corpses were dragged away too. All the dead bodies of the children were fed to wolfhounds."

Qing You gradually recovered to her usual tone.

"Then, they began to train us, the kids who didn't run. For a few months, we trained day and night. It was there that I learned how to kill someone..."

Qing You raised both her hands as she spoke. When she talked about killing people, she was monotonous, like it was as simple as eating. Liu Qi's legs had started to tremble.

"Dad, you guys should've guessed it by now. It was an assassin organization and I'm an assassin." Qing You paused again when she got here.

"But I was very lucky. I was in the organization for a few months then I met my master. My master took me away from that horrifying place. Otherwise, I'd have long been a cold corpse now."

If Snake.Lizard had not taken Qing You away back then, Qing You was incapable of escaping the place based on her ability. She was not as skilled or as competent as Yun Jian. Qing You was only slightly above average.

If Qing You had stayed in the assassin organization like Yun Jian from start to finish, she would never be able to leave there alive because there would only be a handful of people to survive from the hundreds of them.

Qing You stopped, marking the end of her confession. She did not tell Liu Tie that she had been working under Yun Jian since then because she knew that the latter did not want to expose her identity.

"An assa-assassin? Xi-Xiao Xin... these wounds on you, they're..." Liu Tie's eyes widened as he stared at Qing You in extreme disbelief, his jaw dropped.

"Mn, I was slashed by people. Some were gunshots." Since she had divulged her identity, she did not hide the details.

“Liu Xin you...” Liu Ziyun was at a loss for words from what Qing You said.

His baby sister whom he thought had come back from comfort and luxury had actually gone through such pains...

Liu Qi was dumbfounded as well, staring at Qing You with bulging eyes.

Chapter 615: The Air Cleared—Live Together

Their baby sister who was abducted was not sold to brothels, nor incapacitated and made to beg on the streets. Both the possibilities were frequent sights in reality.

Many children in Luo Village who were abducted were crippled by the time their parents found them.

How could a girl who had been a prostitute find a husband? Which debilitated beggar on the street was not missing a limb? How would they make a living in the future? Some were even blinded. These were nothing but the human traffickers’ tactics to arouse sympathy from passersby for the poor children.

The vile human traffickers were not ruining a person but a family’s happiness.

In spite of it, none of those were Qing You’s encounters. She had gone somewhere far more brutal—an assassin organization.

Perhaps being sold into prostitution or incapacitated and made to beg on the streets was unfortunate, but these people were alive at least. An assassin organization, however, it was truly the survival of the fittest.—You die if you are incapable.

There were only a mere few children out of the several hundred who ultimately survived there. Sometimes, there were not even three who managed to stay alive.

His sister was actually taken to a place like that! Liu Ziyun felt his heart drop. In that second, his resentment for Qing You completely dissipated.

He held a grudge because he kept thinking that Qing You had been enjoying an easy life all these years and was reluctant to return home. Now that he knew she had gone through so much, Liu Ziyun felt his heart ache for her as her brother. This was his baby sister!

“Oh, my Xiao Xin, you’ve gone through so much. It’s all my fault. I didn’t find you, I didn’t keep my promise. It’s my fault, it’s my fault...” Liu Tie nearly lost his soul when he listened to Qing You’s narration. After that, he pounded his chest crying out due to his incompetence.

He really did not expect his youngest daughter to be abducted into an assassin organization! Anyone who entered that kind of place died without a doubt!

“Dad, aren’t I alive and back now? Stop blaming yourself. If you didn’t tell me to stand there and wait for you when we get lost, I’d have run and scurried around with the other children back then,” Qing You told Liu Tie earnestly, grabbing his hand.

If Qing You had beetled about like those children did back then, she would have died on the spot.

Liu Tie calmed down immediately as she said that.

Yun Jian scanned everyone's expression, noting that Liu Ziyun had completely wiped off his previous misunderstanding toward Qing You. As for Liu Qi, her elder sister, her emotions were complicated.

Liu Qi had always thought that Qing You was back to fight for their father and brother's love with her, but there was a faint pang to her heart now after knowing about her little sister's suffering.

