

Secretly The Billionaire Boss

Secretly The Billionaire Boss by Debbie chocolate Chapter 71-Duty and Responsibility Grey walked inside the bathroom, he was so annoyed and he knew that he had no choice but to expose his identity before he actually killed his men Richard walked inside I'm sorry but I don't think you can get Don to leave anything He's so hard at heart I will try to speak with him and see how it goes," he explained Grey regarded him for a moment Alfred told me you called him?" Richard was surprised that he was referring to Alfred casually "Yes, you told me I could" "Why did you think he responded? Why did you think I directed you to him? Who do you think is standing in front of you?" He bombarded him Richard blinked once, unable to comprehend anything Who are you? I mean I know you are very skilled in martial arts and you are caring Grey took a step forward, a dark frown on his face "Isn't it obvious? Do I have to explain myself before you grasp? With a call from me," he pulled out his phone "I will really wipe you not only from this Earth but from Hercules's protection Now, that word got Richard very upset He would take anything but not someone insulting his boss Well, it was the rule of the mafia world "You will not refer to Hercules as such. He's not your mate!" Richard snapped Grey regarded him for a moment I'm sure Hercules won't mind And you shouldn't be fighting for him. I will fight for myself Richard went silent for a moment I don't understand What rubbish are you saying and who are you?" He raised his voice higher than normal "I am Hercules, your boss" He revealed Richard went into shock for a moment He looked like his heart stopped beating but he soon regained himself "Now. I have no choice but to call the boys I don't mind if we will have to come at you at once You will not impersonate Hercules! You will not insult him! He felt even more enraged Hercules smirked "I will get you punished for doubting me, Richard," then he slowly pulled off the t-shirt. "I'm sure you heard about the Viper tattoo" Richard's eyes were still wide "The big viper tattoo is always on the back of Hercules It's a sign of his leadership Hercules nodded briefly, not interested in his sermon, and turned around slowly so that Richard would see his backside "That tattoo was done by my father and I've been forced to live with it" He announced The tattoo was one of the reasons why Grey was always careful when he was in college He had no idea why he had it until recently And to even think that the tattoo was permanent, Grey didn't realize that his father had seriously prepared him for the turns of tides Richard's legs faltered and collapsed under him He was a strong man but the revelation had done a lot to him He couldn't join the puzzles at first but they were coming together slowly It was the reason why Alfred responded to him and because he referred to Alfred with no respect He also has a mark He was indeed their great boss. Hercules Giffy whirled around to look at Richard again with brows drawn together I Told you, Richard, that I will punish you for lusting after me, he stated softly Richard bowed quickly. I'm sorry, boss! I'm sorry for not recognizing you earlier! Please, kill me! I deserve to die for committing this sin!* He blurted out.

He couldn't believe that he had the guts to mess with the boss. How could he atone for his sins?

Grey let out a sigh, I must see Don immediately I can see that your people are not in order!" He wore his t shirt Richard shivered. He tried to stand but failed severely "I will take you to him immediately." On one condition!" He said quickly, stopping Richard in his steps – Your men must not know who I am We will walk out of this bathroom as we have walked in, ok?" Richard nodded severely "Yes, Boss." Grey almost felt sick He didn't want to reveal his identity but it seemed like the only way at that moment Maybe he can handle the consequences later but he was like a father caught between his responsibility and duty Who was he supposed to choose? Caramel or his men?

They entered the dance floor and the men curiously stared at Grey Richard however couldn't stop shaking as he walked towards the basement of the club. Every member of the mafia knows what it takes to annoy the boss Men were guarding every corner of the room As they stepped inside, Grey gazed searched around for Caramel and he found her on the bed, in her lingerie Don was speaking to the man that Richard had sent to him earlier. He looked even angry Caramel wasn't moving and it looked like she lost consciousness or maybe she was drugged At the sight, Grey felt a surge of anger Richard saw the flames coming out of Grey's eyes and rushed to Don "What have you done? How could you undress her? I told you to wait for me!" He mumbled in fear Don whirled to look at him with a calm expression "Who gives orders here, you or me? You should be grateful that I haven't messed with her just yet, which I'm about to do now" He noticed Grey and turned to look at him "What is he doing here by the way?" Richard sighed. All the men will leave now!" He ordered "Are you kidding? Whoever leaves will die!" Don stated firmly Richard looked over at Grey for help He felt stuck already because Don was higher than him in the mafia world Grey smiled. "I'm a messenger of Hercules and here's his order," he said suddenly and all the men turned to look at him in fear "You will leave this room now or you will be forced to know something about Hercules And whoever knows Hercules's secret will die!" * What are you doing?" Don yelled in anger, then turned to look at Richard. "What is he doing here?" Grey's smile widened As I've said earlier, you will be forced to know about Hercules and that means your death So, what will you choose?"

