

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1263

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover

Chapter 1263 The Two Brothers Strike

Surprisingly, they found lobsters all over the whole shore the next day. It was such an overwhelming scene when the creature were all rushing ashore abruptly. Subsequently, the fishermen nearby were on top of the world and huddled over to collect them. Besides, he and his two siblings ended up having lobster meals for quite a few days. Not to mention, they had not finished eating the lobsters yet.

Days ago, a megalodon emerged when Xayden was swimming in the sea, scaring him to death. Thus, Ian was almost sure as h*ll that he intended to avenge the megalodon by wiping off its species.

Matteo could not utter any words as he had the same stance as Ian.

After wiping off the cold sweat from their foreheads, the two brothers went down to the living room.

Little did they realize that Xayden, whom they defined as a horrendous and vengeful weirdo, had come up with the analysis of their mother's sectioned cells. "D*mn it! That old man's nuclear waves are getting more destructive. It even resembles a plague now!"

"A plague?" Sasha turned pale hearing the phrase.

"Why did you say so? Have you discovered anything?" she asked anxiously.

00:00/00:00

Xayden responded, "Yeah, it seems your body cells did not shrivel. Something seemed to have destroyed the membrane cells, then slowly devoured the whole cell. Doesn't this sound like a virus invasion?"

"Radiation from the nuclear weapon is supposed to cause direct destruction in a short span. It will never go through this process slowly. You can refer to a few nuclear explosions in world history," he explained further while getting down from the lab table to search for a book from the shelf.

In an instant, Sasha was panic-stricken. I can't believe that it resembles a plague! It was just an explosive strapped onto my body, wasn't it? How on earth did it turn into such a horrifying thing?

"I'm sure there's an expert alongside him. Mrs. Hayes, no matter what, you must get Mr. Hayes to dig him up as soon as possible. If not, I fear that the lunatic will stir up troubles with his crazy inventions again," Xayden reminded Sasha over the phone.

Undoubtedly, a genius with incredible expertise in the field like him would not easily describe the opponent's creations as something horrendous.

Even so, Sasha's heart sank when he described the person as a lunatic. It implied that even Xayden was feeling threatened in a way. Her face fell as she hung up. She could not resist having a premonition that something terrible was going to occur.

Coincidentally, Sabrina pushed open the door and was startled by the utter grimness on her face. "What's the matter? Even Xayden can't think of any way to get it resolved?" she asked with great concern.

Sasha tried to console her by explaining in brief, "No, he actually reminded me about something else. According to him, the condition seems to be unusual and resembles a plague. Thus, he advised me to get Sebastian to dig up the person who is inventing the nuclear weapon alongside Eddie."

Sabrina's eyes widened in disbelief. Dig up the man alongside that despicable old man? How are we supposed to do that when we don't have any clue about his whereabouts! What's more, he will surely keep his lips buttoned about the person. What can we do?

Both Sasha and Sabrina felt dejected as another wave of helplessness swept over them.

At the same time, Ian clenched his fists as he eavesdropped on Xayden's conversation with Sasha. Oh no! Something has happened to Mommy! It's because of that wicked man again!

He was boiling with anger and could barely wait to be by Sasha's side. Poor Mommy! How I wish I could protect her and capture that wicked man to avenge her!

Mommy is still pregnant with our baby brother or sister, yet that wicked man had the heart to inflict harm on her! Ian shuddered in exasperation with utterly murderous intent in his eyes.

Recalling how Xayden reminded Sasha to dig up the man alongside Eddie, he went back to his room right away and flipped open his laptop, which Sebastian exclusively bought and installed the advanced apps for him.

Without hesitation, he hacked into Xayden's computer to obtain a copy of his newly analyzed information and data obtained from the leftover of the explosive.

Next, he accumulated all the information and uploaded a copy to the dark web.

The dark web was defined as internet sites hidden under usual websites. One could access anything inaccessible from the usual websites there, including the illegal contents. Not to mention, top hacking skills were the key to managing the dark webs.

He had just posted an announcement on the bounty for the invention of nuclear weapons, hoping to lure the culprit who invented the explosive. Soon after, Matteo entered his room.

Sensing Ian was occupied with something, Matteo sat next to him and asked inquisitively, "Ian, what are you doing?"

It never crossed his mind that Ian would have posted a notice with bounty to an unknown website which he had never seen before. To his astonishment, the offered amount was even more than ten million!

