The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1341

Chapter 1341

Molly watched Ivy without saying a word. Sometimes, Ivy was ridiculously savvy but other times, she was just plain weird.

Anyone who saw the current state of her brother and mother wouldn't attribute it to her brother's lack of enthusiasm for fighting skills. But Molly thought it was all good.

Seeing things too clearly could be heartbreaking, a lesson she had learned from Ableson the day before.

After they had dinner, fireworks were set to light up the sky.

The fireworks were specially designed by Wayne.

The brilliant explosions in the night sky featured small animals that Ivy liked, followed by mathematical symbols that Cory was fond of.

Seeing the mathematical symbols excited Ivy even more than the animal fireworks. She grabbed Cory's arm, almost jumping with joy, "Cory, look! Those are from your textbooks! Wow, this is amazing."

Cory watched the spectacle.

The blue fireworks were beautiful and mysterious. The mathematical symbols lingered in the sky for a moment before disappearing.

It reminded him of his brief reunion with his dad, followed by their sudden separation.

"Thank you." Cory murmured, so quietly only he could hear. He bowed his head and added, "Dad."

The fireworks continued for about half an hour.

After the last one exploded in the night sky, a picture of a family of four remained the photo from the day we watched the animal fireworks!" Ivy recognized it instantly, her excitement was palpable.

Rosalynn looked up, tears rolling down her cheeks.

Wayne, please come back.

Wherever you are, please come back to me.

Hilaria looked at Rosalynn with sympathy.

She hadn't intended for the fireworks to be set off, but Cory had found out about them and insisted on lighting the fireworks his dad had prepared.

If Wayne were still here, the fireworks would have brought immense joy. But his absence only made their sorrow more intense.

This Christmas, in addition to Cory and Ivy, Molly and Liam were also there.

After that night, Liam had quickly realized that something was wrong with Ivy's family.

The next day, he saw the news about a suspected disappearance of Wayne at sea.

Logically, since the assassin had been caught, he should have left Ivy's family.

But after hesitating for a night, he decided to stay and help Ivy with her homework, so as not to burden her mother with having to drive him around every day. These days, aside from tutoring Ivy, Liam spent most of his time in his room working on his own assignments. He hardly saw Rosalynn.

As midnight approached, Ivy, worn out, leaned against Granny Hilaria, ready to fall asleep.

Liam went back to his room for a moment and returned with a gift card. He quietly walked over to Rosalynn.

My lady, this is for you.”

Rosalynn was surprised. ‘A gift card from you?’”

It’s a tradition from my father’s hometown. It’s a good luck gift card. You’ll have a better new year if you accept it,” Liam said seriously.

Rosalynn smiled gently, accepting the gift card. “That’s double the good luck. I must accept it. Thank you, Liam.”

Chapter 1342

Liam

mumbled something in response, then returned to his previous spot, continuing to watch those boring shows.

Rosalynn stared at the gift card in her hand, feeling a slight relief from her mental burden.

The day after Christmas, news reached Rosalynn that Robert’s parents had boarded a plane to H Country.

In fact, when Robert’s body had just been found, his parents had already contacted people from both families to try to take the body away, but they were unsuccessful.

The next day, a well-known bearish company suddenly announced it was going to short Luminary Enterprises.

The PR Director of Luminary Enterprises started to panic, pulling strings left and right, trying to get a hold of either Rosalynn or Hilaria.

At last, when they saw the beginnings of a massive shorting war, Robert's parents finally agreed to come to H Country, personally take their son's body back, and apologize to the victim's family.

"If they're coming, let them come." Rosalynn responded coldly, "Let them wait a few days."

"Okay" Felix replied, "Mrs. Silverman/there is something else."

Rosalynn looked at him: "Why are you starting to act all hesitating like Ableson?"

Felix coughed lightly.

Since Mike was still in the hospital, Ableson was now taking on the responsibilities of both him and Mike.

He didn't have the experience, so he could only mimic Ableson's methods.

"It's about Ableson. He took a big hit from the President Silverman incident. I think he might want to resign."

Ableson's background was similar to his. They had survived these years under Wayne's protection.

If he left...

"Have him come to see me." Rosalynn said coldly.

Felix froze.

Looking at her expression, she wouldn't be thinking about settling scores with Ableson because of Wayne's loss, would she?

Felix remained silent.

He didn't ask, just obediently went to call Ableson:

When Ablésón saw Rosalynn, he shamefully lowered his head: “Mrs. Silverman... I failed!

“In that situation, it was hard to guard against, I know.” Rosalynn glanced at him, numbly throwing the fish food in her hand into the lake.

The fishes in the lake had become fat due to her frequent feeding, even though they haven't been living here for long.

This was discovered by Wayne, who then took pictures and happily sent them to her.

Ableson's eyes immediately reddened: “I shouldn't have let President Silverman go in..