Secretly The Billionaire Boss by Debbie chocolate Chapter 72-Angry Mafia Boss The men couldn't decide. They kept looking over at Don, then back at Grey.

Don laughed "What prank are you playing? Do you think my men will betray me?" Richard sighed." He's telling the truth, Hercules doesn't accept a useless apology. You should leave now but you can hang around," he voiced out.

The man exchanged glances and left one after the other.

Don turned to Richard and gripped him hard by the collar. "What games are you playing with me? I'm going to kill you for betraying me!" He yelled in anger "He didn't really betray you, Don," Grey interceded. "He was merely carrying out orders from above, from Hercules himself." Don whirled to look at Grey. 'Shut up!' He screamed and rushed to grab the gun on the table. He cocked it and stretched it towards Grey. 'Shut up or I will shoot this through your head!' He threatened " You are making a big mistake, Don!" Richard said quickly "Shut up! Or you will be the next!" Don snapped at him.

"I'm going to count number one to three, Don. You will need to put the gun down or you will face the consequences," Grey stated and brought out his phone. A call to Gregory and you will die in an hour ! have a lot of men around the city.

Don furrowed his brows." You know Gregory" Well, Gregory was one of the elders. Upsetting Gregory would amount to upsetting Hercules as well "Dumb! Put the gun down Don!" Richard yelled in fear Don looked over at Richard. "Who is this man? Who the fuck is he?" Richard shook his head slightly." He's Hercules," he whispered but it felt like he screamed the word out The gun fell off Don's hand immediately and shock kept him motionless and speechless for a moment "What? Are you trying to play me?" Don's voice shook with tremor. Even though he doesn't believe it but the thought of Hercules standing in front of him was a terror on its own.

"Have I ever lied to you, Don? He's Hercules! He has the viper! He knows Mr. Gregory and Mr. Alfred!" Richard rushed the words, frustrated.

What!" That was the only thing Don could say, He couldn't even bring himself to turn around and his hand was still suspended in the air Different thoughts collide in Don in some sort of crazy confusion. At first, it felt difficult to breathe Meeting Hercules was one of the things he dreamt of but meeting him in such a weird way?

Don swallowed harder. "What have done?" Richard nodded briefly "Glad you asked. If he's Hercules, then that means the lady on the bed is Hercules's girlfriend. Seeing the nakedness of Hercules's girlfriend is punishment by death!" He turned away Don wavered and fell to the floor He _hercules," he stammered Grey, who was curiously watching them for a while, suddenly walked closer "Did you drug her?" "Y _yes sir, I gave her a little drug but she will be awake soon!" He stuttered, Clothes," he muttered.

Don rushed towards the corner of the room and retrieved caramel's clothes. He dashed closer to Grey and extended the clothes with a 90 degree bow Grey ignored him, took the clothes, and moved closer to Caramel. He regarded her for a moment "Caramel?" He shuddered her slightly but she wouldn't wake up. He realized she was still asleep. He looked up now "Get the maid inside right now to dress her up." He yelled, startling the two men for a moment Don pulled out his phone to call one of the maids. "Hello, get up here right now Grey got up and took three long strides towards Don He whirled him around quickly and landed a blow on his face that his lips bled.

"How dare you do this to a lady" He yelled, angrily I'm sorry." Don stammered Grey closed his eyes mentally and decided to restrain himself or he might actually kill him "What did I tell you, Don? I gave you a chance but you messed it up?

