

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1366

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover
Chapter 1366 He Feels Sinful

After bathing, Ichika walked out dressed in the large shirt that had Solomon's scent on it. She soon realized that he was typing away on his laptop seriously.

She felt disappointed when she saw that. However, she immediately rushed to him and called out to him sweetly, "I'm done washing up, darling."

Solomon raised his head.

Her smooth and fair skin could vaguely be seen through that large shirt. Her dark hair cascaded down her slender neck, giving her a uniquely feminine beauty.

Naturally, her feminine beauty was not solely because of that.

The other reason was that her figure was extremely curvaceous.

Solomon did not expect that Ichika, who usually loved to wear lacey pink clothes, had such a sexy figure when wearing that thin shirt.

Her curves were glaringly obvious beneath the fabric.

Even her breasts are...

A grim look flashed across Solomon's eyes as he gulped awkwardly.

"You can sleep first. I'm still working." Averting his gaze instantly, he stared at his laptop again.

"Huh?"

Standing there, Ichika widened her eyes when she heard that.

It was obvious that she was not doing it on purpose.

An innocent girl like her would not have such dirty thoughts. She was merely oblivious to how alluring she was now.

"I see... All right, then."

She pouted indignantly. Her cheeks flushed as a look of disappointment crossed her face. Then, she turned around and walked toward the bed.

Solomon glanced at her back.

He held his breath again.

Her beautiful legs were fair and slender. Underneath that oversized shirt, she seemed as innocent as a child.

He was overcome by an urge to taint that innocence.

Solomon stayed silent.

Crack!

He snapped the pen in his hand into two through brute force.

Ichika, who had already reached the bed, turned around. "What's wrong, darling?"

Her voice sounded extremely soft and gentle, tempting him to succumb to his desires.

Solomon abandoned his work and strode to the bathroom. Meanwhile, Ichika fell asleep on the bed without seeing him appear again .

All she could hear was the splashing of the water in the bathroom.

Why is he bathing for such a long time?

Groggily, she fell asleep. Soon, the sounds of water flowing in the bathroom faded. Solomon walked out with his hair completely wet.

D*mn it!

Looking at Ichika, who had already fallen asleep on the bed, he cursed at himself silently.

He felt sinful.

In reality, he had never touched any woman before. What he saw that night was probably the most he had ever experienced in his entire life.

Even so, a feeling of guilt still overwhelmed him. For some reason, after he felt a reaction to her, he could not forgive himself.

Why am I acting like this? I only love one person. She has been hidden in the depths of my heart, never capable of being replaced or tainted. Yet, why am I acting like this tonight? Am I a fickle man too?

Am I like my mother, whose love changes each time? Am I no different from her horrid nature?

He lit up a cigarette and stood at the windows for a long time that night.

Meanwhile, Sebastian and Sasha were accompanying their son in his studies on the island.

They saw what happened at the party through the photos that Rufus had sent.

Sasha asked, "I'm curious. Why did Mrs. Minamoto visit her daughter only two months after she got married?"

Sebastian was in the middle of helping his son solve a physics question. When he heard that, he turned his head and glanced at her.

"What's the problem?"

"Nothing, just that I find it a little strange. Jetronia's culture places a lot of emphasis on etiquette, especially for elites like them. If the mother visits right after her daughter get married, they might get mocked by the other elites, saying that they're flattering their in-laws," explained Sasha as she scrolled through the photos.

As she had stayed there for quite some time, she understood their cultures and customs.

When Sebastian heard that, he seemed disinterested.

"Maybe she just wants to visit her daughter. What's the point of putting so much emphasis on those rules anyway? Oh, right. Ambrose said that he wants to bring Ian to look at the base tomorrow. Do you want to tag along?"

"Huh?"

Sasha glanced at Sebastian and Ian.

Ambrose was Shawn's father, who took great care of Ian in the research institute. Despite his son dying after getting dragged into that mess, he did not harbor any hatred toward Ian.

Instead, he spent more effort nurturing Ian.

"The base? Really? Has Little Ian earned the right to do so already?"

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1367

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover
Chapter 1367 Saving Someone

When Sasha heard this piece of good news, she tossed her phone away and ran over.

Ian, who was in the middle of solving some questions, raised his head and glanced at his mother.

"I'm just visiting, Mommy."

