

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1581

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1581

Chapter 1581

Ivy was on the phone, cooing sweetly, “Mom, I miss you so much today!”

Wayne just put it on speaker.

Rosalynn was laughing sweetly on the other end, “Then baby, can you hold on a bit longer? Mommy will be home soon!”

“Okay!” Ivy agreed immediately, then handed the phone back to Wayne, “You guys keep chatting!”

Wayne just smiled helplessly.

He turned off the speaker.

Then he heard Rosalynn asking, “What’s wrong with Ivy today? Was she bullied at school?”

Wayne was amazed at Rosalynn’s keen perception of Ivy’s mood,

To him, Ivy had just been acting cute.

“I’ll tell you when I get home. Wayne said softly.

Rosalynn agreed, “I’m already at the garage, see you at home in a bit.”

“Okay”

Rosalynn hung up the phone.

“Did something happen to Ivy at school?’ Lola asked concernedly as soon as Rosalynn hung up.

Rosalynn thought about it, shook her head, “Shouldn’t be anything serious, otherwise her dad wouldn’t be so calm, don’t worry!”

“That’s good.” Cola felt relieved.

“Think about the thing I told you. Jered Ventures may not be big now, but it has some reputation in the industry. You’d have more room for development if you become the head of Jered Ventures than being my assistant.” Rosalynn said seriously before getting on her car.

Lola bit her lip, “I’ll consider it.”

She wasn’t short of money. She just liked working with Rosalynn.

Rosalynn patted her shoulder, then got on the car.

Wayne and the kids got home a bit earlier than Rosalynn.

He didn’t rush home, but chatted with the kids outside the garage, waiting for Rosalynn’s return.

Not long after, Rosalynn’s car drove into the garage.

The kids waved excitedly at the car.

Once the car stopped, as soon as Rosalynn got out of the car, Ivy couldn’t wait to run into her arms.

Rosalynn struggled a bit to hold her, Ivy held her neck tight, nuzzled her face, and kept saying how much she missed her

After a while.

Ivy realized her weight was too much for her mom, so she quickly jumped down, took Rosalynn’s hand and headed for the elevator

Rosalynn looked back at Wayne and Cory, helpless, she blew them a kiss.

Wayne and Cory both laughed.

After dinner, Ivy reluctantly went to do her homework.

Wayne finally had time to talk to Rosalynn about the day's events.

Rosalynn was removing her makeup

She took off her pearl earrings and threw them on the table

"What a vicious couple! She paused, then looked at Wayne, "Did you really send them to the mental hospital?"

Wayne got up, brought over the document Curtis had signed

"What's this, an admission notice? Why is it so thick? Rosalynn took it, it felt heavy

Its not just an admission notice, there's also a divorce agreement inside" Wayne said nonchalantly, I didn't want to interfere, but Ivy cares a lot about her classmates. she was worried about them on the way home"

Rosalynn didn't respond

Of course she understood Ivy's feelings

She could deal with adults facing difficulties, but couldn't bear to see children suffer

She read through the divorce agreement in silence, there wasn't much in it band, and the house bought by t

ould belong to the child

The main point was that the debts during the marriage would be taken by the "Having a house worth a lot in the market is indeed a safety net for the child Rosalynn pored her lips looked at Wayne. "But from what you said about the child's mother. I don't think she's very sensible. Even if the husband signs if she doesn't the agreement won't take effect"

1415

Wayne ain't exactly a softie.

Chapter 1582

Even now, with his memory gone, he still ain't.

If Ivy didn't give a damn about Alison, this whole mess would have been over once he checked Pauline into the mental hospital.

He mulled it over, then spilled the beans about Curtis having a mistress to Rosalynn.

Rosalynn listened.

Even though Wayne just gave her the gist, she could sort of get a feel of the extent of Pauline's obsession.

"Pauline might know her husband is seeing another woman, Rosalynn sighed.

Wayne nodded, "Let's pretend she doesn't. If she still insists after we tell her everything, at least we tried our best for Ivy" "Alright."

Rosalynn nodded, then affectionately patted Wayne's cheek.

"If Ivy knew everything her dad did for her, she'd be over the moon."

Wayne gently leaned his cheek into Rosalynn's palm, vy was so sharp dealing with Pauline's baseless accusations today, Hilaria and I were surprised That's all thanks to you. You've done way more for Ivy and Cory than I ever did, and it's much more important."

Rosalynn tilted her head at Wayne, "Why do I get the feeling you've got something on your mind?"

Wayne took a moment.

Today, everyone had their eyes glued to Hilaria slapping Pauline.

Their attention was all on Hilaria.

Only Wayne was feeling uneasy about Pauline's words.

She said... stand-in lover.

