

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 466

"Nancy, you're back."

"Yes, I'm sorry to disappoint you because I'm not dead yet," she ridiculed.

Solomon's face turned pale instantly.

Since Solomon remembered what he did to Sasha clearly, he did expect to hear pleasant words from her in the first place.

However, a suffocating discomfort still swept over him the moment she said it.

Deep down, Solomon knew that he was the one who betrayed Sasha.

"Nancy, I'm here to ask if the share transfer agreements of Hayes Corporation are with you now? If you have them, please hand them over to me."

"What?"

Sasha almost burst into laughter after Solomon requested them without showing any guilt.

"Why must I give them to you? Are those agreements yours?"

"Nancy!"

Solomon finally couldn't hold in his anger. "Stop messing around. I mean, keeping those things to yourself won't do you any good. If all you want is money, I can pay it to you."

"Do you think I want money?"

"Yes, I think so. Don't you wish to develop Wand Enterprise? You might want some money to invest in your company or collaborate with Hayes Corporation. Well, I'll agree to it as long as you hand over the share transfer agreements to me."

Solomon proposed two tempting terms without hesitation.

After all, Wand Enterprise would grow if it collaborated with Hayes Corporation.

Well, I never thought about requesting any investment from Hayes Corporation, even when my husband was the president. In that case, what makes him think that I want to collaborate with him now?

Sasha felt disgusted and chuckled at Solomon's proposal. "Who are you to make sure that Hayes Corporation will collaborate with my company? Is Hayes Corporation yours?"

"You—"

"I tell you what, the position that you are holding now doesn't belong to you. Since it's not yours, why should I hand it over to you? Shouldn't I return it to its true owner instead?"

"What did you say?"

"I said its' true owner—my husband, Sebastian Hayes!"

Sasha emphasized every word as though she plunged a sharp sword into Solomon's heart.

At that moment, Solomon's face had lost all color.

Moreover, there were feelings of embarrassment, anger, and disappointment in his eyes.

After a while, he turned ferocious like a beast who would grab the lady away anytime to lock her up.

Why? Why did she humiliate me in such a way? Is it because I have hurt her before?

If that's true, what about the man she mentioned just now? What has he done? Didn't he hurt her as well? Were the things he did any better than what I did?

Besides, can't she remember at least something good about me? Back then, when Solomon heard that Sasha was in trouble in Clear, he let go of his well-paid job and went to the place to accompany and take care of her.

At that time, Sebastian cherished her like a precious diamond.

Has she forgotten everything about it?

Solomon grew increasingly furious even though he remained silent.

However, Sasha didn't notice his change of expression. She wanted to leave after venting out her feelings.

"Ah—"

"What are you doing? Solomon, are you crazy? Let go!" Sasha yelled shockingly, for Solomon grabbed her wrist all of a sudden.

Sasha tried hard to wriggle free from Solomon, yet he was exasperated and refused to let go.

The next moment, Solomon wanted to drag Sasha back into his car.

"Sha! Hey, let go of my sister!"

Lance was hiding in the company and observed the situation all the while. As Solomon acted aggressively, Lance screamed at him and wanted to save Sasha.

Suddenly, a red Ferrari charged toward them from the other end of the street like a strong cheetah.

Upon seeing the car, Solomon was shocked and had no choice but to let go of Sasha and step aside.

Who is this? How dare she ruin my business?

At that moment, anger clouded Solomon's face.

The Ferrari stopped right before them. The next moment, a woman in a black leather jacket, black jeans, and a pair of high-heels hopped out with a baseball bat in her hand.

"You b*stard! How dare you mess with the Hayes? Let me teach you a lesson today!"

Her furious yell could have shocked everyone around the street.

My goodness! It's Sabrina!

Sasha, who lost balance and fell to the ground just now, was startled.

At the same time, Solomon's face darkened once she saw the woman.

“Sabrina, are you tired of living already?”

“Yes, I’m indeed tired. Come on, b*stard! I have always wanted to go to hell with you!”

After yelling at Solomon, Sabrina flung the baseball bat toward him.

This woman was really fearless!

In the end, Solomon had no choice but to get into his car. He shot a cold glance at Sabrina for a moment and sped off.

The whole family is insane.

The street became peaceful again.

Lance quickly helped Sasha up. Since Sabrina was still shouting across the street while holding the baseball bat, Sasha said helplessly, “That’s enough. He has already left. You don’t have to shout anymore.”
