

The Second Act Revenge (Oneida and Jackson)

The Second Act 411

Chapter 411

Oneida clamped her lips together and said nothing.

Seeing that she looked a bit tired, Simon stopped talking and focused on driving.

Oneida lowered her eyes and recalled the fight with the man inside the office just now.

She thought the man was Evan.

Sure enough, he was a tough guy.

Oneida thought about it for a while with a solemn look.

She thought what she did today alerted him.

If she was there again, it would be like the most difficult mode.

Evan would probably send people to guard every corner in that building.

A ruthless man like Evan couldn't stand being provoked like this.

So, Oneida had to make a perfect plan.

She decided that she shouldn't give up the idea of breaking into the building of the Paragon Group again. It was better to start with Jonas. She didn't want to go there to get Evan's key.

If she succeeded, it would be perfect. But what if she failed again? What about Jackson?

She didn't care whether she would be killed or caught. She was only afraid that if she couldn't go back, Jackson's treatment would be affected. Therefore, she couldn't do anything risky.

She needed a perfect plan.

An idea suddenly flashed across her mind. Oneida narrowed her eyes slightly.

She suddenly said to Simon, who was beside her, "Let's go somewhere first."

Simon planned to take Oneida to an apartment nearby for a rest. Hearing this, he immediately said softly, "Okay Boss, we'll go wherever you want to be." Soon, the Maybach stopped in front of a winding alley.

Oneida had taken off the coat and changed into simple and casual clothes.

Her hair was hanging loose and her face looked cold.

Oneida said coldly, "Wait for me. I'll be right back."

Oneida reached out to open the door.

Simon stopped her in a hurry. "Wait, Boss."

"No, thanks." Oneida refused indifferently with a trace of a commanding presence in her eyes. "Do you know who I'm going to meet with?" Simon replied solemnly, "I know. Jonas."

Although Oneida didn't tell him much about Jonas, he somehow knew the person Oneida wanted to see now was no other than Jonas.

Oneida narrowed her eyes slightly and said in a low voice, "So, you must know that Jonas is a scheming and cunning man. He is also very vigilant. You can't go with me.

It'll be more convenient if I go there alone. Drive the car farther away from here." Oneida got out of the car without looking back.

Simon looked at Oneida's back and sighed, feeling helpless.

Oneida walked into the aisle alone.

It didn't take long before she reached an old villa.

This time, it was not Jonas but Claude who received her.

Claude said, "I was just wondering who..."

At this moment, Claude didn't look depressed at all. He was as proud and arrogant as he ever was, looking down on Oneida.

Claude said, "Jonas is busy. He's inside. So I am here." A cold smile flickered across his face. He looked condescending.

Claude believed that as long as Jonas was here, he was safe although everything that belonged to the Bane family had been taken away by Jackson and they had to hide in this secret villa.

He was fearless in front of Oneida.

So, he looked very arrogant.

He had been hiding there for a long time and he was bored.

He desperately wanted someone to vent his anger on.

He was surprised that Oneida came here just in time.

Oneida didn't say anything. She ignored Claude and walked straight to the door.

Claude thought Oneida was rude so he widened his eyes and immediately said with a fierce look, "Oneida, how dare you! Are you ignoring me?"

Oneida glanced at him coldly and narrowed her eyes slightly. "I want to speak to Jonas, not you."

After saying that, she directly bypassed Claude and walked into the villa.

Unexpectedly, Claude didn't give up. He caught up with her with the walking stick. "Oneida, stop!"

Oneida's eyebrows slightly furrowed and there was faintly coldness in his eyes. She suddenly slapped Claude.

Claude was caught off guard. He almost lost his balance. He giggled and couldn't help shouting.

Seeing that he was still struggling, Oneida directly punched him

Claude immediately fell to the ground.

He exclaimed in pain and his face twisted unusually.

He struggled to stand up. He glared at Oneida with a fierce look. "Oneida, you bastard! Let's wait and see!"

90%

Oneida turned around and looked down at him. Her eyes were like cold blades, sharp and brutal. She said, "Claude, you are just like a stray dog. What the hell makes you so arrogant?"