"I know, but that's already very impressive! I heard that it's the most confidential place amongst the national research institutions. I'm so proud of you, Little Ian!"

Sasha hugged her son and kissed his forehead forcefully.

Ian was at a loss for words.

A rosy blush appeared on his fair and handsome face. Embarrassed, he lowered his head and continued with his homework.

Sebastian watched him approvingly.

"So, want to come along?"

"Huh? Do we have to take a boat? It isn't on this island, right?" Upon realizing that she might have to take a boat, Sasha paled.

She recalled how she had arrived here the previous time.

Although she had never experienced seasickness before, she did that time. When she came, she vomited during the entire duration of the boat ride. It was torturous.

Sebastian said unhesitatingly, "I can arrange for a helicopter to come."

Sasha replied, "Forget it. Let's not go through all that trouble. You are just going there for a day, right? I won't tag along. Just take some photos for me."

As it was really troublesome, she refused.

Sebastian had no choice but to agree.

After the children had fallen asleep, Sasha and Sebastian finally got to enjoy some time alone with each other.

"Can I, darling?"

“Hm... What do you think?”

Sasha’s body was pinned underneath Sebastian’s. Underneath the dim light, she gazed at him, her eyes filled with a look of amusement and exasperation.

No one could be more shameless than him.

A night of passion ensued.

When Sasha opened her eyes the next morning, her body completely sore, she realized that there was no one beside her. However, there was a note left on the bedside table.

Sebastian had scribbled a note saying that breakfast was ready and was placed in the holding cabinet.

As mornings on the island were cold and wet, he told her not to go out. He had already gotten fresh vegetables and food from the research institute and placed them in the fridge.

He even said that he had already washed all the clothes, which were in the washing machine.

If it were not for the fact that Ian had to leave, he would have hung them up to dry.

Sasha found it amusing.

She suddenly remembered that Sebastian used to be a man powerful enough to create a commotion nationwide. In the past, he conquered the business world and dominated everyone else.

Yet, he had now become an ordinary man who would cook for her, and whose life revolved around her and their kids.

Am I committing a crime?

Sasha got up from bed.

After washing up, she ate the breakfast that Sebastian had prepared. As she had nothing else to do, she brought a stool out and started tending to the vegetable patch in the garden.

“You’re awake, Mrs. Hayes. Can you follow me to the research institute to take a look? Hugh’s illness has relapsed.”

“Okay.”

When Sasha saw the research institute staff running over while panting, she quickly tossed the hoe aside and followed the staff.

This was her recent job too.

As the island was too far away from the mainland, one could not visit the hospital easily after falling sick.

Although there was an infirmary, the doctors there were not very skilled. When the rest found out that Sasha used to be an extremely impressive TCM doctor, they sought her out all the time.

Sasha rushed to the research institute.

"He didn't eat anything much this morning and became like this," said the woman who brought Sasha over.

A middle-aged man was lying on the chair and grunting.

Sasha walked over.

"Hugh? Hugh?"

"Huh?" The man opened his eyes.

"You're here, Mrs. Hayes."

"Yeah. How are you feeling? Do you feel uncomfortable?"

After waking him up, Sasha kept talking to him to ensure that he was conscious while she checked him up.

To her surprise, when she took his pulse, she realized that his pulse was weak. It seemed quite strange as well.

"I... I didn't eat anything much. I only ate some bread and oatmeal. They're just some normal food."

Sasha stopped asking.

She checked his eyes and pressed on his stomach. After looking at his tongue, she fell silent.

The staff from the research institute asked, "Mrs. Hayes, is Hugh going to be all right?"

Another woman chimed in, "Yeah, what's wrong with him? The doctors have checked on him before, but they found nothing. He's been taking his medicine regularly too, but it didn't seem to solve anything."

“Of course it won’t solve anything. He’s been poisoned, and the poison has seeped through his organs. I need you guys to think carefully about what he has touched or eaten recently.”

Sasha told them her diagnosis solemnly.

Huh? Poisoned?

Everyone in the research institute was stunned when they heard it.

How can there be poison in the research institute? This isn’t a biology research laboratory. It’s a place researching microchips and quantum mechanics. Where would the poison come from?

The research institute staff started searching around anxiously.

Meanwhile, Sasha used her silver needles to alleviate the engineer’s pain.

