

The Second Act Revenge (Oneida and Jackson)

The Second Act 151

Chapter 151

These four universities were superb tertiary institutions. They were the four pillars of higher education centers in this country.

In recent years, the reputation of Justgrity University, McBright University, Guston University, and other universities vaguely surpassed that of Imperial Star University. Shuttles of all schools stopped.

Doors opened, and the youngsters came out of the vehicles.

"Ms. Sanders, please be careful. The road here is bumpy."

At the door of McBright University's shuttle, two people walked out of the vehicle one after another.

Juliette got out of the shuttle arrogantly with her chin up. The servant behind her was trying to persuade her, "Ms. Sanders, slow down."

"Stop nagging." Juliette waved her hand impatiently. She glanced around subconsciously.

As the poster girl of McBright University, she was elected to Starr Training Camp. She carried the honor of McBright University on her shoulder.

The young and proud girl looked around arrogantly. A faint smile hung on the corner of her lips.

She evaluated the other students and came to the conclusion that no one on the scene could fight her.

Behind Juliette, a young boy in a baseball cap walked out of the shuttle steadily.

He was wearing a black jacket and carried a ruffian temperament. His eyes gleamed with light defiance.

The young boy was clad in expensive branded clothes, which somehow made him look flippant and superficial.

Oneida had been observing these two for a while.

She sighed in her heart. "It seems that Starr Training Camp doesn't pick its candidates solely on their strengths. I'm surprised to see that these pampered rich kids are also selected for the camp."

At this moment, a loud and vibrant male voice sounded from the front.

A young man in a white shirt and suit pants came over and said to all the students present, "Everyone, I am the counselor of Starr Training Camp. I will be in charge of your daily life in the near future. You can call me Mr. Lawson."

"First of all, welcome to Starr Training Camp." Ronald Lawson smiled politely and said meaningfully, "As a guarantee for your physical and mental well-being during the intensive training, we have specially equipped a professional medical team for you." "A professional medical team?" Confusion rose in students' minds when they heard that.

Many students couldn't help but widen their eyes and whisper to one another.

"Why would we need a medical team?"

"I heard that some training is very intense and may cause injuries. Take care..."

"Getting injured is the least we have to worry about. I heard that the previous students broke down physically and mentally and withdrew from the training with tears."

"Is it so terrible?"

"What else? Do you think you're here for indulgence?"

"My goodness! Is it too late for me to quit now?"

Oneida was unfazed by Ronald's words.

"The doctors are already on standby before the training even begins. Interesting," she mused.

Oneida's iridescent eyes showed a faint sense of interest.

"Everyone here comes from different parts of the country and different universities." Ronald's voice continued to ru Training Camp have made an initial assessment and ranked you based on your past performance."

Ronald curled his eyes, and an inexplicable emotion flashed in his orbs as he said, "Next, I'll tell you your rank. We've divided all the students into four ranks. There are Rank S, Rank A, Rank 1, and Rank C*

"Who do you think will be in the best, Rank 5?" Ronald deliberately paused for a moment and let the suspense hang in the air.

Everyone's attention was instantly on Ronald.

After all, everyone wanted to know what rank they were,

If they were in Rank 8, not only was it a great honor, but it also meant that they were valued by the teachers in the training camp. Ronald coughed slightly and was finally ready to make the announcement. "We have the following students in Rank S.

Everyone's heart instantly rose with anticipation as Ronald spoke.

They held their breaths as they listened.

"Hendrick Quinlan from Imperial Star University."

Ronald announced Hendrick's name first.

Oneida subconsciously glanced at the boy not far away.

He stood upright, his figure tall and straight like a pine tree.

His handsome face was void of any emotions.

It was as if the announcement from Ronald had nothing to do with him.

In fact, not only was Hendrick calm, but Oneida, Roxanne, and Matthias were also nonchalant when they heard the announcement.

After all, Hendrick was a top genius at Imperial Star University. It was normal for him to be rated Rank S.

Meanwhile, students from other universities looked over inquisitively.

Some of them had heard of Hendrick's name before, so they shouted excitedly, "Hendrick Quinlan? I can't believe he's also here. I've admired him for a long time!"

"I've heard of Hendrick, too. Our teacher said he is an all-round genius!"

Of course, some people had never heard of Hendrick. They stretched their necks and wanted to see who the genius that just got rated Rank S was.

"Well, I haven't finished yet!" Right then, Ronald's voice sounded and interrupted everyone's discussion, "There is another student of Rank S, who is Yelena Shaw from Guston University. Okay! Our two best Rank S students, can you please come over here?" Hendrick frowned slightly as though he was a little reluctant.

In the end, he relented and walked toward Ronald.

Yelena was a petite and cute girl who had a calm demeanor.

Ronald gave a big gift to Hendrick and Yelena and said with a smile, "Rank S students are entitled to special care from the teachers and receive better resources. Of course, the rank you got now is just the result of the initial assessment. It will be updated based on everyone's performance. Who knows, Rank S students may fall to Rank A next time. Rank B students will stand a chance to climb to Rank S if they work hard too."

Speaking of this, Ronald's expression suddenly became a little serious. "As for Rank C students, if you retain the same rank, you are most likely to get eliminated halfway."

Many people drew in sharp breaths as they exclaimed inwardly, "Damn! This training camp is run on an elimination system. If we don't perform well, we would be kicked out halfway. It will be humiliating if we get eliminated."

Next, Ronald continued to announce the rank of the students.

Most of the students were Rank A and Rank B. For example, Roxanne and Juliette were both Rank A, while the boy in a baseball cap was Rank B.

In the end, only Rank C students were unannounced.

"Finally, let's reveal Rank C students." Ronald took the list and said in a deep tone, "There are only three students

Many people couldn't help snickering.

They wondered who the three losers were that were assigned to the lowest Rank C.

"How did they get into Start Training Camp?" they thought.

Under everyone's expectant eyes, Ronald began to announce the Rank C list, "Oneida Chaser from Imperial Star University, Matthias Carter from Imperial Star University, and Ruby Sheen from Justgrity University,"

"To the three aforementioned students, please come over here, too."

Oneida glanced at Matthias quietly.

Matthias was also looking at her with a calm face.

Oneida had long guessed that her rank was probably Rank C.

She came from a Regular Class and didn't have a glorious record. Rank C was the most likely ranking she would receive.

Unexpectedly, Matthias was also a Rank C.

They looked at each other and then walked forward slowly.

"Well, the three of us are in the same boat now." A girl with twisted braids suddenly approached them with an embarrassed smile on her face. "I didn't expect that I would be Rank G..." With that, she pouted resignedly. Her delicate face lit up with a vivid emotional display.

Oneida glanced at the girl.

"She must be Ruby," Oneida thought.

"The three Rank C students here..." Ronald sighed and advised earnestly, "You have a poor foundation. You should work hard in the future, or you will be the first to be eliminated." Ronald's words were like a public execution to the three of them.

