Chapter 91

Chapter 91

"Of course!" Fiona agreed without hesitation.

It was no big deal to bring a best friend here. Moreover, this princess's bestie must be either rich or aristocratic. She wondered which one of the Four Great Families in Central City she belonged to....

If she served her well, she would have more helpers!

Fiona rolled her eyes, approached Linda, and pretended to be intimate with her.

"Miss Campbell, may I know where your friend is now? If it's inconvenient for her, I'll send someone to pick her up immediately! Don't worry; I'll take care of it. I'll definitely bring her here safely!"

"You don't have to bother." Linda smiled faintly. "My friend came with me, and now she's upstairs. Ha, after all, this banquet is hosted by the Fallon family. If I want to bring someone here, I have to get the host's permission!"

"Miss Campbell, you're being too polite!" Fiona smiled and turned around to instruct the waiters. "Listen to her arrangements. Have Miss Campbell's friends sit at the main table as well!"

"Ms. Fallon," Linda raised her eyebrows, "You and your father... are not sitting at the main table? Is that appropriate?"

"Oh, what's inappropriate about that?" Joy interrupted, "We're so lucky to be able to invite Miss Campbell and your friends tonight. The hotel... is also honored!"

At this moment, Joy barely used all the idioms she could muster.

"Miss Campbell, don't let your friend stay in the room alone. Let's invite her!"

"Alright, then, I won't stand on ceremony."

Linda turned around and made a phone call.

It did not take long for the banquet hall door to open again. Everyone looked over and wanted to see what the best friend of the princess of the Campbell family looked like.

Fiona craned her neck curiously as well.

However, to her surprise, the person who slowly walked into the banquet hall from the door was...

Jane?!

Fiona felt her mind go blank.

David and Joy also changed their faces in an instant. They stared at Jane in a daze, and their eyeballs almost fell out.

Linda's best friend... How could it be her?

At this time, the guests were also whispering and looking at Jane Fallon with distinct looks. But everyone had to admit that Jane, who had been rebuilt by Linda, was indeed beautiful and dazzling

She wore a light beige starry dress, and her long hair hung down to her waist. The tourmaline on her neck complemented her tender white skin.

Standing hand in hand with Linda Campbell, they were like a pair of beautiful sisters coming out of a fairyland, which amazed everyone present.

"She's my friend," Linda smiled, " Ms. Fallon, you should be familiar with her, right?"

Fiona clenched her fists tightly with a pale face, and her lips trembled as she could not utter a single word.

"Jane?" David said in a trembling voice. "You and Miss Campbell... You two..."

"Mr. Fallon, we've always been good friends!" Linda curled her lips and pretended to be dissatisfied with Jane. "Why? Haven't you ever mentioned me to your family? You're so ungrateful!"

Jane kept looking at her with a smile and said nothing.

"Impossible!" Fiona glared at Jane. "What tricks are you playing? How could someone like friends with Miss Campbell? Besides, didn't you just..."

"What?" David frowned.

you be

Fiona stopped abruptly halfway through her sentence, and her expression became even more unsightly.

"Sister, why are you panicking?" Jane smiled faintly, and there were two sharp lights in her eyes. "You seem surprised to see me here?"

Fiona glared at her and bit her lips tightly.

"I was indeed led in the wrong direction by you just now. I stayed in the basement for a while," Jane sneered, "But you didn't make me too lonely. You even sent a few mice here. They must be your favorite pets!"

"You..."

"Jane, what did you say?" David looked at Fiona gloomily. "Did you lead Jane to the basement and even put mice there?"

Fiona trembled as she looked at her father in horror.

"You're asking for trouble!" David berated angrily.

He did not have time to figure out how Jane and Linda met. He only knew that the one holding hands with Linda now was Jane.

David was no fool. Of course, he knew where to start.

The guests at the banquet looked at each other as if they were watching a good show.

"Don't make a fool of yourself here, Fiona Fallon!" David was embarrassed. "Hurry home I don't want to see you!"

"Dad..."

"Get lost!"

With tears welling up in her eyes, Fiona out of the banquet hall.

glared angrily at Jane before turning around and running

Joy wanted to persuade, but she didn't dare to. She could only watch her daughter being wronged and had to force a smile.

David breathed a sigh of relief, then changed his expression and looked at Linda with a smile. "Miss Campbell, don't worry. I'll discipline Fiona in the future! What happened today might be a misunderstanding, I.

"Mr. Fallon." Linda sneered. "It's not convenient for me to intervene in your family affairs, but I'll help my friend!"

"Yes, yes!" David sweated profusely.

Linda glanced at him and pulled Jane to sit in the main seat.

The banquet continued, but a few people not far away were staring at them.

"But Mr. Sherwood, why are Jane Fallon and Miss Campbell best friends?"

"Yeah, there should be a hidden reason, right?"

Carl frowned slightly.

Linda Campbell...

Jane was the wife of Dan Murphy, but she had a good relationship w Huh, what else could it mean other than that Dan Murphy is Dominic Campbell?

"Excuse me, Mr. Sherwood," someone said in a low voice, the truth should be revealed. Shall we take action?"

"Don't worry." Carl raised his hand to stop. "Don't alert the enemy without conclusive evidence. Otherwise, it will be difficult to explain to Mr. Edward. He will think that we are bluffing again."

"Then. Mr. Sherwood, this..."

"Let's wait and see. Carl curled his lips. Find more people to keep an eye on them recently. We will find flaws!"

Linda excitedly described how she had rescued Jane and helped her out to Dan.

"Brother, you don't know that Fiona was so angry that her eyes almost fell out of their sockets. What a joke!!

"Oh, but Jane was so calm. It was so dark in the basement, and there were mice everywhere. She was still worried about my safety in such a mess and felt that I was in trouble."

"Brother, I like her! Linda said bluntly, 'She's much better than Miranda!'"

"Ahem!" Tristan gave her a look and then looked at Dan, whose face was gloomy. Dan sat quietly, and the wine glass in front of him was almost empty.

Dan frowned, and there was a flash of darkness in his eyes.

He never expected that Fiona would be so bold!

If Linda did not meet her accidentally, Jane would have been in trouble now.

Dan clenched his fists and put them to his mouth, showing a fierce look.

"Well," Hector laughed casually and looked at Linda, "You like this sister-in-law, but what's the use of you liking her?"

The implication was that the marriage of Dominic Campbell was set up to him.

"Oh, yes." Tristan also smiled awkwardly. After a while, he said in a low voice, "Besides, Dominic, your marriage... is invalid."

"What did you say? The two men almost jumped up.

Dan was also stunned. He looked calm on the surface, but his heart was in turmoil. "Invalid?" He asked in a hoarse voice. "What do you mean?"

1.21

Chapter 92

Tristan didn't dare to look up.

He especially did not dare to meet the cold eyes of Dan.

After a long time, he said hesitantly, "Dominic, you, you took the place of Dan Murphy. Even your ID card is owned by him, so you used his ID card to register your marriage."

"So according to the law, the person who married Jane Fallon was Dan Murphy, not Dominic Campbell."

Hector was the first to disagree. "Isn't Dan Murphy already dead?"

"Yes..." Tristan lowered his voice. That's why it's even more ridiculous."

All of a sudden, the room fell silent.