"If Jackson finds you and Jonas, you will be both killed!"

Claude was slightly stunned for a moment.

He was scared for a brief moment.

However, he pretended to be calm. He said stubbornly, "No! I know Jackson is poisoned by Water Death. He will die before me!

"No matter what, I will live longer than Jackson!"

Jonas had already told Claude that Jackson was poisoned.

Jonas devised the plan to poison Jackson with the Water Death not only to kill him. He had another purpose.

If one day Jackson found them and wanted to kill them, it would be a bargaining chip for them.

Jackson wouldn't risk his own life. If he wanted to stay alive, he had to spare them.

Jonas had come up with a perfect plan.

It would have been best if Jackson had died, if not, the Water Death could still become their chance for survival. When Claude mentioned Jackson, Oneida's eyes darkened.

Her eyes were terrifying.

She seemed to be hurt by something Claude said. She clenched his fists so hard that her knuckles turned white.

She said coldly, "Claude, you'd better keep your mouth shut!"

Oneida's soft and beautiful face looked cold at this moment.

"Otherwise, I'll send you to hell right now." She snorted coldly with an extremely indifferent look, "Then, Jackson will live longer than you." Claude heard this sentence and his body uncontrollably trembled for a brief moment.

Chapter 412

Claude seemed to be shocked by the cold aura from Oneida, and his mind was blank for some time.

Slowly, Claude calmed down and said to Oneida stiffly, "Wait and see. Jonas will come soon!"

As soon as he finished his words, a burst of footsteps came from the staircase.

Oneida looked over coldly.

As expected, it was Jonas.

He was on crutches, wearing a white shirt and trousers. He looked spotless and noble.

At the same time, Alex also appeared. He quickly walked to Claude and helped him up from the ground. Then he said respectfully, "Claude, I'll take you back to your room first."

Claude observed their expressions and understood that Jonas was going to talk with Oneida alone.

Claude nodded and followed Alex out the hall.

Only Oneida and Jonas were left in the hall.

"I knew you would come."

Jonas sneered.

His eyes were unfathomable, and there seemed to be profound emotions in them.

"I heard that someone broke into the headquarters of Paragon Group. The person not only didn't get caught but also escaped safely. Jonas was still smiling and his eyes were meaningful. "So I guess that person is you, Oneida." Oneida said, "I know that you will come to me soon. After all, you just came back from the Paragon Group and must have gained a lot."

Jonas stared at Oneida in front of him with enthusiastic eyes and said, "Actually, I'm surprised. You broke into the headquarters of Paragon Group and escaped unharmed.

"Oneida, who the hell are you?"

Oneida met Jonas' eyes and smiled contemptuously, replying, "You shouldn't have known that. You have no right to ask."

Oneida said those words calmly, but she was impressed by Jonas

Jonas was indeed powerful.

He had known everything about the Paragon Group so quickly.

Nothing had escaped his attention.

Oneida realized that she couldn't underestimate Jonas.

Jonas smiled more brightly and said, "All right, I won't ask that. Let me ask, did you get the key?"

"No."

Oneida admitted straightforwardly, looking very calm.

"No"

Jonas frowned slightly, and a glint of fury flashed in his eyes.

"Then how dare you come here so arrogantly?"

Oneida tilted her head and said coldly, "Although I didn't find the key, I have met Evan and fought with him. I also entered Evan's extremely secret office." Evan's office?

Hearing this, Jonas was stunned.

Jonas had always wanted to explore the secret office base of Paragon Group.

He didn't expect that Oneida had such great power to find that place.

Emotions fluctuated in Jonas' eyes. He took a deep look at Oneida and said, "What did you see in the office?"

Oneida sneered and said with a na-smile, "Why should I tell you?"

Oneida raised her chin slightly, and confidence suddenly appeared in her eyes. "But I can assure you that can get the key.

"I was in a hurry for the first time, but the second time I think I have a 90 percent chance of succeeding."

"Really?" Jonas asked calmly.