To Liu Qi, Qing You had taken away all her childhood pampering, so when she was abducted, Liu Qi was secretly gleeful because the love and care came back to her. In spite of it, there was an emptiness in her heart like something was missing.

Liu Qi had always had a sharp tongue. No one would dare crown themselves the first if she were to call herself second in making verbal attacks.

"So dad, we must stay together as a family from now on." Except for mom... Qing You wore a bitter smile.

Liu Tie nodded emotionally.

"Count me in too." Just when Yun Jian was feeling happy for Qing You, a decisive voice of a guy cut in. Turning around, Yun Jian realized that it was her own elder brother.

Chapter 616: I'll Take Responsibility. Finish Them Off

Yun Yi who spoke suddenly caught them off guard.

The few of them then recalled at once that Yun Yi had called Qing You 'his' right in front of everyone to defend her. So... it was not a joke?

To be honest, Liu Tie really thought that what Yun Yi said earlier was a joke. After all, a young man like Yun Yi was incredibly wonderful in his opinion. He was handsome and looked decent. A look at him told enough of how dependable he must be.—Not that Liu Tie would put his youngest daughter and Yun Yi together.

From what happened earlier, Liu Tie thought that Yun Yi had stepped out to call Qing You his purely because he wanted to show support for Qing You as a friend. Yet, just when he was reconnecting with his youngest daughter and watching his family stick back up, Yun Yi said what he said.

Was there really something between him and his youngest daughter?

Liu Tie did not watch Qing You grow up after all. He frowned and began to scrutinize the young man.

"Xiao Xin, he...?" Liu Tie asked Qing You with a finger pointed at Yun Yi who stood not too far beside Yun Jian.

"Dad, he's my friend's elder brother." Knowing that Liu Tie did not mind her past encounter, Qing You answered him with a smile as she went to hold his hand affectionately.

The friend Qing You mentioned was Yun Jian. Anyone, even if they were blind, could discern that. However, what Qing You said frustrated Yun Yi. What did she say? Her friend's elder brother? Was that all?

“Your friend’s brother? We slept together and you call me your friend’s brother?” Yun Yi went right up to Qing You and grabbed her delicate wrist, lightly. He would hurt her easily if he was too forceful—Yun Yi liked her too much to do that.

“Pft.” A chuckle escaped Yun Jian the moment she heard what her brother said. The atmosphere was overturned directly from its initial tension following her chortle.

“Wha-what did you say?” Qing You widened her round eyes and refused to admit it, even when a stream of warmth flowed through her when she heard what Yun Yi said.

“What did I say? Do I have to repeat myself? We’ve slept in the same bed, what do you think we are?” Yun Yi threw his gentlemanly ways to the wind and behaved rogue for once. His goal for coming on this trip was obvious—he was going to win Qing You over.

“I...” Qing You was unable to make a comeback and pouted looking at Liu Tie. “Dad, look. He’s bullying me.”

Liu Tie was speechless.

Qing You then turned to Yun Jian and acted coy. “Sister Jian, your brother’s bullying me. You’ve got to help me.”

Yun Jian stroked Yun Zhu’s head and looked away, replying, “I didn’t see anything.”

It was Qing You’s turn to be speechless.

“Punk, how dare you bully Liu... my sister?” Liu Ziyun stepped forward and yanked Yun Yi’s collars, speaking up like the gang member he was.

His sudden change of address towards Qing You as ‘my sister’ brought a sparkle to the girl’s eyes. It surprised her.

“I’ll take responsibility,” Yun Yi whose collars were still gripped by Liu Ziyun spoke seriously.

Just as everything was taking a turn for the better, a group of people were marching toward them aggressively with shovels used for farming.

“There they are! They were the ones who shot ol’Third’s members!”

“B*stards! Finish them off!”

Chapter 617: Luo Village’s Custom. His Status

The surname of the short bachelor whose member was shot by Si Yi just now was Wang. People in the village called him Wang Solo.

Wang Solo was not the first unmarried old man in Luo Village. There were more old bachelors in the village than married men with children. Why? There was actually a reason behind it.

Luo Village had been an impoverished farming village since its existence. It was prone to drought and crops could barely grow, rainfall was not plentiful either as it was mostly dry across seasons.

