

Shadow 381

Chapter 381: The thoughts that they have \(6\)

They prostrated but some of the brave among them take a peek at the person in the carriage. From the crest of the carriage everyone knows it is from Centre Palace.

They all prostrated because a Keeper of the Palace have come. It is from the Central Government but it is clear that this Keeper of the Palace did not come by the orders of the Central Government.

The Central Government have learned to keep their eyes closed when it comes to the matter of the Southern and Western Courts.

As long as they did not do anything detrimental to Pandemonium they could operate like usual and they all came to this understanding a long time ago

But this time a Keeper of the palace comes?

The people around the area all knows that this Keeper of the Palace must not have come because of the Central Government orders.

Because the Keeper of the Palace does not fall under the powers of the Central Government court or any other courts. Even the Generals dares not order the Keeper of the Palace of anything.

Then who could move the Keeper of the Palace who serves inside the Centre Palace to come out from their safe haven?

The answer is obvious. There is only one that is capable of ordering the Keeper of the Palace to move out from the Centre Palace.

Even the officials of the Central Government could not just wily nilly order the Keeper of the Palace. There is a reason why their title is Keeper of the Palace.

They work for the Palace and only for that person.

They do not have to enter politics and must not enter politics and must never entertain the thought of betraying the person that is sitting on that throne.

This Keeper of the Palace could only come here from a direct order from Death Monarch himself.

It is why all the people prostrated in the ground, with their head down and dare not show any disrespect to the Keeper of the Palace that is coming to this residence in the southern region.

The keeper of the palace is sitting inside a carriage and as he arrived in front of the entrance gate of the residence he comes out from his carriage and stand proudly with his back straight looking at the name plate on top of the entrance gate.

‘The Residence of Stars. It is a good name and a good residence. It is clear that the General loves this woman very much’ he said

The White Tiger army that is stationed outside the entrance gate also does not know how to act and how to receive this guest

The Keeper of the palace also did not want to make it hard for them. The Center Palace is his safe haven and he was forced by his other colleague to send the orders.

It is true under the protection and halo of Death Monarch authority he could do anything he wanted and no one could say a peep unless they wanted to disrespect Death Monarch in his own dominion.

No matter how generous Death Monarch is he would not tolerate such insubordination especially if that person dares humiliate him in his own lands.

After all Death Monarch has his own reputation to protect.

But as the Keeper of the Palace he also knows that Death Monarch will not always be present.

And in his absence the three General and the Central Government officials would govern in place of Death Monarch.

That has always been the case

It is why he does not dare abuse his power. He doesn't want to have a bad ending later. Everyone just wanted to survive in this world.

Why bother making it hard on each other to live?

He will only give the decree to the one in this residence and then quickly go back to the Centre Palace

'Announce my arrival' he said to the guard. The guard was flustered before he nodded and walk into the residence.

The Keeper of the Palace put his hand behind his back and waited.

Inside the residence, Somi finally stopped practicing her swordsmanship. She heard what the messenger announced to her.

She frowned. This is quite an event she thought to herself.

'A messenger from the Centre Palace? Are you sure? Is it not from the Central Government?'

The guards shake his head.

'My lady it is true. That person is from the Centre Palace and he is one of the Keeper of the Palace'

Somi eyes narrowed and her mind is thinking.

Somi is thinking of many things right now. If it is from the Centre Palace, then there is only one person that could send the Keeper of the Palace.

Somi did not have complicated feeling towards Death Monarch like Sasha even though she once had conflict with Death Monarch.

After all, Death Monarch has helped her and her sister. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

Even when they made a mistake and inflicted many mistakes to Death Monarch, the man forgives them and even let them join him and protected her people.

There are still some people of the plains that still regarded the Seven Fairy as the Protector of the Plains and felt grateful to her and her sisters even though they are no longer in the world.

Those people all joined Pandemonium when they heard Somi is living here

And because of Death Monarch, she was treated well, and she found the love of her life because of Death Monarch.

While she is not blindly loyal to Death Monarch like her lover, she always felt gratitude to Death Monarch.

Because of the sacrifices of her sister during the Weronian War Death Monarch also rarely orders her to do anything and rarely gives her any task.

But that is also not that bad. After all, she lives as an honored hero here in Pandemonium after the Weronian War.

She then said to the messenger

'Quickly ask him to come inside' Somi quickly went out from her courtyard and dresses herself to suit the occasion and waited for the Keeper of the Palace in front of her entrance gate

She could not let the Keeper of the Palace felt like she disrespected an envoy that bears a decree from Death Monarch himself.

She rushed to the entrance. At that time the Keeper of the Palace just come inside. She stands and bow to the Keeper of the palace.

The Keeper only smiles faintly.

'Lady Somi, this servant has not seen milady before. It is true what the world said. The Fairy of the Battlefield is deserving of her title. It is an honor for me'

'That is just some underserved compliment' Somi said.

The Keeper seeing that the lady is not interested in engaging in idling chat could only bitterly smile and get right back to business

He too quickly wanted to get this over with. He has other task involving another person that is roaming around the land like General Freya

'Lady Somi, receive the decree'

Hearing this, Somi and all of the servants including the guards in the front courtyard all kneels.

As it is entrusted to me by the ruler of Pandemonium, this decree is given to Lady Somi in full view of witness. This decree could only be read and seen by Lady Somi. Anyone who disobey would be executed' Feeling that his word has been heard he finally said

'I myself did not know what it is written inside but Your Majesty reminded me to say to you these words'

He come closer and he whispers some words to Somi ears and Somi nodded.

He then solemnly handed the decree and then said

'End of decree' Somi rises up and then all of the person behind her also rises up.

'Does Mister want to stop by for some delicacies and snacks? The Southern Region have many foods all around the world.

Somi tried to host the Keeper of the Palace. But the Keeper of the palace shakes his head and said

'I appreciate the sentiment but there are other matters I need to handle so I had to decline' Some nodded in understanding and she ordered

'Escort the keeper to his carriage until he reached the border of the southern region. Make sure nothing happens to him' The soldiers nodded and quickly they escorted the Keeper of the palace out the residence

Somi after the Keeper finally went out from her residence she frowned.

'Hmm' She said, as her eyebrows still frowning

Her maidservants noticed something is wrong with their lady expression.

Somi on the other hand quickly goes to her study and then close all the door, erect anti listening and anti-Divine Sense detection before slowly opening the scroll.

When she opens the scrolls, there is unintelligible words.

Somi knows this is meant for her eyes only as she looked at the bottom of the scroll there is a fingerprint mark.

She knows what she needs to do. She puts her fingerprint on that fingerprint mark and the words assemble itself and the message is revealed to her.

Reading it Somi don't know how she is supposed to feel.

'So.... that is the message. Now the words of the Keeper make sense'

She then holds the scrolls and a sharp sword energy bursted out from her palm and the decree is turned into dust in the wind.

She deactivated all the anti-listening spells and enchantment and opens the door and went out.

The moment she went out she orders her maidservants to prepare her clothes and ask for the cooperation from the Central Government to allow her fly across Pandemonium.

'My lady where are you going?' One of the maidservants asked as she is packing Lady Somi clothes into the storage bag

Somi showing a helpless expression said

'Island of Peace'

As Somi went out from Pandemonium and is heading to island of Peace, she did not know she just averted a disaster

If both Loki and Yewa Hafar knows this, they would call this the hand of fate and destiny guiding her.

How could it be so coincidental that the moment Loki is here trying to seek the Pawn of Yewa Hafar, that very Pawn is ordered to go somewhere else.

The most terrifying thing is that this is not some machinations by Yewa Hafar or some other person.

Even Yewa Hafar doesn't know that Loki is here in Pandemonium trying to seek his pawn. He is busy of doing other things and planning other things.

And Loki himself didn't know that Somi is the pawn and he just missed her by a beat. Loki don't know it but Time, Destiny and Fate that he scorned so much is fighting back.

Coincidence could sometimes also be called Fate and Destiny.

One should never underestimate such powerful concepts that governs life and its conclusion.

As Somi leaves the continent, Loki begins his search. Isn't this like Fate and Destiny slapping the face of the Trickster?

Meanwhile on some abandoned cave, a pair of eyes is looking at the world coldly and planning and scheming, putting chess pieces and trying to set the tone of the chessboards.

And there is a smirk on his face. An evil and malicious smirk.

Chapter 382: The purple speedster and the oracle \(1\)

GREECE

ON THE NIGHT OF LOKI RETURN

In the night of the day Loki returned to Pandemonium, another event was happening on the other side of the world that is as equally as important and even have a larger far reaching consequences.

Somewhere on the world, a butterfly is flapping its wind and on the other side of the world a storm is forming

While Loki and Yewa Hafar is putting down their chess pieces, plotting and scheming in the dark, there is one other player hidden in the background that no one knows about.