Hearing this, Ruby frowned. She scratched her head in frustration. "Understood, Mr. Lawson."

Most of the other students had a good laugh at the three.

"They are Rank C losers. Hahaha! If I were them, I would have quit already. Are they staying to embarrass themselves more?"

"Are you sure the teachers didn't make the mistake of admitting these three?"

"The tall girl is so beautiful and delicate. She seems to be from Imperial Star University."

"What's the use of beauty? She's just eye candy!"

"I can't help wondering if she entered Starr Training Camp because of her face."

"It's possible!"

"I bet a pretty face like her can't even last a month. She will probably be eliminated in two days!"

"The three of them look stupid. Why should I train with three fools?"

The crowd clamored. Oneida was indifferent as if she didn't hear the gossip.

Ruby's cheeks turned red. She wrung her fingers and kindly comforted Oneida and Matthias. "Don't take what they said seriously. We could climb up. Although we are only Rank C now, we may be something else in the future!" At this time, Ronald's voice sounded again. "Next, please hand in your phones."

"Goodness! Do we have to hand in our phones? We will be totally isolated from the outside world!" All the students were wailing in their hearts. They were quite reluctant to abide by the rules.

However, they still had to hand in their phones in the end despite their reluctance.

Special personnel came to collect everyone's cell phones.

Oneida took out her phone readily.

The absence of a phone had little impact on her.

She turned off the phone and handed it to the personnel.

Chapter 152

However, just one second after her phone was turned off, a message from Jackson was sent to her phone.

Unfortunately, Oneida had no chance to read it.

After everyone's phones were taken away, Ronald introduced the accommodation arrangement, "Our accommodation is divided into three levels. The best is a single room, followed by a tent, and the worst..." Ronald paused for a moment. He looked at the students with a faint smile and continued, "The worst is a cave."

"What?" someone yelled loudly.

"We have to live in a cave..."

"I don't want to. It's terrible."

Most of the students were frightened by the news. It was ridiculous. They had never suffered like this.

"A cave? Are you kidding? Are they savages?" they thought.

Starr Training Camp was indeed an unusual training camp.

Ronald smiled, "Of course, someone must want to ask how we allocate these accommodations. I'll tell you now. We will have our first test later. If you get good results, you can choose the accommodation first." Everyone gasped again.

It meant that students with good grades would live in a single room, while those with poor grades could only live in a cave.

Hearing this, Oneida smiled slightly. A faint sense of playfulness and relaxation flashed in her eyes.

She looked at Matthias and said nonchalantly, "In this case, we can only live in a single room."

Oneida didn't lower her voice, and many people heard her words.

The air suddenly froze.

Everyone was shocked when a loser of Rank C spoke like this.

If Hendrick threw up a statement like this, it would be excusable, but those words were spoken by a loser of Rank C.

For a moment, everyone looked at Oneida with contempt.

"What the hell? Did she just tell a joke?"

"A Rank C loser wants to live in a single room? This is the funniest joke I've heard this year."

"Why doesn't she have at least some degree of self-awareness? It's disgusting."

"She's a loser who can only live in the cave. She wants to fight for the single room with us? In her dreams, perhaps..."

Oneida also caught Juliette's attention.

She usually hated this kind of ignorant loser.

Thinking of this, she walked out of the crowd proudly and fixed her eyes on Oneida.

"You..." She snorted coldly and mocked, "I remember you are rank C..."

"She is a Rank C, right?" Halfway through, she pretended to be confused and looked at the people beside her, pretending to ask, "I don't think I remember it wrongly..." Many people snickered when they heard that.

Juliette was deliberately emphasizing that Oneida was a Rank C loser.

"You're right. She is Rank C!"

"She's one of the only three Rank C losers in this training camp."

Many people echoed in a voice dripping with sarcasm while looking at Oneida with contempt.

Chapter 152

Juliette smiled and looked at Oneida again with an insufferably arrogant look. "So, I heard that you want to live in a single room. I don't think you're even qualified to live in the cavel" Hearing this, a fit of thunderous laughter burst out in the crowd.

Everyone was laughing at Oneida.

Juliette had voiced out the thoughts that they didn't dare to say publicly.

They felt exhilarated.

Matthias clenched his slender fingers at those mockeries. He subconsciously took a step forward.

Oneida suddenly put her hand on his wrist to stop him.

Matthias couldn't help but turn to look at Oneida.

He didn't like people talking about her and laughing at her like that.

In his mind, Oneida was a talented genius.

She was just hiding her light right now.

Oneida shook her head at Matthias, beckoning him not to be impulsive.

Ruby stood up and defended Oneida at the side. "Yes, we are Rank C. But it doesn't mean that we will lose in the test later. Who says that Rank C is not allowed to set the goal of living in a single room?" Juliette glanced at her coldly and said disdainfully, "Aren't you ashamed to say that? You won't stand a chance in the test later! Don't you know why you're ranked Rank C?"

Ruby's face suddenly turned pale.

This was a blatant humiliation.

She wrung her fingers and didn't know how to retort..

"Excuse me," Oneida, who had been silent for a long time, said lightly. She looked at Juliette indifferently with a lazy and arrogant look.

The beautiful girl suddenly smiled provocatively. "Consider one of the single rooms reserved"

After saying that, Oneida looked away quietly and walked straight out of the crowd.

She was tall and slim, looking aloof and arrogant at this instant. Her eyes were as cold as frost.

Everyone was intimidated by the sudden release of her aura,

In an instant, the air was silent.

No one spoke.

Seeing Oneida leave, Matthias and Ruby immediately followed her.

After a few seconds, everyone slowly came to their senses.

"What did she just say? Consider one of the single rooms reserved? Oh, my! She is so full of herself.

"This girl really deserves to be beaten."

"Why is she so arrogant? How annoying..."

"Everyone can bluff. I guess she's just a pretentious charlatan."

Juliette turned around. Her eyes couldn't help but be drawn to Oneida's back. Deep hatred simmered in her eyes. "Damn it," she cursed inwardly.

Juliette couldn't believe that she was tricked by Oneida just now.

"This useless girl is no doubt good at acting! Is her name Oneida? I remember your name now," Juliette thought.

She was curious to see what this nobody could do.

"Ahem!" Right then, Ronald subconsciously cleared his throat and tried to smooth things over with an awkward look. "Well, everyone, hurry up and gather at the test site." He didn't expect tension to run high during the first day of the training.

However, it was understandable, as most of the o

Therefore, the teacher usually wouldn't interfere in the conflict between students, as long as they didn't act too violently.

This interlude came to an end.

The first test of Starr Training Camp was about to start.

The result of the test would determine the accommodation conditions for each student.

Guided by Ronald, everyone came to the test site.

It was an open field.

The plain field was peppered with gravel and covered with sparse weeds.

On the other side of the field, there were ten targets side by side.

The first test was archery.

It was not modern archery, but traditional archery.

The wooden bow would be used, and feathered arrows would be shot.

