

Shadow 661

Chapter 661: Everyone had gathered \(3\)

He had convinced all the ruling powers in pandemonium that Death Monarch is returning.

But he did not stay long inside the Centre Palace

After he had said his piece he instead went into a cave and did not care about the matters of Pandemonium.

Like expected, the moment Death Monarch returned to Pandemonium, The Golden Speedster was the first one that greeted him.

It is not like the others did not want to greet them like Will.

The things are everyone have a different distance between them and Death Monarch.

This distance of the heart dictates how they should act with Death Monarch.

They could not act like the Golden Speedster joining Death Monarch in what seems to be a leisurely run between Gods

Loki, Sina, Wang Jian, Sofia, all have their own way of greeting him. Inside the throne room, they all waited with nervous breath

There are only few people that did not seems that nervous. One of them is of course Sina the Queen of Alchemy.

Sina could be seen sitting on the corner of the throne room. Her chair is studded with diamonds and her robe is white laced with red color patterns.

If one comes near her, one could smell sweet scent of herbs. She had seen what happened in Socotra and she was thankful that Azief had swing his sword and save Sasha.

Sina in the six years Azief was gone is more active in the governance of Pandemonium. The reason she had to be active is because Loki keep making it hard for Sasha

Many people forget the story of how Sasha, an enemy of Death Monarch were pardoned by him and rose into the closest position to Death Monarch.

It is because Sina vouches for her.

The Queen of Alchemy is friend with Sasha the Nightingale. And that friendship did not waver even when pandemonium did not acknowledge what Sasha was doing outside Pandemonium.

'I could rest after this' she muttered under her breath. Loki heard her from the top of the throne stairs and he look towards her.

He sighed and she shakes her head. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

'To have such a headstrong boyfriend, it is really not good for her heart' she thought to herself. She was not the only one that is waiting anxiously for Death Monarch to come.

Standing on the bottom of the throne steps is Death Monarch courtiers. On the right side is the military consisted of the Three Army generals.

There is Wang Jian, Athena, and Freya. The Three Great Generals had not seen each other and reunited in one place for such a long time.

Each of them controls elite soldiers and could warred against the many great forces on Earth.

They could walk the world with their heads held up high and pride marked each of their steps. They all waited standing with their back straight.

But even if their back is straight, they would not dare to be prideful in front of Death Monarch.

They are all anxious to see Death Monarch like a student waiting for their report card and waiting the result whether it was good or not

There were things that they succeed to do.

And they were also thing that they failed to do. They fear that Death Monarch would forget the things that they have managed to do and only remembers the things that they failed to do.

The Three great generals of Pandemonium are an existence many people fear in the world. But the Three Great generals also fears someone

That is why they are anxious right now.

It is never easy serving someone so temperamental like Death Monarch.

Truth be told, those who is closest to Death Monarch could not understand the assessment of people against Azief.

They all say he is temperamental.

But in the course of his conflict that he had a hand in, most of it happens because he was provoked.

It was not him that started the conflict. Other people started it first.

Azief friends then comes up with a conclusion of why people called him temperamental when he isn't.

That is because he has too much power and influence.

Because each word that he uttered could change millions of lives and each one of his action could shakes the world.

As such, even the effect of his unintentional action could appears like he was responsible for some other stuff that he didn't even know he is responsible for.

That is what happens when one person has too much power and influence. The world is a lake. And Azief is a large boulder.

When it is thrown into a lake, the waves of the lake ripples until it reaches the banks of the lake.

Everything is connected so everything is affected. The Three Great Generals is anxious. And the other officials are even more anxious.

On the left side of the throne room, standing in a line is the officials of the Central Government who administered the Centre Region

They sometimes look toward that person standing on top of the throne stairs, standing right beside on the left side of the throne.

Standing on the left side of the throne is Sofia the Divine Archer.

They all knew the relationship between Death Monarch and the Divine Archer. But six years had passed.

They fear one of them had a change in emotions.

The officials rarely care about romance but the romance of their superiors they need to at least pay attention to it.

But just because they pay attention to it doesn't mean that they will dare question their relationship.

The matter of the love triangle between Death Monarch, Divine Archer and Katarina the Ice Queen is a well-known story.

They could not help but glance once in a while to that woman standing there on top of the throne stairs, with a bow behind her back, appearing valiant and beautiful at the same time

Many people in the world had rarely seen her since Death Monarch departure but there is news about her once in a while. Now that Death Monarch had returns she had also return.

All the great heroes and heroines of Pandemonium seems poised for battle instead of welcoming Death Monarch back.

If today Death Monarch returns and then orders an invasion, then a powerful force never seen before would come out of Pandemonium and level any forces that dares to obstruct.

There is Loki the famous Trickster, The Golden Speedster Will, the Queen of Alchemy, The Three Great Generals, the Divine Archer Sofia and in a couple of seconds, there would be Death Monarch and Sasha.

All of these people is in Disk Formation level.

Eight Disk Formation leveler and one Divine Comprehension leveler. That is a terrifying force akin of a weapon of mass destruction.

Each one of those eight Disk Formation is like a weapon of mass destruction. And Death Monarch who was in Divine Comprehension is the biggest weapon they have.

He is the big gun.

No wonder, many forces are now looking toward Pandemonium with dread.

Death Monarch is now returning to Pandemonium. Everyone knows that he is returning. But what will he do once he returns to Pandemonium?

Chapter 662: I am here! \(1\)

Death Monarch had just violated the rules that he himself had penned.

According to the normal conduct the Seven great powers should at least send some representatives to report to Death Monarch asking him to attend the trial and accept the judgment of the great powers of the world.

But all the Six Great Powers are silent on this matter like they did not see the death of so many people in Socotra.

The Senate Hall had opened its door but none of the Senators said anything about sending any people to Pandemonium the Island of Peace Quorum Conference has ended and one could only see how they frowned their eyebrows but they remain tight lipped about what they would do.

It looks like they would close their eyes. But if they do, then where is the dignity of the Great powers of the world.

the Eye of Heaven in Antarctica is only looking at the Pandemonium Sea, the people there looting with curiosity and cautiousness toward Pandemonium,

They did not look too closely or too detailed for fear incurring the wrath of that person.

the tortoise from the League of Freedoms had come out to sea, alerting the other Six Great Powers as the tortoise swam to the chaotic Arabian Sea that is now filled with hurricanes and thunder storms

In the Asia continent, the Sage of Array Lee Sangmin once again took his duty on the city walls of the Lotus Palace after years he had not sat on the walls of the city.

the African Alliance all look toward Pandemonium and keep silent but none of them make any moves.

It was like the appearance of that sword scared them all from even uttering a word. Azief intended to bring down his sword as a reminder and a warning.

That was his message. And that message is conveyed perfectly to all the great powers of the world.

And now, they all know that all the great expert of Pandemonium is inside the Throne Room of the Centre Palace of Pandemonium.

So, they all ask themselves. Would they dare ask Death Monarch right now? Would they dare ask that temperamental person to answer for his crime?