Everyone turned their eyes to Dan and lowered their heads silently.

Dan looked more and more sullen.

Yes, Dan had always overlooked this point.

When they registered their marriage, Dan was not present. The Fallon family used their connections to hold the wedding with their ID cards hurriedly. The staff of the Civil Affairs Bureau did not carefully investigate whether Dan Murphy was dead or alive.

Therefore, from the beginning to the end, Dominic Campbell was not mentioned on the marriage certificate

Dan pinched his glabella, and his temples throbbed in pain.

"It doesn't matter, Dominic," Hector said softly, "Well... we can just find an opportunity to re-apply for the marriage certificate behind Jane."

"Can't you use your brain? How can you do it so easily?" Tristan glared at him.

"Why not?" Hector was stubborn, "Yes, the Campbell family can't tolerate her, but as long as Dominic likes her, everything will be fine!"

Tristan was speechless. He glanced at him and turned his head away.

Hector continued to nag. "Tristan, you don't know anything. It's not easy to meet someone you like in your life! What's the biggest luxury in life? It's love!"

"Now that Dominic found the destined one, he has to fight for it at all costs, protect her, and hold her in his hand! UI"

Before he could finish his words, Tristan covered his mouth tightly.

Of course, he did not want to separate Dan Murphy and Jane Fallon.

However, no one could predict how complicated the situation was with the Campbell family.

At the moment, Dan needed a rational mind and a cool head rather than getting emotional,

"I'll be going," Dan said lightly, downed the red wine in his glass, and straddled out of the club.

The words of Hector and Tristan kept echoing in his ears.

Since childhood, he had known that no one in the family could decide their marriage. It had to do with the interests of the family.

Even if his father abandoned his mother and married someone else, Linda's mother came from a prominent family, and her strength and background were comparable to that of the Four Great

17:23

Chapter 52

Families.

So he had never had any expectations for his marriage, nor had he ever thought about it with a woman.

Until he met Jane...

Dan frowned. His mind was in a mess as if a clump of weeds had grown in it.

Unknowingly paced to the door, he smoked a cigarette before going in, and once inside, he smelled the smell of food all over the room.

Jane was busy in the kitchen. When she heard the sound, she poked her head out to take a look and smiled sweetly. After a while, she brought out the European tomato soup. She chirped like a little sparrow and asked him to change his shoes and clothes, wash his hands, and prepare to have dinner.

Dan glanced at her with a smile.

He had hated tomatoes since childhood, but this little woman was always persistent in making tomatoes for him and listing their many health benefits.

There were not only tomatoes but also carrots, celery, onions... All kinds of foods that he didn't like to eat but were all very nutritious.

Jane would try her best to coax him into eating them.

Dan slowly walked into the kitchen with slightly wet eyes and hugged her tightly from behind.

Jane was stunned and quickly turned off the fire. Dan put his chin on her neck and sniffed deeply. The smell of food mixed with her body fragrance was the best scent in the world.

"Honey," she said softly. "What's wrong with you?"

Dan did not respond but hugged her more tightly

Jane was quite worried. She moved in his arms, turned around, and held his face. Suddenly, she found that his eyes were a bit red!

Jane was shocked. "Honey, what's going on with you?"

Dan was a tough guy. He would not shed a tear even if someone pointed a gun at his head.

"Do you feel uncomfortable at work? She blinked her big bright eyes, touched his head as if comforting a child, and said softly. "If you're not happy, then quit it! It's not a big deal. Oh, I don't like you to be a boxing coach. Fighting daily is dangerous, and some female students are staring at you.."

"Honey, it doesn't matter. If you're unhappy, just resign. I'll take care of you!"

Dan just looked at her and chuckled.

Jane rolled her eyes and gently stroked his face. "But my husband doesn't need a woman to support him. He's an Indomitable man. He's just tired now and needs to have a good rest for a while and reorganize/He'll be a blockbuster soon!"

"Hmm...

Before Jane could finish her words, she was kissed passionately.

She was stunned momentarily, and her heart was heating very fast. Dan seemed to be particularly enthusiastic today. While kissing her, he lifted her clothes, and his big hands wandered wantonly over her body...

"Don't!" Jane panted and put her little hand on his chest. "I, I still have a dish to cook... But before Jane could cook, he carried her directly into the bedroom and closed the door, Chap 52

He hadn't had dinner yet, but he had already eaten her up on the lied. and begged

Jane held his bare and muscular back tightly with his little hands, enduring his passionate movements. They had s*x so many times, and in the end, she couldn't stand it anymore for mercy in his ear in a sweet voice_

On the other hand, Dan was like an uncontrollable bull that was on the verge of tearing her apart.

"Jane." In a daze, she heard his slightly hoarse voice. "Let's have a baby together."

Jane was stunned. Before she could react, he was even more eager to possess her..

After that, Dan stood on the balcony, and his broad back integrated into the night sky. He smoked another cigarette and crushed the cigarette butt under his feet.

If you find that your husband is very rich, what will you do?

Then we're from two different worlds. It's better to break up.

Your marriage with Jane is legally invalid. Jane Fallon was the wife of Dan Murphy, and you are Dominic Campbell.

His heart trembled. Dan held the balcony railing tightly, his knuckles turning white.

Dan looked back at her and saw that she was sleeping soundly. Thinking of her crying and begging for mercy just now, a smile flashed across his lips that he didn't even notice.

What if they had a child?

Things might be different...

Dan took a deep breath. He had seen all kinds of things in the Campbell family, and he was not afraid of plane crash.

But now, a faint fear lingered in Dan's heart, and he became more and more afraid of losing her.

Ow

Chapter 93

Jane moved her body and slowly woke up. As soon as she opened her eyes, she saw the man on the balcony.

The soreness in her waist reminded her how crazy he had been just now.

Her face blushed, and even the tips of her ears were dyed red. She pursed her lips and chuckled. Suddenly, she felt strange. Although he usually pestered her for it, he was rational.

At least he would not do it as easily as he had said. He was so strong that he almost hurt her.

Jane got up gently and wanted to hug him from behind.

However, as soon as she touched the ground, the pain between her legs almost made her fall.

"Are you all right?"

Dan hurriedly grabbed her.

Jane was stunned. Then she was pulled into Dan's arms and looked into his gentle, soulful eyes.

Dan smiled, put her on the bed, and rubbed her hair. "Why don't you sleep? Do you want to sneak attack me?"

"No." Jane clenched her fist and punched him. The two frolicked briefly, and then Dan suddenly fixed his eyes on her.

Her skin was fair, and there was a red mark on it

And he spent the whole night...

With an ambiguous look in his eyes. Dan gently lifted her long hair and said, "Put on something that can cover your neck tomorrow."

It took Jane a long time to come to her senses. Embarrassed, she got into her arms and punched him.

hard.

"Stop it!" He laughed. "Your strength is like scratching an itch. Do you want me to lose control of myself?"

"Dan, you..." She stared at Dan with her starry eyes. "You are so naughty!"

"So what?"

"If you continue to be so bad, I'll abandon you!"

It was a joke, but when Jane looked back at him, she suddenly found no light in his eyes, Her heart tightened. "Honey, what what's wrong with you?"

His expression was calm, and he didn't speak a single word.

"I'm just kidding!" Jane looked at him timidly. "How could I abandon you?"