There was a custom that the old ancestors of Luo Village passed down—they favored male over female. To most families in the village, giving birth to a boy or a girl was very different; having a son meant that he would take care of the parents when they were old while having a daughter was as good as none when she got married.

It was ingrained in everyone that daughters were losses parents had to sustain. Luo Village was a backward-thinking place like this. As time passed, it became a norm in Luo Village for families to give birth to a son before they stopped trying.

This caused an indirect issue—there were far too few girls in Luo Village. Later, there was only a girl to three or four boys.

Due to how poor Luo Village was, it was basically impossible for the men to marry women from anywhere outside of their village but the long-term unproportioned ratio of sexes in Luo Village meant that there were not many girls at all and some of them would even get married to other families.

What should these boys do when they grow up, then? They ended up like Wang Solo, a bachelor for life!

The misogynist old women of Luo Village, when they gathered together, would be complaining about women outside who refused to marry themselves into Luo Village when the village was such a wonderful place to be.

In spite of it, they had forgotten about their innate sexism. How could the women who get married into Luo Village have a happy life when the entire village was so misogynist?

These old women had remained oblivious to a crucial question when they were being misogynist—they were also women!

When a custom so dated and conservative was passed down through generations and these foolish people did not realize it, it inadvertently caused the current state—there were single men everywhere in Luo Village!

There was a big group of men like Wang Solo who had never even touched a girl's finger all their lives. When these men came together, they became sworn brothers.

The dozen of people now barging through the door with shovels were old bachelors of the village and sworn brothers of Wang Solo.

These people had even ranked themselves according to age, calling each other ol'Eldest, ol'Second, ol'Third, and had even named their group, "Bachelor Alliance". The men triumphed over brotherhood; when the villagers carried Wang Solo away earlier, they took him to his sworn brothers.

Shortly, here they came with their shovels to settle the matter.

These unmarried old men did not have families, so they did not have much concern. In Luo Village itself, they were bold and reckless as well, daring to do anything foul they wanted to.

The group marched to the front yard of Liu Tie's house vehemently. The 180cm old man who stood right in front of the group was addressed as Brother Hu and was said to be a gangster in Xin City.

Brother Hu was the leader of the bunch but he was not unmarried. The reason he was so brazen was because he was a gang member of Xin City and had quite the status.

When Liu Ziyun saw Brother Hu, he blanched. "Bro-brother Hu? What brings you here?"

Chapter 618: Armed—Let's See Who's Faster

Liu Ziyun was involved in the gang in Xin City as well. It was when his mother, Qing You's birth mother, passed away in looking for her that he quit studying and dropped out of school.

Since then, Liu Ziyun has lived in abandonment. Liu Tie was helpless against him. To Liu Ziyun, losing his mother was a reality he could not accept.

It had been a few years since Liu Ziyun joined a gang. Liu Tie only knew that he had joined a mob in Xin City but nothing more than that. Despite the extended period of time Liu Ziyun had been in a gang, he was only at the lowest rank.

Who was this Brother Hu, then? When Liu Ziyun had first joined the mob, Brother Hu was already an executive member of a large gang. He was not exactly celebrated as the executive member but his status was enough to subdue Liu Ziyun.

Hence, Liu Ziyun was nervous and scared when he saw Brother Hu.

Naturally, Brother Hu did not know a small-time member like Liu Ziyun but when someone called him in a quivering tone just as he barged into Liu Tie's yard with his brothers—probably recognizing him, Brother Hu felt too big for his boots immediately.

He did not expect someone sensible to recognize him!

"Hah!" Brother Hu scoffed loud and long as he led the group to the front yard and spun the shovel he carried.

Suddenly, his gaze paused when he espied Yun Jian and Qing You.

Oh ho, these young girls are pretty!

As a high-ranking member of a big mob in Xin City, Brother Hu had countless women, but he still felt refreshed the moment he saw Yun Jian and Qing You.

"Oh-ho-ho-ho!" Brother Hu whistled and checked out Yun Jian and Qing You lecherously before he bobbed the shovel in his hand on the ground.

