Returning from the Dead His Secret Lover Chapter 1741 Evil

Indeed, Jared was throwing a tantrum at The Ataraxy.

Initially, his immediate family was bigger than that of his brother, Jonathan. He had three sons, Charles, Connor, and Colton, and a daughter Candice.

However, things changed after Sebastian was brought back into the family.

Jared had immense hatred for Sebastian for his return brought misfortune to Jared's immediate family.

After Charles died, his wife, Jocelyn, and their two kids, Tiffany and Eric, also perished in Sebastian's hands.

Although Sebastian was not the one who killed Connor, he was the mastermind of the plot that led to Connor's death. He was the one who leaked information about Connor's shady business to Jonathan, causing Jonathan to flare up and kill Connor on the spot.

After that, Connor's son, Tyler also met his end. Shirley, Connor's wife did not manage to escape retribution as well. Both of them died because of their conspiracy against Sebastian.

Candice was captured by White House and thrown into jail over her role in the conspiracy. She ended up dying in jail.

With that, he was left with only one son and three grandchildren.

Colton had two kids, Timothy and Susan. And Connor had a surviving son, Cameron. They were the only family Jared had left.

However, Jared was dealt with a devastating blow next. He discovered that Colton was actually Eddie and Elizabeth's son, not his flesh and blood. It was the last straw on the camel's back, and he could not take it anymore.

On that very New Year's Eve, he lost his mind and created havoc at The Ataraxy, and some of his staff were savagely beaten by him.

Timothy and Susan were a little older than Sebastian's kids and already in college. They arrived at The Ataraxy sometime in the evening. Initially, they had no plans to head home as they wanted to take on part-time jobs during the vacation to earn their pocket money. Being thoughtful kids, they wanted to lighten the financial burden on their parents, who had always taught them to be independent and not be financially reliant on Jonathan.

However, a couple of days ago, they received the shocking news that their father had passed away. Devastated, they hurriedly made a trip home.

“Get out! Get out of my house, you bast*rds! I hope you die in a car crash as you step out of here. I wish you all a tragic death!”

As they went near the compound, they could hear a hysterical Jared swearing and cursing loudly. His outburst of profanity echoed through The Ataraxy.

Frightened by the commotion, they hesitated and stopped in their track. From the main entrance, they peeped into the compound, and to their surprise, they saw their mother kneeling on the ground.

Sigrith’s head was bleeding as she wailed and trembled uncontrollably.

“Mom!” Timothy and Susan cried out loud and ran toward their mother.

They had scant information about what happened to their father. Devin called them from Red Pavilion and told them something tragic had happened to their father, urging them to make a trip home.

Upon reaching home, they were greeted by such a shocking scene. Susan was terrified. She ran to Sigrith in a panic and held on tightly to her mother.

Timothy, on the other hand, stood right in front of the ladies to protect them.

“What happened to you, Mom? Grandpa, why did you hit my mom?” Susan wailed.

“Yes. Why did you hit my mom?” Timothy, being an impulsive young man, glared at Jared, angered by the sight of his mother’s injuries.

Before Jared could utter a word in response to Timothy, Sigrith stood up and pulled her two kids aside.

“Why are you here? Go back! What is happening here is none of your business!” she cried out.

“Mom!”

“Why should they leave? Are you still trying to hide the truth from them? Do you want them to keep to the delusion that they are from a respectable family?” Jared shripped in anger.

Sigrith's eyes dimmed, and pleaded desperately, "No, please don't..."

"Why did I hit her? Listen up, you bast*rds. The reason is that she is not my daughter-in-law, and your old man is the love child of that old scumbag Eddie! Is that good enough a justification?" Jared howled and blurted out the harsh truth to the kids.

That was shocking news that even an adult might not be able to handle, let alone two youngsters.

Susan broke down instantly, and Timothy, being a little younger, took a long time to register what he just heard. He stood rooted to the ground, dumbfounded.

What followed were more curses and swearing from Jared. Like a lunatic, he let out a stream of expletives. "You bast*rds will suffer a terrible end. Your father has met his just end, and you will be next. You won't live to see tomorrow!"

Both Timothy and Susan were shocked beyond words at the wicked curses thrown at them.

They finally saw the true evil colors of Jared and stared at him with ashen faces, aggrieved.

At that crucial moment, a man stormed into The Ataraxy. When he heard the foul language Jared was using, his big eyes bulged in anger. Picking a stone from the ground, he threw it at Jared.