Right then, a tall man in a long robe suddenly appeared in front of the crowd.

He was handsome and had well-defined facial features. He was holding a long bow in his hand and carrying a quiver on his back.

The man looked elegant and calm, with extraordinary temperament.

Someone recognized the man at a glance and shouted excitedly. "It's Elon Gray!"

"Elon? Is that the Elon in my mind?"

"I've heard of his name. I didn't expect him to be so handsome!"

For a moment, another commotion erupted in the crowd.

For many people, the name Elon had long resounded in their ears.

It was because he was not only the world champion but also one of the best archery masters in the contemporary world. He was also a promoter of classical culture.

He wore a long robe and leather boots. He liked traditional archery and had excellent archery skills.

The crowd was taken aback by the sudden appearance of the badass man.

Many people were babbling with excitement.

Everyone found Starr Training Camp impressive that they could even invite a celebrity like Elon over as a teacher.

In ordinary times, they wouldn't have such an opportunity to get close to such a big shot.

Oneida glanced at Elon from a distance. Her eyes were calm and indifferent, which were in sharp contrast to the gazes of the excited people beside her.

Ronald exclaimed excitedly, and his voice sounded in everyone's ears. "I believe a lot of you know him. This is Mr. Gray. He is specially invited by our Starr Training Camp to tutor everyone." Elon's pronounced facial features basked in the golden sunshine, and he looked extremely handsome.

He raised his eyes indifferently and nodded slightly to everyone.

It was his form of greeting.

"Well, he's so handsome. Mr. Gray!"

Some girls could no longer hold back their excitement while looking at Elon, starry-eyed.

"He's so handsome. I can't concentrate at all!"

"All right, everyone. Please be quiet," Ronald interrupted the restless discussion. "Mr. Gray is here to supervise the test today. The limelight is still c you all. Next, it's time to demonstrate your archery skills." Henceforth, the archery test officially began.

Elon just stood upright at the side. He was

at the students, observing them silently.

Although most of the students present were top talents from various universities, it did not mean that everyone knew how to do archery.

That was, except for some versatile geniuses, such as Hendrick.

He was the first one to play.

The playing order was based on everyone's voluntary choice..

They could choose whether they wanted to join the game. If they didn't wish to join the game, they could just

Many people hesitated and dared not play. After all, archery was a very unfamiliar sport for them.

Elon understood that the child could see it.

Smiling lightly, the handsome man suddenly opened his thin lips and said to everyone, "Archery alone can't reflect your level. So I set a little obstacle for you. If you can control the arrow in your hands and shoot it into the target center against the strong wind, then you will really pass my test."

Everyone was surprised when they heard that.

That was too hard.

Archery was already very difficult. Now, they even had to shoot arrows against the strong wind, which was terribly difficult.

Even a genius like Hendrick missed the target because of the wind, so they were more likely not to be able to do that. Elon was so harsh.

All of a sudden, there were a lot of complaints.

Ronald smiled and comforted everyone, "Don't be depressed. You can try it first. What if you succeed?"

"How is that possible?" Some students had started to give up on themselves.

"The wind can make arrows drift. How can we shoot it? It is already considered lucky if we don't miss the target.

"I didn't expect the first test to be a tough one. Starr Training Camp is really not that simple."

Just as everyone was complaining, Hendrick drew his bow again, looking solemn.

He looked unconsciously nervous.

He put the feather arrow on the string and aimed at the center of the target.

Everything was ready.

The handsome Hendrick's side profile was calm. He stared straight ahead with his cold eyes.

Not far away, Roxanne looked at Hendrick's appearance and knew that he was getting serious.

Once he became serious, that was how he looked.

Seeing that, everyone held their breath subconsciously.

Everyone was waiting for the moment when the arrow was shot out.

Suddenly, there was a dull noise.

The feather arrow shot out.

"Could the arrow hit the target?"

That was everyone's question.

One second later, the feather arrow was pierced into the position close to the center.

He almost shot it right in the center.

Hendrick's second arrow was a nine-ring.

Although it was a pity that he failed to hit the ten-ring, he was excellent to hit the nine-ring against such a strong wind.

For a moment, everyone was stunned and then gave loud applause and cheers.

"Hendrick is indeed a Rank S genius. He's too awesome! He's able to hit nine-ring, even under such circumstances."

"He almost hit ten-wing. But it's already very good."

"Hendrick is indeed an omnipotent boss. He knows everything!"

On the other side, Elon saw Hendrick hit a nine-ring and could not help nodding.

A hint of appreciation could be seen in his deep and cold eyes.

In such harsh conditions, it was very rare to hit a nine-ring.

Hendrick was undoubtedly recognized by Elon.

Soon, Hendrick drew his bow again and began to shoot his third arrow.

Everyone had three chances to shoot.

The final score of each person was the sum of the number of rings shot.

Hendrick shot the arrow calmly and indifferently.

That was a perfect ten-ring.

He shot straight to the center.

Everyone could not help but get excited.

"Ten-ring! It's ten-ring! Am I right?"

"Hendrick, are you human?"

"I think Hendrick has booked a single dorm."

After three shots, Hendrick's final score was 19.

Putting down the bow and arrow, he then stepped aside silently.

Next was someone else's turn.

At that time, Roxanne walked forward and silently picked up the bow and arrow.

Hendrick had already made a good start, so she was unwilling to fall behind.

She had been chasing Hendrick.

Roxanne pulled the bow reluctantly and frowned.

She was struggling a little.

She thought she was strong, but it was more difficult to pull the bow fully than she thought.

Roxanne tried hard to shoot the arrow out.

The unstable arrow was blown by the strong wind and went askew even more.

Although Roxanne did not miss the target, she only shot two-ring all three times. So the total was six-ring.

It could be said that the result was a shame.

By comparison, everyone felt that Hendrick was really awesome.

He could shoot ten-ring in such a condition.

Next was Juliette.

With a serious look, she looked like she was going to go big but ended up like Roxanne, with two-ring per arrow and a final score of six-ring. That was really hard..

Except for monsters like Hendrick, the other players either missed the target or barely scored two-ring like Roxanne and

Some could not even pull the bow, so they had to abstain.

Even Yelena, another Rank S genius, only got a score of nine-ring in the end.

Chapter 154

Hendrick topped the list with 19-ring.

No one could surpass him.

All the students completed the test one after another, and only the three Rank C students remained.

Matthias shook his head and said to Ronald indifferently, "I abstain

"You really don't want to try? After all, it has something to do with where you will live in the future." Ronald was a little surprised.

"No." Matthias insisted on abstaining.

Ronald sighed and finally agreed.

Looking at Matthias beside her, Oneida frowned and asked, "Why?"

Matthias paused and answered directly, "I can't do archery."

Because he did not know how to play, he did not want to try at all.

That was Matthias.

Oneida curled her lips slightly and did not continue to ask.