Then, she planned to collect some medicinal herbs that could minimize the effects of the poison. As there was no ready supply of herbs, she had to forage for fresh ones.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1367

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover
Chapter 1367 Saving Someone

When Sasha heard this piece of good news, she tossed her phone away and ran over.

Ian, who was in the middle of solving some questions, raised his head and glanced at his mother.

“I’m just visiting, Mommy.”

“I know, but that’s already very impressive! I heard that it’s the most confidential place amongst the national research institutions. I’m so proud of you, Little Ian!”

Sasha hugged her son and kissed his forehead forcefully.

Ian was at a loss for words.

A rosy blush appeared on his fair and handsome face. Embarrassed, he lowered his head and continued with his homework.

Sebastian watched him approvingly.

“So, want to come along?”

“Huh? Do we have to take a boat? It isn’t on this island, right?” Upon realizing that she might have to take a boat, Sasha paled.

She recalled how she had arrived here the previous time.

Although she had never experienced seasickness before, she did that time. When she came, she vomited during the entire duration of the boat ride. It was torturous.

Sebastian said unhesitatingly, “I can arrange for a helicopter to come.”

Sasha replied, “Forget it. Let’s not go through all that trouble. You are just going there for a day, right? I won’t tag along. Just take some photos for me.”

As it was really troublesome, she refused.

Sebastian had no choice but to agree.

After the children had fallen asleep, Sasha and Sebastian finally got to enjoy some time alone with each other.

“Can I, darling?”

“Hm... What do you think?”

Sasha’s body was pinned underneath Sebastian’s. Underneath the dim light, she gazed at him, her eyes filled with a look of amusement and exasperation.

No one could be more shameless than him.

A night of passion ensued.

When Sasha opened her eyes the next morning, her body completely sore, she realized that there was no one beside her. However, there was a note left on the bedside table.

Sebastian had scribbled a note saying that breakfast was ready and was placed in the holding cabinet.

As mornings on the island were cold and wet, he told her not to go out. He had already gotten fresh vegetables and food from the research institute and placed them in the fridge.

He even said that he had already washed all the clothes, which were in the washing machine.

If it were not for the fact that Ian had to leave, he would have hung them up to dry.

Sasha found it amusing.

She suddenly remembered that Sebastian used to be a man powerful enough to create a commotion nationwide. In the past, he conquered the business world and dominated everyone else.

Yet, he had now become an ordinary man who would cook for her, and whose life revolved around her and their kids.

Am I committing a crime?

Sasha got up from bed.

After washing up, she ate the breakfast that Sebastian had prepared. As she had nothing else to do, she brought a stool out and started tending to the vegetable patch in the garden.

"You're awake, Mrs. Hayes. Can you follow me to the research institute to take a look? Hugh's illness has relapsed."

"Okay."

When Sasha saw the research institute staff running over while panting, she quickly tossed the hoe aside and followed the staff.

This was her recent job too.

As the island was too far away from the mainland, one could not visit the hospital easily after falling sick.

Although there was an infirmary, the doctors there were not very skilled. When the rest found out that Sasha used to be an extremely impressive TCM doctor, they sought her out all the time.

Sasha rushed to the research institute.

"He didn't eat anything much this morning and became like this," said the woman who brought Sasha over.

A middle-aged man was lying on the chair and grunting.

Sasha walked over.

"Hugh? Hugh?"

"Huh?" The man opened his eyes.

"You're here, Mrs. Hayes."

"Yeah. How are you feeling? Do you feel uncomfortable?"

After waking him up, Sasha kept talking to him to ensure that he was conscious while she checked him up.

To her surprise, when she took his pulse, she realized that his pulse was weak. It seemed quite strange as well.

"I... I didn't eat anything much. I only ate some bread and oatmeal. They're just some normal food."

Sasha stopped asking.

She checked his eyes and pressed on his stomach. After looking at his tongue, she fell silent.

The staff from the research institute asked, "Mrs. Hayes, is Hugh going to be all right?"

Another woman chimed in, "Yeah, what's wrong with him? The doctors have checked on him before, but they found nothing. He's been taking his medicine regularly too, but it didn't seem to solve anything."

"Of course it won't solve anything. He's been poisoned, and the poison has seeped through his organs. I need you guys to think carefully about what he has touched or eaten recently."

Sasha told them her diagnosis solemnly.

Huh? Poisoned?

Everyone in the research institute was stunned when they heard it.

