

Chapter 18a

Kayish's POV:

I have a sudden urge to see her again and want to know how she was feeling right now. I know I was way too harsh towards her but what she did is inconsiderable. She can't simply blame the manager to cover her fault.

I pressed her number and asked her to bring the file of this month's production and meet me here in my conference room then disconnect the call without hearing her another word.

I grinned widely thinking of her pulling her hair out of frustration. It's one of her habits whenever she gets irritation and I am happier to make her that easily.

I watched her wandering around the room like looking for something through the camera which she didn't aware of.

Electricity passed through my body when her blouse pulled up, revealing her small creamy stomach. I gulped down and focused my eyes on her face but failed.

She did something to me.....

Shhh!! I felt bad when she fell on the floor but laughed once I saw her funny face. She looked around to confirm if anyone is watching her but she has no idea I am the witness of her every move.

She cursed some incoherent words under her breath which is probably about me and stormed out of the room. I shut my laptop and waiting for her arrival but she didn't come.

Chapter 18a

Why it took her more time to reach?

I lost my patience and walked out of the conference room. I stopped in front of the elevator but a deep frown formed on my face.

Why did it stick here?

Fear overwhelmed my body when it clicked in my mind. She was trapped inside the elevator for almost half-hour.

Immediately I called the security team and asked them to fix the problem within a minute.

"Dammit!! Don't waste any time, Make it fast!!!" I yelled at them whoever is trying to fix the problem on the elevator.

"It seems someone cut the connection on the particular elevator." the security head informed me.

Deep down I know they did it purposely to harm her. But it is not a nice move for them. I will show them the actual meaning of hell.

"Sir! We need to shut the whole power immediately, then only we can fix the problem. They are afraid of working when the power is still on." again he made the request.

"Then shut the power off." I gritted my teeth.

"But sir, we can wait. Shift time will be finish after an hour. They can use another elevator." He suggested like I asked any of his opinions.

"Can't you see, someone trapped inside? Just shut the damn power and fix the problem immediately." I snapped at him.

I don't care, how much loss I am going to face, she is my first priority more than anything. It's just an hour of production will affect, but I can't take the risk with her life. The loss will meet my one day of expenses, that's all.

I wonder how she was doing there. I hope her panic attack wouldn't cause her too much trouble. She is a strong girl. Yeah! She is a strong girl. I gulped down unsure of myself. I looked down at my shivering hand and a deep frown appeared on my face. Why my heart is aching?

I ran towards the elevator once he said the problem was fixed. I pressed the button and the elevator door opened but the scene in front of me didn't sit well inside my little heart. She was lying on the floor, unconsciously!!

"Riya." I tried to wake her up but her body was cold as ice beside her skin was pale as a ghost. I scooped her in my arms and ran towards the parking area. I set her in my passenger seat and drive off.

"Jack, I am on my way to your hospital, be ready there. My gi..... I mean one of my employees suffered from a panic attack and she is in the worst condition. I need your best doctor to treat her." I informed my friend jack and focused on the road.

Once I reached the hospital, they took her to the ward to give her a treatment leaving me to sit down on one of the chairs in front of the room where she was admitted.

I called Juliet and asked her to inform about the incidents to her family. At least her little bunny would be worried about her.

After the fine two hours of waiting here in the hospital, the doctor came along with my friend Jack Collins.

Chapter 18a

"How is she?" The pounding in my chest is heavy and painful.

"She is okay now. But if you had five minutes late to bring her to the hospital, we can't be guarantees of her life." The doctor informed.

I breathed out. Thank God she is fine.

"Don't worry buddy. She is perfectly alright." Jack patted my shoulder giving me a knowing look.

Minutes later I heard a tiny foot running towards my direction calling for her Mommy, Juliet was walking from her behind.

When she saw me she stood abruptly in her track, her eyes widen in shock and her mouth hung opened like she saw a ghost but I wonder does she even scared of any.

"Monster?!" She shrieked looking at me.

What the he.....

*

Comments

Support