"What if I lie to you?" His voice was slightly cold. "Will you leave me?"

Jane was speechless for a moment.

The strange silence was like a transparent wall between the two of them. In a trance, Jane felt that he was particularly unreal.

She felt a little uneasy.

She was very nervous, and she felt an inexplicable chill.

Dan suddenly laughed and touched her head as usual. "It's okay. I was just joking."

My Hlinhand Is A Secret Billionaire

Chapter 11

"Really?"

"Yes." He said word by word. "I won't lie to you. Never."

Jane nodded and leaned against his chest. Listening to his heartbeat, she slowly calmed down.

This man was usually rather serious.

It seemed that she couldn't say this to him anymore.

She smiled, feeling a little sweetness. She leaned against his chest and closed her eyes. After a while, she fell asleep.

Dan stayed by her side all night

When the sun was about to rise, his phone suddenly lit up. It was a picture from Hector.

In the photo, several men in black were sneaking around. The background was near the they rented.

He suddenly became alert, stood up, and went to the balcony to make a phone call.

"What's going on?"

apartment

"My men sent it," Hector said in a low voice, "Dominic, it is said that these people have been following Jane for many days!"

Dan narrowed his eyes, and a sharp light flashed in his eyes.

"He's my uncle's guy?"

"Sort of." Hector snorted. "I've looked into it. He works for Carl."

"What is he trying to do?"

probably eager to show off in front of your uncle. After all, Edward had firmly believed that you were in Spinelli!"

Dan darkened his face slightly and sneered.

"Since he wants to make contributions in front of the Campbell family, it doesn't matter who hel does."

"Hmm? Dominic, what do you mean?"

"Bring some people to find him."

Dan lowered his voice and said something.

Carl was tied up and thrown into a room

At first, he was shouting, but later, even his mouth was gagged. His head was wrapped in a sack, and he couldn't nove,

With a dull thud, he fell heavily, feeling woozy from the pain.

At this time, someone took off the sack for him and tore off the tape on his mouth.

Just as he was about to curse, he suddenly saw a pair of mocking and playful eyes.

"Mr.... Mr. White?"

"How have you been, Mr. Sherwood."

Carl went blank in an instant. After thinking for a long time, he couldn't figure out when he had offended this young man.

He looked around and saw a group of bodyguards. They were all expressionless and serious,

so he

Chapter 53

held back all the questions he wanted to ask,

"Mr. Sherwood." Hector squatted in front of him and took out some photos. "Do you know this?"

Carl took a look and found that it was all photos of his men following Jane.

"I... I really don't know what's going on! Oh, Mr. White, is Ms. Fallon in trouble?"

"Don't you know if she's in trouble? Hector slapped him hard in the face with the photo.

Carl panicked and immediately knelt on the ground to beg for mercy.

"Mr... Mr. White, I don't know what's happening! Ms. Fallon and I are just working together. She is very capable, and we had a pleasant association before...

Hector looked at him with disdain and knew that he was talking nonsense.

"I might as well make it clear to you, Carl. You've been looking for someone to follow Jane to discover who Dan is, right?"

Carl felt that he was in big trouble and was at a loss for words.

"Oh, you're right. That's Dominic, the third son of the Campbell family, Dominic Campbell."

Hector repeated each word and curled his lips, revealing a cold smile.

Carl was scared out of his wits.

It turned out that he was a clown. He thought he was monitoring others, but he didn't expect to be exposed.

Hector took out a dagger. In the dim environment, the dagger was shining with a chilling light, which made people's hair stand on end. After a while, he took out a revolver. The sound of the bullet being loaded was extremely crisp.

Carl kept stepping back with fear in his eyes.

"Mr.... Mr. White?"

"Dominic said," Hector chuckled, "Since someone is so anxious to reveal his identity, we might as well send him to hell. Because in this work, only the dead can't speak!"

As soon as he finished speaking, he pressed the gun against Carl's head.

Carl wet his pants and cried out involuntarily.

Hector pressed the dagger against his neck again.

"If I use bullets, you'll feel great. If I stab you with a knife... I'll feel great!"

"I wonder which way Mr. Sherwood thinks is better?"

"Or..." Hector snorted. "Call your boss now and ask him how he would like you to die."

100

Chapter 94

Carl was sweating as he knelt on the ground and pleaded for mercy.

Hector had always been a man of his word. Moreover, with the power of the White family, even if Hector killed him, he could get away with it!

As for Edward....

That man would do anything to protect himself. Maybe he would slander him instead!

After all, Edward wanted to maintain a good image in front of Mr. Campbell

Carl gritted his teeth. His last kowtow was so loud that even a large piece of skin on his forehead was broken, and blood was gushing out.

"Mr. White, please let me go! ... I will do anything for you without hesitation!"

"What about Edward then? Hector sat cross-legged in the middle.

1. I swear." Carl turned pale. "I won't tell Edward anything!"

"Oh, I can't believe your oath." Hector threw the dagger and gun aside. "But if you can really be my side, I can consider sparing your life."

"What can I do for you, Mr. White."

"You know Fiona, right? Hector narrowed his eyes and smiled.

Fiona dared to lock Jane up in the basement and even put a mouse in there. How could Dominic bear it?

Therefore, asking Carl to deal with Fiona was like asking two evil people to bite each other. It was killing two birds with one stone.

Carl swallowed and asked softly, "Mr. White... do you want me to deal with Fiona?"

"If you're willing to work for Dominic and me, Mr. Sherwood, we won't mistreat you.

"But remember, if you dare to reveal any of this information to Edward... Since Dominic can let you go, he can also kill you! Do you understand?"

A few days later, the news that Fiona had been deceived spread throughout the entire business world of Cardiff.

Even the members of the Hizack Company had heard of it.

No matter where Jane went, she could hear her colleagues gloating.

It was Fiona who snatched that client away from her.

Just two days ago, she and Fiona appeared on the top floor of an office building at the same time to visit clients/

Jane was not very familiar with this client. She only learned from the information given by Jones knew that Mr. Cohn had come to Cardiff to invest Jones asked her to contact him first.

She didn't expect to encounter Fiona at the door, you're also here to visit Mr. Col?

Fiona spoke with her usual disdainful tone, and whenever Jane thought of her locking her up in the basement, she would shiver all over and not even want to look at her.

"Let me tell you, Mr. Colin will cooperate with me!" Fiona smiled proudly. "The Fallon Group is richer than your company!"

My Husband Is A Secret Blistaire

Chapter 5

"When it comes to cooperation, sometimes it depends on fate," Jane replied lightly. "Before the client agrees, anything can change!"

Fiona glared at her. At this moment, Mr. Cohn walked out. Fiona quickly stepped forward and elbowed Jane in the ribs!

Jane was in pain. Before she could react, her feet were stepped on the back again!

Jane fell awkwardly in front of everyone.

When she looked up, she saw the expression on Mr. Cohn's face. He looked at her as if she were a clown.

"Mr. Cohn, I'm sorry!" Fiona took a step forward and said, "Ha, this is my step-sister. Her mother's had some issues over the years, and I think she's developing similar symptoms. Don't mind her!"

"I'm Fiona,"

All right, all right!" Mr. Cohn waved his hand impatiently and pointed at Jane. "You, go back! I'm only going to talk about cooperation with Fiona today."