No one even knows that there is another one that is playing this chess game. And there lies the advantage of this unknown player

That person hides deeply and so secretively that two of the most knowledgeable men of the Universe could not even detect that person

And that person is on Greece, in Santorini.

What does that have to do what happens to the underground lab in Centre palace?

Everything.

Will the Purple Speedster was unconscious after his battle with Sithulran. And he was in a coma.

It was nothing serious. But the blows he traded with Sithulran and the injuries inflicted on him were not a calamity. Instead it was a blessing.

Will.... gained enlightenment at the last moment when his consciousness faded away and his energy aligned with the green lightning energy he got inside the Temple under the Sea.

And in his coma....he saw something.....something that shocked him to his very core and even made him doubt certain things in his life and even his sanity.

He was in a coma yet, oddly he is conscious of what is happening to his body. He seems to travel into a vast space of nothingness

Of course.... that is not the only thing he saw.

He knows that barely a day passes on the real world, but in his consciousness he witnesses something that takes a lot more time than that.

It felt like he is spending eternity in this nothingness of darkness and void.

And then he saw someone.....someone he knew. That person floats towards him in his consciousness, shrouded with green and purplish mist and whispered something to him.

The words wake him up.

He opens his eyes, because he seems to see something that transcends his understanding during his unconscious moment.

Immediately green lightning sparks out from him, swirling and coursing through his entire body and when he awakens he does not delay as he explodes into a thunderbolt shape and races out from his sanctuary.

He runs and runs and becomes like a whirlwind, blowing away anything around him as he keeps running like he is not going to stop.

His eyes are determined and his mind is clear even when he just woke up from an unexplainable coma.

There is a sense of purpose that moves his feet

Lightning covered him and golden, red, blue, black, and green color lightning exploded out from him and envelops him like he is in a protective shell of these colored lightning

He saw something when he was in a coma.

He did not understand a thing about what he sees. He even tries to convince himself that it is probably an illusion or some ridiculous dream.

But his heart keeps telling him...that it is not some illusion or some dream. For some unexplainable reason, he felt like he was there in that dream, experiencing those things.

The feeling he felt in that dream felt so real and raw.

The space around him folded with the green lightning seems to puncture a hole into Time pockets and force Time and Space to fold into itself but at the same Time it was being straightened out.

Will felt for the first time what ability he had gained in the Temple and why his teacher always recommended him to seek the Temple of Speed all across the Universe.

The green lightning, he absorbed in the Temple finally shows its powers.

He was not yet proficient in using that energy when he was fighting Sithulran but the coma made the energy that is dormant and inactivated to truly assimilate itself into the very core of Will power and Disk.

Now that energy enables him to even sense the flow of Time that flows throughout the world. He could feel it.

Could anyone imagine that? Feeling the abstract concept of Time flowing underneath your feet like a gentle wave of the ocean.

He was so acute in sensing the Time and the Space vectors that Will felt he could run on top of those lines of Times and enter into that line.

But he did not try it of course. He and his brother Azief knows the perils and consequences of Time travel is not cheap.

Though because Will is a Speedster the risk is higher on him.

Lightning in his eyes, lightning in his feet and lightning in his entire body and Time and Space warping and breaking down around him

His lightning is not like the lightning of Oreki.

His lightning embodied not the destruction of Oreki the Thunder Monarch or the annihilation power of the Tribulation Thunder of the Heavens.

His lightning is the pure representation of Speed. Of the purest force of Speed. A Speed Source that seems to flow throughout the vast expansive galaxy of the Universe.

He only has one objective right now.

That woman.

Erika...the one the world called The Oracle.

He saw her in his weird dreams. Well....it is not really a dream.

The surface of his skin collided against wind squalls and gravity forces him to slow his speed. But after his visit to the Temple he is no longer like before.

His Speed.... unlike before, felt more calm, more slow, yet at the same time faster.

It is the contradiction of Time. Each time Will move, the essence of speed energy he got from the Temple affect Time flows around him making him feel like he was running slow but because the Time flow around him is different than he was actually moving faster than before.

The kinetic motions of his body is stored inside his suit of lightning which he created from the pure source of Speed.

That kinetic energy could be released and boost Will attack. It is a new ability he unlocked after fully mastering the energy in that Temple.

He breathes in lightning and the kinetic energy around him like he is some kind of devourer of speed.

The places he passes experiences a slower time flow as he uses its speed to boost his speed even more.

His purple suit seems to turn green because of the enveloping lightning

Of course no one could see it since he is moving too fast for the eyes to capture or even reflected the light of his being.

The area around him distorted in a spiral like movement making him look blurry and unrecognizable even if someone managed to follow his speed

He phases through everything like he is the embodiment of speed.

Time and Space around him bend and seems to follow no rules at all. It took him no time at all to finally find Erika.

All of it seems long to describe but only five minutes passed from the moment he breaks out from his quartz capsule and circle the world to seek Erika.

That is who he seeks.

The woman he saw in his dreams. In that dream-like scape, he dreams of something terrible. Of red skies, of dust and rivers of blood.

Of a gigantic eye on the sky that is looking down upon all creation without feelings. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

He stopped outside a large house on top of the hill. His entire existence and being is masked by the green lightning that is swirling around him.

It distorts Time and even imitates Time fragments.

The green lightning imitates the Time when Will was not here and envelop Will with it making anyone who uses Divine Sense will sense nothing at all because Will body was masked by the sense of Time when he was not here.

Will found more and more uses of this energy he got from the temple.

It is also probably why he sees that dream.

He is not sure why but he knows if it is true then what he saw in his dreams....is probably something that would happen in the future.

Or probably an alternate timeline and his mind was just unlucky enough to see it.

Will also understand a few things about Time and its Laws.

Considering that he is a Speedster and they are times that they sometimes slipped into a Time Tunnel, which is like the most terrible thing that could happen to Speedster, he made himself pretty knowledgeable about Time and the ideas surrounding it.

Time Tunnel is a phenomenon only Speedster could experience. At least Speedster are more prone of slipping themselves into a Time Tunnel.

He learned all of this from his teacher.

Time Tunnel is not something that is good. It might sound good because you could travel through time. It only sound good on paper but it is quite terrible.

Chapter 383: The purple speedster and the oracle \(2\)

Sometime one could even lost himself in there and trapped inside a Time Tunnel.

If you are lucky you would be thrown off into some distant past or some distant futures in one own timeline and dimension.

To those who were not that lucky they might get trapped into a Time Loop without even knowing that they are trapped in a Time loop.

What is terrifying is that if you are transported into a Time which is not of your dimension and on your Timeline.

A Speedsters might even lose their entire source of power and could not return back.

So each Speedster must be careful not to run too fast that it breaks the Time barrier and created a Time Tunnel.

To those who survived the Time Tunnel phenomena or lucky enough to stop before they got into the Time Tunnel, some of them said that the entrance to the Time Tunnel is a door.

While some said it is a gate. His teacher said that probably what each Speedster saw would be different.

To some Speedster it could be a large door. To some other it would be a gate.

The Speedster of the past could run into a Time tunnel and arrived at a time of their choosing. That is probably why they created an imbalance in the Laws of the Universe and was eradicated by the Destroyer.

His teacher told him that he could do it too. But he must have a compass. When asked about what kind of compass.... his teacher never replied.

His Teacher would only say that Speedster speed is akin of magic sometimes.

She would only say that each time he asks about the compass and not before long Will did not ask the question again.

Will shakes his head shaking of his memories and he look at the house and sighed. He doesn't know how to approach that woman.

But the words that Erika said in his dreams still echoes inside his mind and in his ears. It is like a spell somehow.

Will think that the dream-like scape is actually the resonance of the future but it also could be something else.

If it is the resonance of the future trying to resonate with the past then that would probably mean the woman that people called Oracle in the future would meet him and said those words to him, knowing that her words would resonate to the past and reached him

That is quite impossible right? How could one predict such a thing? If it's true, then the world might have underestimated Erika the Oracle too much.

And she might be more terrifying than anyone could imagine. It is for this reason that he had to know for sure.

WHOOSH! WHOOSH!

Will look at the distance and he frowned. The wind blows gently.

Will could hear the sound of the wave slapping in the distance. Around the shores are hunters roasting a large Kraken while singing a festive song and drinking.

Among those hunters are some pirates. Will saw the so called Kraken when he circled the island before.

Though in Will eyes that is not a Kraken. That is just a large squid.

Will knows the real Kraken is not twenty feet high. It is one hundred feet high with tentacle that could wipe out a city.

He remembers he was shaken when he saw it

And that monster is still asleep.

And it is not in Greece. Will when he was at Pandemonium was shown something very shocking by his brother.

Azief shows him the location of the Kraken, northwest side of the Pandemonium Sea, sleeping soundly on the bottom of the sea. It looks like a large island on the bottom of the seas

Will did ask Azief why he did not kill the Kraken.

He simply said it is his plans.