Thud! The stone hit Jared's foul mouth spot on!

'Ouch!' Jared screamed in pain.

"I should have ripped that foul mouth off your face years back! It was a mistake to keep you alive. Do you have a death wish now? If you do, I can oblige and make your wish come true!"

It was Jonathan who had rushed to Sigrith's rescue. Not satisfied with the injuries he caused Jared, he started scolding him loudly.

Jared was lucky that Jonathan had mellowed with age. If he still had the quick temper of his youthful days, he would have drawn his gun and used it on Jared.

Jared was bleeding profusely and in great pain. Covering his bleeding mouth with his hands, he stopped his swearing and timidly stood there, quiet as a mouse.

Jonathan glared at him sternly until he lowered his eyes and cowered in fear.

Turning his attention to Sigrith and her kids, he said, "Forget the nonsense he sprouted. Get up and come with me to Oceanic Estate."

"Uncle Jonathan..." Sigrith could not hold in her grief anymore and fell slumped on the ground, sobbing.

Timothy and Susan stood next to Sigrith, staring gratefully at Jonathan. Their tears were flowing uncontrollably too.

Among the Jadesons, they had always respected Jonathan the most. He was the head of the family and although he had a fiery temper, he was fair and reasonable.

Jonathan brought Sigrith, Susan, and Timothy back to Oceanic Estate with him. Sasha, Devin, and their families, together with the relatives from Gossamer Creek, were all waiting anxiously for them. When they saw the pathetic state the three were in, they fumed and lashed out at Jared.

"Has that old man lost his mind? How could he hit you?" Sabrina was the first to voice her anger and disgust.

She would definitely side with Sigrith and her kids. Together with a few other relatives from Gossamer Creek, Sigrith had worked closely with Sabrina at her shop. Under Sigrith's management, the business was flourishing, and Sabrina never had to worry about a thing as long as Sigrith was there.

Knowing they were like family, no one could fault Sabrina for being angry and disrespectful toward Jared.

"That's right! You and Colton had been taking such good care of Uncle Jared. How could he be so ruthless toward you?"

"Is he even human?"

"I am not surprised. The Ataraxy has always been a cold and merciless place."

Everyone at Oceanic Estate started grumbling and defending Sigrith and her family. The three were touched by the support shown and broke down once again in tears.

Although it was revealed that Colton was Eddie's son, the family could testify that he wasn't evil like Eddie. They knew him well as they had lived together as a family for decades.

Colton and his family should not be condemned simply because they were biologically related to Eddie. They had no knowledge of Eddie's sinister plans and were innocent victims themselves.

Sasha managed to calm everyone down and asked some of the ladies to attend to Sigrith's injuries. Next, she brought Susan and Timothy to join the rest of the kids.

"Matteo and Ian! Come out! Your Aunt Susan and Uncle Timmy are here!" Sasha called out to the kids.

Instantly, the children dropped whatever they were doing and came running out to welcome Susan and Timothy.

"Aunt Susan, you are back! Come and take a look at what we have done. We are preparing for the new year. Come join us!" Vivian greeted them warmly, running up to Susan and hanging on to her arm, urging her to join in.

Being kids, Susan and Timothy quickly set aside the bad experience they had a while ago and were soon basking in the festive mood.

Sasha breathed a sigh of relief and left the kids to continue with the new year preparations.

She went back to the room and found Sebastian poring through a pile of documents the business department had sent him. She briefly updated him on what had happened.

"I have grossly misjudged Jared and never thought he could be so petty," she commented.

"I am not surprised at all. If he were a gentleman, he would not have raised such terrible kids!" Sebastian sneered.

Sasha let out a sigh, knowing he was referring to Charles, Connor, and Candice.

She filled the kettle and put it to boil, then sat down opposite him and made him tea as they chatted about the incident.

"So what will happen to Sigrith and her two kids? What do you think we should do?" Sasha asked.

"I will go with any decision the old man makes." With his eyes glued to the ledger in his hand, he nonchalantly answered Sasha.

Old man? Is he referring to Jonathan?

Sasha was dazed momentarily by that reminder. Indeed, Sigrith and her kids' fates were in Jonathan's hands. Only he could decide if they get to stay in the family.

Returning from the Dead His Secret Lover Chapter 1743 A New Life

Sigrith was aware of the current situation. As Jonathan came in after Sigrith finished bandaging her wound, she kneeled before him.

"What are you doing?"

Jonathan was shocked and quickly asked Sigrith to get up.