Don went to his knees and his body shook with a slight tremor " I'm sorry, I_ " he stuttered "Shut up" Grey yelled before he would finish the words "If I wasn't powerful enough to stop you, would you have had your ways with him? You slut' He clenched his fists even harder and tried to stop himself from moving forward The door opened suddenly and two maids walked inside just as Grey was about to say something "Good day sir," they chorused "Dress the lady on the bed, Richard ordered and the maids got to work Grey walked closer to Don, then bent in front of him. "Don, note that I'm not done with you And you have punishment awaiting you for seeing my girlfriend's nakedness' Grey didn't really know why he used the word 'girlfriend' for Caramel but he decided to make Don even scared Don shivered and his head went to the floor. Fear took over his heart in a way that it had never been before he knew that his punishment was death. He made a disgrace of Hercules, a boss to different mafia bosses. It was the end of him "I will call Gregory and settle with him what your punishment will be," he muttered and stood up He cast a last glance at Richard before he moved closer to Caramel and took her off the bed He walked out of the basement and took the way out of the club through the back door. Grey heard music coming from the club and knew that the people were probably back enjoying their night and pretending nothing had happened earlier, Caramel opened her eyes slowly, her heart actually took on a fast race, Caramel got conscious after Grey called her name.

So, she heard everything that Grey said. Though she couldn't really comprehend who had actually happened she knew that Grey was someone important, No one dared mess with Don In fact, Caramel was trying to threaten him with Pete, a boss from the mafia group. Don doesn't even seem scared of Pete but he was shivering at the sight of Grey Should she ask him about it? Or not?

Secretly The Billionaire Boss by Debbie chocolate Chapter 73-Hidden treasure What mystery power does Grey have? Why did he pretend to be nobody? These questions were on Caramel's mind as she drifted off into deep slumber this time.

Grey settled her in the back seat and decided to let her sleep. He still had some hours to spend before Avery would call him.

He relaxed in the chair and decided to take a nap as well. He was feeling exhausted and thirsty but he didn't want to leave Caramel alone in the car.

"Grey!" A soft voice jolted him out of his slumber. He looked back at Caramel. "Did you sleep while waiting for me?" Grey nodded. "I thought we could go somewhere else and have fun," he darted at his watch. "I still have less than an hour to spend," he revealed. Caramel nodded, with a smile. "Let's do that. Do you have any place in mind?" Grey nodded once and looked away. "Let's just go to a bar. Alfred has one close by," he responded. "Let's go then!" Grey started the ignition but he couldn't help but notice how much Caramel was staring at him. He knew that she had questions but maybe she didn't know how to frame them.

"How did you save me from Don?" She asked suddenly.

Expecting that! Grey wanted to say. Instead, he said, "Well, I made a deal with him." Caramel stared confusingly. "What deal?" Grey shrugged slightly. "My salary. I promised to give him my salary. And well, the month ends today." Caramel stared at him for a moment as if he'd grown two heads. Grey was saying things way different from what she heard but she wondered why.

"Don is one of the notorious mafia in the city. How did you bargain with him? How did you make him accept your money?" She wanted him to talk and explain things to her. Grey regarded her for a moment from the front mirror.

"You seem to know every mafia in the city, don't you?" Caramel hesitated and looked away. Grey could swear that he saw a flicker of Chauth 13 Hidden treasure emotion in her eyes. There was something that Caramel was hiding as well. It turned out that he wasn't the only one hiding things. "Do you know Giovanni too? And Hercules?" Grey said quickly. It was a question that would keep Caramel from questioning him. Caramel eyes widened with shock. "Who doesn't know the two most powerful mafia lords in the city." Grey smiled. "But you seem to know more than others, don't you?" Caramel sighed. "Fine! I do know some things about them because my mother was involved with the mafia but they killed her." Grey raised skeptical brows at her. "They did? Why?" Caramel shrugged. "I had no idea. She died ten years ago." Grey head did a flip. Ten years ago was also when his father was killed. It couldn't be a coincidence, right? Grey wanted to ask her about the precise date but he decided to keep quiet about it especially when he saw the sad look on Caramel's face. "We are here!" He announced instead with a bright smile on his face.

"All bills on me, Grey. It's a way of thanking you for saving me," Caramel announced as she stepped down.

They ordered some champagne and non-alcoholic wines. And they got engaged with talking that they didn't know when time flew past.

The sudden ringing of the phone broke the conversation. It was Avery. Grey eyes darted at the time and realized it was almost 8pm. "Hi Avery." "Where are you?" Avery asked, ignoring his greetings. "At Alfred's restaurants and bar." "I know that's where you will be. Come outside, I'm here already," she revealed. Grey looked over at Caramel. He hadn't thought of what Avery would say if she found out that he was together with Avery for more than five hours. "Alright, I will be there." Caramel watched the worried expression on his face. "Is something wrong?" Grey shook his head quickly. "Nothing. Avery is outside. We should call it a night already." Caramel smiled. "Yes, we should. Let's go out together." Grey turned to look at her. "I don't think that's a bad idea. She might flare up if she sees you with me," he explained.