"Ian, what is this for?" Matteo asked quizzically.

"Matt, listen carefully to me. Daddy and Mommy are in hot waters again. In fact, they could be in a life-and-death situation. Therefore, we must come to their rescue by all means." Ian had never sounded as stern as how he was at the moment.

In an instant, Matteo straightened his back and responded solemnly, "All right. What do you want me to do?"

"I overheard Xayden telling Mommy on the phone that there was only one way for them to defeat that despicable old man. According to him, Daddy must dig up and get rid of the guy who created the nuclear weapon. Hence, I have just hacked into his computer and posted the related data obtained to this dark web," Ian explained patiently.

"That's why you posted the notice on the bounty to dig up the person?" A quick-witted Matteo knew at once what was playing on Ian's mind.

Ian nodded at him admiringly. "Yeah, typical outlaws like them must have assisted that despicable old man in committing crimes. Thus, I believe it's just a matter of time before we can detect anything."

“Oh! I get what you mean now!” Matteo also took out his laptop and sat facing Ian.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1264

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1264

Matteo’s expertise in the field was as impressive as Ian’s. Soon, he accessed the dark web as well with his own laptop. Miraculously, both laptops accessing it simultaneously had the same domain name displayed.

At the moment, both Ian and Matteo’s eyes were glued to the screens of their laptops.

As expected, someone fell into Ian’s trap of the attractive bounty and started getting in touch with them by sending them a message.

“Matt, try to trace his IP address!” Ian instructed Matteo to trace the person’s exact location while he figured out how to reply to the message.

Anonymous: Hi, nice to hear from you. Are you looking for someone inventing nuclear weapons?

The person who texted them sounded like a veteran in the field. Stifling the simmering excitement within himself, Ian only replied to his message after pondering for quite a while.

Black: Yeah! Do you know how to create nuclear weapons? I don’t mind about the price. As long as your invention meets our requirements, we can enter into a long-term collaboration with each other.

00:00/00:00

Anonymous: Yes, I have expertise in this. When do you need that?

Ian was astounded by the person’s speedy reply. This person seems to know well about this explosive!

He looked at Matteo, only to find that his brother had managed to trace the person’s IP address.

"It's an IP address in Moranta. After double-checking, I find out it's at the most active trade center for the black market. Should we inform Daddy about this finding?" Matteo asked for Ian's opinion.

Even so, Ian shook his head. "Since Daddy is busy at the moment, don't let him know about this for the time being. Let's proceed with our investigation and gather more evidence first."

"Then what are we supposed to do now?" Matteo asked helplessly.

"Let's get help from Mr. Frost. It seems he has been recuperating after his previous injury. I guess he has started to get bored and keeps bothering Xayden. Hence, I feel we can assign him this task." Ian brought up his idea.

Undoubtedly, Ian was the one who resembled Sebastian the most in terms of his observance and intelligence.

In the meantime, Karl was basking in the sun in SteelFort idly. Watching paint dry, he was thinking of whether he should kill time by teasing Xayden as usual. His eyes lit up when he received the boys' message on the culprit who invented the nuclear weapon.

"My goodness! Is this true?" When the chat history and the person's current location came into view, he sprang up from the chair in awe.

The other two team members accompanying him were flabbergasted.

"Mr. Frost, what's the matter? Did you receive any great news from Mr. Hayes?" one of the team members asked out of curiosity.

"Mr. Ian and Mr. Matteo had just sent me a message. My goodness! Both of them are awesome! They managed to dig up the person who created nuclear weapon alongside Eddie Limmer!" Karl yelled out incoherently.

The two team members were over the moon and huddled over right away.

They never doubted Ian and Matteo's intelligence, but it was incredible that both of them could help under such circumstances. In short, they were impressed by the two boys' efficiency and capability.

Karl could barely wait to set off to Moranta at once.

Nevertheless, both the team members tried to talk him out of leaving SteelFort at once. "Mr. Frost, you can't leave now. Mr. Hayes instructed us not to let you go out. You haven't fully recovered."

“That’s bullsh*t! Don’t ever get on my nerves! I’m fit as a fiddle now. Let me tell you, Mr. Ian and Mr. Matteo will not look for me if they can get anyone else to help them. Apart from that, we haven’t gotten any news from Mr. Hayes till now. If they can think of anyone else who can help them, don’t you think that both of them will notify their daddy first instead of seeking my help, huh?” Karl lashed out at them and explained analytically.