How can there be poison in the research institute? This isn't a biology research laboratory. It's a place researching microchips and quantum mechanics. Where would the poison come from?

The research institute staff started searching around anxiously.

Meanwhile, Sasha used her silver needles to alleviate the engineer's pain.

Then, she planned to collect some medicinal herbs that could minimize the effects of the poison. As there was no ready supply of herbs, she had to forage for fresh ones.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1368

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover
Chapter 1368 Disobedient

Sasha left with a few simple tools.

Although the island was isolated, it had a beautiful environment with lush hills and clear lakes. Hence, Sasha was confident that she could find the medicinal herbs she needed.

She headed toward the hills on the island.

After half an hour, Sebastian had also landed on the ground. Out of habit, he took out his phone and texted Sasha to update her.

Buzz... Buz...

"Hi, Sebby."

When Sebastian heard her slight pants through the phone, he frowned.

"What are you doing? You sound like you're panting."

"Yeah, I'm climbing a hill. Hugh from the research institute fell sick again. When I took his pulse, I realized that he has been poisoned, so I went out to collect some medicinal herbs for him," explained Sasha over the phone, still slightly out of breath.

Her stamina had worsened a lot. She was already panting after climbing a small hill.

Looks like I should train myself more.

Sasha continued climbing while holding the phone.

When Sebastian heard that she had gone out alone to collect the medicinal herbs, his expression changed.

"Sasha, are you taking things into your own hands again? How can you forage for the herbs alone? Do you know how dangerous the island is? Why are you so disobedient?"

He sounded extremely strict when he said the last sentence.

Sasha remained silent.

Why is he so fierce?

She could not help but feel aggrieved.

However, as she knew that he was worried about her, she did not protest any further. Instead, she video-called him and smiled brightly at Sebastian through the screen.

“This will do, right? Don’t scold me, Sebby. There aren’t any medicines that can save Hugh, so I must first keep his poison under control.”

Watching Sasha, who was sweating profusely, Sebastian still felt some lingering fury.

However, when he heard that Hugh’s life was on the line, he held himself back.

As a doctor, she could not just leave him to die. Even if she had to undergo all sorts of difficulties, she would still go ahead just to save him from the grips of death.

“Fine. Stay there and don’t move. I’ll send someone to you immediately.” In the end, he compromised.

Sasha was speechless.

Huh? Send someone? Who?

She was a bit puzzled. After all, when they first came to this island, they did not bring anyone along.

Barely fifteen minutes passed before a man wearing a black uniform appeared in front of her. There were golden badges pinned to his collar and cuffs.

“I’ve received orders to protect you, Mrs. Jadeson!”

He saluted to her immediately.

Sasha was stunned.

Is he part of the special police?

But, I haven’t seen any policemen despite having stayed here for so long.

Unbeknownst to her, the National Security Agency had dispatched guards to protect the confidential research institute. All of them were part of the elite squad.

Sasha set off while the man guarded her.

As she had expected, she managed to find two of the medicinal herbs immediately after entering the depths of the island.

"This is great! Hugh will be saved." She was as happy as a child.

The man guarding her kept a distance away from her. Without being too intrusive, he made sure to keep her away from danger.

When this soldier, who had guarded the island for years, saw her bright smile, he felt touched.

Everyone in the research institute was a top scientist who had made significant contributions. As they were essential for the nation's development in the future, no one was willing to see anything bad happen to them.

"Look! It's borage!"

Suddenly, Sasha pointed at a grassy patch in front and exclaimed in delight.

When the soldier glanced over, a grim expression crossed his face.

"That's a swamp, Mrs. Jadeson. If you accidentally fall inside, you might die."

"Huh?"

The grin on Sasha's face faded when she heard his words.

What should I do then? I need the borage to control the effects of the poison.

Standing there, she pondered about it.

When the soldier noticed that, he clenched his fists, deciding to give it a try even if it meant risking his life.

However, just before he walked over, Sasha extended her arm and blocked his way gloomily.

"Don't go. Let's not sacrifice another life just to save someone. Let's go and look for it somewhere else. I'm sure there are more," she advised calmly.

Carrying the basket on her back, she continued walking forward.

The soldier was stunned.

When he finally returned to his senses, he felt extremely touched and hastened after her.