He already informed this matter to the army and the officials of Pandemonium and instead of killing it they decided to nurture it.

Of course the only reason they were confident of doing this is because Pandemonium has Death Monarch. Even if Death Monarch is gone they still have The Three Generals.

If they could tame it that would be even better.

If they could not, when the Kraken is on a rampage, it would be a time where every low level citizen could at least shoot one bullet or an arrow and when the Three Army go for the kill or the weapons created in Pandemonium deliver the killing shot, his people would instantly rise up in levels making Pandemonium citizens becomes even stronger.

Will of course knows the ideas that Azief had about the distribution of energy.

But it is different for monsters.

Their body seems to be storing a fixed amount of energy that when they died that energy is absorbed by the people killing it.

Whoosh! Whoosh!

The waves sounded again and Will take a deep breath. He is in Greece. Specifically, he is in Santorini.

It is an island in the southern Aegean Sea now ruled by the Seven Warlords of Delphi.

While the Seven Warlords of Delphi is from the World Government people knows that they are trying to leave the World Government.

Erika on the other hand is one for the people of the Republic.

But unlike any of their public figure or enemies, the World Government did not put any restriction on her or any kill order or show her any disrespect.

And even the Republic allowed the Oracle to go wherever they pleased.

Of all the officials, and figures in both organization, other than Raymond and Oracle, nobody else possess such autonomy over their own affairs that would not affect the organization much.

Raymond was given such privileges because he is not worrisome and his influence in World Government could even be considered more influential than Hirate.

The responsible hero of the World Government that is Raymond described to perfection.

The oracle however is like a deity to some people divining futures like some kind of Gods of Fates and Destiny.

Like Death Monarch she has her own cult. She did not lead them but it is clear people believe in her like she is some kind of messenger of God Will.

Will sighed. Erika is not an easy person to talk to. Only Death Monarch would be so nonchalant about the Oracle and not even interested in meeting her.

The other thing that Death Monarch don't have toward her is dread. Will however dread his meeting.

'It is truly beautiful' Will said as he looks at the island.

He circles the island once before he stopped at his current position. While he is moving fast, his mind also becomes fast. It was like his perception matched automatically with his speed.

There is no longer blue roof and white houses in this island like before the Fall.

It was like it returned to the age of antiquity, looking serene and calm... and above all beautiful.

It is quite ironic. The Fall took millions of lives. The Weronian War that comes later takes more lives. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

The human population is the lowest it's been since the modern age.

But in the absence of humans, or lack of them, and probably because of the Fall, Earth becomes even more beautiful and not to mention healthier.

Lush, tall trees, clear sparkling river water and a clean ocean. It was like Earth got a reset button

Even the air felt like something heavenly

'Kallístē' he muttered under his breath.

That is the name of this island before it is called Santorini.

Kallístē means the beautiful one.

And it lived up to its name. There are not many people living on these island.

Some of them are either the native people who survived the initial war and the Weronian War after and the other are people who found this island and make a life here.

And pirates. Will did not forget the pirates that hides their treasures around the many coves on the Aegean Sea and the abandoned island all over the world.

They probably wouldn't even know that the All Seeing Oracle lives among them.

Chapter 384: The purple speedster and the oracle \(3\)

Will instead of running again walk slowly. He doesn't know if he walks because he is afraid of the truth or because of something else.

He is not quite excited to find the truth...but at the same time he could not help but keep walking forward.

His breath never let fear dictates his choices. Instead he makes his choice despite the fear. Probably that is why he become that strong.

He keeps reminding himself of the words that his brother told him

'Being fearless...does not mean having no fear. It is charging forward...despite of it. It is bravery.... mixed with the good kind of foolishness. Because things are uncertain, people have fear. And charging through that uncertainty is how one become fearless.'

So, he too would make the same decision. he keeps walking forward...but slowly. Like he is waiting for some sign to make him turn back.

But he could only hear the shrieking of the seagull and the waves slapping the beach. He looked upwards and saw the sparkling stars of the night.

He looks on his left and he could see a river not far away from the house. Someone built that river using their abilities.

Santorini have no rivers and water is usually scarce.

The rain is also rare but after the Fall people have a lot of abilities. Just looked at Death Monarch Azief.

Wherever he goes storms and thunders would follow. Weather manipulation is easy for powerful people.

As he walked to the house, he could see a tomato garden on the outside. It is intensely red, staining color.

There are also a few white eggplants and katsoúni, a unique local variety of large cucumber which, if left unpicked when green, turn yellow and acquire a sweet taste almost indistinguishable from that of melon

Will used to eat it when he meets one of the Seven Warlords of Delphi. He could see the house is large and is a two story house.

As he come closer he notices something odd about the house and the entire vibe of the area. It is too silent....and too serene.

It was a premonition. Not of a premonition of something gone wrong...it is just an unease and uncomfortableness.

He arrived at the front door and then he knocks it. He waited for a moment but no one answered. Will pushed the door of the house and with a creaking sound it opens.

The windows and the door slowly opened up and Will could see there is no one on the second floor of the house.

At this time the weirdness of this house is raised several levels inside Will heart.

He took a step forward and enter the house

The light is open on the first floor, the chair overlooking the large sea on the veranda is empty. Then Will heard a noise.

He could hear that it comes from upstairs. Will already uses his divine sense before and he knows there is two people in the house.

But yet, in the first floor no one is there. And while it does seem like a trap nothing sprung up at him yet.

Then Will finally understand why he felt unease.

It was like someone is waiting for him to come here. It was like he was always in the calculation of this person.

Is this person Erika or someone else? Will ask himself. If truth be told, the reason he came here tonight is not just because of the vision he saw about his brother.

But he also came because there is a vision about himself. It is quite a long dream. For some reason, there is also excitement in his heart as he is about to see the Oracle.

But he no longer hesitated.

He slowly climbs the stairs and arrived at the second floor. The second floor is an open area with no ceiling and with the full view of the expansive Aegean Sea.

There is only a tarp like cloth that is attached to the pillars of some wooden pole that would protect anyone from rain.

It is flapping because of the wind

Like the first floor the second floor is illuminated with lights and there is even a dinner table in the middle of the open area.

Sitting there leaning on her chair is a woman. She sighed when she saw Will and said

'I guess, it is true. You came after all.'

Will looked at the woman and he is trying to see whether the woman is shocked at seeing him but he saw no such thing on the face of the woman. Instead he saw only disappointment.

It was then he remembers the message in his dreams

He slowly asks

'You know I would come. Did you also see it?' Will asked even as he tried to deny the truth

Erika sighed.

'I actually hope you would not come. If you did not come tonight...I intend to treat what I saw as nothing more than this woman delusional thoughts'

Will smiles bitterly

The wind blows onto the second floor and Will hair ruffles and lightning sparks from the tip of his hair.

'I came' Will said

Bitterly smiling Erika nodded

'Yeah.... you came.... that is truly unfortunate. I guess it is more than just a dream after all.' Will did not say anything else instead he asks

'Did you send that message in my dreams?'

Erika sighed again. She looks at the stars on the sky and as the wind blows on her face, her hair waves gracefully under the illumination of the light.

'Please sit first' she said gesturing to Will to take a seat.

'Let's eat. I thought you would come so I prepared some dishes. I am quite a good cook.'

This time it is Will turn to be surprised. The matter he is about to speak about is something that is very serious.

Erika saw the expression on Will face and said.

'I know, I know. It is a serious matter. But let's eat first. I am starving'

Will did not immediately take his seat. Instead he asked

'Where is Antonius? I know he is here' By now he could already have deduced who is the other person in the house.

And the way he said the name is like the man is his rival. Erika notices it and she smiles a bit. What a tangled fate...she thought to herself

Erika then raise her eyebrows.

'Wow, paranoid much?' Then Erika shakes her head.

'Death Monarch is rubbing off on you' Will just shrug it off.

'Where is he?' Will asked again

'he is asleep at the moment. So we could have our talk more comfortably' Erika finally answered Will question

'Asleep?'

'Well, technically I drugged him...but he is asleep' Hearing this Will look at Erika incredulously. Erika just raise her shoulder and said

'He doesn't know anything about what we will be talking about. Since you came.... you also wanted to know, right? Or to be more accurate you want me to tell you it is not true right? Or do you want to tell me it's the truth. That is why you had such a face. You are in dilemma of wanting to believe and don't want to believe'

'Well, then...Is it...true?' Will ask, his clear eyes are staring at Erika. Erika only smiles

'Well.... if you want to know, let's eat first' and Erika laughs looking at Will face. He looks like he just swallowed a fly.

'Don't give me that face. This is a rare opportunity to taste my cooking. It is usually people serving me food and not the other way around. Will the famous Speedster...be honored that I am cooking you food'

Will seeing no other reasons to refuse take a seat on the table. Because there are more reasons to eat Erika food than not.

Erika couldn't see it but Will is smiling as he takes the seat but he quickly wipes the smile after he sit down.