Both of them zipped their mouths at once and had to agree with Karl. Undeniably, it was a special mission that could only be assigned to a trustworthy person.

Eventually, Karl left SteelFort and headed for Moranta right away with some of the most well-trained team members.

Once Ian was notified about that, he linked his laptop with Karl’s smartphone.

Later, he gave Karl a call to inform him about it. “Mr. Frost, you don’t have to worry. I have linked all the surveillance cameras at that trade center of the black market to your smartphone. Hence, you will be able to trace anything amiss at any time.”

After that, Karl clicked open his smartphone as he made his way toward the airport.

Right that instant, he could not resist saluting both Ian and Matteo. Good gracious! They are both geniuses!

On the other hand, Sasha was also trying to dig up the person by leaving no stones unturned. Even so, she was not solely thinking of stopping him from inventing the destructive weapon.

More importantly, she needed to look for him to save her life.

“You are having a nosebleed!” Sabrina yelled out abruptly when she was having breakfast together with Sasha. Her heart skipped a beat as blood flowed out from Sasha’s nose all of a sudden.

Sasha wiped it off immediately with a tissue and consoled her, “Don’t worry. It is a common symptom of the early stage. After all, there is still sufficient time for me to find a way out.”

Sabrina’s heart ached at the sight of her endurance. She could scarcely hold herself back from revealing everything to Sebastian, telling him to find ways in order to save his dying wife.

Tamping down her agitation, she refrained from doing so, recalling how Sasha had emphasized earlier that they were not supposed to distract Sebastian. Feeling sympathized with Sasha, she could only fulfill her requirements by all means.

“Sab, how about we go down to the cave again to have a look?” Sasha asked Sabrina eagerly.

“Huh?” Sabrina was dumbfounded. So she is still insisting on going down into the cave! Wasn’t it ruined after the destructive explosion?

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1265

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1265

Sabrina passed her child for Shin to look after and left with Sasha without a word.

As expected, when they arrived at the underground cave, everything was destroyed.

Hence, the duo started searching the underground cave.

Sabrina commented, “There’s nothing here. A cunning person like Eddie will not leave any clues behind.”

Having been in this together with Sasha for some time now, she was able to deduce some logic from the situation.

Sasha frowned.

Sabrina was right. However, as smart as Eddie could be, there must be some clues that he left behind inadvertently.

00:00/00:00

Sasha stood there and tried to solve the mystery. Suddenly, she thought of the ice cellar. “Right, let’s take a look in the ice cellar.”

Ten minutes later, they showed up at the ice cellar.

Fortunately, the ice cellar was located underground. The last explosion did not shatter the place as it was sheltered from the impact.

Sasha held on to torchlight and walked in the entrance. She swiftly located the ice cellar that she and Edmund previously discovered.

Sabrina followed her from the back, shivering at the sight of the scene. "The corpse lying there is really Louis?"

Sasha answered while searching the place. "Yes. This is where we found his secret. Since he hid his brother's corpse here, there must be something else."

Sabrina also helped her to look around.

After searching high and low, Sasha finally discovered something. "It appears to be some notebook scraps that were not destroyed completely."

Sabrina shined the torchlight at the scrap papers and confirmed Sasha's findings.

Indeed, it was some scrap pages of a burnt notebook.

However, Sasha was confused as the handwriting did not belong to Eddie. She knew that for a fact because she had seen his notebook before.

Sasha collected all the scrap pages and started piecing them together. "The North Sea, it appears to say so."

"Yes, there's even a map. Check it out." Sabrina pointed to the part that she formed.

A few minutes later, they managed to form a comprehensible picture.

Sasha uttered, "It is regarding the strategy for the North Sea War."

Sabrina nodded. "Right!"

Next, she took up a piece of scrap paper which appeared to be some sort of a map, marked with a red dot.

She recalled the lessons in history and asked, "The North Sea War is a famous piece of history. If it weren't for the war, the new government would not be formed. And this war was led by the famous leader, Louis Limmer. Does the handwriting belong to him?"

Sasha shook his hand, "Of course not. Eddie mentioned before that he was the strategist behind Louis. If indeed the war was led by Louis, Eddie would be the person writing off the notebook."

"You are right," Sabrina recalled the conversation.

If it does not belong to Louis, who else can it be?

"Hold on. Check this out, what do you think this is?" Sasha suddenly noticed something on the scrap pages.

Sabrina immediately looked towards it.