Fiona smiled sweetly as she walked into the conference room with Mr. Cohn. She even gave Jane a look of disdain.

Jane was aggrieved and sad then, but she still gathered the documents on the ground and limped out of the building

However, she didn't expect....

Mr. Cohn was a liar!

After signing the agreement with him, Fiona found that Mr. Cohn's company was a fake company. It looked glamorous on the surface but was actually empty on the inside!

To change David's opinion of her and promote the partnership as soon as possible, Fiona asked someone to transfer some money to him first, which caused the Fallon Group to lose tens of millions of dollars instantly!

After hearing the news, Jane felt like she was in a dream and couldn't come to her senses for a long time.

She told this story to Dan. "In fact, I wanted to fight for it at that time because Mr. Cohn's conditions were so tempting!

"But now that I think about it, how can there be such a good thing? As the saying goes, there is no free food!"

"Yes." Dan looked at her with a chuckle. "So you have to be careful in the future. There is no free lunch in the world."

"That is to say, it's fortunate that Fiona is there!" She boasted. "Otherwise, I would be the one who will cause millions of losses to the company!"

Silly girl, how could it be you?

Dan smiled even more brightly.

Apart from Fiona, that person would never cheat anyone else.

Jane hummed as she did housework, she was happy.

Dan heard his cell phone ring. While Jane was not paying attention, he went to the balcony to answer the phone.

"I've asked Carl to find a person as you said," Hector said with a smile, "Tiona is in trouble this time.

Chapter 91

David was so angry that he almost didn't recognize her as his daughter. Well, she caused such trouble. Anyone would get angry!"

"Yes." Dan said in a relaxed tone. "You should thank Mr. Sherwood!"

Hector smirked.

He was good at dealing with people, especially the wicked.

But obviously, Dominic was more resourceful than him in this matter.

"By the way, Dominic," he added, "I've found the shop you wanted. Alas, it's not easy to find. There are only a few shops in Cardiff."

Hector sent him the photo. As Dan carefully selected, his eyes suddenly lit up.

The French window and the small yard were full of Iris.

Behind the bar counter were two coffee machines and an oven; they could smell coffee and bread baking through the screen.

The window frame was painted green paired with a light yellow curtain, fresh and pleasant.

Dan knew at a glance that Jane would like it!

"That's it." He decided.

"No problem." Hector smiled. "Dominic, let me ask one more question. Do you really want to open a shop by yourself?"

"Have you business?"

decided to be a small boss here and not go back to Central City to inherit the family

Dan looked serious, but he kept smiling.

Chapter 95

"Dominic," Hector called out several times. "Dominic, are you listening?"

Dan was absent-minded and coughed twice.

Hector laughed and said, "Dominic, now I finally know what is 'dem ented' is! I can tell through the phone that your shifty eyes only stare at Jane now!"

"Hector," Dan said in a low voice. "Do you want to be beaten up?"

Hector forced a smile. Knowing that he had something to do, he didn't dare to say anything more and quickly hung up the phone.

The next day, Kate saw Fiona in an open air restaurant near the Fallon Group's building.

"Ms. Fallon." Kate smiled and took out a termination agreement. "I've already talked to your secretary in advance. Now all we need is your signature. Please!"

Fiona had an unsightly expression, and she was furious.

Ever since she had been conned by that man, the Fallon Group had become the laughingstock of the entire industry.

No matter where he went, David felt shamed and vented his anger on Fiona. Not only did he scold her fiercely at the board of directors, but he also took back several profitable projects she was in charge of.

Even when they got home, Fiona was trembling with fear, and she carefully observed him.

Now the Hizack Company had become a fence-sitter. Like those companies, they took the opportunity to distance themselves from the Fallon Group and terminate the cooperation..

Fiona gritted her teeth and looked at Kate, who was sailing. She held the pen tightly and signed the agreement with difficulty,

"Thank you." Kate smiled after checking, "If there is no problem, your company will receive a formal termination letter within three days. Thank you for your cooperation, Ms. Fallon. I'll treat you to this meal!"

"No need. Fiona crossed her arms in front of her chest. "I can afford a meal!"

"That's what I should do." Kate took the initiative to pay the bill. After returning, she smiled politely at Fiona and was about to leave.

However, Fiona said sharply behind her, "Is there no one at the office now? Sending a nobody to sign such an important agreement is hardly good protocol!"

Kate stopped.

"Stupid man!" Fiona grunted coldly. "You weren't like this when you asked for cooperation!"

Kate took a deep breath.

As expected, Jane's sister was tough to deal with. She was stubborn and insisted on making sarcastic remarks.

In that case, Kate was not someone to be trifled with.

She turned around and dashed a brilliant smile. "Ms. Fallon, that was before. Now it's different! "We've learned our lesson this time. We must find out the other party's... IQ! Well, the people who would be tricked of tens of millions so easily, and there's no way for us to continue working Together!"

17.23

My Blasband Is A Secret Billionaire

Fiona glared at her with a gloomy expression.

"And how can we bypass the chairman when it comes to cooperation? As far as I know, when Ms. Fallon talked about cooperation with the Hizack Company, your father didn't know about it, did he?"

"After all, the chairman of the Fallon Group has the final say. I don't think Ms. Fallon can make the decision!"

"Are you done!?" Fiona slammed her fist on the table, causing the knife and fork to collide with the plates.

Kate glanced at her coldly and finally felt a little relieved.

But at this moment, she noticed that the expression on Fiona's face had changed, and the corners of her mouth curled up lightly

"Kate." She snorted. "Look over there!"

Kate was stunned and followed her gaze. She saw two girls talking and laughing under a parasol not far away.

Behind them, the blue sky was full of white clouds, and the green trees were like umbrella covers. Azalea flowers were blooming around them.

Just by looking at this scene, one could tell how sweet the ice cream in their hands was.

Kate frowned and felt a little uncomfortable.

"Alas," Fiona deliberately said. "You treat her as a good friend, but she happily eats without you! "Kate, you probably don't know who is opposite Jane, right? That's Linda, the youngest daughter of the Campbell family. The last time our family held a charity dinner, Linda came in with Jane and called her a best friend! Oh, god knows what tricks that bitch Jane has played!

"Your best friend is trying to be a friend with a rich lady! Can she still remember you?" Fiona patted her on the shoulder. "This is probably the truth. It's tough to say!"

Afterward, she waved her hand and walked away in high heels.

Kate kept her eyes on Jane and Linda.

She admitted that she was a little jealous. She often invited Jane to this ice cream shop.

"Sometimes, the friendship between women was more subtle and fragile than love. You are my best friend, and I firmly believe I am your best friend. But you brought someone else here, and you didn't even call me," Kate thought.

Kate felt sad.

But at this moment, she paid more attention to Linda.

She frowned...

This girl looked so familiar. She felt that she had seen her somewhere before.

At work in the afternoon, Jane saw Kate in the coffee room and greeted her happily.

Kate just smiled.

Jane was slightly stunned. As usual, she made a cup of coffee for Kate and brought it to her.

Then she asked softly, "Kate, what's wrong?"

Kate told her what had happened at noon directly.

"Oh, you saw us?" Jane smiled innocently. "Why didn't you tell me when you saw us? In fact, I wanted to ask you to come with me at noon, but your department said that you left early, so L

"Well, you don't have to explain!" Kate was a straight woman.