On the table there is a lot of food. The is fava, brantada which is fish dish. It is cod fillet coated in a mixture of flour, water, salt and from what Will smell beer.

It is served with garlic salad. The dish in the table is overflowing like Will was invited into a feast. There is Koskosela and Sfougato.

There is also some Omatokeftdes. It is tomato fritter made with cherry sized tomatoes.

For the drink there is Vinsato, the Holy wine. It is a dessert wine made from the best sun-dried Assyrtiko, Athiri, and Aidani grapes, and undergoing long barrel aging

Will don't even know how Erika got his hand on most of them. It is quite amazing when you think about it.

It is like Loki and his carbonated drinks. Even till now Will don't know how Loki got that.

'There is a lot of food on the table' Will remarked. Erika only smiles. Then she answered

'You have been running all around the world searching for me. Correct me if I'm wrong...you speedster need to eat a lot right?'

'We could absorb energy from the world' Will reply

'Ah' And Erika wave her hand like that is something insulting.

'But the world energy doesn't really have a taste right? It could not beat the taste of a good aged wine or a freshly baked bread'

Will nodded

'Well, you are not exactly wrong'

'HAHAHA. I rarely do' Erika laughed. Will was about to take a sip on some of the soup but Erika said before Will had the chance to take a sip

'There is also white wine if you want. It is quite strong and extremely dry. It is citrus scent. Tell me if you want that instead. I got it holed up in my wine cellar and like you could see right now I don't get many visitors here.... other than the pirates. They are a rowdy bunch but they are quiet interesting'

Will just nodded and said

'I think this is quite enough for me' this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

'Good. Let us eat before Antonius wakes up' Will just nodded and slowly eats his dishes.

He felt weird as he is eating.

He thought he would be having an intense discussion by now, probably frowning and solemnly thinking by the edge of a hill by now after finishing the conversation with Erika.

Who would have thought instead of anything like that he is invited to eat and sit down on her table drinking some aged wine and eating some fish?

For some reason he felt his heart comforted. Since the moment he saw that scene in his dream his heart could not stop beating with anxiousness and fear.

They eat in silence and calmly. Erika sometimes stole a glance at Wil and when she saw Will eating her food with delight, she also unconsciously smiles.

Chapter 385: The purple speedster and the oracle \(4\)

Even though she said she wished he didn't come, truth was, she was also kind of excited to meet him and nervously waiting for him.

Will is not the only one that sees thing in that vision. She saw it too. It fills her with a contradiction. She wanted to see him but at the same time she doesn't want to.

It is only humans that is this complicated.

In about ten minutes they finished eating. There is a trace of satisfaction on Erika face.

Will put down his spoon as he finished his meal.

'I am finished' he said

'Me too' Erika sighed and then she got up from her seat and walk to the balcony. Will follow her from behind

They look at the sea from their high hills and they saw the waves kissing the beach.

There is a weird silence as they looked ahead. For a moment both of them just enjoyed this night view without saying anything.

And no one wanted to be the first to break this scene. But then anything good must have an end.

There is no banquet that last forever.

Will then asked.

'What I saw.... what is it?'

Erika close her eyes. It was like what she is about to say is very important and could even determine the fate of all creation.

She then slowly opens her eyes back. She already gathered her courage and determination.

She made a promise to herself if the vision in her dreams come true, if the Speedster comes into her home like the dreams she dreams, then she promised that she would see this through the end.

Even at the cost of her eyes. Even at the cost of her life. She would not falter and she would give up.

Because if the Speedster comes, then that means her dreams is true.

'You must have your own assumptions and thoughts about what you see. And I am here to tell you that it is as you thought' Erika said

'My future?' Will ask for confirmation

'One of your future' she said

'What does that supposed to mean?' he asked. Erika look at the distance, sighed and said

'Well.... the future is not yet written. We still have time' she said.

Will thought about it. He looks at Erika and the shakes his head.

'But.....what is that eye? And why did he kill me?' he asks. Erika who is standing beside Will look toward his eyes and stare at it.

Both of them gaze into each other eyes and both of them feel it. That familiarity of feelings. Both of them avert their gaze at the same time.

'Even I only saw glimpses' Erika said while trying to hide the trembling in her tone of voice.

Then Erika turned to look toward Will once again and could not help but notice Will body. She sees more than just the muscular tough body of Will.

She might be taken but that doesn't mean she did not enjoy looking at other men. She notes there is a Time energy swirling around him that could not seen by the naked eye

'You got an upgrade' she said

Will nodded

'I got good luck' he said nonchalantly. Erika just scoffed at his offhanded comment. Then she said

'Time.....is quite weird. It does not have any definite answer and if you think too much about it you could even get crazy. Since you have Time energy you could see some glimpse of future. That is not quite a good ability to have. Everyone think if you have the ability to see the future your life would be smooth sailing. Truth is, nothing come without a Price. You understand why right?'

Will nodded

'Because you would always question yourself whether the decision you made is correct or not. And that fear and uncertainty would surely block your way forward' Erika just nodded solemnly

Then she added

'Yes, unless you have the full knowledge of what is going to happen, a true chronicle of what is about to happen, nothing is quite certain and nothing is quite easy as one would imagine. Unless you could count the factors and the causal effect with absolute precision, one would be always control by Time, Fate and Destiny. And we both don't have that kind of ability. We were only blessed or cursed depending on how you choose to see this ability, to see some glimpses of the future and be wrecked by uncertainty and fear'

Will did not say anything. He instead closes his eyes and let the wind of the island blows over him. He sighed. There is no good answer and there is no true certainty.

He opens his eyes back up.

Erika waited for him and then smiling she said

'We only see glimpses. And we fear that glimpses of the future would change how we would act and instead produced the very result we don't want to happen. Kind of like a self-fulfilled prophecy'

Will nodded. They once again look at each other eyes. It seems like there is still something left unsaid. But both of them doesn't seem to know how to broach the subject.

Will sighed and is about to walk away. Erika tightened her fist as she waist. But Will said nothing. She sighed and then she shouted from behind him

'Is that the only reason you came?' she asked. She tries to sound calm but there is an unmistakable nervousness in her voice. Will also notice it. His steps stopped.

Will think for a moment what he is about to say. He has one more question. No, he has a lot of more question. But he fears to break the peace. So, he couldn't let the words come out of his mouth.

So the only thing he could do is he nodded and he is about to go away. But Erika is not going to let him go that easy.

'Wait' Will sighed and turned back

'What?'

'You are not shaken?' Erika asked

'Why would I?' Will ask back. Erika was shocked at how calm Will is being. Instead it was she that is slowly becoming angrier at Will. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

Could he not know that she is talking about these to help him avert a disaster? Why would he treat this so easily and so unimportantly?

'You saw that your own sworn bother killing you and turns you into dust. That don't shake you? Wow, you are really a badass' Erika said with a mocking tone and Will expression hardens.

'What do you mean by that?'

'I mean the decision you made now would probably shape that future. So, don't go back there. And don't lie to me that you only came here because of the vision you saw in the dream'

Will did not say anything but his forehead clearly creased.

'I know you saw another vision' she said

'How do you know?' Will said as calmly as he could.

Erika laugh bitterly and said

'All of this has happened before. It is just that is happening again. Maybe not in the right order...and a little bit different but it still happens'

Will sighed.

'We will meet again...right?' Will suddenly asked. No one could understand why Will ask these question suddenly but Erika could understand.

'Probably.... maybe' Erika reply, and there is an accepting expression on Will face after hearing Erika answer

Then he said

'Forgive me when that time comes'

'Don't. There is nothing to forgive. There must be a reason why I did those things. As there must be reason why you will help Death Monarch in that quest. We all have our parts to play. We just don't know what our parts is yet'

Will chuckles bitterly and then ask

'Even you?' Erika nodded and reply

'Even me'

'Hmm. That sucks.' There is a silence again in the second floor of this house. The sound of the waves sounded again and the wind blows on them.

Then Will asked.

'Who did I saw in my dream?' Will asked again.

He could guess but he wanted to make sure. Because what happens and her answer would probably change how he treats this woman...for many reason other than the obvious.

Erika then asked back

'Don't you already know?'

'Still need you to say it' Will reply. Erika only shakes her head but she answered the question

'Probably future me. No...I am quite sure that is the future me' Will scoffed and then said what he remains left unsaid before

Chapter 386: The purple speedster and the oracle \(5\)

'I guess future me and future you.... are quite intimate'

Erika smiles deviously.

'Is that why you came?' Will shakes his head.

'No' Will said.

Erika chuckles.

'It looks like that is why you came' Will look at the teasing expression of Erika and he knew what Erika is implying. He shakes his head and said

'I said no'

But Erika couldn't just stop. She asks

'In that future dreams of yours, am I a good kisser?' Erika ask.

Will blushed.