She noticed a signature at the end of the page. Some people had such a habit of putting their name down as a signature. That was likely the case.

They saw the word 'dith'.

Judith?

Can it be... Judith?

The duo widened their eyes in shock and looked at each other.

Sabrina exclaimed, "This belongs to your grandmother?"

Sasha did not reply.

At that moment, the discovery stirred up rippling emotions within her.

If the notebook belongs to my grandmother, does that mean that she is the leader of the North Sea War?

Why is her notebook here? Why is it burnt?

Besides, what does the red dot mean?

Overwhelmed, Sasha stared mindlessly at the scrap pages. She then turned away and started frantically searching the ice cellar again.

Sabrina quickly assisted her.

Finally, to their pleasant surprise, they found some writing on the singlet worn by Louis.

'Dear descendants, when you discover this letter, I believe I have passed on for a long time. As a failed leader, I am extremely regretful for causing the upheaval in the country. I am ashamed and have disappointed all my comrades. I, Louis Limmer, am guilty!'

These words were written on the front of the singlet.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1266

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1266

A well-celebrated hero in history and the founding father of the country, publicly admitted his guilt after death!

Sasha's heart skipped a beat with a cascading surge of uneasiness.

'Firstly, the North Sea War is planned by Judith, not me. Secondly, Judith's sacrifice is not an accident. Her death is carefully orchestrated and she died in the North Sea. Thirdly, the murderer is my brother, Eddie. Fourthly, if I lose in this war, to the person who finds my body, please visit the Golden Heights. Eddie can be found there!'

Every sentence and letter scripted on the singlet was groundbreaking news.

No one would have thought that the founding father of a country would need to resort to such methods to prosecute his brother!

He must have ran out of options then.

Comparatively, the subsequent messages at the back of the singlet were a brief summary of Eddie's crime. The cause and explanation were omitted.

00:00/00:00

Evidently, his time to put the message in writing was short.

Sasha trembled violently.

She had never thought that her grandmother, a hero that sacrificed everything for the country, was murdered in cold blood by a nasty person like Eddie.

"Eddie, I will chop you into pieces!" Sasha screamed.

Tears started streaming down her cheeks. She held on to the singlet tightly, her fists clenched together and her veins bulging with force.

Sarbina was similarly infuriated.

Two hours later, the duo finally brought the singlet and the scrap papers back to the temple. Without any hesitation, Sasha informed Sebastian immediately.

It was the first time that she took the initiative to contact him since she came to the temple.

In the evening, a black SUV arrived.

Sasha and Sabrina were waiting at the entrance. Upon seeing the car, she touched her slightly bulging belly.

Nervousness loomed large.

Sabrina narrowed her eyes at the sight of her bulging belly.

Screech!

Before Sabrina had a chance to speak, the car went to a halt right in front of them.

“Why are the two of you standing here? It’s windy outside!” The men that exited the car worriedly rushed towards them.

Naturally, they were concerned about them. One was pregnant, while the other was carrying a child. Both were standing in wait in the chilly breeze.

“Daddy...” The loving family of three reunited.

The little child who had just learned to pronounce the word ‘daddy’, cheered in excitement at the sight of Devin.

Sabrina also embraced him affectionately.

Very quickly, the family of three headed in.

Sasha was also hugged by her partner. Just as Sebastian wanted to feel the baby bump, she stopped him in his tracks.

“Not now, the baby is not fully formed yet. If you were to touch him, he will not behave,” replied Sasha. Although feeling devastated, she had to act as if nothing happened.

Fortunately, Sebastian was occupied and distracted.

Besides, the constant traveling took a toll on him.

This time, he was not suspicious.

When they entered the temple, Shin was already waiting for them. Almost immediately, he passed the singlet and the scrap pages to them.

"I did not notice these previously. The place which stored Louis' corpse was a prohibited zone," Shin explained in brevity the reason for the blunder.

However, Sebastian gazed at him before carefully analyzing the items.

It's a prohibited zone for a reason. I'm not surprised that he could not enter the place! If he could, that will be mind-blowing!

However, even without the recent discovery, Shin had earlier determined that the mastermind behind the North Sea War was Judith, but not Eddie. Evidently, he was extremely intelligent.

Sebastian uttered, "If this is the case, we can conclude that Louis' death was not due to natural causes."

"I agree!" Devin replied while scrutinizing the scrap pages.

He then nodded in agreement.

