

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1408

Chapter 1408 Deal With This Girl

In the end, things were decided according to Sebastian's will.

Ian would return to the research institute. And as there was massive destruction to the base, resulting in severe losses, Sebastian had to fork out almost two-thirds of his savings to rebuild it.

His share was not small either.

When Solomon, who was still in the hospital in Jadeborough, found out about it, he called the company immediately.

“How much money can we use?”

“Mr. George, due to the recent financial crisis, Mr. Hayes has closed several businesses overseas. His revenue has fallen, and he doesn't have much cash left in the account. There's roughly about a few hundred billion left.”

“Well then, transfer a hundred billion to the research institute,” Solomon instructed.

While peeling the fruits beside him, Ichika overheard the conversation, and her eyes widened as though he had dropped a bombshell.

She had never seen a few hundred billion in her life.

Once the phone call ended, she finished peeling the fruits and approached her husband.

“Darling, I have a question. Sebastian is no longer with Hayes Corporation. So how is he going to earn money? If he pays such a large sum this time, how is he going to survive in the future?”

Ichika sounded concerned.

Solomon remained silent.

It would have been easy to answer her if she had asked this question in the past.

As one of the kings of the business industry, how could he be short of money? However, he had been busy helping the Jadesons with many things in the past two years, so he did not have the time to manage his finances. It did not help that he was unwell after.

As such, he was not as affluent as before.

Solomon picked up the phone again. Shortly after, the finance department of Hayes Corporation received another order to give the previous boss half of the bonus received by the current president.

Two days later, after finishing his work at Jadeborough, Sebastian was ready to return to Avenport.

Jonathan asked, “Are you not going to visit him?”

What is this man thinking? I've left the family. Yet, he nags and complains about me all the time.

Ignoring him, Sebastian continued to walk out.

To his surprise, he saw Ichika in a yellow princess dress and laced shoes when he stepped out of Oceanic Estate.

Seeing that Sebastian was finally out, Ichika felt overjoyed. She ran over to him but did not say anything more, as his intimidating presence alone made her lower her head. "S-Sebastian, are you heading back?"

Sebastian frowned at her.

"What's the matter?"

"W-Well, could you visit my husband? He has been making a fuss about going back, especially after hearing about what happened to your family. For the last two days, Dr. Wallen was the one who got him back," Ichika requested cautiously.

Indeed, she was scared of him.

Moreover, she had secretly caused trouble in the past.

Fortunately, after she made her request, Sebastian agreed without making things difficult for her.

"Is he a kid? Why is he running away all the time?" he complained.

Ichika shrugged, afraid to say more.

Following that, the two of them headed to the hospital.

Solomon would never have thought that the woman by his side all the time would find someone to teach him a lesson because of his disobedience.

At this moment, he was using his phone to buy air tickets when he heard a knock on the door.

“Come in,” he muttered without even lifting his head.

When the door opened, cold air gushed in, causing him to shiver. Turning his head to see his visitors, he saw an older man in a white coat with another familiar-looking man.

“Solomon, how are you feeling today? Have you taken your medicine?”

“Yes, I have,” Solomon replied in a daze. He forgot what he was doing a minute ago.

Grayson looked at the man behind him and explained, “It isn’t as exaggerated as his wife described it to be. He wanted to run away from here, but after I talked to him, he’s been taking his medicine obediently. He is still recovering, so you don’t have to worry.”

“Are you sure we don’t have to send him to The Fourth Hospital?”

Sebastian remained expressionless.

Hearing that, Solomon finally regained his senses.

“Ichika, what are you trying to do? Why did you bring him here?”

“I—”

The lady hiding behind the two males could not explain herself when Solomon questioned her.

Sebastian’s handsome facial features morphed into an angry expression. He growled, “Why are you shouting? She is only worried about you. Anyway, Grayson said you have to stay for another two weeks. You better listen to him. Otherwise, The Fourth Hospital is awaiting you.”

Sebastian did not forget to threaten him as he finished.

Solomon felt so riled up that his knuckles creaked as he balled them into a fist.

However, he suppressed the ball of fury in his chest when the other man left and ignored Ichika.