“What happened, happened, so blaming yourself won't help. What you should be doing now is lifting the spirits of your team, continuing to complete the tasks he had arranged for you, and protecting my son and daughter.”

Rosalynn calmly said, “Next, there will inevitably be chaos within Bane Corporation, and I need you all to suppress it. Do you have that much time to blame yourself?”

Ableson looked up at Rosalynn: “Rest assured, I will continue to complete President Silverman's previous tasks and protect your daughter and son.”

“Shave your beard, don't scare Ivy.”

“Yes!”

Rosalynn continued to feed the fish, not saying anything else.

Ableson clenched his fists, nodded slightly, and turned to leave.

Felix was waiting on the side, seeing Ableson return with red eyes, he thought to himself, trouble now?

“Were you reprimanded?” Felix stepped forward, “Ableson, when Wayne was still here, I admit I did want to push you away, to get you away from Wayne! But now I sincerely ho pe you can stay, that's why I went to Mrs. Silverman. I didn't expect Mrs. Silverman would be petty over this."

"What are you talking about? When did Mrs. Silverman ever be petty to me? She just asked me to do my job..."

Chapter 1343

After hearing this, Felix felt a huge sense of relief and his respect for Rosalynn grew even more.

"Felix, let's not fight over leadership anymore, It doesn't matter who's the boss Right now, we don't even know if President Silverman is alive or dead, and the pressure Mrs. Silverman must be under is unimaginable. We have to stick together, fully support Mrs. Silverman, and do everything we can to help her out!"

"Sure thing!" Felix agreed without hesitation, "She's been so good to my daughter. I'm willing to take risks for her!"

Robert's parents arrived in H City in the evening.

Upon arriving at the hotel, they immediately contacted Rosalynn's team to request a meeting.

But...

"Mrs. Silverman is celebrating Christmas with her family, she doesn't have time, please be patient and wait until after the Christmas holiday."

Robert's parents had always been spoiled and adored by everyone.

They never thought they would be given the cold shoulder when they came to see Rosalynn!

Robert's father, a pompous looking fat man, asked his butler angrily, "Where are the people from the Rosso family? Haven't they arrived yet?"

"It seems they've given up on Annie, and since they're currently copperating with Bane Corporation, the Jared Group hasn't taken any action against them, they don't seem to be in a rush." The Rosso family certainly wasn't in a hurry.

In the murder case, Annie was just a witness. The Rosso family had never been involved.

They had only kidnapped Rosalynn, but then voluntarily let her go.

The killings were all done by Robert's subordinates.

"Damn it!" Robert's father slammed the table in anger, repeating the phrase he'd been saying a lot lately, "It must have been that bitch Annie who told Robert something, that's why all these problems are happening!"

Yes, Robert has always been a good boy. How could he kill so many people, how dare he harm Wayne?!" Robert's mother also expressed her anger.

Despite their younger son being a loner and not close to his parents, he was indeed one of the rare well-behaved kids in the family who didn't cause trouble!

How could he possibly be involved in so many murders, and even drag Wayne down with him!!!

He shouldn't disregard the family's interests!

"All in all, when we meet Rosalynn and Hilaria, we must put all the blame on the Rosso family. It was their plot in the first place, they should bear the consequences!" Robert's father said angrily.

The two families have always been at odds, and now they're both involved in this big mess.

The Magnus family's idea was simple, if they couldn't get out, then let the Rosso family go down with them!!

The next day, Paige and Baillie rushed back.

Baillie's mom had prepared lots of gifts for Cory and Ivy, including food, toys, and lots of gift cards.

If it wasn't for the fact that there were too many relatives coming to their house, she would have liked to go as well.

The atmosphere at Moonlit Lake was better than Paige had expected.

The sun was shining brightly today, Cory was feeding the fish by the lake with Rosalynn.

Ivy was diligently practicing martial arts with Molly and the dog.

Hilaria was busy in the vegetable garden with Calvin.

It seemed that the only one who seemed anxious was Jaime.

"Baillie." Jaime called out to Baillie a bit despondently.

After what happened with Wayne, he began to understand that as long as Baillie was good to Paige, that was the best thing for them.

He'd better not end up like Wayne, who just disappeared out of nowhere.

He even saw with his own eyes how Rosalynn almost died with Wayne.

Baillie gave Jaime a gift card: "Merry Christmas."

Jaime took it politely, responding. Thanks, mate."

Chapter 1344

"Why the long face today?" Paige poked Jaime's face, "Cheer up, if you're like this, Rosalynn will feel even worse."

Jaime looked towards the lake, "If she's sad, maybe I won't be. She's been acting too normal these past few days, it's freaking me out..."

"Why the freak out? Rosalynn is one tough cookie!" Paige said confidently

Over the years, Paige had never seen Rosalynn fall apart.

She hadn't before, and she wouldn't now!

