

My Husband Is A Secret Billionaire By Wiuu Chapter 20

Chapter 20

Jane's face changed, and her heart was beating fast.

Did he discover something?

Had anyone told him that he married not the lady of the Fallon family but an illegitimate daughter? Men were all vain. They all hoped they could marry a lady, not a poor girl. Jane lowered her head slightly and rubbed the corner of her clothes uneasily. She desperately told herself that she couldn't admit it.

Dan had been in jail..

If he made a scene, the consequences would be unimaginable!

"Oh, what should I say?" She looked at him with big bright eyes and tried to change the topic. "Oh, by the way, I have to work harder next month! I... I may not be able to come back often to cook. Can you take care of yourself?"

"Well, I'm not a child. Of course, there's no problem."

Dan smiled gently and gave her half of the lobster fried rice on the plate. Jane insisted on not taking it, but Dan glared at him and said in a low voice, "Do you want me to feed you?"

She shrank her neck and finally gave up.

After a while, Dan's phone vibrated. It was a message from Hector.

He looked around calmly and saw Hector smirking at him not far away. Tristan was standing next to him and covering his mouth.

"I'm going to the bathroom." Dan's tone was flat. After saying goodbye to Jane, he turned around and went to the corner of the corridor of the restaurant.

Hector finally couldn't hold it in any longer and grinned. "You guys are sharing food? Look at how intimate you guys were! Why didn't I know you were such a romantic person before?"

Dan glared at him. Hector pressed the corner of his mouth hard and said no more.

"Dominic, don't blame him for talking too much! Even I'm quite surprised."

Tristan chuckled. "It seems you and her... are living a good life?"

Dan's face darkened.

Tristan was always steady and would not ask these questions without thinking. There must be a reason for him to ask like this.

He understood what Tristan meant. This lawyer was worried that he would forget his original identity and refuse to return to Central City.

"I'm just keeping a low profile now," Dan said indifferently, "I'm just hanging out with Ms. Fallon. It's not a big deal. I'll leave here one day.

Tristan smiled and didn't say anything.

Hector looked at Jane, then turned around with a cheeky smile and said flatteringly, “Dominic, shall I pay your bill?”

“You?” Dan raised his eyebrows and pondered for a moment. “Nope, just give her a discount. Otherwise, she won’t be able to eat at east.’

Chapter 20

“Well, that’s good.” Hector learned his lesson, and knew he might better do as he was told. “Then I’ll tell them!”

Dan raised his eyebrows and asked, “Is this hotel yours?”

Hector scratched his head. “The boss is my uncle!”

“The White family has a lot of properties in Cardiff!”

Hector straightened his body. Just as he was feeling pleased with himself.

Tristan suddenly stepped on him.

Seeing Tristan’s expression, he came to his senses. “Dominic, if you need my help in Cardiff, just let me know!”

“Okay.” Dan put his hands behind his back and smiled slightly.

Hector was careless, but he was reliable. Moreover, there was really something he needed to do now.

“Help me find out the background of the Hizack Company and their department director named Ava!”