At that point, Ruby on the side had already picked up the bow. She stretched out her arms and was about to pull the bow. Unfortunately, she only pulled out a little radian. Because she did not have enough strength, the bow bounced back again. Suddenly, a sneer came from all directions.

The three Rank C students were being watched by everyone.

Everyone looked at them excitedly and wanted to see how they made a fool of themselves.

That really did not disappoint them. The first person was already so funny.

"Mr. Lawson, I really can't pull the bow!" Ruby tried several times but failed.

She was too weak to control the bow.

She looked at Ronald awkwardly. Her face flushed slightly because of embarrassment. "I'll give up too.

Ronald sighed and held his forehead helplessly, "How about the three of you abstain together? I've already told you that you have a poor foundation. If you don't work hard, perform well, and improve your rank, you'll be eliminated." The other students smiled as they saw those Rank C students give up.

"Rank C rabble are really worthless!"

"Are all three of them going to abstain? At least try one shot. How embarrassing is it to abstain like this!"

"It's so funny. Those Rank C guys just said they wanted to live in a single room, but now, they all abstained!" SEND GIFT

Looking at Oneida impatiently, Ronald asked, "Are you going to abstain too?"

Just when he thought Oneida would definitely abstain, Oneida shook her head faintly. "Of course not."

After saying that, she turned to the target and picked up the wooden bow.

Seeing that Oneida was about to shoot, the crowd suddenly became energetic and looked at her.

They wanted to see how the Rank C loser made a fool of herself.

On the other hand, Oneida had just talked nonsense. She was so crazy that she had already become the object of everyone's attention.

They wanted to see if she was pretending or really capable.

Elon was also watching Oneida.

The handsome man narrowed his pupils and looked at her quietly.

He frowned slightly.

Elon always felt that she looked very familiar.

He seemed to have seen her somewhere.

At that moment, Oneida put on a pose.

She pulled the bow with her hands, looking elegant and beautiful.

She was like an ancient swordsman with extraordinary bearing.

Everyone could not help but be silent.

Their eyes began to move according to Oneida's action.

However, just as Oneida was about to put the arrow on the string, an accident happened.

Snap!

The string on the bow suddenly broke.

Oneida was caught off guard, and the arrow fell to the ground.

The surroundings were quiet.

A second later, a roaring laugh broke out.

"What is she doing? The arrow fell before it was shot out. Haha!"

"She just looked good. Is she pretending?"

"She screwed up at a critical moment. Does she really know how to play?"

"Hahahaha! She can't even put an arrow!"

There were countless sneers in her ears, but Oneida still remained calm.

Her eyes narrowed slightly, and she looked quietly at the broken string.

The string was not naturally broken.

That was to say, her bow was vandalized by someone.

Thinking of that, Oneida's eyes darkened. She wondered, "Who would do that? I took the bow casually. Is the saboteur so sure that I'll choose this bow?"

Oneida subconsciously turned her head. Behind her, apart from the indifferent Hendrick, the silent Yelena, Matthias, and Ruby, everyone else was laughing at her.

Afterward. Oneida's eyes fell on Juliette...

The proud girl was showing mockery on her face.

Oneida mused. "No. It wouldn't be Juliette. She had never approached these bows and arrows at all, so she had no chance to do it. It wouldn't be Roxanne as well, as she's very far away. So, who would be the one to deliberately ruin my bow?"

"Oneida, your first chance has been used up. Do you want to continue!" Ronald frowned and looked at her helplessly.

Seeing that Oneida could not even take the arrow, Ronald really felt that she could not do it.

Oneida handed the broken bow to Ronald and said lightly, "The string is broken."

"The string is broken? Don't you know how to use it? How did you break it? This bow is very expensive. For the sake of your first time, I won't ask you to pay for it." Ronald murmured. He was a little surprised. He immediately took the bow over and checked it carefully. Without explaining anything, Oneida asked calmly, "Can you give me a new one?"

Ronald sighed and reluctantly handed her a brand-new bow, "You can't break it anymore!"

Oneida took the wooden bow without saying a word.

She turned around silently and put on a pose.

She stretched out her arms, drew the wooden bow, and put the arrow on the string.

Her movement was smooth and elegant.

Although many people waited to see Oneida make a fool of herself, they had to admit that her archery posture was so beautiful.

She was like an innate archer, with sharp eyes and neat movements. Her whole body exuded an elegant temperament.

Everyone held their breath unconsciously and waited for Oneida to shoot the arrow.

Oneida was also waiting.

She narrowed her eyes and aimed straight at the center of the target.

The bow had also been pulled to the right radian, and the arrow at the tip of her finger was ready to move.

However, she did not shoot the arrow.

That was because she was waiting.

She was waiting for the right wind speed.

In order to make it difficult, Elon deliberately asked them to shoot arrows in the strong wind.

If Oneida shot the arrow directly, it would be blown by the wind.

However, if the wind speed was calculated and the arrow was shot at a tilted angle, it was very likely to be blown straight by the wind.

With that, she could shoot the arrow into the center.

"Why doesn't sh

shoot it? I'm tired of waiting."

"Does only know how to pose, but not how to shoot arrows?"

"Hahaha. Maybe. Her movement is beautiful, but she always gets stuck in the last step. It's so funny."

"She's just a poser."

Seeing that Oneida did not shoot the arrow for a long time, the crowd began to discuss again.

However, at that moment, the feather arrow in Oneida's hand finally left the bow and flew out. Whoosh! Everyone fell silent.

Their eyes followed the arrow, wanting to see where it would land.

"What just happened? How did Oneida hit the bull's eyes twice in a row in just a blink of an eye? It's unbelievable!" Ronald's thoughts were running through his mind.

Ronald wasn't the only one surprised at the situation. Ruby, who was standing next to him, was too.

"Oh, my god. Oneida... You are amazing!" she exclaimed with her mouth wide open and her eyes filled with excitement.

In contrast, Matthias was much calmer.

He didn't seem to be surprised at all and had an expressionless face.

On the other hand, Hendrick, whose scores were surpassed by Oneida, still stood upright without showing any traces of frustration or anger.

There was no emotion on his handsome face.

On the other hand, Roxanne and Juliette were furious.

She placed the bow and arrows back in their original place and left the archery range.

Everyone had finished the test.

With a score of 20, Oneida surpassed Hendrick's 19 and claimed the top spot in the archery competition. Hendrick had to settle for second place. This was a result that no one had expected.

The archery competition had ended, but the first round of tests was far from over.

In addition to archery, the students still had to compete in horseback riding.

On the way to the equestrian field, Oneida, Matthias, and Ruby walked side by side.

Ruby was very happy with Oneida's performance and praised her as the pride of Rank C.

Oneida was somewhat absent-minded.

She had been thinking about who could deliberately ruin her first bow.

This person could be someone who was scheming.

Not only did they secretly break the bow, but they could also accurately predict that she would get the damaged bow. "Oneida."

At this moment, a tall figure suddenly appeared in front of the three of them. The man gently called out Oneida's name. Oneida's way was blocked, and she had to stop in her tracks.