It turned out that Jane wanted to ask her.

It was enough for her to know that she still valued her.

Kate smiled, remembered something and asked, "Why were you with that girl earlier?"

"That's Linda," Jane said truthfully. "I wanted to introduce you two to each other! She was the one who saved me the last time I was locked up in the basement by Fiona."

"Really?"

"Is there a problem?" Jane blinked.

The more Kate thought about it, the more strange she felt.

I just remembered the nurse who came out of the ward when we went to the hospital to see your husband. Do you remember?"

Jane thought for a while and shook her head in confusion.

"Her skirt is very short and very beautiful!" Kate was a little anxious. "I looked at her a few more times at that time. Although she was wearing a mask. I couldn't remember wrongly!"

"Do you mean that Linda is the nurse?"

Kate was stunned and couldn't answer.

"How is that possible?" Jane said with a smile. The daughter of the Campbell family... That's impossible!"

Chapter 96

Kate also hoped that she was thinking too much.

But she had a photographic memory since she was in high school.

Moreover, she wasn't blind.

Even if she was wearing a mask, her eyes would not change.

Kate felt increasingly odd and whispered to Jane. "Anyway, you should be more careful. It's hard to say whether she is the daughter of the Campbell family or not!"

Jane widened her eyes in surprise.

"What I mean is... be on your guard!"

"But Kate," Jane mumbled after a long while, "If she's pretending to be the daughter of the Campbell family, then what's her purpose in getting close to me? Also, the charity dinner last time was specially held for her, and Fiona personally confirmed her identity!"

"Even if she lied to me, could she have lied to the Fallon family and everyone?"

"Can you believe your sister?" Kate couldn't help laughing. "It's not the first time that she has mistaken someone. She was just cheated!"

Jane bit her lip and remained silent.

"I'm doing this for your own good!" Kate was forthright. "You're skilled in most things but too sincere and single-minded! Although Linda has saved you, it doesn't mean you must repay her kindness. You don't have to devote yourself to her!" Jane was speechless.

"Just like you and Dan....." She paused for a moment. "Although he's your husband, you have to be on guard. Don't trust him too much! If something happens to your marriage, you'll be hurt! How will you live then?"

"Kate, what are you talking about?"

Jane suddenly looked up.

Kate blushed as if a needle had pricked her.

She was straightforward, but her words were too harsh...

"Kate," Jane frowned and said, "I know you are doing this for my own good, but didn't we just talk about Linda? Why is Dan involved?"

"Your prejudice against him will never be eliminated, right?"

"Oh, Jane, I..."

"You are my most important friend, but why do you have to evaluate my marriage like this and tell me what to do with the person I like?"

Jane was short of breath. She was a little angry and disappointed.

No matter how close they were, they couldn't lose their sense of decency.

Kate took two steps back, and her face darkened.

But she didn't have the courage to apologize.

Jane glanced at her and went straight back to the office. Kate wanted to stop her, but she couldn't say a word.

The next weekend, Kate went up the mountain alone.

She remembered that during her college days, Jane would accompany her to climb the mountain week on vacation. They went to all the hills in Cardiff.

every

But now, she was the only one left.

Kate regretted it. That day, she was too impulsive and said those words. Wasn't she cursing Jane?

But she still couldn't let go of her pride and apologize to her.

Whether it was in school or in the company, she was arrogant. How could she easily apologize to others?

Anyway, Jane already had Miss Campbell, and they would no longer be good friends,

The more Kate thought about it, the more depressed she became. She couldn't help but speed up and climb up with the help of the mountain stick. However, when she tripped at the foot of the mountain, she instantly lost her balance and fell into the dense forest.

Then, she felt a sharp pain in her ankle.

Kate struggled to pull her legs, but every time she moved, she felt a heart-wrenching pain.

She looked up at the sky. It was already afternoon, and there was a mist on the mountain.

Because she was too confident, she walked on a road that no one had before.

Now, she was going to be lost in the mountain!

She quickly took out her phone.

There was no signal.

She tried to move again.

But even if she grabbed the tree next to her, it would be difficult for her to stand up!

Kate suddenly panicked. She couldn't see anyone on the mountain, but as the sky slowly darkened, she could vaguely hear the cry of wild animals...

Her scalp was numb, and she cried uncontrollably. She turned on the phone and turned it off to look for the signal, but the battery was running out.

She crawled forward, trying not to make a sound to attract the wild animals.

But she couldn't even tell the direction, let alone walk out of the forest with her own strength.

Kate couldn't help but feel desperate.

Right at this moment, a burst of rapid footsteps could be heard!

Kate suddenly held her breath, and her hair stood on end.

The footsteps were getting closer and closer until stopped in front of her. She was shamed, and then a hand reached out.

The fingers were long and slender, and the skin was white. It was a pretty hand.

Kate was stunned and looked up into a pair of gentle eyes.

"You?" She was shocked. "Dr... Dr. Green?"

"What's wrong? Are you surprised?" Josh curled his lips and squatted beside her, trying to lift her injured right foot.

"Oh!" Kate cried in a low voice, "Dr. Green, it hurts... it hurts so much!"

"Relax." Josh touched it and knew what was going on. "It should be that the joints are dislocated and the bones are not hurt. Don't worry, I'll help you set them up. You'll be fine soon!"

17.23

"Oh? You...."

Before Kate could object, Josh quickly grabbed her ankle with both hands and cured her! She felt as if there was a ball of fire burning her ankle!

Kate hit her lip tightly, her face pale, and sweat rolled down her forehead and nose. Josh held her foot and turned it around a few times, but she could only endure it.

Her silence aroused Josh's curiosity.

"You're a brave girl." Josh smiled as he continued, "When I treated patients, they would scream."

Kate bit her lips so hard that they turned purple. She slowly relaxed, adjusted her breathing, and reluctantly opened her mouth.

"It's dark now, and there are many wild animals here. I don't want to attract wolves!"

Josh looked at her and smiled.

She tried to move her feet, but it still hurt, but it was much better than before. Josh helped her up. and she lumped down the mountain with the help of the climbing stick.

"The conditions here are limited, so I can only give you first aid treatment." Josh said. "Your ankle is red and swollen, so you must apply ice when you get home. Remember not to exercise strenuously for a few days, or your joints will get dislocated again"

"Yep."

Josh considerately blocked the branches for her, almost wrapping her in his arms. He still carried a faint smell of disinfectant, which was exclusive to doctors, Kate snickered. When she was a child, she was afraid of this smell, but she didn't expect that...

"What are you laughing at?"

Kate was stunned. When she looked up and saw his handsome face, he was gentle.

Chapter 97

Kate felt as if her heart had been hit by something.

Ever since she had decided not to be with that man, this strange and irresistible feeling had never happened again.

Kate frowned and subconsciously wanted to push Josh away, but he held her hand more tightly.

"You..."

"You're still injured, so you can't walk." Josh explained. "You'd better not aggravate it."

Kate pursed her lips and saw his fair and slender hand.

That was a hand holding a scalpel

Josh was also a refined, handsome, and elegant man.

She might still be trapped in the forest if he hadn't come to save her.

Thinking of this, she felt a dull pain in her ankle again. Kate frowned and couldn't support herself.