Jaime glanced at Paige, whispering, "Do you know what would've happened if Felix hadn't shown up in the nick of time?"

Paige froze, feeling a sudden panic, "What would've happened?"

"Let's not rehash the past, Baillie cut off their conversation, but Paige wasn't ready to drop it."

"What did you see?" Paige lowered her voice, "Did Rosalynn want to die with Wayne?"

Paige startled herself with that question, quickly looking around, afraid the kids or Hilaria might hear.

Jaime didn't answer, his silence seemed like a confirmation, then he said, "Can you blame me for being anxious? For being scared?"

Life is so fragile, it's too easy to end it all.

Sitting wrists, overdosing, falling from heights, drowning...

These things can happen in a split second.

"I get it now." Paige's heart started to race.

All these days, she hadn't asked Rosalynn what had happened that day.

How she'd escaped, and why Wayne hadn't.

But now, she had her answers.

Wayne hadn't made it out because he was incapacitated... If Felix hadn't arrived just in time, Rosalynn would've left this world with Wayne... Paige turned her head to look at Rosalynn, who was feeding the fish with her son.

How deep was the lake?

Her heart pounded as she quickly ran over.

The fish were startled by the hurried footsteps and quickly swam away.

"Hey, I told you guys to spend time with your parents, I'm fine here," Rosalynn said helplessly as she looked at Paige.

"I just wanted to check on Cory!"

Paige tried to calm herself down.

She crouched down and pecked Cory on the cheek.

Cory looked bemused, wiping his cheek gently, "Merry Christmas."

"Same to you!" Paige grinned.

But her gaze involuntarily fell on Rosalynn.

She couldn't imagine what it would be like if Rosalynn had indeed ended her life with Wayne.

What would happen to Hilaria? To Cory and Ivy? To her and Jaime?

Thinking about it, Paige felt a sharp pain in her stomach, she couldn't hold it in and turned her head to retch.

Chapter 1345

Paige, what's up? You feeling sick?" Cory asked straight away.

Paige waved him off, still feeling a bit queasy!

Ever since she was a kid, she'd get an upset stomach whenever she was nervous.

"I'm okay, probably just ate too much greasy food recently." Paige laughed it off to Cory.
"Don't worry, honey"

Cory nodded, "I'll get you some water"

"I'm fine, really" Paige waved him off again.

Rosalynn, seeing how uncomfortable Paige was, couldn't help but worry.

"Paige, did you get your period last month?" Rosalynn inquired.

Paige always had bad cramps during her period, and she would always vent to Rosalynn.

But Rosalynn remembered. Paige's period last month... or more accurately a week ago, didn't come to her.

Paige was taken aback, then she shook her head in confusion.

"Could you be pregnant?" Rosalynn blurted out.

Cory, who usually wasn't very expressive, had his eyes light up instantly.

Paige instinctively looked back at Baillie, who was chatting with Jaime, then looked back at Rosalynn, "No way..."

Without saying much, Rosalynn took out her phone and ordered a few different brands of pregnancy tests, "We'll know once you have a test." Cory's gaze fell on Paige's stomach.

Ivy had always been looking forward to when Paige would have a kid, so that she could have another sibling, could the sibling actually be on the way? Cory retracted his gaze, starting to think about what kind of gift to prepare for the impending baby.

Baillie was chatting with Jaime, noticing Paige and Rosalynn sneak off into the house.

"What are they up to?" Jaime looked on, his face full of confusion, "They look so secretive!"

Not long after a servant brought back the things Rosalynn ordered and delivered them to her room.

"Go on!"

Rosalynn patted Paige's shoulder, Paige, a bit disoriented, took the bag and went into the bathroom.

Soon after, Paige came out looking puzzled.

“How did it go?” Rosalynn asked anxiously.

“All the tests, two lines each, I’m really pregnant...” This news completely caught Paige and Baillie off guard.

She and Baillie always took precautions.

Except occasionally...

Well...

Maybe they were a little reckless.

And she ended up pregnant??

Rosalynn burst into laughter, “Don’t be so shocked, I can’t imagine how cute your child with Baillie would be!”

“Don’t say that!!” Paige grumbled, “What if I end up liking my child more and not liking Ivy as much?”

“What are you talking about?” Rosalynn gave her a look, “Of course you’re going to take care of your own child more! Ivy will understand! She’s been wanting a sibling for ages! You know that!”

That’s true.

Baillie told her, Ivy once had a serious talk with him.

“Can I really be a good mom?” Paige’s biggest worry was still this.

People often say, you tend to parent the way you were parented.

She didn’t want to be a mother like Peyton....

“Of course you can,” Rosalynn said gently.

Paige’s eyes welled up, and she hugged Rosalynn tightly.

“Dear, you have to help me...”

“Of course, your child is my child too,” Rosalynn spoke softly.

Paige nodded.