He had actually heard about Sasha before. When the country was in chaos, Sebastian had tried his best to salvage the situation and she had helped significantly as well.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1369

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover
Chapter 1369 Forgotten

Whenever the military talked about both of them, they would be full of praises and admiration.

The soldier followed Sasha closely.

Luckily, they discovered more borage after a while.

Delighted, Sasha plucked some and took out her silver needle.

The soldier watched curiously by the side.

When Sasha rubbed the needle against the borage, something strange happened—the tip of the needle turned green.

“Why is this happening?”

She was stunned for a while.

The soldier asked, “Is there a problem, Mrs. Jadeson?”

Sasha replied, “I had taken this silver needle from Hugh. As it’s stained with his blood, I wanted to use it to test the herb’s medicinal effects. Why did it become green upon having contact with the borage?”

The soldier was confused. “Huh?”

Being completely clueless about this, he did not know how to respond.

As they had already entered the depths of the island and their phones did not have signals, they could not contact anyone else.

After deliberating about it, Sasha decided to leave with the herbs first.

After an hour, she texted the Hayeses WhatsApp group.

Sasha: Is anyone at Frontier Bay?

Ichika: I'm here, Sha!

Ichika always managed to appear immediately.

Sasha had just left the hill. When she saw the text, her eyes lit up and she quickly typed a response.

Sasha: Ichika, can you go to my bedroom and look for a book called the 'Encyclopedia of Medicinal Herbs'?

Ichika: Sure.

Ichika stopped whatever she was doing and ran upstairs.

When the other members in the group chat read the message, they responded too.

Sabrina: What are you doing, Sasha? Are you so bored on that island that you're researching your lame herbs again?

Devin: Don't be mad, Sasha. She's just blunt.

Sabrina: ...

Sebastian: I'm on the way back. Wait for me to return first.

Devin: ...

Sabrina: ...

Rufus: ...

Jonathan: ...

When Solomon, who was in the office on the top floor of Hayes Corporation, read the messages, he stopped typing and grabbed his phone.

Solomon: What happened?

The entire group chat panicked when they read that.

Meanwhile, Sasha did not know whether to laugh or cry.

Why is he making things so dramatic? Everyone's scared now!

Sasha: Everything's fine. Don't be scared by what he said. An engineer in the research institute suddenly got poisoned, so I went foraging for some herbs.

According to my diagnosis, his condition is supposed to stabilize after taking those herbs. However, when I tested those herbs, I discovered something weird.

Everyone was stunned.

So, Sasha is acting as a substitute doctor on that island!

Everyone's panic disappeared after reading that. They started to discuss the issue.

Solomon: What's weird?

Rufus: Yeah, tell us. If you still don't know, I can ask Jackson and Sharon.

Sabrina: Come on then, tell us! What happened?

Everyone urged her.

When Sasha read their messages, she took a picture of the silver needle and the herb.

In the end...

Solomon: Isn't that verdigris? Has he been chemically poisoned?

Sasha: Huh?

Devin: Looks like it. Normal poison won't cause such a color. If it isn't chemical poisoning, then it's probably heavy metal poisoning.

Solomon: Wait, I'll contact Haruto.

He immediately called Haruto, who was in Jetroina.

When Ichika finally found the encyclopedia and sent a picture of it, she realized that no one in the group chat replied to her for a few minutes.

Was I of no help?

Ichika, who was sweating profusely from searching for the book, rushed downstairs excitedly. When she saw what was happening, she felt a bit disappointed.

Someone finally responded on the group chat after around ten minutes.

Solomon: I asked him and he said that it's heavy metal poisoning. Sasha, tell the research institute to investigate it carefully. The engineer might have been in contact with something. Haruo advised you to check for zinc.

Sasha: Zinc?

After sending the message, she fell silent on the group chat for a long time.

Meanwhile, Ichika kept holding the book that Sasha wanted initially. She stared at her phone, not knowing if she should chime in.

Should I ask Sha if she still needs the book? But everyone in the group chat seems to have forgotten about me.

After Solomon texted that, everyone started discussing it.

Zinc poisoning was a slow-acting poison. Unlike heavy metal poisoning, it was not immediately fatal. Furthermore, in one's daily life, it was rare for objects to contain so much zinc that it would cause poisoning.

Hence, everyone discussed this issue enthusiastically in the group chat.

Within a few minutes, the message that Ichika had sent became overshadowed by the other messages.

|