"Be careful!" Josh suddenly held her waist.

He found a big stone, dusted it off, and gently helped her sit.

"It seems to be a little swollen again." Josh took off her shoes and socks and observed carefully. "Go to my clinic later and ask the nurse to deal with it"

"Well, thank you." Kate said gently. Suddenly, she thought of something and asked him,

"How did you find me?"

Josh smiled and took out his phone.

It was close to the foot of the mountain, and there was already had signal. Kate was stunned when she saw the Twitter she had posted before going up the hill.

"I saw you climbing the mountain, and there's your location. Josh said softly, "So I followed you"

"Why... why are you following me?"

"You are not safe."

Kate was moved.

Josh smiled at her, squatted down, and turned around. "Come on!"

"What are you doing?"

"It is not easy to walk on. I'll carry you"

Kate admitted that she was tempted for a moment.

Jash didn't have a strong back, but she felt safe.

But compared to that person...

Kate bit her lip and suddenly came to her senses.

"No need. She refused softly. "I can walk."

"Don't force yourself!"

"I'm not!" She suddenly raised her voice. Her tone was unpleasant, but she didn't dare to look at him.

"Dr. Green, thank you for your kindness. But we're almost at the foot of the mountain. I can do it myself. Don't worry."

My Husband Is A Secret Hipster

"But..."

"I'll do as you say when I get back." Kate forced a smile. "Ice compress, apply for the medicine, and then regularly examine it. Don't worry; I'm experienced and know how to do it!"

After that, she turned around and staggered down the mountain with the help of the mountain stick.

Josh was stunned as he stared at her with a complicated gaze.

He had no experience in dating, but for some reason, he couldn't forget her from the moment he saw her.

He had chased after her today because he wanted to spend more time with her.

He should accompany her if he wanted to pursue her, right?

But there seemed to be an invisible gap between them, separating them from each other.

At noon on Monday, Jane was about to go to the restaurant. As soon as she walked out of the office, she spotted Kate.

She followed him, and she smelled fast food as soon as she reached the door.

Jane sighed softly, put the lunch box in front of her, and said nothing.

Kate was stunned. She opened the lunch box and saw that it was a delicious steak.

"Oh, Jane, this..."

"Hurry up and eat." Jane was expressionless. "It's not good to eat fast food. I told you before."

Kate felt a lump in her throat, and tears welled up in her eyes.

Jane looked at her for a long time and finally stopped pretending. She burst into laughter.

"What are you doing? It's not the first time I've brought you food. Do you have to cry?"

Kate ate the steak, raised her head, and finally said after hesitating for a long time, "I'm sorry,"

Jane tensed up.

She knew how proud Kate was. She never admitted defeat when quarreling, but she also knew how far Kate could go for her.

In fact, it was just a quarrel between good friends.

It was not a big deal.

Jane smiled and held Kate's hand, her eyes playful and gentle. "Well, It's normal to argue, don't think about it too much."

"Okay!" Kate also laughed with relief.

"Jane, it's delicious!" Jane exclaimed.

"So you should eat less junk food! I'll bring you food."

"Well..." Kate sulked.

She swore, "Jane, I promise I won't speak ill of Dan again! From now on, he is my friend, and I will support him in everything!"

Jane was both angry and amused. After looking at her for a while, she finally couldn't help laughing. "Speaking of this, I want to ask you why you always dislike my husband "

"No..." Kate smiled with shame. "Maybe it's because I have high expectations of you. I always feel that you can marry a better person!"

"Dan is good enough she whispered.

"Yes, yes, as long as you like it!"

Kate was so happy that she ate more, but did not notice that the way Jane looked at her had changed slightly.

"Hey, don't just talk about me?" Jane nudged her and asked with a smile. "Do you also fall in love with someone, but you didn't tell me?"

Kate almost choked and coughed violently,

"Don't deny it!" Jane raised her face. "When you climbed the mountain this weekend, Josh followed you!"

Kate was embarrassed. "It's not what you think."

"Josh was anxious when he saw you climbing the mountain. He kept asking what you usually bring. What you got injured? Then he prepared a first aid kit and went to find you!"

Kate was stunned, and her face blushed profusely.

It was no wonder that after she got injured, Josh appeared in time and gave her professional medicine for emergency treatment.

She thought that the doctor would usually carry some medicine with him.

Well, that was ridiculous!

Kate snickered.

Jane moved closer to her. Like when they were in college, they leaned their shoulders and heads against each other.

"Kate, you like Dr. Green, don't you?"

"Don't talk nonsense," Kate stopped smiling. "I don't think about anything but work now!"

"But you were blushing just now..."

"Ouch, it's too stuffy here!" Kate ran away with the lunch box. "I'll go to the office to eat.

After that, I'll wash the lunch box and return it to you!"

Jane looked at her back and smiled helplessly.

When she got home in the evening, she told Dan about it.

Dan suddenly showed a smile.

"Yeah, I also think they're a good couple." He said in a low voice, "I've chatted with Josh a few times recently, and he'll mention Kate. Oli, it turns out that they've been interested in each other for a long time."

"What?" Jane widened her eyes. "It turns out that Dr. Green has taken a fancy to Kate for a long time?"

"But Kate is arrogant, so it's impossible for her to reveal her feelings first. Dr. Green looks gentle, and he might not take the initiative to confess... I'm really anxious about them!"

Chapter 98

Dan smiled dotingly and looked gently at the woman in his arms.

"Honey," Jane looked playful and rubbed against his chest. "Why don't we help them?"

"Help them?" Dan was stunned. How? He had no experience.

"Yes!" She insisted. "If it weren't for Dr. Green, we wouldn't have been able to be together. Speaking of which, we have to thank him!"

"It would be perfect if we could help him with Kate this time!"

Dan did not answer, his eyes deep

He thought more than she did, and it wasn't very easy. He didn't like to get involved in these things.

Besides, he didn't know who Kate was, and Josh had saved his life, so he couldn't cheat him.

But Jane was very excited and wanted to be a matchmaker.

Dan smiled and rubbed her hair.

"Honey," Jane leaned on his shoulder like a kitten, "I have a good idea... Let's go out for a trip together, okay? Kate and I have annual leave, and I have even found a place!"

She happily showed him her phone.

It was a beautiful hot spring guesthouse in the suburbs of Central City, opposite the Campbell Estate on Mount Bright Radiance.

Jane had wanted to go a long time ago. Her eyes lit up when she saw these beautiful pictures.

"Why choose this place?" Dan darkened his eyes. "Do you like it very much?"

"It's famous!" Jane explained excitedly, "So it has to be booked half a year in advance.

"If we go at this time, we can avoid the peak time of the holiday. It's quiet and enjoyable!"

"So you've already planned it?" Dan chuckled.

It seemed that she liked it.

But if she knew that the big boss behind this guesthouse was Dominic, would she still like it so much...

Seeing the strange look on his face, Jane thought that he was unwilling to go, so she got into her arms and acted like a spoiled child. "Honey, let's go together! Even if you don't like matchmaking, then... take it as my honeymoon, okay?"

"A honeymoon?"

"We haven't had a honeymoon since we got married..." Jane said in a lower voice, and her cheeks were red.

Dan was stunned for a moment. Suddenly, he smiled happily and gently held her in his arms.