Ichika was rendered speechless. She felt aggrieved but decided not to provoke him in the next few days.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1409

Chapter 1409 Indignant

Ichika: Grandpa, Dad, Mom, I have good news for you. My husband no longer requires hypnosis and will recover soon.

Mom: Is that true? That’s great news! When will he be discharged? Should we visit him?

Dad: Why should we go ?

After Ichika saw the Hayeses' group chat, she had created one for her family as well.

Noticing that her father was getting angry, she quickly sent another message.

Ichika: It's fine, Dad. We would be glad if you could join us.

Dad: I'm not going. Your mother brought your sister there some time ago and embarrassed themselves. I'm not planning to do that to myself.

Grandpa: Yes, and don't forget that's the reason why Himari married into the Nogita family.

The middle-aged man with a traditional mindset thought about the previous incident and could not bring himself to face Solomon anymore.

Aoi did not dare to speak out after those messages.

It was an unspoken rule in the country. If the man did not allow for something, the woman should not go against his wishes.

Ichika pouted as she switched off her phone.

It was not until nighttime that Solomon realized something was off about Ichika.

“Ichika ? What are you doing ?”

He came out from the ward and saw her sitting on a chair by the corridor. Usually, she would love to pester him and stay close to him. Yet, she decided to hide outside this time.

He furrowed his brows.

“Oh? It’s nothing, Darling. I just wanted to sit here for a while.”

As soon as she heard his voice, Ichika quickly stood up and kept her phone away.

In fact, she had been chatting with her mother.

Regardless of what had happened, Aoi loved her daughter. Knowing that her daughter was hurt after the family had turned down her invitation, she wanted to comfort her.

However, when she mentioned her other daughter’s tragic situation in the Nogita family, it only made her feel worse.

Even though Himari had married into that family, she still represented the Minamoto family, no matter how her life was.

And although she had committed her fair share of shameful deeds, the Minamoto family had paid a lot of money so she could seem like a decent lady.

Even so, she was getting more out of hand during this period.

“All is good, Darling. I was on the phone with my mother,”
Ichika lied to cover up the embarrassing matter from him.

Solomon stared at Ichika's teary eyes quietly for some time, but the young woman remained silent. Thus, they headed back to the ward.

The night went by peacefully.

The next day, a nurse woke Solomon up, and he learned that Ichika had left early in the morning.

“Mr. George, your wife left early this morning. She seemed anxious. Perhaps she went out to get you some hot soup for breakfast.” The nurse chuckled.

It was not the first time they had teased Ichika for waking up early to buy delicious food for her husband.

She was someone everyone found likeable.

Hearing that, Solomon did not think much of it. He gave a small smile and headed to the bathroom to wash up.

Initially, he had thought that she had gone to buy breakfast for him and would be back within half an hour. However, she was nowhere to be seen even after an hour.

Where did Ichika go?

Losing his patience, he took his phone and stormed out of the ward.

But as soon as his phone call connected, he saw a petite lady, dressed in pink and purple, standing at the end of the corridor. She looked out of breath.

“Darling, I-I’m here. I’m b-back,” she shouted, ignoring the presence of the doctors and nurses around her.

Hurriedly, she ran over to him, holding a bag in her hand.

Solomon waited until she reached his side before he looked down at things inside the bag.

“Where were you?”

“I-I went out to get breakfast for you. You mentioned that you liked perogies the last time, so I bought them.” She raised the bag in her hand to show him. “But there were so many people, and I had to wait in the queue for a long time.”

She looked at him endearingly, hoping to appease him.

Solomon pressed his lips together, wanting to nag at her.

However, under the expectant gaze of the lady before him, he ended up helping her with the bag.

“All right, let’s eat inside.”

“Okay!”

They then headed into the ward after their blatant public display of affection.

Mr. George is so lucky to have such a caring wife.

After that small episode, Solomon told Ichika not to travel so far to get breakfast for him anymore as they could always have food from the hospital cafeteria.

Ichika obediently obliged.

Two days went by peacefully.

Yet on the third day, Ichika disappeared without reason again. To Solomon's surprise, when he went downstairs to look for her, he saw her sitting under a tree in the garden, wiping her tears.