She looked up.

It was Elon who stood in front of them.

Chapter 136

"Afr: Gray! What are you doing here?" Ruby exclaimed. Her eyes widened in surprise.

Her call immediately drew the attention of everyone else nearby.

Now, almost everyone knew that Elon had specifically come to look for Oneida

However, it was reasonable.

Oneida had just won first place in the archery competition. As the archery master, it was perfectly normal for Elon to look for her. Thinking of this, many people were both angry and jealous.

What was so special about Oneida that made Elon favor her so much?

"I have something to tell you. Let's go over there."

Elon spoke with a gentle tone and not an ordering one. His deep pupils shone lazily under the sunlight while looking at Oneida. Oneida's gaze froze.

She glanced at Elon lightly.

After a moment of silence, she nodded.

They immediately left the crowd and headed to the woods nearby.

A clamor arose instantly as soon as they left.

"Is Mr. Gray going to give Oneida special coaching? Oh my god, Oneida is so lucky!"

"I'm so jealous. Why didn't Mr. Gray come to me?"

"I'm utterly jealous. Oneida better stay away from Mr. Gray!"

On the other side, Elon and Oneida stopped in their tracks upon entering the woods.

The man standing in front had a tall figure. His long robe rustled in the wind, making him look like an ancient scholar.

Suddenly, he turned around.

His deep eyes were filled with an inexplicable spark.

"Do you know Sebastian?" Elon asked abruptly.

There was a hint of anticipation on the man's face.

Oneida remained calm, but her heart skipped a bit when she heard that name.

"Sebastian?"

If it weren't for Elon mentioning him, she would have almost forgotten the name.

"Sebastian is the most skillful archer in the world, and the only person that I admire and respect," Elon said, looking extremely gentle as if immersed in his memories. "He is also the only person in the world who can surpass me in archery." As an exceptionally skillful archery master, Elon had always been pretentious and proud of himself.

Until he met Sebastian... A young and handsome boy who wielded a long bow and defeated him, even though he had previously won the world championship.

Even today, the legend of Sebastian continued to be recounted among the archery community.

However, Sebastian had remained low-key and hadn't appeared in public for a long time.

Nevertheless, people still remembered the youthful and handsome man who was one of a kind in the archery community.

"Why are you looking for him?" Oneida asked nonchalantly.

Elon's eyes flashed with inexplicable emotions. He lifted his thin lips slightly and said faintly, "Of course, I want to see him. I have always regarded him as a role model and want to surpass him."

Chapter 136

Elon thought he would never get to see Sebastian again until today. When he first saw Oneida, he felt that she looked somewhat familiar. Later, when the competition ended, he observed Oneida's face closely.

He realized. The young girl's features bore a resemblance to Sebastian.

One could even say that both Sebastian and Oneida looked very much alike.

As he recalled Oneida's archery form just now, he was suddenly struck with a jolt of realization.

Her archery posture, movement style, and demeanor were very similar to those of Sebastian. Everything made sense now.

For a moment, Elon even suspected that Oneida was the long-lost Sebastian.

However, Sebastian was a boy, a young man. And Oneida was a girl.

Their gender didn't match at all.

Elon was both confused and restless. In the end, he couldn't help but call out to Oneida.

"What's your relationship with Sebastian?" The man narrowed his eyes slightly and stared straight at Oneida. He didn't want to miss any of her expressions.

Oneida actually knew Elon.

Of course, it was when she was Sebastian.

But she was Oneida now. Hence, she could only pretend not to know him.

But Elon wasn't an easy person to fool.

Her archery style and technique, and even her face, were very similar to Sebastian's.

Elon was feeling suspicious. That was the exact reason why he decided to confront Oneida.

If she were to deny it, Elon wouldn't believe her...

"Why aren't you saying anything?" Seeing that Oneida had been silent, Elon couldn't help but frown. His deep eyes were alighted with questions. Oneida pursed her lips and replied with a faint smile, "Mr. Gray, to be honest with you, I do know Sebastian."

"Sebastian is my brother." Oneida blinked and spoke calmly.

Hearing this, Elon's gaze flickered.

He asked suspiciously, "You're Sebastian's younger sister? Aren't you from the Chaser family?"

Oneida nodded and replied calmly, "Yes, I'm from the Chaser family, but Sebastian is indeed my brother. He's just keeping a low profile.*

She smiled and continued, "That's why we look very similar. My archery skills were also taught by Sebastian."

Elon pursed his thin lips and remained silent.

"That's right. This explains everything," he pondered. "But..."

Elon stared at Oneida and asked abruptly, "Where is your brother?"

His dark eyes glinted with faint desperation.

Oneida scowled and said indifferently, "I don't know. His whereabouts are always a mystery."

After saying that, Oneida turned to the crowd and continued lightly, "I have to go."

She didn't stay and turned to leave the woods.

Elon looked at Oneida's back motionlessly. His eyes were filled with emotions.

Oneida went back to the crowd.

*Oneida, what did Mr. Gray say to you?" Ruby looked at her curiously with her big watery eyes.

The other students' ears also perked up, ready to listen to Oneida's answer.

Oneida's gaze was calm, and she responded indifferently, "He asked me-"

Speaking of this, Oneida deliberately paused and smiled arrogantly. "He asked me why I'm so good at archery."

Everyone fell silent after hearing this.

They thought in unison, "Oneida is so arrogant!"

Although they didn't like her, she did perform well just now.

They couldn't even mock her.

Ruby curled her lips and couldn't help laughing. "Oneida, you're screwed! You're targeted by Mr. Gray."

At this time, Ronald suddenly shouted and urged all the students, "Hurry up, everyone. You have a horseback riding race!"

Hearing this, the crowd immediately walked toward the horseback riding field.

The second test was horseback riding.

This time, there was no strange and difficult setup.

Everyone just needed to ride their horse and finish the specified distance.

The one who finished in the shortest time would be the winner.

Once they arrived at the horseback riding field, the students immediately picked the horses that matched their wishes. Only Oneida had been moving slowly.

In the end, when she chose the horse, there was only an agitated one left.

The horse was dark all over, including its two large round eyes, which were gloomy as if it was staring at Oneida.

By this time, most of the students had already picked their horses and got on them.

Chapter 137

Only Oneida was still staring at the little black horse,

"Oneida, what's wrong with you again?" Ronald sighed and looked at her helplessly. "You are the only one left." Although Oneida had just performed well in the archery field, she was still a Rank C student in Ronald's mind.

Now, everyone was on horseback, and she was the only one still wasting time there.

Ronald's shout attracted everyone's attention to Oneida again.

"What is she doing? Could it be she doesn't know how to ride a horse?" one student whispered.

"I heard that she used to live in a village. How could she do such a noble sport as horseback riding?" Another student snorted.

"No wonder her archery is so good. I guess she went hunting in the mountains every day. This country bumpkin!" Another laughed. Oneida still didn't ride the horse.