Caramel pulled back her hair. "And why would she do that? It's not like you guys are married for real. Besides, she was out with Chris as well," she said stubbornly that Grey had to give in.

They both walked out of the bar after Caramel had paid the bills. Grey spotted Avery's car immediately and they both walked closer.

Avery had this surprise look on her face as she regarded Caramel for a moment.” And what are you doing with Grey?” Caramel smiled. “We came to have fun since you were busy doing that with Chris,” she said flatly. Avery cleared her throat meaningfully. “We will be leaving then. I will see you at the office tomorrow. We have some contracts to go through.” Caramel nodded briefly. “Yes, good nights.” She turned to look at Grey. “Thanks for today, I had so much fun. And well, I will be expecting the contract soon.” 11 Grey smiled. “We will get through to you as early as possible,” he assured and entered the passenger’s seat. Avery’s eyes widened at Caramel’s statement concerning having fun with Grey. She wondered what Grey had been doing with her. “What contract?” Avery couldn’t stop herself from asking. “Caramel wants to get some surveillance cameras from us. And it’s a big amount! I’m really glad she decided to patronize us. We are going to make huge money from it,” Grey announced happily. Avery nodded. The explanation went well with her and she concluded that Avery must have decided to meet with him because of the business.

“Good for you. Mr Alfred really did you well. You should gather some money before he gets tired of helping you,” she turned to look at him and that was when Grey saw the Diamond ring on her chest.

That wasn’t even a surprising thing. What actually surprised him was because it looked exactly like the Diamond ring that he got from the auction.

“Where did you get that Diamond ring?” Avery smiled as she stared at the ring. “It’s beautiful and very costly. You will need to save a lot to buy it,” she said proudly.

Of course! Grey spent a lot to buy it! “Who?” He urged. “Chris,” she whispered and started the ignition. “You don’t sincerely need to give yourself something to think of. You will never be able to buy this type of Diamond.” What the fuck? He has the same diamond in his car already.

Secretly The Billionaire Boss by Debbie chocolate Chapter 74-Confusion The first thing that came to Grey’s mind was how Chris got the Diamond. There was only one auction house in town. In fact, Grey heard that Giovanni visits the place whenever he wishes. It was a place where even enemies met whenever auctioning was concerned.

Most of the enemies ended up making the auctioneer happier as they would increase the bids till the opposition couldn’t afford it. It was exactly as he did with Aphrodite.

Avery pulled the car to a sudden stop. "My friend is staying the night at our place. She just arrived from the state and would only settle down tomorrow." Grey nodded briefly but he was startled when the door opened suddenly and a fine face lady stared up at him. She had golden hair and green eyes. She was also very flawless. She could have passed for a model or a movie star. "This is Grey?" She had a smirk on his face.

Avery nodded quickly. "Grey, meet Chloe. Chloe, my husband," she introduced. Chloe sniffed. "Get down!" "What?" It felt like Grey didn't hear her right. "Get down! I'm going to sit in the passenger seat. I don't like taking the back seat, you should do that." Grey looked over to Avery for help. Avery merely nodded. "Listen to her, Grey." Grey sighed and got down from the car. He took the backseat while Chloe sat in the passenger seat. "Hey, Avery. I've missed you so much!" Chloe said happily.

"I didn't know you would be gone for so long. You told me it was only for three years and then, you came back in five years!" Avery opined. The two ladies were so much obsessed with chatting that they didn't even notice there was someone like Grey in the backseat. Grey decided to use the opportunity to question Aphrodite. She should know something about the Diamond ring. He sent her a message quickly, even though he knew that she might not be able to reply as their time differs from where she was.

"I don't like him. I don't believe you got married to someone like this," Chloe said, dragging Grey's attention back to them. Grey watched Chloe laugh, meanwhile, Caramel merely smiled.

Then, Chloe saw the Diamond ring around her neck.

"Wait a minute! Is that not pure Rina's heart?" She exclaimed softly, her eyes went wide with shock.

Pure Rina's heart?

Avery looked down at the ring. She didn't quite know the ring's worth and was in fact planning on going to the internet. She desperately wanted to know the amount Chris spent on her gift. "This?" Avery asked, confused. Chloe nodded briefly. "Yes, where did you get it?" Avery held a smile. "I didn't buy this. Someone gave it to me as a gift. Is it worth more?" Chloe nodded quickly. "Pure Rina's heart was named after Rina. It was the ring that her husband proposed to her with. After they divorced, she sold the design." Avery was more than shocked. "And it's on sale?" Chloe smiled. "Yes!" She exaggerated.