He was silent for a while and then asked abruptly, "Since you didn't get the key, you are not qualified to negotiate with me." Jonas ordered Oneida to leave, "You can leave now. Come back after you get the key," However, Oneida stood in front of him motionlessly, and her eyes were firm. "I said I would get it next time. Give me Water Death first."

When he heard this, Jonas' eyes widened slightly with a look of surprise.

He didn't expect Oneida to be so shameless.

Did she want to get Water Death in advance?

How dare she!

Jonas refused firmly, "That's impossible. I'm not a fool, Oneida." His face looked gloomy.

"Jonas, neither am I!"

Oneida immediately replied with an ivy expression, "You asked me to complete such a life-threatening task. If I die, will Jackson still get Water Death?"

"You should give me some hope, or I won't finish the deal."

Oneida exuded a resolute demeanor, with her unwavering gaze reflecting her strong determination.

She came here to negotiate with Jonas today.

Oneida didn't want to break the contract. She just wanted to maximize her interests and save Jackson's life as soon as possible.

Jonas was silent after hearing her words

After a long silence, Jonas said slowly, "Then how can I trust you? If you get Water Death and immediately turn your back on me, what should I do then?"

Oneida replied seriously, "First of all, I have always been a person of my word. Being honest and keeping promises are my life principles. Secondly, if you don't believe me, you can make one more condition." Hearing this, Jonas thought silently for a while.

Suddenly he uttered, "Okay. I believe you for the time being. But I need you to give me something. Otherwise, I can't trust you completely."

Oneida knew that Jonas would make such a request, so she was not surprised.

"Go ahead."

She remained calm as she said so.

Jonas said, "I want you to divorce Jackson."

Oneida was shocked.

Jonas looked serious, and his tone sounded solemn.

It didn't sound like a joke at all.

Oneida's lips were tightly compressed, and her whole body was a little stiff.

Seeing Oneida's reaction, Jonas couldn't help but sneer and said, "Well, if you don't want to do it, then forget about it. We can't negotiate."

Jonas proposed this condition because of jealousy.

He just couldn't stand that Oneida was so desperate for Jackson.

Why could Jackson and Oneida be together with each other so happily while he was hiding there?

Jonas just didn't want Jackson to be with Oneida.

It was an eyesore.

Jonas didn't want to see Jackson happy.

Why not?

Jonas thought it might be more like hating Jackson, but he still had some other feelings that he couldn't name clearly.

He seemed to want to get close to Oneida.

Jonas didn't know when he had such a feeling.

Jonas sometimes thought that it would be great if Oneida was not Jackson's wife.

Now, he happened to have a great opportunity.

He could separate Jackson and Oneida.

Chapter 413

Jonas was stunned when he heard Oneida's reply.

He didn't expect Oneida would be willing to divorce Jackson.

In Jonas' eyes, Oneida must love Jackson very much since she could do anything to save Jackson's life.

However, Oneida agreed to divorce Jackson.

Now it was Jonas' turn to keep silent.

Oneida slightly sneered with an obscure expression, "What? Did you regret it?"

Jonas narrowed his eyes and hurriedly replied, "Of course, I won't regret it. I'm just afraid you will regret it!"

Oneida smiled again and said, "Okay, that's a deal.

"I'll divorce Jackson. Bring me Water Death."

Jonas pursed his lips tightly and didn't speak for a moment.

His eyes looked serious, like the undulating deep sea.

Jonas suddenly couldn't be sure whether Oneida meant it or not

Oneida in front of him smiled lightly and didn't look sad at all.

She didn't look like a person who had been forced to divorce

Seeing Jonas keep silent, Oneida smiled more and more brightly "What do you mean? Do you regret it?" she asked again.

Jonas snorted and said coldly, "You seem to be very happy?"

Oneida didn't change her expression and sneered, "Or should I cry in front of you?"

Oneida had long been used to adapting to the situation and making trade-offs.

She knew what was the most important thing at present.

It was Jackson's life.

So, for the most important thing, everything else could be discarded.