Although the horse looked very quiet, it was actually very agitated.

If she rode the horse, it would be unfavorable for her during the race.

"Can you ride a horse?" At this moment, a cold male voice suddenly sounded in her ears.

Oneida raised her eyes slightly.

It was Hendrick who spoke to her.

The young man was riding a tall and beautiful white horse with a cold and arrogant temperament.

He stared at Oneida with an indifferent look, but his tone was full of concern. "If you don't know, don't force yourself."

Hendrick could see that Oneida was very competitive.

But riding a horse was incomparable with other sports, and it could be dangerous if she was not careful.

He was kindly reminding her.

At this time, Matthias also rushed over on horseback.

He deliberately stood in front of Hendrick and seemed to want to block his sight.

"Oneida, I can give you my horse." Matthias lowered his head and looked at her seriously.

He was very clever. At a glance, he saw that the horse had a bad temper, so he made this suggestion.

Seeing Oneida surrounded by two handsome boys, the girls at the scene were envious.

They couldn't believe why Oneida was so lucky.

First, there was Elon. Then, there was Hendrick. They were getting closer to her.

Oneida glanced at them and smiled slightly, "You guys go first. Don't worry about me."

After saying that, she looked at the crowd not far away and deliberately turned up the volume of her voice. "I didn't mount the horse because there's something wrong with it." Hearing that there was a problem with the horse, Ronald rushed over immediately and frowned. "What's wrong with this horse? They're all carefully selected!"

Oneida narrowed her eyes slightly and said lightly, "This horse, with soft hair and dark pupils, is a rare horse that can run at a very fast speed."

As soon as she said this, there was a commotion among the students.

"No way. We picked our horses for half a day, and Oneida still got the best one!"

"What kind of dumb luck is this?"

"What's the point of racing? Oneida is sure to win!"

"Is it cheating?"

Only Matthias narrowed his eyes slightly.

He didn't understand why Oneida was lying.

He knew it was not a good horse.

On the contrary, it was a very dangerous horse.

He thought, "Could it be... Matthias had a high IQ and soon guessed Oneida's intention.

He looked at the girl in front of him with a complicated expression and subconsciously clenched the reins in his hands.

Oneida tilted her head innocently and continued to say to Ronald, "If I race this horse, will it be too unfair to others?"

"Since you think it's unfair, give me this horse!" At this moment, a sharp and harsh female voice suddenly sounded in everyone's ears, Juliette rushed over on horseback, her eyes fixed on the black horse beside Oneida.

She narrowed her eyes slightly and looked unhappy.

"If this good horse is in Oneida's hand, she will be in the spotlight again!" she pondered.

This would not lead to the result Juliette wanted.

Oneida looked up at Juliette and frowned slightly. She pretended to be reluctant and said, "Why should I give it to you?"

"Then, what rights do you have to use it for the race?" Juliette retorted.

Juliette was completely going against Oneida.

She suddenly lost her temper and immediately jumped down from the horse. She looked at Oneida coldly. "I heard that you lived in a village before. You're just a country bumpkin. How can you ride such a good horse? Do you deserve it?"

Hearing Juliette's words, everyone looked at Oneida with contempt.

Hearing this, Hendrick stared at Juliette coldly.

Just as he was about to say something. Oneida suddenly took a step back and gave up the horse.

She smiled slightly and said calmly, "Forget it. It doesn't matter if you take it."

Oneida's gaze was apathetic, and she said arrogantly, "Even if I don't have a good horse, I can win against everyone." Everyone fell silent again.

They couldn't believe Oneida would say this and wanted to punch her.

"How can she be so confident?" they thought.

Juliette felt that she was invisibly mocked by Oneida.

She was very upset.

However, this horse must not be given to Oneida.

She felt that the horse must be hers.

Only in this way could she win first place in the competition later.

"Don't dream about it!" Juliette grabbed the reins of the dark horse and said, "Wait and see. I will be the one who wins!"

Juliette took the horse away.

But her original horse stayed in place.

It was a brown horse with pure eyes.

Oneida walked over and patted the horse. She pretended to be helpless and said to Ronald, "Mr. Lawson, it seems I can only ride this horse that she doesn't want."

Ronald pursed his lips and suddenly didn't know how to comfort Oneida.

Although he didn't like Oneida, what Juliette did just now was indeed a little too much.

The competition was about to begin, and she forcefully took away Oneida's horse.

He felt it was unreasonable.

Ronald couldn't help but feel sorry for Oneida.

He sighed and said in a soft tone, "Oneida, don't worry. I believe you can get good results even by riding this horse!"

Most of his words were to comfort and encourage Oneida.

Oneida was good at archery but not necessarily good at horseback riding.

He was not optimistic about it.

But the girl's horse had just been taken away. Of course, he wanted to encourage her.

Oneida smiled meaningfully and nodded, "Mr. Lawson is so optimistic about me. I will definitely perform well later."

Ronald smiled at her politely.

Nevertheless, he was thinking that he would be grateful if she didn't fall off the horse.

Oneida turned to look at the horse beside her, and she mounted the horse very quickly.

Her motions were very smooth.

Chapter 158

This made everyone surprised.

It seemed that Oneida knew how to ride a horse.

The race was about to start.

Everyone rode their horses slowly to the starting point.

Matthias followed Oneida all the time.

He scrutinized Oneida with dark eyes.

He thought that he might have underestimated the girl all the time.

Oneida felt Matthias's burning gaze and couldn't help but turn to look at him.

"Oneida, Matthias!" Just then, Ruby rushed over slowly on her horse.

She gasped for breath, looking tired. "I just got on the horse, and it took me a lot of effort. I'm afraid I'll lose at the race later." Oneida glanced at her indifferently.

She was a little confused about how a person like Ruby, who couldn't shoot an arrow or ride a horse, was selected for Starr Training Camp. Starr Training Camp had a high threshold for candidates, so it was impossible to let someone useless get into the camp.

Ruby might not be good at sports, but she must be good at something, or she had a special talent.

Thinking of this, Oneida couldn't help but say to Ruby, "Just try your best later. Don't force yourself on something you're not good at." Hearing this, Ruby was moved.

"Oneida, you really do understand me! I'm really not good at sports..."

Suddenly, a scream came right ahead of them.

Everyone's eyes immediately turned in the direction of the scream.

Everyone was stunned upon seeing the scene.

It was Juliette who just screamed.

She was riding on that black horse. However, the black horse seemed to be stimulated and went completely berserk.

It was shaking its body as if it wanted to throw Juliette off its back.

Juliette was bumping into the horse's back. She clenched the reins in fear and wanted to wrap her arms around the horse's neck.

Unfortunately, the black horse shook its neck violently and didn't let Juliette touch it at all.

Juliette was so scared that her face turned pale, and tears gushed out of her eyes.

"You guys... Help me!" she screamed loudly, looking desperate and embarrassed.