"But only a few were finally made. And it's blue, it's so rare and it's termed as the most expensive Diamond ring in the world.

Avery smiled at this. "Do you know how much it could have been sold?" Chloe thought for a moment. "14.62 carats Fancy vivid blue Diamond is sold for 50 million on auction." Grey scoffed. "I got it more than that," he whispered for his hearing alone. Avery blinked once, shocked. "Auction?" Chloe nodded briefly. "Yes, and it's always limited. People said it brings luck because Rina got married to a more wealthy man. With this, you will be aiming high." Avery laughed. "Seriously? I didn't know we had something like this." "Yes, and you don't need money alone to get it. You need to have connections or you have to be at the auction room. Don't forget that the wealthiest people would be there. For all I know, they could end up buying it for 500 million dollars." "Exactly!" Grey said quickly, screaming the word out. He was actually glad that Chloe was finally saying it. Chloe craned her neck to look at Grey. "What is wrong with your husband, Avery?" She expressed with a note of irritation. Grey thought of something quickly. "I mean you were right. There's no way Chris would get a rare gem like that." "Seriously?" Chloe laughed. "Avery, remind me who Grey is again." "Come on, Chloe!" Avery stressed. "I told you he's always like that." "Bad Mouthing when in fact, he's nothing but a live-in son-in-law. Does he even contribute to the house?" Chloe was still watching Grey in a way that shows how much she was disgusted. "I didn't badmouth!" Grey protested. "In fact, I have a job now." "With the help of Alfred," she muttered.

Grey blinked once. How did Chloe know so much about him? Avery must have been badmouthing him to her.

There was no point arguing. So he kept shut. Instead, Grey got even more surprised. If the gem was really rare, how did Chris lay his hands on it? Seriously, he couldn't wait for Aphrodite to reply to him. Avery was very happy at the information she got concerning the blue Diamond and started to think highly of Chris.

LL When they pulled up at the front yard, the ladies were still chatting and laughing in between. They did as if Grey never existed. He didn't worry anyways. He only wanted to get on the bed and sleep. He felt so tired already. "Hey! What are you doing?" Avery's voice stopped Grey suddenly as he proceeded towards their bedroom." I just told you that Chloe would be staying over. Where did you expect her to stay?" Grey turned to look at her. "But there's no room here and I seriously have to sleep." "I have a suggestion," Chloe laughed. "Why don't you sleep in the courtyard or in the maid quarters where you belong?" Grey looked over at Avery. "How much badmouthing did you do Avery that Chloe is insulting your husband so much and you couldn't do anything about it?" "Three nights at the maids quarter!" Chloe said quickly. "Yes Grey, leave now before I increase it!"

Secretly The Billionaire Boss by Debbie chocolate Chapter 75-Inferior Grey had to wait in front of the door for the girls to finish up. It took a while as they were laughing and chatting. Grey groaned severely but he knew that Avery wouldn't want to be late as well. She was currently the CEO of LN material company and she wouldn't want to disappoint her grandfather. Truly, the door opened a few minutes later and Avery stepped out, still laughing with Chloe. "Good morning," he greeted but the ladies were too busy talking that they didn't even hear him or maybe they heard and didn't want to reply, Grey couldn't say.

Grey entered the room and tried to get ready very fast. As he was making his tie, his phone beeped. It was a message from Aphrodite.

Grey's eyes went wide with shock as he read through. The Blue Diamond was really rare, that was what Aphrodite confirmed. In fact, only one of the diamonds was in the city at the time of the auction to that moment. It was because of this that Aphrodite desperately wanted to buy it. That was why she kept increasing the price until she couldn't go any further.

Where did Chris get the Diamond then? When Grey got out, Smith was at the table which was very odd. He took his seat beside Him anyways since Chloe had taken his seat.

TT "What are you doing here, smith?" Emma bombarded him, she doesn't seem to like him.

Smith smiled. "I'm at my uncle's house. I think that question is a bit out of it." Lucy nodded. "He's right, Emma. He had equal rights as you and Avery," he affirmed. Emma groaned, clearly unsatisfied by her father's remark. Silence permeated for a while. "Lest I forget, Smith will be handling the contract with Protos Pubblicita," Lucy said suddenly "What! Grandpa! I should be doing that!" Avery said quickly.