Sabrina said, "What does the message mean? Is there a secret in Golden Heights?"

Sasha was speechless.

Devin kept quiet as well.

Even Sebastian could not figure out the answer.

He had previously searched the Golden Heights when the arrest warrant was issued against Eddie. As Eddie's previous place of residence, there was no way it would be left unchecked.

However, there was nothing peculiar there at that time.

Sabrina continued to ask, "Perhaps we missed out on something at that time?"

“No, I think he does not mean it literally. It’s not that we have to search the Golden Heights again, but we must look into the bloodline of the Limmer family.” Suddenly, Shin who kept quiet all the while uttered something enlightening.

Bloodline of the Limmer family?

The four of them looked towards him.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1267

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1267

The bloodline must mean the descendants of the Limmer family.

Sebastian stayed over in the Aquene Temple that night. “Darling, when are you coming home?”

He lay exhaustedly on the bed. Upon hearing the sound of running water, he looked towards Sasha and popped the question.

Sasha was cleaning the towel when that question was asked. She curled her fingers in frustration.

She wished she could go back home too.

However, it was not the right time.

She twisted the towel dry and brought him a bowl of soup. “I still want to stay here for a while. Aren’t you always out? If you’re not around at home, it’s pointless for me to come back. It’s better if I stay here to conduct some research on that old b*stard.”

00:00/00:00

She ended up acting coquettishly to avoid going back.

Apparently, it worked like magic on Sebastian. Gazing at her wife, he abruptly held out his hands in an attempt to embrace her.

“Ahhh!” Sasha avoided him right away. “What are you doing? I’m holding a bowl of soup!”

"Hey..." Sebastian helped her put away the bowl of soup.

"I only want you now. It's been four months..." He mischievously looked at her while his hands inched closer to her body.

Indeed, it was a very long time. Ever since she was pregnant, they had not been intimate. Even when they slept together, sex was off-limits.

Sebastian felt an irresistible urge to tear off her clothes and get on top of her.

However, overwhelming dizziness struck him out of the blue and his strength seeped away.

"Are you okay?" Sasha worriedly asked.

"I'm alright." Sebastian shook his head and shrugged off the feeling.

After regaining his senses, he looked at Sasha again.

Perhaps he was simply too exhausted.

He thought to himself.

However, when he tried to embrace her again, he lost the energy and strength to sustain the enthusiasm.

Is it because of my recent visit to the Nuclear Submarine?

Will it affect the child?

The alarming thoughts flashed by his mind.

"Sebby?" Sasha asked again.

"Don't worry about it. I think I'm just too tired. Let's rest." He lay back down after consoling her.

Sasha heaved a sigh of relief.

After having the bowl of soup, the couple lay down on the bed together.

Shortly after, Sebastian fell into a deep sleep. After realizing that, Sasha opened her eyes and stared at the dark.

She then slowly hugged him from the side.

"I'm sorry, Sebby," she whispered in his ears.

Her fingers started massaging his neck.

"Mmhm..." Sebastian who was deep asleep let out a soft grunt at the disturbance.

Sasha pressed her face against him and reduced the force of her delicate fingers.

She massaged him in a gentle manner. "Darling, don't worry about it. Everything will become better."

The next day.

Sebastian and Devin left early in the morning.

Sabrina anxiously rushed towards Sasha to check on her. After knowing that she was not noticed by anyone, Sabrina felt relieved.

She muttered, "Not sure what we can find in the Golden Heights."

Sasha frowned at the thought.

However, as she stared at the fleeting car from the top of the mountain, Sasha was surprisingly calm. The boulder of stress that previously consumed them felt lifted.

She finally found a glimmer of hope.

Two hours later, at the Golden Heights.

Sebastian stepped into the old structure with Devin following closely behind.

They were extremely cautious, knowing that Eddie was a cunning and ruthless person and god knows if he had set up any traps there.

Devin remarked, "There's nothing here. What does Uncle Shin mean by the bloodline of the Limmer family?"

As they couldn't find anything, Devin started to feel irritated.

They dropped everything in the Naval Force and came all the way here. If it turned out to be a futile exercise, that would be devastating.

It must be borne in mind that the matters in the Naval Force require undivided attention.

“It should mean the descendants of the Limmer family. Just focus on the search of their family records,” replied Sebastian calmly.

Family records?

Devin was stunned.

At this moment, Devin came to a sudden realization that the family records were indeed missing from their sight.

Hence, he started looking again.