*L

Oneida had considered whether to tell Jackson everything about the poisoning and the whereabouts of Jonas.

However, according to Jackson's personality, he would confront Jonas with no mercy.

However, Jonas wouldn't compromise easily. He probably wouldn't help detoxify Jackson if he was irritated by Jackson.

In the end, it would be a lose-lose situation.

Therefore, Oneida wanted to solve this matter alone and didn't want Jackson to interfere.

Divorce wasn't a big deal.

Oneida didn't need a certificate to maintain her love with Jackson, and the most important thing for her now was to save Jackson's life.

Jonas took a serious look at Oneida as if he wanted to see through her.

After a moment of silence, Jonas said calmly, "Okay. Just wait. I'll draft the divorce agreement for you."

Hearing this, Oneida frowned.

Was this guy going to help her with the divorce agreement?

It seemed that Jonas had made up his mind to make her divorce Jackson.

Oneida narrowed her eyes slightly and nodded. "Okay."

After that, Jonas held his walking stick and turned to leave.

He walked into the room nearby and seemed to have a word with his subordinates.

Then Jonas came back again.

He looked at Oneida calmly and said gently, "It takes some time over there. Take your seat."

Hearing this, Oneida didn't say anything and sat directly on the sofa.

However, what happened next was out of Oneida's expectations.

A cup of water was put on the coffee table in front of Oneida.

Oneida looked up and found that the water had been poured by Jonas.

Jonas' handsome face looked cold and indifferent, but his eyes were much softer than before. He asked Oneida, "You must be thirsty. Do you prefer water or juice? I can get you some juice, too." Jonas's sudden change in attitude made Oneida slightly stunned

She pursed her lips and didn't know how to respond.

After a moment of silence, she answered indifferently, "I'll drink water."

After saying that, she picked up the glass in front of her and took a big gulp.

She was indeed a little thirsty.

"Aren't you afraid that I will poison the water?" Jonas asked in a cold and deep voice, and there seemed to be a slight amusement in his tone.

Oneida raised her eyes and looked at Jonas' face. She said confidently, "I know you won't do that."

Jonas was also looking at Oneida with a serious expression.

"Really? Are you so sure?"

Oneida did not speak again but took another sip of water.

Jonas watched her drinking water and sat down involuntarily.

He sat next to Oneida.

Oneida froze for a moment and her body turned stiff. en them.

The cold and gloomy aura from Jonas seemed to have enveloped her.

Hearing this, Jonas smiled meaningfully and said, "Interesting."

Oneida didn't want to talk to Jonas at all.

She lowered her eyes, with a straight face and tight lips.

Seeing that Oneida was silent, Jonas didn't disturb her.

He just tilted his head and stared at her with intense eyes.

Oneida naturally felt Jonas' gaze.

She couldn't help feeling a little uncomfortable.

Almost instantly, Oneida stood up from the sofa.

However, Alex came out of the room nearby at this time.

In his hand, Alex was holding a neat and brand-new stack of documents.

"Mr. Jonas Bane, the divorce agreement has been done." Alex walked over expressionlessly, and there was a doubt in his eyes.

He didn't understand why Jonas worked so hard to get Oneida to divorce Jackson.

Jonas even drafted the divorce papers for Oneida.

Jonas took the divorce agreement and stood up from the sofa.

He turned to look at Oneida, handed the pile of paper in his hand to her, and stared at her seriously. "Sign it," he said.

Oneida didn't hesitate and took the divorce agreement directly

It seemed that Jonas had to supervise Oneida to sign the contract

Oneida opened the agreement and found that it was an ordinary agreement. There was nothing special about it.

Then Alex handed her the pen.

Oneida took it.

She found the place for signature and took the pen to sign her name.

However, when it came to the moment of signing, Oneida hesitated.

She was stunned and didn't move her hand.

It was hard for her to sign her name on this agreement.

It felt like she was forced to separate Oneida from Jackson.

"I'll keep the divorce agreement for you and give it to Jackson when the time comes."