Nonetheless, Sigrith, who looked teary-eyed again, shook her head in response.

"Uncle Jonathan, we... didn't know that Colton... isn't a member of the Jadesons. He never told us about it. Besides, I've never done anything wrong ever since I became part of the Jadesons. Can you please let go of my two children?" Sigrith begged as she knelt on the floor.

It turned out that Sigrith was worried her two children would be in trouble because of their father's deed. She was willing to let go of her dignity and life for her children's safety.

Since her children's grandfather was a rebel, Sigrith understood that no one would let go of them even if they moved out and lived elsewhere.

The next moment, Sigrith was taken by surprise because Jonathan answered without hesitation, "Nonsense! Why do I have to let go of the two kids? I mean, they didn't do anything wrong! Moreover, even your husband Colton was forced to do it."

"What did you say? Did someone force him to do it?"

Sigrith looked up at Jonathan in shock.

Am I hearing things?

"Yes, Eddie forced himself on Elizabeth back then. Just imagine who would willingly give birth to a raper's child? Since the Jadesons and the Limmers were rivals, she deliberately wanted the Jadesons to accept the kid to take revenge against Eddie. Besides, she refused to let Eddie know he has a son."

As Jonathan explained slowly, Sigrith couldn't tell if he was lying and was overwhelmed with shock.

Staring at Jonathan, Sigrith thought she had found a glimmer of hope amid despair. After a while, she shivered in excitement.

"Uncle Jonathan, are you serious?"

"Of course. You can ask Sebastian if you don't believe me. He went to Yartran in person to deal with the matter. Colton was killed by his mother because he wasn't willing to succumb to her.

"Elizabeth suffered cognitive distortions after her life was ruined by Eddie. She forced Colton to become the next Eddie, but Colton refused. In the end, Colton handed over the map that depicted Eddie's hidden forces around the world to Sebastian. Hence, do you think he would betray the Jadesons?"

Jonathan gazed at Sigrith gently and caringly as he was speaking.

I have made the decision. If the same grudge is passed on from generation to generation, both sides will never live in peace. Therefore, the best solution to resolve it is to be forgiving.

Sigrith burst into tears, for she was emotional and felt that a new life had just arrived. Then, she ran out of the room to look for her two children.

Shortly after, the children at Oceanic Estate could hear Sigrith's kids burst into tears.

On the third floor, Sasha and the man in front of her looked at each other and smiled.

The next day was the New Year's Eve.

As the lady of the house at Oceanic Estate, Sasha purposely invited Sigrith and her children to celebrate the new year together.

Sigrith gladly agreed as soon as she received the invitation.

With Sigrith and her children as guests, the atmosphere at Oceanic Estate became merry.

There were nine children at Oceanic Estate because Cameron had also arrived. After knowing Sigrith's good news, Cameron didn't want to be bothered by the elder at The Ataraxy but came to Oceanic Estate to celebrate the new year instead.

Also, Sasha had to fork out a considerable amount of money to prepare some gifts for the kids.

After the New Year's Eve dinner ended, Jonathan was shocked because many children lined up before him.

Sasha said, "Grandpa, you don't have to give them much. Sebastian has prepared gifts for them."

Jonathan responded with a smile and began distributing his gifts to the kids.

Everyone knew that Jonathan wasn't a stingy person. However, Sebastian recently kept an eye on Jonathan's spending, for he didn't allow Jonathan to buy cigarettes. Besides, Jonathan didn't have much pension, thus leaving him no choice but to spend cautiously.

After Jonathan distributed the gifts, Jeffrey said, "Mommy, Great-grandpa gave me two hundred in cash."

Immediately, Nina chimed in, "Me too!"

Sabrina and Jonathan were rendered speechless upon hearing it.

These scoundrels!

Nevertheless, Jonathan was delighted deep down.

After dinner, the adults began playing games, whereas the kids who had just received gifts went to the observation tower to play with firecrackers.

Vivian carried a lot of firecrackers and took Kurt to a spot with the best view.

Meanwhile, Susan couldn't help but ask, "Why do I feel that something is wrong between them? Ian, are they-"

"Ahem... ahem..." Ian felt a little awkward.

Ian didn't respond to Sabrina's question. Since the garden was big enough, he took some firecrackers and brought her to another spot instead.

"Aunt Susan, may I ask what's it like to study at your university? Can you ask my daddy to let me study there? I've heard that your university is a good place to study."

"Ah?"

Susan, who was playing with firecrackers, gazed at Ian in surprise.