"You guys shot my third brother just now. Is this a death wish?" Brother Hu bellowed abruptly, his brazen voice made most of those around shudder.

Liu Tie was only a farmer who had been honest and stayed within his lane all his life. Having never encountered something like this, he was rather frightened but he pulled Qing You's hand to try to hide her behind him anyway.

"Your third brother?" Si Yi leaned against a corner of a wall idly with his hawk-like gaze pinning Brother Hu down. His casual tone was laced with a domineering aura that could not be ignored.

“F*cking b*stards, you’re the one who shot his d*ck!” An old bachelor who stood next to Brother Hu shouted at Si Yi to make himself look good in front of Brother Hu.

“Hah.” Si Yi smirked. There was not an inkling of threat that he felt due to Brother Hu and the men’s presence.

“D*mn it! Do you guys want to die? How dare you be so arrogant when you laid a finger on my man! F*ck!” Brother Hu swung his shovel and hacked it down toward the ground.

Then, as if suddenly remembering something, Brother Hu tossed the shovel and carefully pulled out a real gun from his pants pocket.

“F*ck, you think I’ll be scared because you have a gun? I have one too! Haha! Do you think I’m scared of you guys?” Brother Hu knew that Wang Solo’s member was shot with a pistol, so he had come armed and ready.

Liu Tie, Liu Ziyun, and Liu Qi felt chills running down their back instinctively when they saw the firearm in Brother Hu’s hand.

“So what if you have a gun? Do you dare contest with me? Let’s see if your gun or my knife’s faster?” As she spoke, Yun Jian had brandished a butterfly knife that she was toying and twirling with ease.

Chapter 619: Done With His Last Words. Brother Hu Who Brings It Upon Himself

When he saw Yun Jian flashing a butterfly knife and playing with it so smoothly, Brother Hu felt his heart stutter.

‘F*ck!’ he cursed in his mind. How could he be intimidated because a girl held a knife? It did not make sense!

Looking at Yun Jian’s gorgeous face and her shapely figure wrapped under her winter wear, Brother Hu, however, felt an itch.

“Do you know who I am?” Brother Hu hooked his gun and spun it backward, acting cool in front of Yun Jian, before he asked. He patted himself on the back after the show.

Brother Hu was a handsome guy when he was younger. Put that with the backward twirling of his gun hooked around his finger, it was enough to infatuate a large group of young girls.

Watching Brother Hu act cool with that burly bordering fat body of his, Yun Jian kept her butterfly knife back to her palm and said looking at him, “You’re a pig.”

‘You’re a pig’... Yun Jian just called Brother Hu a pig and actually, he quite resembled one.

A pig was not tall while Brother Hu was 180cm but his chunky arms and fleshy legs were nearly four or five times thicker than Yun Jian’s limbs.

What would he look like if not a pig with that form?

With that pointed out, a few old bachelors next to Brother Hu struggled to hold in their laugh. Some had even chuckled aloud.

Brother Hu was a high-ranking member of Xin City's second largest mob. A lot of gang members were scared of him but Yun Jian called him a pig?

"Ha-ha-ha, what's so funny!" Brother Hu turned to bellow at the single old man.

Then, he directed his gaze to Qing You and Liu Ziyun.

He spoke to Liu Ziyun directly, "Kid, you're with the gang in Xin City too huh? Heh, I heard that that's your younger sister who just came back? She's quite pretty! Lend her to me for a few days, I'll promote you to be my underling for the gang I'm in, what do you think?"

Brother Hu made the offer to Liu Ziyun sounding like he was making a loss.

Liu Ziyun had been frightened just now but when he heard what the man said, an inexplicable rage soared within him.

Qing You had suffered so much hardship. If Liu Ziyun did not know, he might blame his baby sister. Even then, when he did not know about it, he had chased Qing You away just because he was too furious.

Liu Ziyun was a gang member but he had pride. There was no way he would give his sister away as an offering in exchange for his status!

"Blergh! Scram! I won't let you go even if I die if you dare lay a finger on my sister!" Liu Ziyun snarled at once, his initial meek state transformed in the blink of an eye.

Even Qing You was shocked. "Ge..." she called out, touched.