There was a faint smile in Jonas' eyes. He looked at Oneida with burning eyes as he said those words. However, Oneida didn't say a word.

She lowered her eyes with no expression on her face, but there was displeasure in her eyes.

She was forced to sign the divorce agreement, and no one would be happy about such a thing.

Oneida frowned slightly and glanced at Jonas coldly. "Water Death. Give it to me."

Hearing this, Jonas glanced at Alex beside him.

Alex understood Jonas' meaning and immediately turned around and walked upstairs.

Before long, Alex came down with a glass bottle.

"Give it to her," Jonas instructed Alex in a cold tone.

Alex nodded and walked directly to Oneida. Then he handed her the dark glass bottle in his hand.

Oneida knew that the legendary Water Death was in this glass bottle.

She took it silently.

"Since you have got Water Death, whose life do you want to trade it for?" Jonas suddenly said and looked at Oneida's with a wry smile. Oneida intended to use Water Death to detoxify Jackson. The question arose as to whom the poison would be transferred.

To put it bluntly, Jackson needed someone to die for him.

Hearing this, Oneida glanced at Jonas coldly and said calmly, "I don't need you to worry about it."

Jonas smiled with pleasure. "Do you need me to send you one Many of my men can die for Jackson." Now, Jonas' attitude had completely changed.

He wished Jackson would be poisoned before, and he didn't want to save Jackson at all.

But now, Jonas was willing to save Jackson.

After all, Oneida was going to divorce Jackson.

Jonas wanted Jackson to live and watch his beloved woman leave him.

Wouldn't that be better?

Moreover, Jonas had a strong feeling.

He believed that Oneida had a way to get the key to Paragon Group's treasure vault.

If Jonas had that key, the whole Paragon Groun wouldn't

Therefore, although Jonas gave Water Death to Oneida to save Jackson, Jonas would gain two great benefits. Anyway, Jonas was the winner.

Oneida sneered after hearing Jonas' words, "I never kill people on my initiative."

Yes, it was one of Oneida's life principles.

She never killed people first.

Oneida had always been forced to kill people. She would kill anyone who pissed her off or did something unforgivable.

Even when Oneida was a killer, she never killed innocent people.

She had her bottom line.

Oneida hadn't figured out who would be the person to take Jackson's poison.

A few years ago, the Aphotic Group caught many enemy prisoners. But after transformation, some of them left or subscribed to the Aphotic Group.

It was a little difficult for Oneida to find the right person.

But she believed there would always be a way.

Oneida clenched Water Death in her hand and said seriously, "I should go now."

After saying that, she left the villa without looking back.

Jonas looked at the back of Oneida for a long time.

Oneida walked out of the winding alley. Seeing her, Simon who was sitting in the car hurriedly got off and came up to greet her.

"How's it going, Boss?" Simon asked anxiously.

At the same time, Simon looked Oneida up and down to see if she was injured.

"We have achieved our goal," Oneida sighed lightly and said.

Then Oneida got into the car silently.

Seeing that Oneida seemed to be in a bad mood, Simon didn't dare to say anything more. He followed Oneida to get in the car and started the engine. Simon glanced at Oneida beside him and asked, "Boss, where do you want to go? Back to the Garrison Mansion or

Today, she had lied to Jackson.

She told him that she would have classes and get together with her classmates after class.

Jackson didn't suspect her.

Simon drove quickly to Garrison Mansion.

The sky was already dark.

Oneida entered Garrison Mansion expressionlessly, but she didn't expect that Jackson was not there.

According to Carlos, Jackson had left Garrison Mansion for something today and hadn't come back. Where did Jackson go?

Oneida thought for a while and guessed that he must have gone to deal with the business.

Now, all the businesses of the Bane family were managed by Jackson, and Oneida knew that Jackson had his secret forces.

The moment Jackson got rid of his wheelchair, he became busy.

It was normal that he hadn't come back so late.

Oneida walked all the way upstairs and stored Water Death properly.

Then she went into her and Jackson's bedroom.

It was the first time Jackson hadn't been home so late since she and Jackson started sleeping together.