'I said I am not coming because of that' Erika chuckles for a second. Then she sighed. It seems like there is regret in that sigh but also longing.

What does she regret and what does she long for?

She then said

'That is a future.....that does not yet happen. And we should pray it never happens' Will hearing this nodded though there is a trace of sadness on his face.

'I agree with you on this' They look at each other and there is now an understanding.... but just like before there is still an unsaid words and feelings.

Before tonight both of these two rarely cross path and the amount they saw each other is even more rare.

But why could their eyes look at each other like they know each other for years and years? How could their eyes look at each other like they were some kind of sweethearts to each other?

The fact that they met now is a miracle. Whether it be coincidence or fate it is a miracle.

Will then is about to go down from the second floor. He walks slowly, while at the same time hesitating to take that step forward.

It is like a personal struggle to walk forward and go down to the first floor.

Erika look at Will back but before he is about to walking down to the first floor Erika stopped him, holding his arm

She spun him around and she look at him straight at the eye. Then she said with a serious face to Will

'Tell me...what will you do? Now you know what is going to happen to you? Don't tell me you are going back to his side? Tell me, you are not that big of an idiot'

Will only smiles bitterly

'Does it worry you?' he asked. There is many meaning in those words and Erika don't know whether she could bear the burden of the meaning behind that word.

Erika nodded and she said

I...do worry about you' she said it hesitantly. Will could quite understand the dilemma she has but he couldn't help himself so he asked.

'Why? Why do you worry about me?' Will knows the answer. But he wants to hears her said it. He wants to know if he still has a chance of happiness.

Erika look down and she sighed.

'I saw in the future.... what we became. What we could have together. And what we are to each other. To say I am not tempted...would be a lie. But in this.....in this time.....I am not with you....and you are not with me'

'You saw it too?' Will ask

Erika bitterly smiles.

'If you saw it, how could I not see it. There is Karma between us. I don't know whether it is because you are a speedster or because I am an Oracle. Even if Time messed up, it seems there is Karma connecting us. Or maybe it is Fate. Or destiny. Or maybe it is all of that.'

'So...you are worried about me?'

'I am worried about you' She looks at him right in his eyes and holds his hand tightly and squeezes it, praying he would heed her advice and said

'You are a good man. You are more than that. You were perfect. The kindest man I ever had the pleasure to love' And then with a hard to say word Erika said

'And a good father to his son'

Will looks at Erika with a complicated expression. Before tonight, he doesn't know much about Erika the All Seeing oracle.

But one night...and one dream...it was like he has spent an entire life with this woman. It was like one of those long tall tales in One Thousand and One Nights

No wonder, his teacher always said to him that the life of Speedster is very complicated.

In another lifetime he and Erika were lovers. It is why he was so awkward and felt weird all during the dinner

They were more than just some casual lovers.

They married each other during a sunset on Athens. They live a happy life together even through all the hardships.

He was happy with her by his side. Her right hand wrapping his left hand and just to be able to be like that make him feel her love.

Each day together, they found little happiness that could be cherished and must be protected. In a big world and in such harsh conditions and tribulations, they found each other amidst all that.

It turns out Azief is not the only one that has an epic love story. It might not be as sensational or dramatic as Azief's love story, but Will and Erika's love is not that kind of love.

It was a sincere love. Even on days when nothing goes well, or even in the day when everything goes well, just being together makes them happy.

As long as they are together they could forget all sadness and sorrows if they share it together.

In that timeline, Will was not that close with Death Monarch and helped him travel to the future only once.

At that time Erika is known as the One Eyed Oracle.

After that matter, Erika disappeared from public eyes and they know each other and started loving each other.

Then they lived together with their son, Antonius, the name was given in memory of her friend and bodyguard.

Until something happened that tore them apart.

Erika and Will both don't know what happened but in the glimpse of the future he saw, Will was howling to the red sky, his son on his arms, dying and bleeding.

And he was crying blood from his eyes. And that son is also Erika son.

But clearly something changed this time.

Antonius did not die in the early days of the Fall and she falls in love with Antonius while Will become sworn brother with Death Monarch and their close friendship and unbreakable bond of brotherhood is known to the world.

Erika was clear and know what she is feeling right now is not her feeling but the feelings of her future self.... but she could not help but somehow reminded her of the gentleness of this man in the future.

In a way it is a resonance of the past

The situation they are in is quite fucked up.

'Tell....me. What are you planning to do?' She said squeezing his hand. It is the way the future Erika always used to make Will agree with him.

But they are not those people in their dreams no matter how sweet that dream is.

Will shake his head and said

'I don't know what the future holds. But I know this. I won't betray my brother' Will said without hesitation.

Erika frowned and she almost shouted to him in worry

'He will kill you'

'For what exactly?' Will ask back.

Erika don't know so she said

'I don't know, you idiot. But he will kill you. And I don't want to see that happens to you'

'And what does that have to do with you?' Will asked, like he is trying to make sure Erika feelings for him.

Erika flared up and punch Will on the chest and she said

'Idiot. You...don't know how to appreciate kindness'

Will sighed

'How do you know that this time it would be the same? Maybe he had changed. After all, we are not exactly like we were in the dream' Will said and Erika quickly retorted back

'It is not a dream' Will smirk and nodded

'True. It is not a dream' Will said

'It is just one possible future' he admitted. And Will shakes his head

He looks at Erika with a complicated feeling. If he did not know who she is or what she could become to him, he would not feel this conflicted.

But he knows. In another lifetime, she was the love of his life. And he.... was hers. They were each other moon and sun.

In that dream...yes, there is tragedy, death and all those dark things. But they also had each other.

And that is the most important thing

Will always felt like his life was incomplete. It wasn't until last night after seeing that dream, he knows what he is missing.

Someone that loves him. And that is the true reason he is here to night.

He wanted to ascertain the truth not because he fears Death but because he wanted to confirm whether that love he saw in that dream.....in that possible future is real.

It is the question whether that love is real that is more important to him rather than the threat of Death looming against him.

When he knows that the dream was real, then he knows what he has been waiting for all this time. He was waiting for this woman in front of him.

He doesn't know whether it is because of that glimpse of the future or because it is destiny or fate, but he felt like he belongs with her

And Erika.... who loves another man in this timeline also felt something when she saw him tonight.

When she serves him food she was reminded of a future she secretly wanted. She likes the fact that he even though tried to hide it, he loves her cooking.

It was like all this time.... they were waiting or each other to see each other. It is quite ironic and sad.... that the timing isn't right.

Then suddenly it rains on the sky. Santorini rarely rains. Someone is sad....and it affects the weather.

The rain like tears falls down slowly

'Listen to me, Will. Don't...get near him...Its dangerous'

Will shakes his head. He kind of understand what she is worried about and he could see the plan that Erika have for Azief.

But he could not do what Erika ask of him.

'He is my brother. He had protected me and shelter me and love me like a family. Erika...I will not betray him'

Erika look at him and they share a look. The tarp is blowing wildly and the rain drops falls onto both of them.

It is a downpour. Antonius is still sleeping and Will and Erika is looking at each other, and the rain is like tears from the sky.

Fate is playing with them. A perfect match made in heaven is stopped because of bad timing.

Erika then said this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

'I am not that strong of a woman'

Will smiles bitterly and answer back

'And I am not that weak of a man. Whatever happens, happens' he said. Erika slowly loosened her grip on him and Will notices it and smiles bitterly.

Erika sighed and knows whatever she is about to say would be useless. Will is a stubborn man. The shadows of these two people look from afar look like they were side by side

Erika don't know what else she could say to persuade Will. Because she knows it is useless to say more, she did not say anything else

Will turns around and was about to run away, as his entire body produces an arc of electricity and the area around him get slightly distorted but he heard what Erika said before he took his run.

'Be careful' when that words reach his ears, he smiles and a second later he already disappeared from Greece and he turns into a flash of light that cut through the rain and the wind.

The rain also stopped and the sky is clear again.

Erika just look at that the dot of lightning that is dashing through the waves of the Aegean Sea and sighed. She did not understand why her future-self choose to show her this.

She didn't understand why Will also was shown glimpses about the future.

It is a hard thing to begins questioning yourself. Fate is a little cruel to her right?

She looked at clear sky and could not help but think that her time is near.

It is not yet time but it is coming closer. The Time Crisis. She will make her choice by then and Will will also have made his. Now, only Death Monarch had to make his choice.

Erika don't see everything even though she acted she saw everything. But she knows some things. This is where Death Monarch would change. This event is the juncture.

She looks at the sea and listened to the waves. She had hope that this peaceful life would continue. She can't rely on a future written on the sand

She need to forge her way forward. And then maybe, a new path will open for her.

She smiles and she laugh and she cried that night. And only the moon as the witness as these two people spoke about these things and think about these things

Chapter 387: Article of distribution \(1\)

WORLD GOVERNMENT

ISLAND OF PEACE

The Island of Peace is the most known World Government territory. It is their headquarters and their Capital of power.