She was so afraid that she might fall off the horse.

Juliette thought, "It was fine just now..."

As soon as she got on the horse, the horse went mad.

She had no idea how this happened and couldn't help but ponder, "Does this horse hate me?"

She bit her lips hard and burst into tears.

She was so frightened and started to cry.

Seeing that the horse went into a frenzy, the other students didn't dare to get close to Juliette, for fear that they would als

Ronald reacted quickly and immediately called the horse trainer.

Unexpectedly, at this moment, the black horse suddenly rushed to the woods ahead at high speed.

Seeing that she was about to hit the trunk, she subconsciously loosened the reins.

Juliette lay on the ground, unable to move.

She almost fainted because of the severe pain all over her body.

She collapsed to the ground and looked like she was in extreme pain.

Ronald summoned the medical team, which had been on standby. The medical personnel arrived with a stretcher. They hurriedly carried Juliette on it, then immediately took her away.

No one expected the medical team would be summoned on the first day.

This episode scared many people.

They couldn't help but worry about whether their horses would suddenly go mad.

Only Matthias and Oneida were still riding on horseback and didn't dismount to watch the scene.

Oneida looked at what was happening in front of her lazily with a calm face.

But Matthias looked straight at Oneida.

The girl looked calm, cold, and proud.

"Is that what you want?" the young man asked leisurely all of a sudden.

Hearing this, Oneida was taken aback.

Then, she turned around and met Matthias's inquiring gaze.

She knew that Matthias had seen through her plot.

"That must be it," she thought.

Matthias was so smart that there was no reason for him not to see through it.

Chapter 159

Indeed, Oneida had deliberately lied so they would take the bait.

She effortlessly swapped the irritable black horse for a docile one.

Everything that was happening now was within her expectations.

"It's a fact that I lied, but if Juliette hadn't been greedy and insisted on taking the horse, she wouldn't have ended up in this situation," said Oneida, her gaze lightly drifting ahead. "So for me, she doesn't deserve any sympathy." After saying that, she turned her head and looked straight at Matthias. She asked him with a faint smile, "Do you think I'm scary?"

Unexpectedly, Matthias shook his head without hesitation.

The light shade of the trees fell on his handsome, tanned face, and his thin lips moved slightly as he said, "I can understand." He was just a little surprised.

Oneida was even more formidable than he had imagined.

He did not find her intimidating, but instead, he felt a sense of pity toward the girl standing in front of him.

He pondered what Oneida had gone through to develop such a personality.

Regardless of everything that had happened, he still looked at Oneida in a good light, and he could understand anything she did.

Even if she wanted to hurt someone in the future, he did not mind handing her the knife.

As Matthias thought of this, his gaze softened slightly. "You did the right thing," he said, surprising Oneida.

She pursed her lips and suddenly laughed, "Don't learn from me, little boy."

Matthias's face stiffened slightly at her words. He said awkwardly, "I'm not a little boy."

Although Oneida died young in her previous life, she had lived for over 20 years. In her eyes, both Matthias and Edmund were still childish boys. They were only in their early teens.

Noticing Matthias's unhappy expression, Oneida quickly corrected herself with a smile. "Okay, you're not."

Once the medical team took Juliette away, the horse riding field returned to its previous state of calmness.

The test continued as planned.

Following a loud whistle, all the students raced from the starting point on their horses. The person who could complete the course in the shortest time would become the ultimate champion. At the beginning of the race, Hendrick took the lead, followed closely by Roxanne.

The twin stars of Imperial Star University were obviously skilled in horse riding as they immediately took the first two spots.

Oneida was in the middle of the pack, with Matthias beside her.

Unfortunately, Ruby was not having much luck; she was now in last place. Her body swayed as she rode her horse at a sluggish pace.

When they reached the second lap, Oneida suddenly surged ahead. She left most of the other riders behind and headed straight toward Hendrick and Roxanne.

Matthias also refused to fall behind and quickly caught up with Oneida.

At the same time, another Rank S contestant, Yelena, also managed to break free from the pack and join the leading group.

As a result, Hendrick, Roxanne, Oneida, Matthias, and Yelena became the first group in this horse-riding race, leaving the other students far behind.

"Wow, those two Rank C students rushed ahead!" someone exclaimed in amazement upon seeing this scene.

"Oneida is quite skilled at horse riding, too!"

"Damn! How do they ride so fast?"

At this moment, Oneida tightly held onto the reins.

The wind blew at her, making her long hair flutter in the air.

Out of nowhere, Oneida abruptly spurred her horse forward and overtook Roxanne, who was in second place. Oneida then proceeded to move at full speed toward the leading Hendrick. Roxanne was so furious that her face turned red.

She tried to speed up to overtake Oneida again, but Oneida was like an obstacle perfectly blocking her way, making it impossible for her to surpass. Hendrick also noticed Oneida slowly catching up to him, but he remained calm and composed, moving forward like a gust of swift wind.

Oneida narrowed her eyes slightly and accelerated once again.

She wanted to surpass Hendrick and become the first-place winner.

But just then, her horse emitted a piercing and painful neigh that echoed through the air.

The horse appeared to be spooked and lifted its hooves high. It turned its head and rushed off the race track and straight into the woods.

Oneida was caught off guard and couldn't stop her horse in time.

She could only stay on her horse as it rushed forward recklessly.

Everyone was stunned by the scene.

They all stared wide-eyed, watching Oneida and her horse disappear into the woods!

They thought, "What's going on? There's a problem again with another horse! Both Juliette's and Oneida's horses went mad!"

All eyes turned toward the direction of the woods as everyone wondered where the horse had taken Oneida.

Since the race was still ongoing, most riders did not halt their horses but continued to ride while observing the situation. However, Hendrick and Matthias stopped.

They looked at each other and simultaneously turned in the same direction, riding toward the woods.

"What's going on? Are they giving up on the race?" the crowd exclaimed.

"Are they going to find Oneida?"

"Can they even find her? It seems difficult!"

Meanwhile, Ronald was at a loss for words. He never expected that after Juliette's incident, Oneida's horse would also go mad.

He immediately went to look for the rescue team, silently praying that Oneida would be lucky enough not to fall into life-threatening danger.

In the woods, Oneida was still riding on horseback, feeling uncomfortable as she jolted up and down.

Her horse had gone completely mad, rushing straight ahead and breaking through all obstacles. There were already several scratches on Oneida from tree branches. Everything happened too suddenly.

In the chaotic wind, Oneida lowered her body slightly and tightened the reins.

"Why would this gentle horse suddenly go crazy?" Oneida furrowed her brows as she pondered in confusion.

Suddenly, a mountain came into view. Rough and uneven rocks blocked their way, yet despite the danger ahead, the horse under her continued to gallop forward.

If they did not stop, Oneida and the horse would crash into the hard rocks and suffer serious injuries.

Oneida narrowed her eyes.