Or did "that person" now believe he has enough power to ignore the laws and the other six great powers?

Whatever the true answer to this question was, they all did not want to become the chicken that warn the monkey.

So, they all stand still and had to wait. They defended their place and they look cautiously at the sky and toward that direction.

Now, people had learned the virtue of patience.

In the throne room, everyone was also expecting something. For the Three Great Generals Death Monarch might issue an order to fight with the Six Great Powers.

Or maybe Death March would have another order to purge the Crime Alliance. For the officials they too have their own expectations.

And Sofia the Divine Archer also have her own expectation and desires. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

In her eyes there is anticipation and excitement. She had anticipated his return all of these years. She had believed in him that he would not die.

After all, before he left, Azief did promise Sofia that he will try not to die. Smiling Sofia muttered under her breath

‘At least you keep your promise of trying not to die’ she said to herself.

As they were waiting or Death Monarch in the throne room, people of Pandemonium had all prostrates themselves to the ground as they saw that black dot slowly drawing closer to the Centre Palace

None of them dare to look to long at the sky. The dark flash among the clouds that look like a trail of lightning appeared like a God racing through the clouds.

Below that dark flash, there is golden flash that followed the dark flash on the sky.

Wherever the golden flash passes by it leave a trail of dust and the space and Time flows around its path seems to be slightly distorted.

The people could only see a glimpse of that dark flahs in the sky but they all could see the golden flash passes by them.

before they could even take a look, that golden flash would already disappeared leaving only a lingering flickering of light refraction that is left because of that golden flash speed.

The Golden Speedster and Death Monarch right now seems like Gods that is leisurely taking a run and comparing their speeds.

Wherever that dark figure passed, the people of Pandemonium would prostrate themselves. It looks like the believers of a God, welcoming the descent of their divines

As Azief flies over the sky of Pandemonium, the glowing sky of Pandemonium, the energies that supported it is being absorbed by Azief.

Azief is stripping every last power of the formation that he had install onto Pandemonium. This is him taking back what is his.

But no one was angry or restless or even worried.

BOOM!

Thunder suddenly roars as the protection formation that had once protected Pandemonium had been stripped.

The clear skies suddenly turn dark and lightning flashed illuminating the whole continent.

But this is not the thunder of the protection formation. This is his thunder.

BOOM!

Another thunderous roars could be heard up in the sky. Then coming out from those dark clouds is a dragon.

Those who curiously look up at the sky could a dragon formed from lightning.

And it is not only one dragons. There were hundreds of dragons formed from lightning dancing among the clouds, like a parade

Each one of these dragons had powerful emanations of destructive energy swirling around their claws.

Then the dark clouds that birthed these dragons turned even darker. Slowly, it turned dark red.

BOOOM!! The sound of thunder sounded again but this time the sound seems to become even louder as it shakes the space over the sky.

Thunder Dragons roars and the clouds turns dark red. All of it look eerie and terrifying, like the Heaven is bleeding.

It was like a scene of an apocalypse.

Nobody dares look too long at the sky.

They become even more fearful. In the past, there is red thunder bolts falling from the skies striking people from the heaven until they turn to dust. Then, there is a sword that comes down from the Heaven and cut down a piece of land like it is paper.

Now, there is dragons hovering above the clouds. Who would know what “that person” is thinking?

Rains then falls from the dark red clouds. Lightning flashed and it illuminates the entire continent like it was travelling to all four cardinal direction of the world.

Then the land of Pandemonium begins experiencing mini tremor. The dragon roars again and the sky and the earth quake.

Azief leisurely reached the Centre Palace and The Golden Speedster speed through the Centre Palace gates without being obstructed by anyone.

Chapter 663: I am here! \(2\)

It seems that the moment that Death Monarch had entered Pandemonium, Loki had ordered that all gates were to be open and all protection formation of the Centre Palace to be lifted up since the report came that Death Monarch is coming to Pandemonium.

He had even summons Shinji but he was a little late and Death Monarch had ripped off the formation before Shinji even had the chance to open it.

In any normal circumstances the lifting off a protection formation is an unwise move unless one wanted to surrender.

That is because when one lifts the protection formation that protected their territory others could take the opportunity to attack,

But when Loki issued that order none of the high ranking members of Pandemonium even utters any word of objection.

It is not because they fear Loki that much or they respected him that much. That is because they were confident.

Since Death Monarch has returned, even if the Centre Palace had no protection formation what is there to worry about?

The title of the strongest person in the world is not some false title and reputation that Pandemonium bestowed to Death Monarch.

The world had bestowed Death Monarch with that title and that title was acknowledged by all the heroes under heaven

Azief and Sasha is floating outside the Centre Palace. Azief then smiles as he saw the familiar balcony. It is the balcony on the Throne Room.

Azief when he wants to talk personally with one of his subordinate, he would bring them here to look the view from this balcony.

Standing on that balcony, one could see the vast expanse of Pandemonium.

He takes a step as his body slowly floated down toward that balcony marble tile. Sasha who was behind him also follows him as she also floated herself down.

The moment they landed down, Azief dispel the principles of Laws of Elements that he had used to enable Sasha to follow his speed and encourage her healing.

Sasha could also feel that nourishing aura disappears from her. The sound of his feet landing on the marble tile seems to shook the hearts of the officials who all looked towards that balcony.

One of the officials of the Centre region look toward Death Monarch with complicated expression.

Outside the rain is still falling and it is falling even harder, the thunder dragon is still dancing in the sky and lightning still flashed in interval of a few seconds.

Each strikes of the thunder could weaken one heart.

Azief lazily look at the people inside the throne room all waiting for him.

He saw Will leaning on the furthest corner of the throne room with a smug smile on his face like he was saying that he had won in their race.

Azief had the urge to smile if not for the solemn faces of the people inside the Throne Room. He scans the room and he could see a lot of familiar faces.

There are his officers, his officials, a few city mayors, his friends and Sofia.

They were all there waiting for him

Azief raise his chin up a bit and even a simple act like that shakes the hearts of the officials. To them, it looked like Death Monarch is looking at them coldly.

They all look toward him and bow slightly and shouted passionately.

‘Congratulation Your Excellency for breaking through to Divine Comprehension. Welcome back to Pandemonium!’

Azief hearing this laughed. His laugh reverberated inside the room. It is a hearty laugh but no one could be seen smiling.

Will snickered on the corner of the throne room, looking at the officials of Pandemonium. He then stops laughing as he walks slowly to his throne. The officials all parted to give him space.

He climbs the stairs to his throne.

Each steps sounded like thunder going off in the ears of the officials of Pandemonium. And they then realized it was not only a feeling but it was real.

The sound is coming off from the outside.

The dragons in the skies and the dark red clouds is still there outside.

With each steps that Azief takes, the thunder and lightning outside harmonized with it. The thunders roars and the lightning flashed with each steps he takes.

The thunder shakes the palace and the lightning illuminates the shadows of the people inside the throne room.