"Yes, she's in charge," Emma chimed in.

Lucy cleared his throat meaningfully and took a glass of water. He drank to his heart's content. "Smith is handling the contract and that's it!" He said in a voice that left no room for more words. Avery's face fell and everyone went silent. But there was a satisfied smile on Smith's face.

Grey groaned inwardly. He wondered what Lucy was trying to do when he, as Hercules, stated that Avery must be the head of the team that would be involved with Protos Publicita.

Lucy and Smith left way earlier.

"I don't believe my father can do this!" Emma fumed.

Benjamin, who has been quiet for a while, decided to talk." I believe he had his reasons for this. I mean he's not removing Avery as the CEO." "Until when?" Emma yelled angrily. "I'm sure Smith is talking into his ears. And this is all Grey's fault!" She pointed an accusing finger at him. She was red as charcoal.

Grey stood up quickly. "I will leave now, bye," he said quickly and rushed out of the room with his briefcase.

He pulled a call to Jane the moment he pulled out of the Robison house. "Hi, Mr. Fox. Good morning," Jane's voice came from the other side, loud and clear.

"Protos Publicita is going to meet with LN material today right?" "Yes, master. We are supposed to get into work today," she explained. Grey shook his head once. "Alright, now if they send Smith over, we are terminating the contract." Jane went quiet for a moment. "Alright, master." "Yes, this contract will only carry on if it's Avery Robinson that is representing LN material. Tell them this," he ordered.

"Alright Boss," Jane replied softly and Grey hung up.

Seth had set an appointment with Chris at the office a day before. "So, what do you want me to do now?" Chris asked as he crossed his long legs, with curious eyes watching Seth.

Seth let out a sigh."I only want you to help me with the shares. I will definitely pay you back soon!" He assured him. "That aside, you will get it with interest if you can help me." Chris nodded briefly. Seth worked for him. So, it was only fair that he helped him. But he wanted to use the money to get a very expensive wristwatch for Lucy's birthday because Avery told him that he loved watches. But at the mention of interest, Chris couldn't help but find the offer good to him. "Alright, then but I can't guarantee I will be able to pay it all. I will write you the cheque for 60% shares. You can sort the remaining 10% on your own." Seth smiled. "Thank you so much," he was so happy.

He could easily sort himself out with the remaining 10%. He could even take a bank loan.

Chris wrote him the cheque.

Just as he walked out of the office, Chris's phone rang. It was Avery.

Chris was happy because Avery had never called him during work hours. He knew that she would love the Blue Diamond. "Hello Avery, how are you doing?" "Fine. I want to ask you a question, Chris." Avery couldn't stop thinking about the blue Diamond and wanted to confirm the price with Chris. She doesn't really expect Chris to get her a 50 million dollars worth of Diamond. What if he was proposing? How much would the ring cost? Probably 100 of million dollars.

"Yes, go on." "How much did you get the blue Diamond?" She didn't let Chris talk as she continued. "I'm not really asking to sound rude to you but I met a long-time friend and she told me it's Pure Rina's heart. In fact, she told me how rare it was." It was at that point that Chris felt at ease. "How much did she say it cost?" "Fifty million dollars. So, I just wanted to ask and be sure she wasn't exaggerating." Chris' heart skipped a sudden beat. How did it happen? He got the ring for five million dollars. How did it happen? "Are you there?" Avery jerked him out of his thoughts. "Yes," he stuttered. "May I call you back? I have an appointment to handle," and he hung up. He placed a call to the guy he got the ring from. The guy was international and dealt with a lot of diamonds.

"Hello." "Max, I'm only going to ask you this question once. How much was the blue Diamond you sold to me the other day?" "Five million dollars." Chris felt a stab of annoyance. "I'm talking about the actual price!" He yelled in a thick voice.

Max went silent for a moment. "It's 50 million dollars. It's not on sale and that was an imitation." "What!" Chris roared. "You mean you sold a fake ring to me?" Chris couldn't believe his ears.

Max sighed. "You wanted something very unique and rare but you were not ready to pay the price. As a matter of fact, the ring could cost more like the last auction. Aman got it for 200 million dollars." "What!" Chris' eyes almost went out of their socket in shock. Who was rich enough to get a ring for 200 million dollars at a go? Even Chris could not do so.