"Don't worry, it's fine. You're at home, no one will bully you. Ge will protect you!" Liu Ziyun turned to grin at Qing You, putting himself in front of Brother Hu.

"F*ck!" Brother Hu growled, his eyes traveling between Qing You and Yun Jian. He was going to take both of them with him today no matter what!

"Are you done with your last words?" Si Yi's aloof yet domineering voice came from the side just as Brother Hu went berserk.

No longer leaning against the wall as he had been earlier, Si Yi walked toward them.

"What last words? F*ck you! Who the f*ck do you think you are!" Brother Hu hollered when he caught up with the situation, enraged by what Si Yi had said out of the blue.

"Looks like you're done. You can die then." Without looking up, Si Yi held a pistol in his hand like a magic trick.

"I have..." 'I have a gun too!'—Before Brother Hu raised his gun, Si Yi had pulled the trigger with his long finger.

Bang!

He had said before that anyone who tried to slander or coveted his girl must die!

Chapter 620: You Guys Are Doomed—You Shouldn't Think About Leaving

Before Brother Hu could raise his gun or finish his words, a glinting bullet pierced his head with an invisible speed.

He was killed with one shot!

Everyone there was horrified by what Si Yi had done.

Those with Brother Hu cried in shock, terror, and panic coloring their expressions. They were local farmers with similar cultural and educational backgrounds; the most educated among them were only elementary school graduates.

It was why they lacked legal awareness when they ran into conflict. All they knew to do was to gang up and fight with their brothers. It was also because of this that Brother Hu and the men did not go to the police with what happened to Wang Solo but picked up their shovels and came to pick at Si Yi.

The villagers lacked legal knowledge. When something happened, they usually looked for supporters and resolved it among themselves. Gang fights and serious injuries were common occurrences but to kill someone like Si Yi did—a high-ranking member of Xin City's gang, too—was unheard of.

Brother Hu's comrades in the 'Bachelor Alliance' were no strangers to brawls, often injuring themselves during fights, so seeing some blood was nothing new but ending up with someone dead was serious. Mainly, Brother Hu was an executive member of the second largest mob in Xin City!

If the gang from Xin City wanted to get to the bottom of this, none of them could get away scot-free!

For a moment, Brother Hu's bros were petrified.

"He ki-killed someone! You killed someone!" Someone pointed at Si Yi, speaking up in an incredibly frightful tone.

"Do you know who you've killed? That's a high-ranking member from Xin City's second largest gang! You guys are doomed!" A man who came with Brother Hu shouted at Si Yi and Yun Jian despite being baffled as well.

"Were you guys thinking of staying alive when you dare look at my girl with that gaze? You shouldn't even think about leaving today." Si Yi's long finger brushed the muzzle of his pistol lightly. With a sideways glance, his eyes drifted to the men like he was looking at a group of dead people.

Si Yi was killing them just because they had looked at Yun Jian lustfully? Connecting it to him shooting Wang Solo's member earlier, Liu Tie, Liu Ziyun, and Liu Qi felt another surge of terror when they were already shaken.

The men with Brother Hu quickly realized it as well. Judging by Si Yi's words, he was going to kill all of them? They panicked, far more appalled than when Brother Hu had died before their eyes.

"Ah! I don't want to die!"

The group howled, the earlier sense of gung-ho all gone as they turned around to flee.

Si Yi squinted his eyes as he raised his pistol. He was the head of An Hun Group and he had never regarded life quite seriously.

He had not killed anyone previously because he was all about listening to his Xiao Jian. Things had gone past the limit, however, as these people repeatedly stepped over the line. Based on Si Yi's character, he would kill all of them.

"Don't! No! Young man, don't do it!" Liu Tie was a kind man. He was scared but he rushed forward to stop Si Yi from killing more people.

"Let them go," Yun Jian chorused.

Brother Hu's brothers took the opportunity and ran as fast as they could, disappearing out of sight.

Liu Tie suppressed the panic he felt at once while Liu Qi was frozen on the spot, fear flooding her system. The man of Qing You's friend whom she brought home had killed someone...

How could he remain so unfazed when he had killed someone!