Azief climb the stairs slowly and even that gives the impression of power to those officials.

In the years of Death Monarch absence, some of these officials deals with many things that is unsavory and some of them were tempted and also falls into depravity itself.

With each quake in the sky, they look even more down.

They did not even dare to look in the eye of Death Monarch for fear that Death Monarch had some kind of magic to see their thoughts.

Their hearts are beating like war drums being hit a thousand beat per second.

Azief notices all this. But he did not say anything. He did not need to say anything and he did not have to handle it right now.

This is small matter. And he already had his sword beside him. For small matters, he would always leave it to his sword.

Though, that sword needs to be sharper now. After all, it has been broken. These people could be the whetstone to sharpen that edge

He takes another step and then he suddenly halted his steps and the thunder on the outside quietened down for a second. The lightning did not flash.

Azief halted because he saw the person standing on the right side of the throne. He smiles a bit.

That person is Loki the Trickster.

Azief notices that Sasha has been sending glares to Loki since the beginning she enters the room and notices him

He also notices Sina sitting on a chair on the corner of the room

Sina is stuck between her best friend and the person she loves.

Azief did not envy Sina position in their small group. She was always the one stuck in the middle. She was stuck between him and Sofia. And now she is stuck between Loki and Sasha. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

But Azief would not listen to anyone advice unless that person is Sina. In their group, she is the big sister.

Now, that she is here Azief felt sentimental. Because in his vision, she was not there. Either she did not betray him, or she died before she could betray him in that vision.

Chapter 664: I am here! \(3\)

As such, now seeing her, he felt like he does miss this woman that keep scolding him.

Loki like always had the uncanny ability to play dumb. If there is a completion of who is the best in playing dumb, Azief was confident Loki would win it.

He looks at Loki and Loki look at him and their gaze clashed. His eyes like always look shifty. From the beginning Azief had known him until now, that eye did not change.

An unchanging eye. That is quite a determined eye even though it looks so shifty. The moment lasted only one second but they were many memories rushing into his mind.

Loki looks at him and Azief could sense that he is anticipating something. A person who had seen how it will all ended, Azief thought to himself.

It would be surprising if there is something that could surprise him. But that is what Azief wanted to do.

He wanted to surprise the man who could not be surprised and jump out from the chessboard.

He felt it when he was on that Stairway and he felt it when he looks at Loki eyes. He is a chess piece in large chessboard.

But how could he accept the fate of being chess piece when his path clearly lies beyond the chessboard?

He was not willing. The day he surprised the man that could not be surprised, then that is the day that he would jump out from the chessboard.

Like always, there is a smile on Loki face. And like always Azief wanted to wipe that smile off his face

As Azief stop there on that step, the thunder dragon on the sky stop roaring.

It dances among the clouds and it waited. Azief had something he wanted to say to Loki. He saw something about Loki too in that Time Tunnel.

He saw many things. And he saw many betrayals. And he saw how different he was and how different Loki was.

And so, he wanted to say something. But he recognizes this is not the time. Maybe later, he would summon him and speak with him at the balcony of the throne room.

He then looks at the left side of the throne. Standing there is a beautiful woman. Azief had a complicated smile on his face. He really did not know how to feel right now.

After all, he sees her face too in that Time Tunnel. Sofia did not know the kind of emotions in Azief heart right now

She looks at him and there is many meaning in her gaze. Azief remembers his promise with her before he decided to try his luck with the Supremacy Stairway.

He had promised that he would try not to die.

At least he had fulfilled that promise

He smiles a bit towards her and she smiles a bit towards him. Like a gaze, a smile could also tell many stories. And Azief smiles had a lot of stories that he wants to hide from Sofia.

A vision robs him the happiness of going home.

So, his smile looks a bit unnatural. But Sofia did not notice it. Because for people who is in love, they are all a little bit blind.

Sofia loves him so she was blind to the emotions inside him. And Azief is in love with Sofia so he is trying to be blind and trying to become a fool.

But unlike Sofia, Azief did not have the luxury to truly become blind or truly become an idiot. So, the next step he would take would surely brought him closer to his own destiny

On the other hand, as Azief is walking closer to his throne, Sasha is looking a bit lost. She follows Death Monarch from Socotra to Pandemonium.

Now, she had suddenly is thrust into a packed throne room of the Centre Palace fill with old enemies and people she did not want to see so she did not know where to stand right now.

She is usually granted a personal audience with Death Monarch so she rarely participated in the meeting of the members of the government

She looks at the two rows of lines full of people from the two factions and she click her tongue.

To stand with the official's side, she is not willing. Most of them hated her and she too hated most of them.

And when she looks at the military faction. They all look like righteous, high and mighty people who disdain people like her who kills people in the dark,

She did not think that was the place where she could stand. She would not be welcomed

To Death Monarch, Sasha and her Shadow Guards is his sword that he wields to kill his enemies in the dark

Death Monarch appreciate her and protected her organization

But to the officials of Pandemonium, Sasha is a dog that Death Monarch rears. The reason why they did not dare to hit the dog, is because the owner of the dog.

Because if people hit the dog, then the owner would be very angry. And today, the owner of that dog had shown the world the extent of his wrath when his dog is being beaten.

Today, an archipelago was cut. Tomorrow, it might be an entire continent.

To the military, she is a nuisance and have too much power in the administration.

They didn't like how the Shadow Guards could meddle in the matters of the military and issue decree on behalf of the Death Monarch

She is not welcome by both faction and she did not mind because this is Death Monarch arrangements. Death Monarch would not be happy if the sword he used could be used by someone else.

It is his sword and as such it could only be wielded by him.

If the sword had the idea to be used by someone else, why would Death Monarch sharpen the sword?

If such thing happen, Death Monarch would not mind breaking the sword to a thousand pieces, never to be put whole ever again.

She had the thought of following Death Monarch to climb the stairs to the throne but then it would be inappropriate right now.

They might have broken some invisible barrier of relationship between each other and become more open with each other but in Pandemonium, Death Monarch is still her superior and she is still the subordinate.

She did not dare to test Death Monarch patience limits

She glares at Loki but she also knows the intention of Death Monarch. He had explained to her that much. It also serves as his explanation. Death Monarch will not kill Loki.

That is what he had told her and that is also a reminder, an explanation and a warning.

She had to let him go. Not that she ever had the means to capture him in the first place.

She notices the Golden Speedster on the corner of the side of the entrance door and she was about to take her step to him before someone called out to her

'Hey!' She turns around and then she finally notices Sina and Sasha unconsciously smiles. To see a familiar face in such a solemn room, it relaxes her

Sina like always had that kind of smile that disarm people. She was smiling happily and then she gestured with her hand to sit beside her.

Sasha nodded and she quickly take her steps to Sina. She thought to herself

'Only those who were with Death Monarch in the beginning could be this relaxed when Death Monarch returned with such fanfare'

Sina had her own chair and table inside the throne room and she is relaxed. She is sitting while everybody is standing at attention and she is sipping some kind of herbal tea like this is the backyard of her hut.