She was not used to it.

After Oneida washed up and lay on the bed, Jackson still didn't come back.

Oneida was indeed exhausted today.

Her eyes narrowed slightly, and Oneida was getting sleepier.

Just when Oneida was about to fall asleep, the bedroom door was pushed open.

Although the action of pushing the door was very light and did not make any sound, Oneida still noticed it because she was very keen and vigilant. Nothing could escape her attention. Oneida's eyes opened wide at once, and her expression froze.

"I still disturbed you."

Jackson closed the door and walked slowly towards Oneida with an apologetic look.

Jackson had tried his best to be gentle, but he didn't expect that he still alerted Oneida.

Oneida swiftly arose from the bed and propped herself up in her arms to gaze at Jackson beside the bed..

Dressed in a black suit, Jackson looked aloof and noble.

Jackson pulled his tie and looked at Oneida gently, saying, "Go to sleep. I'll be right with you."

Oneida looked at Jackson silently. Somehow, she suddenly asked "What were you doing today?" Oneida had never asked about Jackson's company affairs.

But now, she blurted out for no reason.

The Second Act 415

Chapter 415

Noticing that something was wrong with Oneida, Jackson frowned slightly.

He did come home late today.

Because someone had broken into the Paragon Group, Jackson ordered his subordinates to strengthen the security of the headquarters. Besides, he had to deal with some other business.

He must find a way to track down the person who broke into the Paragon Group.

After he handled everything, it was already midnight.

Jackson lowered his head and looked at Oneida in front of him. His voice became softer, "What's wrong? I'm late. Are you unhappy?"

He didn't quite know what she was thinking, so he could only try to guess.

Hearing this, Oneida shook her head subconsciously.

She felt that she had sobered up suddenly, and her eyes became brighter.

Oneida didn't understand what she was thinking.

She shook her head again, trying to get rid of the strange thoughts in her mind.

"I'm afraid you will be too tired."

Oneida pursed her lips and said so.

Jackson was delighted to hear that.

After all, feeling so concerned about Oneida was something that made him feel happy.

Jackson's eyes showed a faint joy. He took off his suit, revealing his white shirt.

Then he bent down slightly and gently hugged Oneida in front of her.

Jackson said, "I'm not tired."

Jackson's cold and low voice fell on Oneida's head, and his arms were full of strength.

"I'm not tired at all when I see you."

He was telling the truth.

Oneida couldn't help smiling.

If only she could stay with Jackson like this all the time.

However, she was afraid that she couldn't.

Oneida's eyes dimmed slightly, and she couldn't help reaching out to hug Jackson tightly.

Jackson's white shirt was full of his unique refreshing fragrance

Oneida inhaled subconsciously, immersing herself in his fragrance.

However, Jackson's life was threatened, and Oneida still had a lot of dangerous things to do..

As long as they could overcome these difficulties, she believed she would be with Jackson forever.

Such things wouldn't happen again.

Oneida would protect Jackson from the slightest harm.

She let Jackson get poisoned this time because of her carelessness.

Thinking of this, Oneida couldn't help but feel guilty.

If she had noticed Cece's intention earlier, everything would have been different.

"You should go to bed first." They hugged each other for a few minutes. Then Jackson let go of Oneida first and rubbed her head, saying, "I'm going to wash up first. I'll be right back." Oneida nodded and lay back into the quilt obediently.

Jackson saw her huddle up in the quilt like a little bunny.

His heart suddenly softened.

"You..." Jackson couldn't help stretching out his hand and gently pinching the tip of Oneida's nose. "Why are you so adorable?"

Hearing this, Oneida's face couldn't help but flush.

Jackson was so sweet.

"Hurry up and take a shower!" Oneida buried her head in the quilt and urged with embarrassment.

Jackson smiled and went to the bathroom.

Oneida was lying on the bed in a daze and soon became sleepy again.

When she was half asleep, the bed beside her suddenly seemed to sag a little.

She opened her eyes subconsciously.

The next second, a pair of strong arms stretched out.