At that juncture, she leaned forward slightly and brought her head close to the horse's ear. She seemed to be speaking to it as her lips moved. Oneida was trying to tame the horse by communicating with it.

The next second, the horse seemed to understand her. It suddenly slowed down and gradually came to a stop.

When they were only three feet away from the rocks, the horse stopped completely.

Oneida and her horse had narrowly escaped danger.

The horse hung its head low, looking utterly dejected.

Oneida's gaze flickered with curiosity. She stared at the horse, wanting to know what had caused its sudden madness.

"Did it suddenly go mad because of its innate instinct? Or did someone provoke it?" she wondered.

With this thought in mind, Oneida carefully examined the horse's entire body. Finally, she discovered a wound near its tail. 4.28 PM

The wound was not too big, but it was far from minor too. It was from a thin, razor-sharp blade that was still lodged in the flesh, and it continued to ooze blood.

Oneida tightened her fingers slightly. It became clear to her that someone had intentionally injured the horse with a sharp blade, causing it to become agitated and run off the race track. No wonder it suddenly let out a painful neigh and lost its mind.

The question now was, who was the person who intentionally injured her horse and prevented her from continuing the race?

A suspicion began to form in Oneida's mind. The culprit was likely the same person who deliberately damaged her bow earlier.

Oneida furrowed her brows, and a cold glint flickered in her eyes.

She realized that she was being targeted.

Tightening her grip on the reins, Oneida patted the horse's neck. She chuckled softly and said, "Little Horsey, we need to go back. Can you run a little faster?"

The horse seemed to understand Oneida's words. It suddenly bolted toward the race track, returning the way they came.

Oneida rode on the horse and calmly scanned her surroundings with a cold gaze.

Finally, she found what she was looking for in a small tree.

She casually plucked a few leaves and crushed them into a paste in her palm.

With her lips curled up lightly, she said to the horse, "Hold on, Little Horsey. I'm going to treat your wound."

When she finished speaking, she deftly extended her hand behind her and swiftly pulled the blade from the wound.

Naturally, the horse felt the pain and neighed hoarsely.

But the next moment, a cool sensation came from the wound, and the pain seemed to disappear.

The horse paused for a moment and then regained its energy.

Next, Oneida applied the paste made from the leaves onto the horse's wound. The bleeding stopped immediately, and the horse seemed to feel much less pain. And with that, Oneida and her horse got themselves together and hastened back to the race track.

"Oneida."

As Oneida rode along the path, two familiar figures suddenly appeared ahead of her.

Hendrick and Matthias were riding toward her with looks of concern on their faces.

The corners of Oneida's lips lifted softly. "I'm fine," she told them calmly.

While drawing nearer to Matthias and Hendrick, she continued, "Let's go back. The race isn't over yet."

She was determined to go back and take first place.

After speaking, she picked up her speed and rode straight past them.

Upon hearing Oneida's words, Hendrick and Matthias turned around and followed her back to the race track.

Meanwhile, on the race track, Ronald was frantically directing the rescue team to look for Oneida.

The other students were still in the middle of the race.

The top three runners suddenly rushing out of the race track and disappearing into the woods was absolutely good news for many students, as it meant they had a better chance of winning. They did not care whether Oneida was alive or dead.

People were selfish, after all.

Therefore, the students paid no attention to the disappearance of Oneida, Hendrick, and Matthias. They continued to ride their horses forward, wanting to reach the finish line as quickly as possible. Just then, a series of powerful clops rang out.

The next second, the crowd saw a stunning young lady charging out of the woods on her horse.

As her face gave off a delicate golden glow under the sun, she looked noble and beautiful.

Her ponytail swayed elegantly in the wind, forming a beautiful arc,

She rode with such confidence and vigor, and the radiant energy she exuded dazzled the crowd.

Many were left in awe, unable to believe what they were seeing.

It took a few moments for everyone to realize that it was Oneida.

To their surprise, Oneida returned!

"Wasn't her horse out of control?" they thought.

ww

Everyone was surprised to see Oneida return on her horse, unharmed. Most importantly, her horse had calmed down.

They wondered what had happened.

Ignoring the surprised and confused looks from the crowd, Oneida swiftly reentered the race track. With a calm and composed expression, she turned to the timing referee and asked coldly, "How many laps am I behind?" Since she was forced to leave the race track earlier, she knew she was likely far behind.

"You're two laps behind," the referee informed her.

Oneida nodded. She returned to the spot where she left the race track earlier and resumed racing.

Hendrick and Matthias also returned at that point. Just like Oneida, they were behind by two laps.

They rallied and joined Oneida on the race track, determined to catch up.

Upon witnessing this scene, the other students began to feel nervous. They couldn't help but speed up.

No one had expected the three leading racers to return and even go on with the race. This placed inexplicable pressure on the other students.

However, the good news was that the trio was two laps behind the rest.

Even if they were skilled riders, it was unlikely they could catch up.

The other students thought, "How could they catch up when they're behind by two full laps? No human can do that!"

Just as they were convinced that Oneida, who was two laps behind, couldn't possibly catch up to them, a cloud of dust rose, and the sound of galloping hooves filled their ears.

In a second, Oneida was already behind them.

Sitting confidently on her horse with her elegant posture and striking appearance, she held the reins tightly as she went past them effortlessly.

Oneida surpassed them all in the blink of an eye.

And then, in no time, Oneida overtook the leading Roxanne and Yelena.

It was only a moment, but Oneida already finished one lap.

They were amazed and anxious at the same time. While they were in awe of Oneida's impressive horse-riding skills, they felt anxious about being surpassed by her. Everyone was stunned.

Gripping their reins, they quickened their pace.

However, Oneida overtook them all with no effort and galloped ahead, leaving them behind in the dust.

They could only stare helplessly at Oneida's slender figure, grinding their teeth in frustration.

Oneida had already finished one lap. If she managed to finish the second lap soon, it would be a disaster for the other competitors.

Feeling panicked, Roxanne slapped her horse to make it run faster. She was in first place now, and she couldn't let Oneida overtake her.

However, Oneida was unstoppable. She and her horse seemed to be in perfect harmony as they practically moved as one. Like a gust of wind, they swiftly ran past everyone once again. Oneida finished the two laps she missed earlier, which nobody ever imagined she could do.

They pondered, "Is Oneida even human? How could she be so fast?"

At the same time, Hendrick and Matthias also caught up and completed the two laps, just like Oneida.

This unexpected turn of events left Roxanne in fourth place. Her face was grim as frustration and resentment filled her.

Losing the first place that was within one's grasp was unbearable for anyone.

Roxanne narrowed her eyes. As if venting her anger, she kicked her horse hard.

"Useless thing!" she muttered in her mind.

Unexpectedly, the horse was startled by the kick. It veered to the side and ran askew, heading toward Oneida's direction.

At that moment, a thought flashed through Roxanne's mind.

"Since it's almost impossible for me to win now, why not take Oneida with me out of the race track?" she contemplated. They would perish together, and both their results would be invalidated.