She appears unfazed even if the thunder dragons outside rushed in through the balcony or the red clouds spouts off red thunderbolts.

She arrived and sat down across her. Sina looks at her and looks at Death Monarch who was climbing the stairs and she said to her

'Sasha, you worked hard for Pandemonium. I saw what had happened.' Then she sighed and said

'Don't blame Loki that much. After this, let's go to my hut. I let you try some of my pills. It would strengthen you and your constitution' Sasha nodded as Sina conjure up a ceramic cup and then pour her the herbal tea.

She smiles and said

'the smell is a bit unappetizing but it tastes very delicious' Sasha understood and then take a sip as she could finally calm her heart down.

Azief notices all of this interaction. He notices even the smallest details. The exchanged glances between his officials, their nervousness and he could even hear their beating heart.

He halted only for a second and then continues climbing the stair and then he looks at his throne.

He did not feel any sense of nostalgia looking at the throne. Since he actually rarely sits in that throne.

He then sat down

He put his left hand under his chin and then he looks up with his cold expressionless eyes and then he said with his usual cold tone

'I am here' this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

And thunder boomed in the sky, shaking the firmament. That declaration is a promise. It is also the best words to calm Pandemonium

Death Monarch is here, so even Gods and Demons have to make way!

Chapter 665: An eye \(1\)

The weather of Pandemonium had turn calm. There are no longer dark red clouds above the sky of Pandemonium and there is no longer the thunderous roars of thunder dragon shaking the heaven and earth

The people who live in Pandemonium could breathe easy now as they look toward the direction of the Centre Palace.

'Death Monarch had finally calmed down' some of them said and the others nodded. Then they smile.

Pandemonium no longer had any glowing sky or a protection formation but they did not feel worried at all.

Death Monarch is here in pandemonium so they didn't have to worry about anything. He is the protective amulet that warded off all disaster

A young kid of the age of nine who prostrated when he saw the figure of Death Monarch on the sky finally got up and smiles this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

'Now, that is what my idol should be like!' he shouted to his friends. His other friends nodded.

They look at the sky and then ask

'When would we be able to be like that?'

The nine-year-old kid then says

'We have to train in the dungeon more diligently. I once heard a storyteller told that Death Monarch once loses his arm to save Sofia the Divine Archer'

What that has got to with being diligent?' one of the other kids ask

'Well, he must have trained even more and evolve to have his hand back right? That is being diligent right?'

The other kids chimed in and said

'I don't think you quite understand the meaning of the word diligent' they then laughed.

'let us go to the Achens dungeons. The government people had install a teleportation formation to Achens.'

'After we finished killing some monsters, let's go eat at the Golden Delicacies. My treat' the nine-year-old kid said.

the other kids cheer on him as they now rushing to go to the city square

Pandemonium is Death Monarch territory.

And there are many people who idolizes him.

In the six years he was gone Pandemonium is peaceful because of the measures that Azief had left before he went off

And because of that the new generation of people had never known the terrors of the past when there is no heroes and heroines like Death Monarch, Earthshaker, Thunder Monarch, Illusion Archmage, the Ice Queen Katarina, Divine Archer Sofia and the many other heroes and heroines of the world that had to fought titanic monsters and the many dangers of the world these kids were born outside Pandemonium but from the moment they could fight, they have been living in pandemonium.

Pandemonium is a forbidden continent before Death Monarch occupies it and founded Pandemonium.

Before the fall, it is called Australia. But nobody even says Australia anymore. When they referred to this continent, they always referred it to Pandemonium.

The word Pandemonium itself refers to demon place. And while it is still called a forbidden zone of the world, it was not as dangerous as before.

With the efforts of the army and the Central Government more and more lands are being cleared from monsters.

Those that have some respawning point were designated as dungeons as the government sealed off the area with formation and is open up for people to train and level up.

Most parents would work some jobs to get some gold and buy equipment for their children so they could train to at least Orb Condensing.

In the past and even in the present, all parents still want a bright future for their children. Only since times have changed, the method to get that bright future had also changed

It is the bare minimum to at least survive in this new world.

After all, babies that were born in this era usually is born with Pill Forming strength since birth.

The Order of Thinker had also made some research about this and found out that if the father and mother of the children is strong, then the child that is born becomes even stronger.

There is a Disk Formation experts that marries another Disk Formation experts. The mother got pregnant

The child that were born because of this union were born almost reaching Orb Condensing Stage and when the child was born the energy of the surrounding were also absorbed.

This also made the Order of Thinkers to let out that if the pregnant mother is about to give birth, it is very important to choose a place where there is an abundance of energy since it could also affect the growth of the child.

This is what is called benefiting from the parent's efforts. The DNA and composition of energy that the parents had in their body affect the child potential.

The child of that couple would find it more easy to become an Orb Condensing stage and easier to reach a higher level in the future.

If in the past when parents send children to school so that they have a bright future, then in this new era the parents would work, save some gold and buy equipment for their children to train in training center

There are teachers there teaching them how to fight, use weapons, identify dangers and how to quickly level up.

These parents had all lose hope to reach the next level or afraid to risk their life to roam the world.

With great power comes great danger. That is the thoughts of many people and they were not wrong.

Just look at the dazzling names of heroes and heroines of the world. Which one of them did not get caught up with dangerous thing?

Unless one had the might of these people, they could only be a cannon fodder when Gods and Devils fight against each other.

How many people died during Death Monarch rampage all over the Island of Peace?

How many dies when Earthshaker conquer the United States? How many heads were rolling when the red sword of the Ice Queen were pointed toward the dark alleys of Europe?

Those that die and sacrificed in the great battle between Gods and Goddesses, which one of them didn't have great aspiration to become great overlords that could look down upon all creation?

But their luck was bad and their life and their dreams were cut short.

These people who had settled down chose the safer way to live. They would be content if their children could at least protect themselves in this world.

They did not want their children to get too extraordinary because extraordinary people always have extraordinary fate and destiny

It is enough that they could fight monsters that attacked them

It is not a wrong way to live.

Even Azief himself believe he had no right to judge a person choice of how to live their life.

Being cowardly did not mean that the person living a meaningless life. Sometimes people become a coward because they have to.

Because they are some things that are more important than their pride.

Like a father that did not want to get involved in a delinquent fight so he could go back home and kiss his little girl.

Azief did not disdain such person. As long as one could live, as long as one could survive, that is what matters. As long as one could live and there is hope, then life still have meanings.

The only reason for Azief to interfere in a person way of life is when their way of life harms others and obstruct him.

After all, he could not respect all of them the same. Azief is not some kind of Buddha that could accept everything

In Pandemonium the sight of parents handing out silvers and gold so that their children could go train in some city sponsored dungeon is a common sight.

When some wandering independent Disk Formation traveler is in town some people would pay anything for their children to be under that person discipleship.

With Disk Formation leveler as a teacher even an Orb Condensing Stage could roam the world relying on the protection of the teacher.