It is where all the great experts of their organization lives and commanded the world. It is also the place where Death Monarch attacked many times.

But each time it will bounce back from dead and once again is filled with people. It is quiet incredible come to think of it.

There are not many places in the world that could boast they still survive after being attacked by the Death Monarch

As long as there is people who believes in the ideology of the World Government, the World Government will never truly be destroyed.

After all it is easy to kill a man. It is almost impossible to kill an idea once it takes root in a person mind.

Other than that Island of Peace is usually hidden and they keep moving all around the world, floating just a few meters from the sea or land.

But after President Hirate meet with Death Monarch there seems to be progress of reconciliation.

The World Government is no longer hidden from the world and it floats on the North Atlantic Ocean

Their teleportation portals have also already been opened and their four island that is attached to the Island is also resuming operations

But they still keep a few measure just in case. Their Anti Detection was upgraded they also added more magical array to heal the Island and protect it from outside threats

For the first time since the Island of Peace was upgraded it show itself to the world without fear.

Many people believe this is because the talk President Hirate had with Death Monarch. The two of them must have reached an agreement on certain matters.

It is good for the people living in the island. The Island of Peace might be called an Island but it is not truly look like an island.

It is large and expansive, in a Pangaea shape and divided into four regions, the south region, the east region, the western region and the north region.

It is as large as a country and it is not only large it is also beautiful. If Pandemonium have the Gardens of Pandemonium, then Island of Peace has the Hanging Waterfall.

From the top peak of the Mountain of Peace there is a waterfall.

It flows down from the highest part of the floating island and its water will fall to the sea below creating seven colored rainbows when it is bright and sunny outside.

In the morning thousands of birds would fly around the island. And on some regions of the island best roamed freely

There is no rain if the Government decides it would not have rain for that week because the clouds of the island is man-made and its weather is regulated.

Their grass is green and full of life, they have fresh air that just breathing it one would feel their head clearing up.

The Island lives up to its name as an Island of Peace. It is an Island that was like Heaven on Earth.

And on the center of the Island is the Quorum building. It is where the Quorum Council would preside over things and administrate the regions of World Government and adjudicate on its matter.

It is truly the center of power for the World Government

After the Purge that Death Monarch did by killing all the Quorum Council members, thirteen new men were selected to enter the Quorum Council by Raymond and President Hirate

They selected from civil officials and military and loyal to them and the World Government.

They are also trying to reform their administration since there is wind of change breezing inside the World Government internal administration.

By now it is no longer a secret that Greece want an out.

The Seven Warlords of Delphi no longer comes to the Island of Peace to meet with the President citing that they are busy with their own matters and holed themselves up in Greece.

President Hirate and Supreme Commander Raymond is the administrator of this large organization but even they are helpless against this kind of tactics.

They couldn't force them to get back in the fold because that would chill the hearts of other warlords and rulers that agree to rest under the banner of the World Government.

Not to mention, if the conflict escalated, it will not be so ludicrous to think that Greece would turn to the Republic or even worse to Pandemonium.

If the Three Great Powers were to clash right now, the World Government would probably not be so lucky like last time.

If Pandemonium enter in to the fray, considering that Death Monarch is about to leave, the most dangerous thing that could happen is for the Death Monarch to be thinking that the World Government would probably be a thorn when he is gone.

If that happens he might decide to wipe out every single life in the World Government and started a larger massacre that would affect the world and reduce the already declining population of humanity this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

Who knows what that madman would do in his anger?

It is why they try to reform their government. but for now, there is more an even more important pressing matter to think about in the World Government

In a bright lit room there is a man sitting on the end of a long table. This man is wearing a white silvery robe with a tint of purple.

Butterflies fly around him and some even stay on top of his shoulders slowly opening and closing their wings.

This man is none other than the President of the World Government Ashikaga Hirate.

He seems to be thinking intently and crease lines filled his forehead. He also seems to mumble something in silent

In this large room other than him is another person.

Sitting beside him is none other than the Supreme Commander of the World Government Raymond.

He is full of valiant air and the air he emitted shows why he is considered the second in the world after Death Monarch.

Raymond is crossing his arms as he looks at Hirate. He too has his own thoughts; his body is still healing after the battle with the Heavens.

Raymond after all never cared that much about the Heavens. His power comes from something else.

But it is not entirely separated with the energy of the Heavens. There is a reason why it is called Heaven and Earth.

After the battle with the Heaven Will, people already dubbed the one that helped Death Monarch that day as legends.

There is Death Monarch, Raymond, Katarina, Oreki, Hikigaya and Divine Archer that appeared and help Death Monarch to avert the calamity of thunder.

To the world, as long as these six people united together nothing could stop them.

It is a pity all of them belong to other organization or factions.

But to Raymond the opinion of those people does not truly means it is as they thought. Truth rarely could be found in the words of the crowd.

Only the people in the know, knows the truth.

After all, Raymond knows there is someone else that should be in those list of people. There is Jean.

The World Government always wanted to see the true capabilities of Jean the Time Controller. After he joined the Republic he rarely shows his abilities anymore and rather stay cooped up in the Senate building of the Republic.

Instead of making the World Government feeling at ease with his inactivity it instead created more debate in the internal powers of World Government.

Some believes Jean is only biding his time. Everyone knows Jean and Boris is the mastermind of the Republic and controls the Senate opinion.

If those two Chancellors had not hated each other gut so much, they might have taken half of World Government influence in Europe.

Poland fiasco have always been a problem from the World Government but since it is under the protection of Pandemonium, neither World Government or the Republic wanted to bother with that place.

Some believe that Jean have become even more stronger than before and will be planning to severely weakened the World Government hold in Africa and South America

Death Monarch while he is dangerous, his intention and objective have never been more clear and everyone knows it.

As long as no one touches him, and his people, he has no reason to seek problem with you. The World Government had to learn that the hard way.

Hirate plans in the past to frame Death Monarch as the villain and the World Government as the savior would be perfect if not for the fact they underestimated Death Monarch too much during their first clash.

That set the momentum of his rise as Death Monarch. Death Monarch is dangerous but everyone knows now how to deals with him.

Just don't get in his way. That is the only way to deal with such an unstoppable force.

Jean on the other hand is different. He is not a schemer like Hirate or Loki but he is a patient wolf. And no one knows when he will strike.

And his power might be more terrifying than Death Monarch.

To control and master Time. While Hirate is thinking about the things he reads, Raymond is thinking about the threat that is now plaguing the World Government.

It is because of these two figures that the World Government could survive so many waves of problem and still survives and thrive

He crosses his arm and take a deep breath.

Hirate on the other hand is reading an article very intently.

He frowned a few times and sighed a few times as he reads it. But his eyes and his mind is working extra hard to see if there is something that is out of the ordinary in the article.

On his hand is none other than the Distribution of the World Plan. Written on top of that Article is Article of Distribution

Death Monarch has send the plan of the World Distribution to the World Government and to the Republic.

That plans and the names written in it is determining the seven new great power that will rule the world.

Probably in the history of humanity there will be no other Article that could rival its importance to human collective history other than this.

One man is deciding the rulers of the World. Death Monarch right now is could be considered to be the Sovereign of the World.

Chapter 388: Article of distribution \(2\)

It is not like the Republic and the World Government could not oust Death Monarch from his seat but there are too many connections involved between them.

Truth be told if the World Government and the Republic truly united, they could truly force Death Monarch to retreat and even capture him and if they truly put their mind to it even killed him

But by a twist of fate or maybe just because of the desire for men and women to have power, the Republic and the World government have divided the strongest powerhouses in the world between them.

The other that is their enemies went to other factions and organization.

And those that do not want to enter the power struggle after the vacuum of power that exist following the Fall recluse themselves on secluded area of the world.

And they have zero trust with each other. In that chaos, Death Monarch rise from its fire. Chaos is a ladder.

Azief saw that, and fucking fly over the ladder and sat on the very top not to mention the many relations between two of the most powerful organization in the world has with Death Monarch.

The Republic High Chancellor is Katarina the Ice Queen and the strongest woman in the world. And everyone knows she is smitten with Death Monarch

How about the World government? What connection that exist with Death Monarch?

There is news that Raymond like Sofia the Divine Archer. During the absence of Death Monarch, it is that affection that prevented Raymond from truly taking action on the remnants of Death Monarch powers.

One could call it a blessing in hindsight.

After all, if Raymond truly did such thing when Death Monarch comes out from the Mountain of Everlasting Love then Raymond would surely become enemies with Death Monarch.

There is also the fact that Oreki have helped the Death Monarch many times before and Hikigaya owed Death Monarch for showing his path.

Of course Hikigaya and Death Monarch is even now but one could see from this many events and matters that the relationship between the two organization and Death Monarch is not as simple as one would believe.