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1410

Chapter 1410 Screaming Excitedly

What?

At once, his expression darkened, and his gaze turned cold.

By the time he returned to his ward a few minutes later, he had received information on Ichika's messages over the past few days.

Himari: If you don't want me to cause trouble for the family, you can always give me money to stop me. It's basic knowledge, you know. Thanks to your husband, I am stuck in this state, and my life sucks. If I don't sing and dance at the bar, how else am I supposed to earn a living?

Ichika: Ugh! How much do you want?

Himari: Of course, the more, the better. Hey, you have money to spare as the wife of the president of Hayes Corporation. A few million sounds good to me.

Ichika: That's too much, Himari! You need to stop.

This conversation between Ichika and Himari happened in the morning when the former had disappeared for a long time to get breakfast.

Solomon looked gloomy.

However, the issue was still bearable. As Solomon continued scrolling through their messages, he realized that Himari had threatened Ichika again after the latter had transferred her a few hundred thousand.

Himari: Ichika, this is only one hundred and seventy thousand! That's peanuts!

Ichika: That's all I have. Besides, it's a few million after converting it.

Even through the screen, one could feel how cornered Ichika felt.

Despite so, Himari did not care as she continued to use nasty words to degrade her biological sister.

Himari: A few million? Are you crazy? Don't you know where you stand now? Whose fault was it that I ended up in this predicament?

Ichika did not reply.

Himari: Well, it's your husband! He exposed all my dirty laundry and ruined my reputation in Terrandya. I was forced to marry into the Nogita family because of him.

For a long time, no more messages followed between them after that.

Solomon, who was usually calm and controlled, felt his heart tighten at that moment.

For the first time, he could not suppress his emotions.

At that time, he did not tell Ichika because he did not think that it mattered.

However, after he saw the messages, he started to worry. He wondered if Ichika would be angry after hearing Himari badmouth him.

Would she ignore me?

He continued to scroll through the text.

Ichika: You deserved that punishment. My husband did nothing wrong.

Ichika finally replied to her sister's message the next day, and her first reaction was to take Solomon's side.

That reaction made Solomon freeze.

At that moment, he felt a ball of warmth in his chest. He had forgotten how it felt like to be cared for by others. It was something he had stopped feeling since he was eighteen.

The only time he felt this way was during the ten years when the Wand family took him in, and now he felt it again.

Although Heather could not officially bring him into the Wand family, she had treated him with a lot of care and love.

She would wash and iron his clothes when he went to school and after school, she would visit him in the house she had rented for him and cook him delicious food. On top of that, she would also instruct the housemaid to report his wellbeing to her at all times.

Whenever he got into trouble in school, she would be the first one to defend him like how Ichika did.

Gripping his phone tightly, his knuckles turned white.

After ten minutes, Ichika finally came back to the ward. She had calmed herself down and washed her face in the restroom as she did not want Solomon to notice her tears.

“Darling, I’m back.”

She plastered a smile on her face and pretended as though everything was fine.

Solomon turned to look at her and stood up.

“Wanna eat?”

“Huh?” Ichika was dumbfounded.

Wanna eat? I thought he never wanted to go downstairs to eat me. That’s why I’ve been bringing food for him.

“Darling, why—”

“Dr. Wallen said that I should move around and get some exercise, didn’t he?” Solomon looked away and changed his shoes.

Those words made Ichika snap out of her trance.

Momentarily, she saw a burst of light before her, and she readily agreed. It felt like a miracle.

“Sure, let’s go.”

Excitedly, she ran to the closet and took out two containers to pack the food. However, the man took them away from her.

“There is no need to pack them. We’ll eat there.”

“Oh? Okay!”

Ichika’s eyes lit up.

The patients here were not physically impaired. Therefore, many patients and their family members would eat together at the cafeteria for every meal.

The man had no idea how much Ichika envied them.

Besides, she had been packing him food so often that the workers at the cafeteria had been questioning her.

Gleefully, Ichika stuck by her husband’s side. She lowered her head and looked at his arm longingly, wanting to hold it. However, she was afraid that he would not like it.

To her astonishment, the man had taken the initiative to hold her hand, enveloping it with warmth.

Ichika was shocked beyond words.