And there is a higher potential of one becoming stronger under a tutelage of such a figure.

As such, it is not a rare scene to see some young kid referring to some older people as their master or teacher since discipleship is even encouraged in many great powers.

In this matter, Pandemonium had an edge since it is full of crouching tigers and hidden dragons.

To many people living in this new era, not all of them are as talented as Death Monarch. Of course if Azief heard this, he would surely rebuke them.

There is nothing about talent in gathering energy. It was always about survival. What talent is there to speak off!

After all, when the Fall happens, no one got any walkthrough on how best to proceed to become stronger.

There is even that game-like system to help humanity familiarize itself with the changing makeup of the world.

Everyone during that time was standing on the same starting line. The difference is only their mindset, their experience and their determination

The reason Azief was strong and the many others heroes and heroines that appears in this era become strong is simple. It is not about talent. It is not about luck.

It is about determination.

To survive and to follow one own path.

However, to follow one path, one must first survive. And that is what Death Monarch focused the most during those early days of the Fall.

He survived first.

Then when he is strong, only then he can walk his own path.

The weak speaking about justice and following their own path is laughable. How could a weak person enforce justice? How could a weak person not get blown by the wind walking on their own path?

Justice require strength. Walking on one own path also requires strength. When one has strength, justice could be enforced and their determination will not get swayed.

But the stories about Death Monarch is always exaggerated. As the storytellers in inns and taverns tells it, Death Monarch was turned into a figure of virtue.

His flaws were diminished, his virtue exaggerated. Statues and monument were built to glorify him.

In some places a temple was erected with his statue placed inside it.

In some villages a monument of him is placed on the entrance of their villages like it is some kind of amulet of protection that warded off evils.

In a world of magic, superstition and belief is not something that should be laughed at. There is power in belief and faith in a world of magic.

The people of Pandemonium had lived in peace from monsters or outside threats since the day Death Monarch got the title the strongest person in the world.

It enables them to develop a working and prosperous society.

Those kids and many more people had lived in a world where Death Monarch is idolized, respected and even in some parts of the world and in Pandemonium, worshipped.

They are proud of Death Monarch and they aspire to be like him. To look down upon the world and to be invincible and peerless

When they saw the weather turns for the better, they know that Death Monarch had calmed down his feeling and matters had settled in the Centre Palace.

And while these kids that is now rushing to the city square brush off the matter simply, for the many other residents of Pandemonium, they have many thoughts.

With Death Monarch return, Loki had to hand back the power he had.

This is not exactly good for some people.

For the merchants that have made their home in Pandemonium these did not mean it would be better for them.

They preferred Loki then Death Monarch

To the merchants Loki the Trickster is better than Death Monarch in governing

Death Monarch did not care about the merchants or took care of the governance but Loki was different.

Because of Loki, some kind of economy had been formed and with the World Government and the Republic support, the economy of the world had revived only in a different form

They used the gold coins they got from killing monsters and the miens that have energy crystal to mint coins and assign values to them thus stabilizing the act of buying and selling and creating a new currency of the world

After all, not all people could be like those people in the story they heard at inn and taverns that could go without food and water.

Not all people could reach Energy Disperse stage and it is even harder to reach Disk Formation.

The world had changed too much from the time of the Fall. At that time, energy was in abundance and everyone level up pretty fast. Now, it is very hard to even level up one level.

There is also the matter of the Shadow Guards and the three Army.

Chapter 667: An eye \(3\)

Now that the three army had return to Pandemonium some people worried that another power struggle would occurs between the military faction and the officials of the Central Government

There is also the Shadow Guards, those people dressed up in dark clothes, blacker than then night itself.

When Sasha the Nightingale left Pandemonium to do god knows what, their influence and power waned.

But to some people that could see Sasha returning with Death Monarch, they surely could not help but thinking that Shadow Guards would regain back their influence.

The Shadow Guards have always bene the private guard for Death Monarch. Instead of calling them a guard, they are more like a blade for Death Monarch to use.

If Death Monarch never returns or perish in his quest for more power in some stars' system in the Universe, sooner or later, the Shadow Guards would have no choice of being disbanded or being used by other people.

But since Death Monarch is fine and return even more powerful than before, then it is not an exaggeration to say that Shadow Guards would gain more powers than ever before in Pandemonium,

What would happen to them now and what would happen to those people who did not render them aid when they needed it? this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

What would happen to their lives, to their business, to their livelihood? These are the thought of normal people. These are the small matters that Death Monarch had never cares about.

Death Monarch is that lofty God living in high towers. He is so high that the normal people must look like small dots under his gaze

To catch the attention of such lofty God, one had to shine bright. One had to shine so brightly that the light could reach the Heaven

Loki even though he plays tricks and pranks, he dances among the people, laugh with them, laugh at them and he walks among them

He is not that high up in the sky. He likes his serpents slither around. He slithers all over the world like some kind of serpent that have some wanderlust

The people of Pandemonium fear many things would change now. Peace is so precious and so short. They fear another war is brewing underneath the calm facade of the sky.

And for the common people, the best they could do only pray and look toward that Palace in the center of Pandemonium with hope.

Creak!

The door to the throne room was pushed open.

Everyone come out of the room and everyone had something to think about after that meeting. Some of them look like they have a lot to think about. Some people walk out with nervous expression and some others walk with a frown.

Only a few people could be seen smiling when they come out of the throne room. Azief is still inside the room.

He is no longer sitting on his cold throne. He is now standing at the balcony of his throne room, his eyes looking at the distant.

From his vantage point, he could see all of Pandemonium.

Everyone was dismissed after he hears their reports.

Even Sofia is not inside the room any more. She went out and she probably is waiting for him in that house with the white picket fence

Azief smiles a bit as he thought about this. Then he once again remembers what he saw and he sighed once again.

Sasha had also been excused. Azief saw her following Sina.

Considering what he had seen when he scans Pandemonium with his Divine Sense, Sina had once again enlarged her hut. It should not be called a hut any longer.

Though, it looks like a small area, Azief could sense that space magic and space formation was embedded into that hut.

Sasha would certainly have a lot to say to Sina. Azief is not the only one that missed home.

The Three Army is ordered to return to their region and wait for orders. Will, his sworn brother promised to meet him in the villa of the Immortal Couple.

Azief himself also wanted to ask Will about something so he promised him that he will meet him when he had finished certain things in the Palace.

Azief is now trying to calm his heart and his mind. Because now that he is in Pandemonium, he slowly is discovering that he is slowly forgetting the things he saw in that Time Tunnel.

Like some kind of dream he had in the morning, the more he tried to recall, the harder it is to remember

Maybe this is the way Time tunnel work. It gave a glimpse but then he did not let him remembers.

Or maybe this is how Fate and Destiny try to correct the course of time. He is not surprised. Messing with Time had always come with certain consequences.

But he did not want to forget. If he was weaker than he is now, probably there is a lot of things that he would have forgotten

No, he is sure of it. If he was weaker he would probably forget even more vision of the future. The Laws that he had controlled prevent Time trying to alter his memories.