Oneida was held in Jackson's arms.

She was caught off guard and her body stiffened slightly.

Jackson noticed it and said softly, "I'm not doing anything. I just want to hug you.

"Relax"

With that, they got closer and closer.

Oneida was held by Jackson, and they snuggled up tightly as if they were warming each other.

This time, without any disturbance, Oneida finally fell asleep peacefully.

She slept soundly.

She even had a dream.

In the dream, Jackson was wearing a white shirt. He looked noble and graceful.

He just stood there upright, looking very close to Oneida but somehow far away.

The picture slowly zoomed in. Only then did Oneida realize that something was wrong. Jackson's white shirt was stained with blood.

The dazzling red, set off by the pure white, hurt Oneida's eyes in an instant.

Oneida felt a pain in her heart and subconsciously wanted to walk towards Jackson not far away.

But for some reason, no matter how hard she tried, she couldn't get closer.

She could only watch Jackson covered in blood.

Suddenly, the light went bright.

Oneida finally saw Jackson's face and expression.

Why did you deceive me?

Jackson's face was filled with disappointment.

He complained sternly and indifferently, every word hitting Oneida's heart.

Oneida was shocked and froze in place.

Jackson said she lied to him.

She'd lied to him a lot, and had he known it all?

Oneida didn't have time to think at all because Jackson seemed to be slowly moving away from her.

"Jackson!" Oneida immediately shouted hysterically.

Her voice and expression were almost desperate.

Chapter 415

"I didn't mean to!"

However, Jackson, whose shirt was stained with blood and who showed a cold expression, disappeared in front of Oneida.

"Jackson!"

Oneida let out a cry and suddenly opened her eyes.

The bright morning light illuminated the room, and Oneida blinked uncomfortably.

She was in her and Jackson's bedroom.

And she was still lying on the bed.

It was a dream.

Oneida could feel the cold sweat in her palms.

It was a dream, an incredible nightmare.

Why did she have such a dream? It gave her a bad feeling.

Was this dream foretelling something?

Oneida subconsciously turned around and wanted to see Jackson

However, she only found that Jackson was lying quietly beside her and hadn't woke up yet.

However, Oneida sensed something was wrong.

Jackson's arms felt so cold.

Oneida's eyes suddenly widened, and a trace of great fear flashed across her eyes.

"Jackson!"

Oneida subconsciously called his name, trying to wake him up.

"Wake up, Jackson!"

However, Jackson didn't move at all.

The Second Act 416

Chapter 416

Jackson lay there quietly, his eyes closed and his face extremely pale.

His lips had also turned pale,

Oneida reached out to touch Jackson's face, and her fingertips seemed to have touched the ice. It was unseasonably cold.

Jackson's whole body was cold as if it had lost temperature.

The last thing Oneida wanted to see finally happened.

Water Death in Jackson's body had a second attack!

If nothing was done, Jackson would become an ice sculpture and die!

Oneida was scared, and her face was filled with fear.

Jackson!

Oneida clenched her fists, and a trace of determination flashed in her eyes.

She was gonna save him.

Oneida walked out of the bedroom, leaving Jackson alone in the room.

She didn't want to tell anyone about the news for the time being

After all, if the news that Jackson was poisoned and on the verge of death came out, it would easily cause panic in the Garrison Mansion and even the Bane family.

Pretending she didn't know anything and that nothing happened was probably the best solution for the time being. Oneida walked into the bedroom where she used to live, and there was Water Death. She picked up the dark glass bottle containing the powder of Water Death, with a solemn and calm look.

The only way now was to induce the poison as soon as possible.

Oneida frowned.

To whom should the poison be transferred?

She took out her phone and called Simon.

Simon answered Oneida's call almost instantly.

Then Oneida told Simon about Jackson's poison attack and the fact that the poison should be transferred to another person to save Jackson.

Hearing this, Simon frowned and asked, "How could Water Death cause an attack so soon?"

The toxicity of the Water Death poison was lethal, and its management was quite challenging.

Simon didn't care about Jackson, but Oneida loved him.