Yes, he not only owed her a wedding but also a honeymoon.

"I'll make up for it now!"

"Okay." He kissed the tip of her nose and said sodily, "You can talk to Kanie. I'll talk to Josh. When everything is ready, we'll set off immediately!"

Three days later, the plane landed at the International Airport in Central City. They took the airport bus from the airport and finally arrived at the place before sunset.

Chapter 58

After storing the luggage, they planned to walk around.

Mountains surrounded it, and the scenery was beautiful. Walking on the mountain path, she felt the cool breeze blowing by her ears, and the air was filled with the fragrance of summer. The distant mountains overlapped, and the flowers on the side of the road were blooming. The unique pavilions of the hot springs and guesthouses were reflected in her eyes, and everything was as beautiful as a fairy tale world.

Jane and Kate took photos excitedly all the way. Dan and Josh followed them like knights guarding the princess. They only focused on the person they loved the most.

"Hey," Josh patted Dan, "You must not be the one who found such a good place, right?"

Dan smiled at him in response to his silence.

"It's not your idea this time!" Josh knew him very well.

"Jane was the one who came up with the idea," Dan said in a low voice. "She really wants you to be with Kate, so she said we should travel together,"

"She's so considerate" Josh smiled and looked around. "But this place is lovely... It's just a little strange.

"What's wrong?"

"I've checked. This guesthouse is well known. Before I came here, I thought it would be overcrowded. I didn't expect that there was no one else except us! Even if it's not a holiday, it shouldn't be so quiet, right?"

Dan coughed twice.

Before they came, he had already asked someone to clear the place. Of course, they couldn't see anyone.

"Alas, it seems that it doesn't run well. Is it about to go bankrupt?"

Dan frowned and rolled his eyes at him.

"What's wrong? Do you like crowds?"

Josh shrugged and said. "I guess everyone should follow the crowd. Anyway, if I go out to eat and see which restaurant has fewer people, I will never go in!"

Dan answered in a muffled voice, "There are few people in the seven star hotel. You can't afford it."

"Hey, you..." Josh didn't know how to respond. He was so annoyed.

He had taken care of hun day and niglu and risked his life to save him.

"Hey, what are you two dawdling around for?" Jane asked sweetly.

Dan looked up and saw Jane waving at them.

She and Kate were by the side of the road. There seemed to be another person beside them....

Dan darkened his eyes and immediately became alert.

This area was cleaned up. Normally, no people would come in. What was going on?

"Honey, come here!" Jane took his arm and said, "This old lady can tell fortune!"

Dan was stunned. There seemed to be a church not far from here.

It was normal for some people to travel here.

However, he was still worried and wanted to pull Jane away as soon as possible. However, Jane looked at him with a smile and insisted on showing his hand to the old lady.

"Miss, please take a look!" Jane also stretched out her right hand and put it next to the left hand of Dan: "I want to know our marriage!"

She didn't care about anything else but whether she could be with her husband forever.

She looked at the old lady expectantly. However, a moment later, the old lady raised her head and looked at her with a strange smile.

"As I see it the miss is destined to be a powerful woman! She's destined to be rich!"

"What?" Jatie was stunned for a moment and then smiled. "Miss, you're mistaken! How?"

The old lady waved her hand and said in a trembling voice, "Miss, what I mean is that you will marry your Mr. Right, and your husband is definitely a man of grower!

"No!" She hugged Dan. "This is my husband! He's just a regular guy."

The old lady stared at Dan in a daze, and a light suddenly flashed through her turbid eyes.

"Is this your husband? She raised her voice, and the atmosphere instantly became extremely strange.

"Well, maybe!"

Chapter 99

Jane was confused.

She looked at the older woman in confusion. Just as she was about to ask something, she was shocked by Dan, who was next to her.

The man's expression was sullen, with a fierce look in his eyes.

Jane held his hand and whispered, "She may be getting old, and even she doesn't know what she is talking about... Don't take it to heart."

Unexpectedly, the old lady had good ears. She listened to her words and grinned.

"Young Lady, you are so kind."

"Thank you." Jane smiled. "My husband is also a good person. He looks a little fierce and is sometimes overly serious, so people often misunderstand him."

"Oh, Miss, you want to see the marriage, don't you?"

Jane nodded hurriedly

The old lady glanced at her hand and slowly took out two red ropes from her pocket.

The ribbons were weaved perfectly, and each knot had a unique hell hanging on it. As soon as they were touched, a crisp sound could be heard

"Tie this around your wrist. The old lady reminded them word by word. "No matter how far away you are in the future, as long as the bell rings, you will know each other."

"What nonsense is this..." Josh frowned and muttered in a low voice, "If there's such a thing, then there's no need for a phone!"

Jane was stunned. She turned to the old lady and chuckled. "Miss, my husband and I won't be far away. We'll be together forever!"

"One day, you will be separated."

Jane turned pale and held the hand of Dan tightly.

*But..." The old lady's eyes were deep. She smiled and said, "You will be happy in the end."

Only then did Jane relax, and she smiled again.

Dan thought about a lot of things. He squinted at the old lady, held Jane in his arms, and turned to leave.

"Oh, this old lady!" Josh interrupted. "Is she out of her mind? But the last sentence is still very good..." "Hey, are you leaving just like that? The old lady suddenly called out to them. They stopped and saw that she was no longer mysterious. Her hands were on her hips, and her eyes were wide open.

"I've said so much and even given you the red rope! Are you not going to give me the money?" "Damn it... she is a liar? Josh didn't know whether to laugh or cry. "Miss, how much do you want?" She immediately became serious and gently said two words, "Leave it to me."

Josh laughed out loud.

Dan looked apathetic. He took out 15 dollars and gave it to her. The old lady smiled and looked at Jane meaningfully before leaving with satisfaction.

The rest of the group remained silent along the way.

Josh couldn't hold it in any longer and took the initiative to break the silence. "Don't mind what she said! Ha. I've been to many churches. What she said can't be trusted! You two must be together forever!"

Kate glanced at him with some approval in her eyes.

Josh blushed and scratched his head in embarrassment.

Jane smiled and still held Dan tightly. "Thank you, Dr. Green, I don't care too much about it. Besides, she is very nice. She gave us a beautiful red rope."

She turned to look at Dan. His expression was still serious. No one dared to get close to him. She knew he had never believed in these trinkets, let alone wearing the red rope.

But when she wanted to put the rope away, he put it into his pocket first.

"Honey, you..."

"The old lady said," he said lightly, "You take one, and I take one. If we get separated in the future... "No, we won't get separated!" Jane was scared.

It didn't matter what the old lady said, but when Dan said that, she felt scared.

"Silly girl" Dan said in a low voice, which was slightly hoarse and extremely gentle, "Even if we get separated, I will find you back!"

"Yes!" Jane nodded vigorously.

Josh and Kate looked at each other and laughed at the same time.

while,

After strolling for a returned to the guesthouse. The manager came out to welcome them person and took them to the best restaurant in the guesthouse.

in

As soon as they walked in, Josh and Kate were dumbfounded. Didn't the Golden Pavilion cost half a year's salary for a single meal? Why did Jane book this place?

"Sir, did you make a mistake?" Jane was also puzzled. "I ordered a standard meal..."

"Yes, it's here."