If Azief had landed in a world without magic, maybe he would not even forget. The rules of the world with magic is different with the rules of world without magic.

Azief still remember what he saw. At least some parts of it. He saw people crying, screaming and dying in his vision.

He saw a lot of sadness and a lot of anger.

He saw himself getting betrayed.

He felt the memory is slowly slipping away from him. But he is not in panic. He could now only retain a bit of what he saw and he could only retain a fraction of the memory he sees.

But he could still remember how he feel when he sees it. Retaining emotions also could guide him to do what he must have to do ‘Hah’ he sighed.

When he was standing there on that last step of the Supremacy Stairway, he had a plan.

He did not mind taking the burden of the Ethernas because he knows that he had to take a risk if he wanted to become stronger.

The plan was to quickly break through to Essence Creation. Then he would hardly have any enemies in the world and in the Universe.

Even if he met those ancient beings that roams the Universe he will not be afraid if he was in Essence Creation, even if he did not achieve Perfection in his Essence Creation, he would still be able to escape if he met those ancient Beings.

Who would have thought that a trip into the Time Tunnel could change his plan? And then, there was that eye. When he was in the Time Tunnel, he saw a vision.

He saw an eye.

Not a pair of eyes.

But just a single eye.

Chapter 668: What do you see? \(1\)

That single eye was terrifying.

It was peering from some Void of nothingness and it was looking at him inside the Time Tunnel.

The eye was so large that even the supposed limitless expanse of Time and Space seems unable to accommodate one eyeball.

It just looks at him. And he looks at that eye. That eye was like an abyss. And the more he looks at it, the more he felt like he was being sucked into that abyss.

Then another eye appears. However, the color of that eye is different from that pair of eye. It was blue in color of was it green?

Azief could not see it clearly.

Slowly, something akin of a face shape is about to materialize inside the Time Tunnel

And then inside the Time Tunnel, he heard the roar once again. Like it came from an ancient past, the roars echo endlessly inside the Time Tunnel.

The shape of the face slowly dissipated and the eye also covered up by Time turbulence as it disappears.

The roars quietened down and the eye disappears.

There is a lot of things that he did not understand. And he did not like it at all. The not knowing part.

For some inexplicable reason, Azief felt that eye seem so familiar to him. When he was drifting he thought of that eye even when he was being guided by the Divine Law.

It was only then that he finally realizes why that eye seems so familiar to him.

It looks just like his eyes. It was eerily similar that it sends shivers down his spine.

If that eye was his....and the moment he thinks like that, a can of worms was opened up in his mind.

It was then that he realizes that the place that he is drifting is inside the Time Tunnel. To some it is a river

A river of Time that flows and flows endlessly as long as the many realities and Universes have the Law of Time.

But the Time Tunnel is a backdoor. It is a place where one manipulate Time and Space so the river is flowing in erratic manner.

As such, future, present and past are all disjointed

Then he thinks about the roar and the eye. If that eye was him in the future trying to see him at this point of Time, then was his future self was trying to help him?

If his future-self wanted to help him, then there was no better opportunity to help him when he is inside a place where Time doesn't make sense and the rules of Time is distorted.

But Azief could not fathom how he could become so powerful in the future that even one of his eye nearly ruptured the Time Tunnel

And if that was really him, why would the other eye have a different color? That is also a question he wanted answered

Then there is the part about the roar. Was it the same roar he heard when he jumps off from the Supremacy Stairway?

He is confident that the roar was the same.

Was that roar were meant to stop his future self from helping his past self or was it to stop his future-self doing something to him?

But if that is the truth, why would his future-self wanted to harm him? It would be more logical that the roars wanted to sabotage him.

The weird thing is Azief let that roars actually saved him. He felt like his future-self did not necessarily want to help him when he thinks about it again

For a moment there, when the shape was about to materialize Azief felt a deadly sensation is about to descend onto him. It was like the moment that figure materializes inside the Time Tunnel, he would be dead.

It is weird and something he did not understand.

Why would his future-self would want to kill him when killing him would create a paradox? After all, if he did not exist, how could his future-self exist?

But what is weirder is why did the roar protected him? Is it simply because he had the legacy of Eterna?

Or is it something else? Because when he heard that roar, he felt it. Contained in that roar is hatred.

It was personal. The reason why that sound roars is because it was something personal. He sighed again.

The wind blowing against his skin and as it ruffles his hair, he felt like he could not stop the memories inside his mind that is about to disappear.

Remember the feeling' he thought to himself.

In the end, no matter how fast he is, this memory could not stay that long. That is what he thought to himself

'You seem to be frowning too hard. Your expressionless face is already enough to scare people. Now, that you are frowning, people would probably piss their pants' A voice made Azief break away from his musing. Azief did not turn to look toward that person voice.

Instead, he keeps looking forward at the city in the distance, looking at the people running around on the streets and saw some people going to the Temple to pray.

Azief find it funny. That Temple is dedicated to him, like he is some kind of pagan god. To the people of Pandemonium, they would probably felt distant with him.

'Hei. Are you listening?'

The voice is a bit shrill and it have that playful tone to it. Azief shakes his head. Even when he wants to muse a bit, this person could never let him rest easy.

There are not that many people that dares to speak in such manner with him. There is only one that would dare speak that way with him.

Loki the Tricksters. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

'I have a lot to think about' he said

Loki take a step forward as he beside him, looking at the same scene he is seeing.

'Pandemonium is very beautiful' Loki said. Azief nodded

'It is. I guess you didn't mess it up' Azief said, like he is a teacher grading the work of his student.

Of course, Loki knows that for Azief Pandemonium is probably not that important in his heart.

But who knows? Now, that the past is changed, the future might also change.

And the change of the future could only start if Death Monarch felt differently on things. Morgana is wrong, Loki thought as he looks at Azief.

Chapter 669: What do you see? \(2\)

To change the future, killing Azief would not change the ending. It might even start a more terrible future. The key to changing the future have always been on Azief hand

Change his heart and the Universe would also probably change. Loki is trying to save Azief soul.

Save his soul, save the Universe. That is the simple plan that Mind Master, Sofia the Divine Archer, Time God Jean had concocted in that other timeline.

It sounds simple in theory but everyone knew how stubborn Azief is. Even before he became a Sovereign, he is a stubborn asshole.

Like Loki had told him once, he is a bit of an ass.

And Loki had also had to walk that delicate balance of between revealing certain things but not everything since it could change a lot of other things.

Azief had to be present in the Final battle.

If not, all of his effort would be in vain.

If he told everything what will happen to Azief, who would guarantee that Azief would not get scared and hide in some other star system?

If such thing happened, Loki could not control certain things that could be controlled.

Earth must be the place where the Final battle takes place. It had happened like that before and it had to happen like that once again.

So, Loki could only slowly change how Azief feel.

