

When She Unveils Identities Novel Chapter 11 -

Chapter 11 – Men are Cheap

After Shirley returned to her apartment from the hospital, she quickly took out her computer.

After some sound of typing, the computer virus that had attacked Stewart Group for several days disappeared, and Stewart Group's customer system was back on track.

The discussions on the internet finally vanished, and the volatile stock price of Stewart Group gradually stabilized.

"Shirley, what's going on? The fun has just begun. Why did you stop it?"

Ewan soon called her, and his tone was very excited on the phone, "Didn't you say we shall take advantage of the Stewart Group? Don't tell me you still love Braden and get waver for that."

Stewart Group's customer information has been leaked in the past few days due to the computer virus attack.

Several companies canceled their cooperation with them in a rage and cooperated with a new company.

This new company was run by Ewan but was secretly controlled by Shirley, and it has already started to take shape.

As Shirley suddenly stopped their plan, Ewan knew it must be because she went soft with Braden.

Shirley shook the coffee cup, looked at the river view outside the window, and said lightly, "I have got what I want, and there is no need to continue."

"Come on, just admit you are soft-hearted! You don't need to pretend to be strong."

Ewan sighed, "I can understand you still have feelings for him. After all, you have loved him for four years."

Shirley was speechless.

She was not a hard-hearted person. It really moved her that Braden was beaten by a wine bottle to protect her.

“It’s okay to be soft-hearted, but don’t forget how he treated you before. Just believe me, men are cheap. The nicer you are to him, the deeper he will hurt you.”

“You can be soft to him, but he may not do the same to you in the future.”

Ewan’s voice was sober and rational. He hesitated and said, “I heard that guy offered a reward of twenty million to find the hacker out. Many experts in the industry have started the investigation. Even Kaza, who has retired for many years, wanted to get that money. If they discover that you are FireDance, judging from the vengeful personality of Braden, what do you think will happen to you?”

“Is that so? Kaza also joined them?”

Shirley’s delicate face was still calm.

She took a sip of her coffee, raised her eyebrows, and said, “Well, let’s see if they can find me!”

After hanging up the phone, Shirley touched her stomach and said softly, “Don’t worry, my babies. Mom will definitely earn enough money for you before you come to this world!”

After that day, Shirley had been waiting for Braden to send back the divorce agreement.

Only when that guy signed the contract could she take over the Blossom Law Office and start with some of her plans.

But half a week passed, and no courier called her.

Same city express delivery would always arrive within one day.

So that guy probably didn’t even take the divorce agreement seriously and just threw it away as trash!

Time was limited. Shirley didn’t want to sit here and do nothing but see her belly getting bigger.

She took a taxi and came to Stewart Group's headquarters.

"Mrs. Stewart, nice to meet you!"

The employees didn't know that she and Braden were about to divorce and greeted her warmly.

"Nice to meet you."

Shirley responded with an embarrassed smile.

She used to come to the headquarters a lot.

She loved Braden so much in the past and always cooked soups, made juice, or prepared some coffee to send to him.

She always sent them to him secretly and didn't dare to let Braden know.

To keep that from him, she would also prepare some for the employees when she sent it to Braden, and everyone liked her very much.

Shirley came to Braden's office easily.

"Mrs. Stewart, why did you come here?"

The secretary was shocked to see Shirley.

She remembered that this gentle and dignified woman had never come here before. She always left her things at the reception and left.

Why did she come here today?

"I'm here to meet Braden. Is he in there?"

Shirley stood at the door of the office and looked inside.

The secretary's expression became even more embarrassed, and he hesitantly said, "He's inside, but it might be a bit inconvenient."

Shirley pursed her lips and calmly said with a smile, "Don't worry, I can accept everything. There is no inconvenience for me."

After that, she raised her chin and walked into Braden's office confidently and calmly like a white swan.

Sure enough, she saw the angelic bitch Amelie was in the office.

The woman was sobbing in Braden's arms, and when she saw Shirley come in, she immediately stood up in a panic.

"Miss Wilson, don't get me wrong. Braden and I were just..."

"No need to explain."

Shirley made a gesture of rejection, looked at Braden, and said, "Mr. Stewart, I'm sorry to interrupt your tryst. I'm here to get the divorce agreement, and I'll leave as soon as I get that."