The manager clapped his hands respectfully, and then a row of well-trained waiters appeared to serve them exquisite dishes.

Jane widened her eyes and held her breath.

She had only seen these dishes in pictures. They were all the main dishes of Golden Pavilion. She couldn't afford them!

"Wha?" She gasped.

"Yes, it's a standard meal, Ms. Tallon," the manager said with a smile. "But we selected a random guest to be upgraded to the luxury package. Ms. Fallon, it just happens to be your reservation number

"What?" It was the first time Jane had heard of such a good thing.

Josh and Kate were also stunned. They looked at each other as if they were dreaming.

"Really? That's too lucky!" Kate looked around excitedly and then frowned. "But since there is such event, why is no one coming?"

"That's right!" Josh replied. "It's too strange!"

Chapter 11

"Well.." The manager smiled bitterly. He didn't know how to explain.

Dan coughed lightly and hugged Jane. "Since there is such a good thing, let's not ask so many questions. Just enjoy it!"

Jash shook his head. "That's true... but it's bizarre!"

"Hey," he whispered. "Is there a trap? Some had businessmen use the prize as an excuse. When all the guests are done enjoying it, they will charge a high price for it!"

Dan was speechless.

"I think we'd better be careful." The more Josh spoke, the more it seemed to be true.

"Maybe there are hallucinogens in this dish, and then they would let us pay a high price." Everyone was speechless.

"Josh." Dan took a deep breath and smiled. "It's a waste of your talent to be a doctor."

"What?"

He said word by word, "Why don't you write a novel?"

"Hey?" Josh laughed loudly. "When I was a child, my dream was to be a writer. As a result, I listened to my mother and studied medicine!"

"All right!" Kate grinned from ear to ear. "How could such a big shop do such a thing? Jane is so lucky! Let's eat quickly. I'm hungry!"

OB

Chapter 100

They sat around the round table.

The food looked good. It was placed in exquisite porcelain tableware, and every one of them was extremely luxurious.

Josh couldn't care less about whether there were hallucinogens inside and was in a hurry to gorge himself

Kate laughed and said. "Aren't you afraid that the hacker will get your money?"

"Whatever!" Josh muttered, "Anyway, I don't have much money. It's far less than the money for this meal! I won't suffer a loss!"

"Oh. Dr. Green, you're really good at settling accounts."

"You're not bad!" Josh chuckled. "You eat more than me!"

Kate almost hit his head.

Jane and Dan looked at them and smiled at each other, their eyes filled with sweetness.

"Everyone, the dishes are ready." The manager brought people to serve everyone a bowl of salmon soup.

"This kind of salmon can only be found in the stream at the foot of Mount Bright Radiance. Its meat is delicious, fat but not greasy

They opened the soup cups in front of them.

As expected, a fresh fragrance wafted over. The stewed salmon was very delicious, and it was decorated with peach petals, which made it look even more romantic.

Jane habitually gave the salmon eyes to Dan

When she was a child, her mother would make salmon for her and Bailey. When a salmon was served on the table, her mother would give her and Hailey two fish eyes.

Her mother said that the eyes of the salmon could protect their eyes, and they were the most precious things for the fish.

Of course, the most precious things had to be given to the most precious person.

Jane smiled gently and looked at Jan.

Kate smirked and instantly became jealous. "Alas, I'm so envious of you!"

"Don't be jealous!" Josh teased her. "You also have fish! You can eat it by yourself!"

"How can that be the same?"

Jane blushed and lowered her head slightly.

Dan smiled. He had never been so proud in his life.

Before they could eat, Josh gave the salmon eyes on his plate to Kate.

"You..."

"All right" He looked at her gently. "Now you have one too, don't you?"

Kate lowered her head in silence but she smiled.

Jane had booked three rooms.

She had planned to go back to her room with Dan after dinner, but Kate quietly pulled her back, looking a little embarrassed.

Chapter 100

Jane thought to herself. "Kate and Josh haven't made it clear yet. It may be uncomfortable for them to be alone. Besides, even if they get along well, if they did something-

"This was too fast."

Jane smiled and asked Dan to go back first, while she chatted with Kate for a while.

So she accompanied Kate into the room.

Kate heaved a sigh of relief and smiled.

"Why are you so nervous?" Jane teased. "Dr. Green is a gentleman. He can't molest you!"

"What are you talking about?" Kate laughed. "I just don't want to go back to my room alone.

But in order to prevent Dan from holding a grudge against me, I'd better let you go back early!"

"I won't go back tonight." Jane changed into her pajamas, fluffed the quilt, and jumped in.

"Just like in college, okay?"

"Mrs. Murphy, you can't do that! What do you want me to do if your husband comes in and asks for me?"

Jane laughed loudly.

Kate got into bed quickly.

The two girls seemed to have returned to the carefree campus days.

At that time, they lived in the same dormitory. Not only did they have endless classes every day, but they also had endless words to say. They slept in and out of bed and sometimes came back from self-study at night. Jane didn't want to climb the ladder, so she simply stayed in the bed of Kate,

When girls were together, they only talked about boys and their figures.

Just like this moment.

Kate took the opportunity when Jane turned around to "sneak attack" her. Jane screamed, hurriedly curled up.

Kate burst into laughter.

"Dan was

"Kate"

is so great, you're really amazing. You've gone from A to CP

"How about your butt? Is it more elastic after being helped by him?"

The two bickered. In the end, Kate was suppressed by Jane and repeatedly begged for mercy.

Jane let her go and rested her arms on the back of her head to look at the ceiling with a bright smile.

"Kate," she chuckled, "Are you really not going to accept Josh?"

Kate's smile froze in an instant.

Although she sounded heroic, when it came to love, she was a coward.

Even though there was no light in the room, Jane could still feel the change in her mood.

"I think Josh is really good, and I can tell that he likes you very much."

After a while, Kate said in a slightly pale voice in the darkness, "Jane, don't talk about him anymore. okay?"

"Why?" Jane turned over and looked at her. "You two are a good match! Josh really wants to pursue you. Why don't you give him a chance?"

Chapter 100

"L... I don't think I'm suitable for him."

"We'll have to give it a try."

"There's no need to try. It definitely won't work!"

Kate sounded anxious as if she had a secret.

Jane paused for a long time and asked softly, "Kate, is there... something I don't know?"

Then there was a moment of silence. Jane quickly smiled and lay back down. "It doesn't matter. If you don't want to tell me, then don't! It's getting late. We should have a rest quickly!"

"Jane!"

"What?"

Kate bit her lip and said with difficulty, "I loved someone so much before."

Jane was stunned. She wanted to say something but couldn't.

"That person can be regarded as my childhood sweetheart." Kate said, "Oh, we grew up together, and he lived next door to me. Like many boys, he liked to bully me since I was a child, and I hated him at first... But the more it was like this, the closer we became. Until we were eighteen years old, we..."

"What's wrong?"

"We separated. We won't see each other again."

Jane didn't expect such an ending.

She really wanted to ask why.

Why did they separate? Why didn't they meet again?

But she heard Kate cry in the darkness.

When the moonlight came in, she saw Kate shrugging her shoulders. Jane was a little shocked. From the first day they met, she had never seen Kate cry like this.

Could it be that the reason why they separated was because he died?

"Kate..." Jane put her hand on her shoulder and wanted to comfort her.