He shakes his head like doing it could shake off the memories of once upon a future. Loki then smiles widely as he felt the cool breeze of the wind blowing his hair and he smiles.

'It would be better if you do not get angry all the time and summon thunders and lightning. Too much and it lose its effect'

Azief scoffed and said

'It is not always that I could make such a grand entrance'

Loki smiles and then he said

'A sword, huh? That is a new repertoire. I even sense some Sword Will in that sword strike. I guess it would be very sharp' Loki said casually 'Want to try it?' Azief ask back casually. Loki laughed.

'Spare me, great lord' he said and he cackles.

Azief smiles a bit. In this world, the people that could joke with Death Monarch and not shrink into fear could be counted on one hand.

They both sighed and then they look back at the city.

Their eyes look at the same direction and they look at the same scenery but both of them knows that they hold different things in their hearts

Azief took a glance at Loki beside him who was almost standing as tall as him right now

Today, Loki transform himself into a young man with rugged looks. His face is manly and his body is muscly and he is standing around six feet six.

He was very tall. Azief would not find it weird if not for the fact that he knows Loki true age is around teenage years now.

When Loki first joined him, he was around six or seven years old. Using his transformation abilities, he joined him seamlessly.

At that time, Azief could not even see through the disguise.

It would not seem so surprising when you found out that Loki is a time traveler from the future.

When Azief reaches that conclusion he was shocked but at the same time it also explains a lot of things about Loki behavior.

Azief was the first one that notices Loki true age. But now, as he looks at Loki he could no longer see any flaws in Loki transformation.

At that time, the only reason he could see through Loki disguise was because his level was so high that Loki could not hide in front of his eyes.

It was a matter of purity of energy. And the more Perfect Azief become, the more such methods of illusion and disguise could not work against him.

But, Loki is not some normal person either

Now, that he had six years and a Disk Formation leveler, any flaws in his ability to disguise himself and transform had all been perfected.

Maybe, there is a trick that Azief don't know.

Considering that Loki had the memory of the future, he probably knows a thousand ways to disguise himself without even people of higher level than him to be able to see his disguise.

'Why you are staring at my face?' Loki ask Azief smiles and said

'is it not tiring to wear a different face every day?' Azief ask casually.

'I'm used to it' he answered

'You should let Sina see your true face' Azief said with a little of smile on the corner of his mouth

Loki quickly reply by saying

'A teenage year old kid face is not a face I like for her to see. I fear she would think she is a pedophile. After all, she kisses me and do other things' and Loki smiles mischievously

'I'm not comfortable with this.' Azief suddenly said

'What? The not telling part or the kissing part?'

'The explanation of your intimacy' Azief reply.

'Oh. Look who is trying to pretend to be a prude. Guess how I feel when I see you lovey dovey with Sofia. It probably felt the same' Loki said.

'I felt nauseated when I try to imagine you and Sina...doing that'

Well, likewise' Loki said. It took a moment before Azief understood what Loki is implying and I this was normal days and he have normal thoughts in his mind, he would probably laugh.

But today, Azief did not say anything. He did not have the mood to joke around now. Loki who was about to laugh notice the drop in the temperature around them and he nodded

Then smiling bitterly, he said

'I guess we will talk about some serious stuff now.'

'That is why I invited you to the balcony' Azief said and Loki understood what Azief is saying.

Everyone in Pandemonium knows that when Death Monarch summon anyone and brought him to the balcony of Pandemonium that means he would be talking serious stuff with you. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

The talk in the balcony could change life and even the world.

When he made judgment, he made it from his throne. But when he wants to talk to someone, really talk to someone o he would bring them to the balcony

It is a peaceful gesture.

'So, what it is about?' Loki ask.

'Is it about Sasha? Or the Shadow Guards? Or is it about the Three Army?' Loki ask. Azief did not respond to any of those question. It was like he was waiting.

Then Loki said

'Or is it about Sofia?' Azief eyes turns sharp for a moment. But his eyes are still looking forward like the words did not affect his heart.

Loki did not miss that momentary movement of Azief eye.

'I guess it is about her after all. With you, it is always about those two. It is predictable and sad all at the same time'

Azief did not respond. And Loki did not pile on. Azief is trying to think of question to ask. And Loki is thinking of how to answer the question.

There was silence between them as both of them look at that vast expanse of Pandemonium. They could see many construction program going on all over the city

With their attainment in power, their eyes could see thousands of kilometers away so they could see everything from this balcony.

Then Azief ask

'Did you know it from the very beginning?' That is his first question

'Know about what?' Loki ask back. Azief was not even surprised that Loki would answer the question like that as he scoffed.

'Did you predict that this will happen? Did you predict I would see such things?'

'I predict nothing' Loki reply.

Azief heard Loki reply and then he nodded.

When one thinks about it, it is true that Loki predicted nothing. Since he had the memory of the future, then instead of saying he predicted it, it is more accurate to say that he had seen it

Azief did not let up as he said

'I am slowly forgetting things' he said but its sound more like a question.

Loki reply quickly

'It is probably a side effect of traveling through a Time Tunnel'

'It is not good' Azief states

'No one said getting stuck inside a limbo of Time is good' Loki reply. Azief ask and Loki answer in fast pace, like they are playing tic tac toe.

Then Azief ask

'Where is the Oracle?' Like a trap in a yes and no question, Loki nearly blurt it out before his eyes narrowed.

He had the urge to smirk but for some reason he did not. Loki smirk not only when he is happy. It is also when he is nervous, that he smirks.

It is his way of alleviating that feeling of nervousness.

He did not feel like smiling right now. Loki sighed internally. He knows that this would happen sooner or later.

He wished he could do what he wanted.

But life has never been about doing what you wanted. Especially for the life of someone like him that had made the choice to go back to the past.

There is a plan.

And he intends to see that plan to the end

He would play this game of chess and he would win it. And maybe at the end of all of this, there is a happy ending for him and for the ghost that he sees in his dreams.

'No more ghost' he thought to himself.

He did not wish for this matter to happen but he also knows that this is supposed to happen and should happened.

In that brief moment, he thinks about the conversation that number Five had with the Oracle. It would not be long now that Erika would have only one eye.

That would not be a good look for her. He thought.

Azief on the other hand, look at Loki and notice that his expression stiffened.

For some reason, he had such an intense reaction to the Oracle name. Like he had suspected, Loki must know something.

And for the first time since they began playing question and answers, Loki stop answering.

Loki avert his gaze from Pandemonium and then he looks toward the man beside him. Then smiling he ask

‘Why would you want to know?’

‘Do you know?’ Azief asked again

‘Why do you want to know?’ Loki ask again. If anyone trying to play with Azief like this, they would already be dead. But since it is Loki doing it, he could survive

‘I see some things during my time in the Time Tunnel’ he said.

Loki ears is wide open now. He could probably predict what Azief had saw but he still needs confirmation. There is a trace of hope and excitement in his heart.

But there is also dread and fear. He fears it would be exact the same yet at the same time he also knows that feeling is contradictory to his plan. For things to progress it should happen all the same.