"It's nothing, I'm just a bit tired," Wayne said before opening his arms for hug.

Rosalynn patted his back and chuckled, "Didn't you just say you wanted to take a walk? If you're tired, should we skip it?"

"We're still going," Wayne said without hesitation.

He loved taking walks with Rosalynn.

Other than right before bed, that was when he felt most relaxed.

"Can we cuddle for five more minutes?" Rosalynn asked.

Wayne nodded, then hugged her a bit tighter.

After hearing bits and pieces from Quentin and Pauline, he realized he couldn't just sit around waiting for his memory to come back.

He needed to dig up what exactly happened between him and Rosalynn from some other source.

Before they went for a walk, Rosalynn checked on Ivy.

As she reached the door, she overheard Ivy on the phone.

"Sir, is Alison back home? What did you have for dinner? Okay, if my mom agrees, I'll come over for dinner. Sir, I want to ask you, did Alison's mom abandon her?"

The person on the other end said something, and Ivy was silent for a while.

Her voice dropped, "Sir, if I had agreed to Alison's mom from the start, would none of this have happened?"

After a while, Ivy's tone lightened, "Don't worry, Sir, our choir won't mess up" "Okay, you too, have a good night"

After confirming Alison's situation, Ivy felt at ease.

Just then, Rosalynn softly knocked on Ivy's door

"Honey, can come in?"

Ivy immediately ran to the door, grinning from ear to ear

Remembering Ivy's somber questions to the principal, Rosalynn felt a pang in her heart

Chapter 1583

"Who were you calling just now?" She cupped Ivy's face in her hands and gave it a gentle rub.

Ivy mulled it over.

She didn't hide it from her mom: "I was calling my principal. One of my classmates didn't show up this afternoon, so I wanted to check in."

"Alison? Rosalynn held Ivy's hand as they walked into the room.

Ivy was taken aback: "Did dad tell you what happened today?"

"Yeah." Rosalynn nodded, "Dad was worried you might be upset, but he's not the best at comforting people, so he called in mom."

Ivy leaned her head on Rosalynn's arm.

She let out a long sigh: "I must be the luckiest kid in the world. Alison's mom is so scary, she was crying and making a scene, and even slapped Alison in front of everyone."

Ivy paused: "The school board members all know how important self-esteem is for kids. They wouldn't let anyone know who's on special support. But Alison's mom just blurted it out in front of everyone..."

"You want to help Alison, don't you?" Rosalynn asked gently.

Ivy nodded softly.

"Dad and I will do our best, but... honey, everyone has their own destiny. We can only do so much, and the result might not be satisfactory. Don't blame yourself, okay?" Rosalynn lightly patted her cheek.

"Got it!" Ivy nodded vigorously.

"Good girl!" Rosalynn gave her a hug, "Go take a bath."

"Are you going for a walk with dad?" Ivy asked.

"Yeah-Rosalynn nodded with a smile, "Dad wants to check on your pet goldfish, and then play some frisbee with Max."

"Okay!"

After leaving Ivy's room, Rosalynn saw Wayne waiting in the small living room.

The moon was lovely that night.

The goldfish in the pond were very friendly.

Whenever someone approached, they would wag their tails and swim over

Rosalynn squinted at them, then told

Wayne the names Ivy had given them.

Max was lying by the pond. They didn't notice his movement, and the next second his black nose was in the water, blowing bubbles.

Then he would bark at Wayne and Rosalynn a couple of times, putting on an "I'm a good dog, praise me" face.

"As long as you don't jump in, you're a good dog!" Rosalynn patted Max's head.

"Has he ever jumped in?"

"When we first put the goldfish in, he'd jump in every day. No matter how much we scolded him, he wouldn't listen, Rosalynn said with a smile "One day Ivy had just finished giving him a bath, and he turned around and jumped into the pond, which made Ivy cry. After that, he never jumped in again"

"Knowing to care for his master, he's a good dog. Wayne said, taking a dog treat out of his pocket and throwing one to Max.

Max happily started to eat.

Some crumbs fell to the ground, and he would push them into the pond with his paw

The goldfish seemed to be used to this, and they immediately came to eat the crumbs.

Max watched, his tail wagging in joy

After a while, Wayne's phone started ringing

Rosalynn turned to look at him.

It's from Pauline's end" Wayne said

Rosalynn took the phone and picked up

"Mr. Silverman, we've followed your instructions and let Pauline personally see her husband celebrating with another woman in an expensive restaurant The voice on the other end of the phone belonged to the bodyguard who was responsible for watching Pauline during the day

"What happened then?" Wayne asked

The bodyguard seemed to grit his teeth "This woman's behavior is just beyond understanding and helping"