It is because of that fact that Death Monarch reign supreme right now in the world. Unless the World Government and the Republic really don't mind a full falling out with him, they would at least show him respect and will never directly contradicted his suggestion in front of the world.

After all Pandemonium itself is no longer as it is before. Now, it is a land of crouching tigers and hidden dragons.

Death Monarch desires for the Republic and the World Government to jointly support the article and abide by it and allowing four new power to rise is not only a display of his power and prestige but also a test for both the Republic and the World Government

It is not easy but it is also understandable.

The article is not exactly polished in words and in application but Hirate guessed that is why Death Monarch send it to the Republic and the World Government.

He let them handle the details but the core of the Article is dictated by Death Monarch. And the Article itself does not seems to discriminate against the World Government.

Hirate knew this is in part because of Raymond.

Death Monarch owe him and while he did not pay his debt with this it is true that he did not make it hard for the World Government.

The Three Great Powers for now is in a state of cooperation.

Hirate still remembers what Azief said when he was on Pandemonium.

He desires to split the world in seven part and foster peaceful relationship since the world need a reprieve from any large scale battle or war

They need peace to grow and thrive now. It is not too good to only suffer hardship without any happiness in sight. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

It is only after reading the article that he now understands why he wanted to split it into seven parts.

There is a lot of things mention in the Article.

One of them is the rules of engagement of war, the distribution of the territory, the seven factions that is to rule those lands and the exception clause for the seven powers and the restriction against them if they were to breached or violates certain rules that is inscribed and written in the Article.

Everything seems to be considered but there is also loopholes that is present in the Article. Hirate suspected this loopholes were left there by Death Monarch because it allows itself to be interpreted like that.

Probably because he knows that this distribution will also have to place some other factions who was already in other places to stay in their assigned territory.

Of course, the article need to be signed first for it to take effect. Other than the World government which have many territory and the terms in the Article is a little disadvantageous for them, the terms and conditions in the Article would surely please the other four powers.

Death Monarch also send news that he would send an Emissary to act on his behalf and will be arriving in Island of Peace.

It is clear from this that Death Monarch is wanting to leave the world. Where he goes Hirate doesn't know but he had at least an inkling.

After all, he has a trove of information residing in his Island right now.

Hirate finished reading the Article, putting it down and he looked at Raymond.

'What are you thinking?' Hirate noticed that Raymond is looking like he is dozing off.

It is a weird habit of his but Hirate who spends enough time with him knows that Raymond is not relay dozing off.

He is surely thinking of something.

To the girls however, his blank look looks like he is brooding. To men however, it looks like he is dozing off.

And to think that the Supreme Commander would be a timid young man would be hard to believe.

The Fall changed a lot of people. It changed Hirate and it changed Raymond. Like it changed so many others.

Raymond shakes his head and just said

'Nothing'

'There is something on your mind'

Raymond sighed and said

'It is nothing important' He snapped off his doze off look and then look at him back and ask

'The Article. Did he do anything weird with it? Anything that is targeted toward us?' He waits for Hirate answer. Hirate thinks for a while as he sighed.

Hirate shakes his head

'No. But it is nothing advantageous either' Raymond just nodded hearing Hirate answer. It seems Death Monarch is not as heartless as the rumor make him out to be.

'Then that is good'

'Hmm' Hirate said as he put two of his finger on his temple.

'The politics of the world will become even more complicated. It was an already ideal situation with the Three Powers ruling over the world. If Death Monarch agreed at that time, our three organization could rule the world.'

Raymond only smiles bitterly.

The question he did not ask Hirate if such thing was enacted how many more people that would be dead to fight for more power and influence?

The whole world will someday have wanted to be ruled by something else. That is just being humans. They have ambitions and they have their own Will.

How many more would die a senseless death just to keep power.

And all along the Three Great Powers had to kill and wash the world with blood which would only weaken and decrease the already declining population of humanity.

The World is a large place and one have to learn how to share.

Raymond shakes his head and with a sigh he said

'It is not a sustainable plan for long term. You should know that. As long as people have ambition and could attain power and influence, The Three Great Powers will surely face resistance. Death Monarch has never cared about power but ironically he is the one with the most power'

'That is not someone who detest power' Hirate shot back.

His public stance has always been that he has apologized to Death Monarch but just because he apologized doesn't mean he have to like it.

It still hurts his pride every time he thinks about it. Detest power? More like he doesn't care about it because he already possesses so much power that he doesn't know what to do with it.

Raymond just replied with

'Well, at least he does not want this kind of superficial power. At most he sees having the kind of power and influence he had is nothing more than just an assist unit. It is good that he has it but even if he does not have it would only be a slight inconvenience for him'

Raymond then think back to that talk they had in the Fake World about freedom and desire, about the world and the welfare of the people living in it

Freedom or safety. The hardest thing is to balance the two.

Chapter 389: Article of distribution \(3\)

Hirate close his eyes as he seems to be thinking of something. He tries to imagine the world and it is almost like he could see the chaos that will surely to come when everyone settled down.

This is a stopgap measure. And Hirate bet Death Monarch knows it. In other words, Death Monarch needed time that is why he put down such a plan.

Hirate then opened his eyes and said

‘Other than our Three Great Powers there will four more factions that will rule the world. We had to tread carefully and once their appointment is given they would rule their land independently and we will not be able to interfere unless they violate any of the rules in the Articles’

Raymond put his hand on his side and then said

‘We still have to solve the thing about the Orvanians’

‘Yeah, them’ Hirate said with a slight exasperation.

The thing is the Orvanians is still staying in a special Quarters in the Northern Region of the Island of Peace.

Their initial objective was to capture back Sithulran. It is their criminal and someone that is quiet dangerous.

Who would have thought that even before they succeed in capturing him Death Monarch has settled that problem?

It is quite absurd when one took time to think all of the fuss Orvanians makes about Sithulran.

How should they know that Azief have the power to create a Reincarnation Wheel to suck Sithulran in there?

But it does not mean the whole thing is over. The Orvanians is still feeling unease unless they know where Sithulran is.

Sithulran is impossible to be killed and that is the truth those in the upper echelons and highly influential people in the world knows.

And while it seems to most of the people in the world like Death Monarch has exterminated the alien, most of the people in the know that Sithulran did not die.

But Death Monarch himself did not want to explain what happens to Sithulran. Did Sithulran was sent into another dimension?

Was she sealed? If she is sent into another dimension, where is that dimension? If she is sealed, how long could Death Monarch seal her.

This is all the question the Orvanians wanted to know.

But they also did not want to meddle in human politics and they would not try to break the rules that were set by Pandemonium.

They are after all in their own words a civilized alien civilization

The thing is Death Monarch is not saying anything or if he did say, he says it vaguely so the Orvanians resorted to extend their stay on planet Earth while using their own intelligence and technology to locate any trace of Sithulran in the entire Multiverse.

The other problem they are facing is because there are many people that wanted to meet the Orvanian. There is the Order of Thinkers.

There is also The Star Explorer and many others sending petitions and request

Even Hirate himself try to coax the Orvanians to teach them high level technologies or knowledge that is higher than they know.

But the Orvanians said they could not teach anything and refuse to teach because they fear to affect the Multiverse, whatever that means.

But that doesn't mean Hirate didn't learn anything. At least he learns from one of the Orvanians, that Death Monarch at least have been travelling through the Multiverse.

From what he had learned, Death Monarch used to be a superhero in one of the worlds he visited, an avenger of a persecuted race in another and his traces could be traced in many of the worlds that exist in the Multiverse.

And then he also learned that one must never blindly enter the Multiverse.

From what the Orvanians is telling him that each time someone broke that thin, fragile walls between world, a hole is punctured in that area.

The hole is where the barrier between worlds are the weakest. It is where reality, time, and abstract concepts are distorted and some of them loses their effects

That area would then become bigger and bigger. And that is not a good thing. Hirate learned that there is three things that could happen when such hole becomes uncontrollable

First it is the Harmonization of worlds.

The Multiverse is many things and one of them is the version of Earth that is slightly different.

When one travels through the Universe, they would puncture through holes in the already stable reality and space of the world as they traveled into the Multiverse.

The act itself destabilized reality and rips a portion of the Time and Space.

When that happens it created a hole.

While it is a hole metaphorically it is also metaphorically a door.

Usually the one opening the hole comes from a superior civilization or more powerful being. Which also means it is a two-way street.

If you could enter into their world, they could also enter your world.

You will be creating a pathway. And while it is true it is the usually superior civilization that would open the hole in the Multiverse to travel to other world, there is always an exception

Sometimes if you are unlucky you could break into a world where the people are strong but not as smart as your civilization.

And when they breached into your world, and then you will have an invasion to worry about. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

Orvanians themselves rarely opens the path to the Multiverse in their world instead they would try opening it on neutral ground where it would be easier to repress if any invading force from other point of Multiverse come attacking.

Azief himself had to destroy the World Orb to make sure that the army of Demons would not follow him to his Earth and cut his path to Earth Two.