Loki truly did not know what he hoped to hear from Azief mouth

‘What do you see?’ Loki wanted to know what Azief saw.

He desperately wants to know. His answer would decide how Loki should plan his next move.

‘I see myself getting betrayed’ Azief said simply. Loki is still smiling, maintaining his face expression but internally he felt disappointed.

‘Is it still the same?’ he thought to himself.

Chapter 670: No regret \(1\)

From what Loki had remembers in their conversation when Azief was the God of Death and he was the God of Deceit, he said in the vision, he saw himself getting betrayed.

But of course, in that timeline Azief did not ever reach Perfection Path and did not walk the Supremacy Stairway.

As such, there is no such thing as a Time Turbulence that happens that alerted the world.

And he didn’t saw the vision like he did now.

Instead, Azief met with the Oracle in one of his journey and he forced the Oracle to look at his future.

This timeline now is different. The Oracle Erika had even come to Pandemonium to read the future of Death Monarch but he rejected her.

Of course, Erika herself at that time was prompted by her own curiosity.

Because the past had changed, the position between the two had also changed.

That Timeline where he came from could be considered the Prime Timeline.

To stop from that timeline to become diverged and let others take advantage of that Jean had erased that Prime Timeline with his godly abilities and then sent Loki to the past using memories.

That is why Mind Master was also needed and why Loki could never let Azief kill Hirate during that confrontation in the World Government.

Hirate might be someone that Azief doesn't like but he is useful and Loki even considered him as comrade in the future.

Of course, this Hirate in this current timeline is still not that mature and prioritize his World Government than the world.

Loki once again sighed in his mind.

A lot of things had change and a lot of people that should have died is alive and people who should be alive is dead.

In some stories, such alteration to fates and destiny would surely create a humongous butterfly effect that compounded and keep compounding until the future is so murky and full of uncertainty that everything could possibly happen.

In such cases, even oracles and Norns could not divinate the future. They probably would not have any backlash if they try to peer such a future because there is nothing they could see.

Sometimes, divine beings would do such a thing to murky up the future so they could do their schemes.

Since Loki was once such a divine being, he also knows such a trick of tricking fate and destiny

But not Azief fate and not the fate of the Universe seems to had any change. He knows that this method would not work against the fates and destiny that is about to descend to the Omniverse

Things changed a bit but the general direction did not change.

It is like Loki is putting up blockade on a road and the car just took the offside road. And it still heading to that destination in the distance.

It is like throwing a stone into a sea. It ripples on the shore but the ripples could not affect the entire sea.

Anyone else would have surrendered in front of such a stubborn fate. But Loki did not because he knows from the very beginning how hard it is to change this fate.

This is because Azief fate is a strong one. There is strong fate and there is weak fate. The weaker the fate and destiny of a person the more susceptible it is to change.

And the stronger the fate and destiny one had, the harder it is for anyone to change it.

And is there any fates and destiny harder to change than a fate of someone who had reached the peak of the Universe in the future?

A Sovereign fate and destiny is always strong. There is also the fact that most Sovereign would make his past so murky and inaccessible for others

The reason for such things is that they worry their enemies would travel to the past and try to kill them when they are weak

That is why the fact that Jean could erase a timeline was so unprecedented.

The past is especially guarded by great magic that could not be easily unravel.

There is the fact that many great figures of the Omniverse usually lay an enchantment on their past to make sure that no one would go back in time to change some things.

Thus, time travel by magic is hard and almost impossible peering through it is a more probable task. But trying to turn back time in a world full of magical energy and have powerful beings there, it is almost impossible.

But Jean did not turn back time specifically.

He erases an entire timeline out of existence making it appear like the future they lived in is nothing more than one probable future.

An altering time storm ravages the entire Omniverse in that moment of erasure.

If it was anybody else, they would not do such a crazy thing.

But Jean did it. He knows that sending Loki to the past would be hard since all Sovereigns had made sure that their past is impossible to traverse too.

And that even includes Jean who had made precaution of people messing with Time.

It is also the same reason that doomed Jean to be unable to return to the past where he could save his own lover, Paulette

There is the fact that Paulette's death was the trigger that enables him to finally break through to Sovereign level.

If Paulette did not die, how could he be able to become Sovereign? How could he take the last step?

But it is because Paulette's death, that it also became a trigger for the War of the Sovereigns. Loki recognizes the irony of such an event. In the end, Paulette still had to die.

When one lives long enough, all stories seem the same.

Only the character is different.

It is no wonder that after almost eight hundred years, the God of Death doesn't seem that affected by the death of people.

He even welcomes some of them to his realm. Because in his realm, they are eternal

Because he sees people live and die, the flowers bloom and wither.

He comprehended that everything that lives had to die, that there is a balance that needs to be maintained.

And the only way to break that balance is to become strong enough to resist death. If they can resist it, that is their fate and destiny.

Jean had done just that.

At that moment when he erases the Timeline, his grand Path illuminated the entire Omniverse, rewriting the code of reality like an editor erasing a few sentence out of a writer manuscript, changing an already predetermined ending.

At that moment, he nearly Realize his Path and instead realizing and actualizing his own path, he sacrificed that moment of clarity to make sure that the ending is changed.

That is how hard it is to change that code of reality of all the worlds, realities and dimension that existed throughout the Omniverse.

Jean knew that it would not be possible to send Loki with his body and power back to the past.

Because they knew no matter how powerful Loki could become in the years that would follow after the fall, Loki would not be able to stop the final Battle from happening.

And no matter how many treasure that Loki could find and strengthen himself with, he would not be able to win in that Final Battle.

The only one that is able to win the Final Battle would be Azief.

They believe in it not because they believe in Azief or his prowess. They believe in it because Azief is their only choice. this content of novelfullbook.com, if you reading this content please go to website novelfullbook.com to continue reading, fastest update hourly

Thus Jean took a risk.

The only way to circumvent that great magic is to erase all of it completely and they also have to put trust to him, the Trickster God to do what must be done.

A hope of an entire Omniverse is burdened onto Loki shoulders.

If Loki told those three people right now that in the future, Jean, Mind Master, The Divine Archer, these three people that do not even trust one word that come out of his mouth that they would risk the fate of the Omniverse to him because they trusted him, those three people would surely laugh out loud

The reason why is because taking such a bet would also be risky for Jean

Because since Jean erased the Prime Timeline, and send Loki back to the past, Jean himself also put himself in a disadvantage.

If Loki betrayed him, then it would be easy for Loki who have the knowledge of the future to kill him in the past and stop the rise of the Time God

There are seven Sovereigns but there is only Six Great Era. It would not be surprising that Loki would be envious.

Loki could even take the chance to make himself the main character of this great sage, to become one of the first Six Sovereign before they ripped apart the Will of the World

But Jean the Time God, Hirate the Mind Master, Sofia the Divine Archer still trusted him.

Those people who did not fight in the final battle didn't understand. The Final Battle was actually anticlimactic.