If Jackson did die, Oneida would be heartbroken.

Simon didn't want Oneida to be sad, so Jackson must not die.

Holding her phone, Oneida sighed slightly and said calmly, "The most important thing now is to find a person to whom we can transfer the poison." "Transfer the poison..." Simon repeated subconsciously.

Then Simon said in a relaxed tone, "Boss, It's easy! Isn't it just one person? I can give you as many as you want!"

Oneida shook her head slightly and said seriously, "We can't hurt innocent people."

Hearing this, Simon said with irritation, "Innocent people? Boss, that's not the problem now. As long as it is a living person who can take the poison! "Don't think too much. Let me take care of this, okay?"

Oneida seemed to suddenly think of something. Her eyes widened slightly, and she was a little stiff.

"No!"

Oneida uttered the word with a heavy tone.

"No?" At this moment, Simon was confused and frowned. "Boss, what's wrong?"

Oneida squinted her eyes, and her beautiful facial features seemed to be stained with a light frost. "The person must take Water Death first before the poison is transferred. "However, many people will faint and lose consciousness immediately after having Water Death, and then become weak. The poison can't be transferred to the person when he's in such a state at all! "Therefore, the person who takes the poison must withstand the first attack of Water Death before the poison can be transferred."

However, who could withstand the first wave of attacks from Water Death?

Even Jackson couldn't stand it.

So the poison was very powerful.

"If it's like what you said, then we will be in big trouble!" Simon frowned tightly, looking anxious and helpless. "It's almost impossible to find such a person. No one can withstand the poison of Water Death." "Actually, someone can do it." Oneida lowered her eyes casually and looked very calm.

Hearing this, Simon was stunned and his eyes suddenly widened. "Who is it, Boss? I'd like to see who is so capable,"

"It's me."

Oneida said these words calmly, and her expression was also indifferent.

Her tone was firm and powerful.

Simon couldn't help but take a deep breath and froze

"Boss, are you kidding? Simon asked tentatively, his fingertips trembling slightly.

Oneida said calmly, I'm not kidding. I mean it

Oneida was confident that he could survive the attacks of the ter Death

Chapter 416

After years of regular exercise, Oneida had developed a robust and powerful physique.

Secondly, she had a lot of herbs when she was studying medicine

Her body, which had been nourished with thousands of herbs, was different from that of ordinary people.

Perhaps, the medicine in her body could just restrain the toxicity of Water Death.

However, Simon screamed nervously. His harsh voice came through the phone, stimulating Oneida's eardrums, "Boss, are you crazy? Are you going to trade your life for his?"

"Boss, don't be overwhelmed by love, okay?" Simon really panicked. Taking Water Death was not for fun. He didn't want Oneida to die because of it. "Boss, you can't do it! Let me do it! I'll do it!"

In the end, Simon even choked with sobs.

Even though Simon was used to great troubles, he felt flustered at such a life-and-death moment.

Simon couldn't help but feel anxious.

"Why are you so panicked?" Oneida sensed Simon's panic and anxiety. She pretended to be calm and said in an extremely relaxed tone, "I may not die."

"Why won't you die?" Simon's eyes were tearful. He clenched his phone, and his knuckles turned pale. "If the poison of Water Death is transferred to you, can you still live? There's no cure for the poison. Boss, don't be impulsive and emotional, okay?"

"I've thought it through," Oneida said in a firm tone, looking unusually calm.

"First of all, only I can be the one to whom the poison is transferred," Oneida said calmly. "Other people are not strong enough at all, including you. Secondly, I'm not necessarily going to die.

"My physique has been different from others for a long time. After I took so many herbs, my health has been strengthened.

"Drugs are mutually reinforcing and restricting. Water Death is very powerful, but the medicine in my body may be able to restrain it.

"Besides, have you forgotten? I'm a famous doctor. Even if the poison of Water Death is in me, I will find a way to detoxify myself. "I'm not going to die."

Oneida emphasized it in a solemn tone, and her eyes were full of determination.

Hearing this, Simon fell into a long silence.