This is one of the risk associated with journeying to the Multiverse.

But this consequence is not the so called Harmonization of the World.

The Harmonization of the world happens when one of the world breach appeared on a world very similar to the world the Breacher come from.

If the vibration and the Laws are quiet similar it will begin affecting each other and in a weird course of event, they world merge creating a new world.

As long as you have your own counterpart in that world, you might inherit their memories or you might be repressed and their memories would become dominant.

You won't even know what happen to you because your memories have been replaced.

Then there is also the Prime Convergences and the Omega Convergence where one could see the entire Multiverse and when such things happens there might be war between worlds and realities.

It is why it is not recommended to weaken the reality in one own world and must quickly close any breach of Multiverse before it is too late

But these calamity is hard to happen to them unless the Breach is too large.

The Orvanians was helping Hirate closing the many point of breach all over the world when they resided in the Island and when they have free time from hunting Sithulran.

After all they did called themselves the Protector of the Multiverse

Orvanians is a troublesome guest but they are not without merit.

What Hirate is fuming the most about is the fact that the Republic using the fact that they are now temporarily allied to meet in secret with the Orvanians.

There is also Greece and the other nations and kingdoms that is slowly trying to secede from the World Government.

With the return of Katarina, the Republic is not as disadvantaged as before.

But Raymond action during Death Monarch thunder tribulation also restores back the faith of the kingdoms and rulers that sat under the banner of the World Government.

Now, it is not only the Republic that have relation with Pandemonium. Raymond saved Death Monarch and help him which means Death Monarch also owes him.

Greece however went right to the source.

It seems that they promised Death Monarch something in an exchange for his protection if the World government tries to stop them from seceding.

Death Monarch seem to agree and send a letter to Hirate that if Greece ever wanted to secede from the World Government, there should be no force in the World Government that should stop them.

The reason is very simple. He has given them his word.

In other word this is not the only agenda on Hirate plate.

Hirate lean back on his chair and take a deep breath

‘The Orvanians, huh?’ Hirate sighed.

Chapter 390: Article of distribution \(4\)

He likes the Orvanians but in the end they still should have gone away. After the last invasion, humanity is not that big on receiving aliens.

‘They don’t want to leave and Death Monarch did not want to talk to them and he is in Pandemonium. And he does not allow any forces of World Government to enter.

Raymond think for a while and then ask

‘Ask him to rescind the banning. We need to at least talk with him or else the Orvanians would never leave Earth’

‘You think I did not try before?’

Hirate said.

‘That was before. Now is now. It is clear from the Article that Death Monarch is letting bygones be bygones. Unless we are stupid enough to provoke him again in the future, this is the last chance he is giving us’

Hirate look at Raymond and thinking what Death Monarch has done since his return he could not help but scoffed

‘How appropriate’ And Hirate laugh.

Raymond frown hearing Hirate laughs then he asked

‘What do you mean by that laugh. Is there something funny with what I said?’ Hirate shakes his head and propose his own question to Raymond

‘Why do you think he sent the Article to me and the Republic. He is testing both of us’

‘Hmm?’

‘He is testing whether we would obey his wishes or not’ Raymond frowned

‘And if we do not obey?’ Raymond asked. Hirate smiles with his eyes.

Hirate laughed again as he looks at the ceiling above.

Then he shakes his head and said

‘Everyone know he is about to leave not long from now. Even the criminal underworld knows this matter. Why do you think there is so many people shutting down their door, and closing down their gates, and those criminal family head all hides in dark and remote places in the world? Death Monarch is about to go and leave his people behind just like before’

Raymond nodded. Thinking about it, it is really similar like before when he is about to leave.

‘At least this time he wants to make sure there is no foreseeable threat for his family. If we reject his demands right now, I would not be surprised that he would come to the Island of Peace for the third time with all the force Pandemonium could muster and reduced this beautiful island into dust’

Raymond close his eyes and then after a few seconds he nodded. There is nothing wrong with Hirate words.

It will probably happen like that if they dare disobey. Death Monarch would not leave an enemy that could kills his family.

‘Then Boris? Would he test him too? After all he is Katarina brother? Would he still do it?’

‘Heh. Why not?’ Hirate scoffed. He looks at Raymond and shakes his head.

Raymond did not yet read the Article that is why he could have said that. The terms while it is not disadvantageous to the World Government, it is very advantageous to the Republic.

He then said to Raymond

‘Boris would accept the demands by Death Monarch with opens arms. Why wouldn’t he? It is not disadvantageous to him and instead it is full of benefits for him and his organization. People might forget this but even though the Republic have gained tractions these few years, it still, could not compare to our military power or the experts that we possessed. But now with this Article of Distribution, he would get a claim to the lands he always wanted and be protected by the Article. All the seven powers that exist must abide by the rules and it is enforced by the cooperation of the seven powers. Right now Boris must be laughing in glee’

‘Give me that Article’ Raymond said as Hirate handed him the Article. Raymond look at one of the rules. It is the rules of war.

Death Monarch once talked this about with Hirate and express his opinions of how war should be fought after the Fall.

He wanted to establish some sort of rules of war so that any war between factions and the organization in the world will not stunt the growth of humanity and harm humanity chances in the future

It is written with the ideas of levels of power dividing the people so that no large scale massacres or mass casualties would happen in an event of a war between two opposing forces.

It has the consideration that the world needs to repopulate before it is too late. There are too many threats from the stars that they need to prepare from now.

It is also to prevent the loss of human fighting force.

Azief and Hirate agreed on this matter. neither of them wanted a repeat of the Weronian Invasion.

There are also provision of maintaining and establishing a lookout facility on the moon for any extraterrestrial activity near Earth and Milky Way galaxy in particular

It is a project that needed to be take jointly by all the Seven Powers in the Article to qualified themselves to become one of the sevens.

They are chosen because of their capabilities and because of their influence.

To create and maintain a facility of military and surveillance in the Moon to become the first detection facility for any invasion force.

Raymond then read further about the division of levels in the army that everyone in the world had to obey and its laws will be upheld by all the seven powers.

There is division from Pillar Forming to Disk Forming and the position they could take in a war and the lines they must not have crossed.

It is true that any Disk Forming experts is an invaluable fighting fore for humanity. Just their ability to wield the energy of the world makes them a powerful force that could move the Heavens and Earth.

Each Disk Formation experts could do thing that is impossible for anyone below them.

Other than the freak Death Monarch that could fight Disk Formation levelers when he is in Seed Formation, such person that could do such thing could be counted in one hand.

Seed Formation which is already a powerful existence in terms of levels and abilities, in front of a Disk Forming experts that ability and power is nothing worth mentioning.

Each of Disk Formation levelers strike is imbued with the energy they cultivated and could manifest as countless of variations of damage to anyone below the Disk Formation.

Raymond also agree on the viewpoint of Death Monarch that the population of the world is too low to fight off an invasion right now and what is important right now is to secure a few years of peace.

And this is the sentiment of the world right now and no one could stop it.

No one wanted to join any war right now. Even the League of Freedom is quiet these days and do not send their people outside their Storm Tide that much.

Other than the few known pirate fleet that is affiliated with Storm Tide, none of their core members could be seen and they turtled up in Storm Tide

The Article explains the division and also stressed consolidation of power among the factions.

The consolidation of power must be based on the numbers and each of the seven powers must concentrate in getting large populations. And in peace, population thrived.

Then he finally read about the distribution part and then Raymond said

‘No wonder he said seven. So this is the reason. It would make sure any of the powers and factions ruling these areas have no time to fight each other instead focusing on increasing population and making sure it thrives.’ Hirate who finally saw the look of understanding on Raymond face as he reads Death Monarch plans nodded solemnly.

In the Article in front of his eyes Raymond finally understand how Death Monarch intending to distribute the world

Seven parts of the world divided toward seven powers that exist in the world. And how is it divided? One for each continent of the world.

There is the continent of Asia which includes fifty countries before the Fall and one of the most populated continent before the Fall with sixty percent of the population of the Earth live here. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

Of course because it is teeming with life it was one of the continent with the highest hit with China taking the brunt and japan remains largely unscathed by such high leveled monsters.

Malaysia where Death Monarch come from was also devastated because of the monster’s invasion though he really didn’t know much now about what happens there and there is only a few Malaysian that still alive in the world.

It is not surprising. The Fall and the invasion have even wiped out a few race from the world. And no one has any definition of countries anymore.

Small nations like Singapore was taken down into the ocean by some large squid. It is probably the Kraken that is sleeping around Pandemonium.

Teeming with life one minutes and then with one swipe of the Kraken tentacles, life cease to exist. How fragile the things humanity thought was everlasting?

But that does not mean all Singaporean dies. Some of them survives and went to other lands.

These kind of events happens all across the world and some nations even disappeared from the face of the Earth

Then who rules the world during those dark days?
