

When She Unveils Identities Novel Chapter 18 –

Chapter 18 – What Did You Know?

The man in black, his long legs resting on the desk, turned the swivel chair. He was very arrogant.

He wore a peaked cap, which covered half his face, revealing only the high bridge of his nose and his fine thin lips.

He was the idol of countless IT professionals, he won the championship in the Global Hacking League Competition for four consecutive years, and he was one of the two god-level figures in the hacker world, Kaza.

“Kaza, don’t worry. Mr. Stewart will be here soon, right away!”

“We know you’re tired of waiting, so I’ll rub your shoulders for you!”

The technical staff were delighted to see their idol, and they all gathered around to talk to him, some even asking for autographs and a group photo.

“You don’t have work to do?”

Liam led the way, and seeing the chaos in the department, he was furious.

Everyone felt the powerful aura from Braden, and dispersed.

“Mr. Kaza, sorry to keep you waiting. This is Mr. Stewart.”

“Mr. Stewart, this is Mr. Kaza, the great hacker.”

Liam stood in the middle, introducing each other, not daring to offend anyone.

Kaza was still leaning back on the chair in that idle attitude, without any intention of getting up to shake hands.

He tilted his head and looked at Braden with a smile.

Braden looked down at him.

Then, Kaza smiled and said, “Are you the scumbag Braden who has been scolded on the trending search every day? I heard you abandoned your wife, and made your mistress pregnant?”

As soon as he said that, everyone gasped.

Standing next to Braden, Shirley couldn't help thinking, “Kaza is indeed very similar to his code style, full of aggressiveness!”

“Mr. Kaza, you are so humorous!”

Liam wanted to ease the embarrassment and, at the same time, cast a glance at Braden for fear that he would get angry.

Braden didn't take it seriously, and asked, “So, can you find FireDance?”

“Are you questioning my abilities?”

Kaza was unhappy, stood up from the chair, and looked at Braden's eyes. “If I'm not sure, I won't come to you.”

After he finished speaking, he typed complicated codes on the computer behind him.

“This is a tracking program that I spent three days and three nights writing. It can follow the virus program that invaded your customer's system and find the personal information of the virus developer.”

While typing on the keyboard, Kaza showed an excited expression, as if he was playing a hunter game, and said, “As long as I press the run button, within fifteen minutes, all the information about Fire Dance will pop up!”

Over the years, there were two god-level figures in the hacker world. One was Kaza, who was good at attacking, and the other was Fire Dance, who was good at defending.

Kaza and Fire Dance were not on the same page.

They always meet each other in various hacker competitions. Either Fire Dance won or Kaza won. The two had always been on par.

Four years ago, after FireDance defeated Kaza, FireDance disappeared from the circle.

Everyone then called Kaza Fire Dance's defeated opponent.

Rumor had it that they were the legends couple in the hacker world.

Kaza then had different feelings for Fire Dance, and vowed to find FireDance!

Braden didn't know much about codes.

He looked at the computer screen and said, "Run it."

Kaza didn't move, and his expression was very scornful. "Why should I listen to your

"Liam, transfer him two hundred million."

"Have you ever heard of a hacker short of money?"

"What do you want?"

Braden's face was gloomy, and his patience was about to run out.

He thought, "Kaza is difficult to deal with."

"However, if he could find FireDance, he would be quite capable."

order?"

"It's very simple," Kaza said, "If I find out who Fire Dance is, you must use your Stewart family's connection to let Fire Dance admit in front of the global media that she yields to me!"

Kaza thought, "Just thinking about that scene makes me feel happy."

Shirley thought, "Childish!"

Shirley on the side couldn't help but roll her eyes.

Rumors had it that Kaza was tall and handsome with abs, and he didn't talk too much.

Now it seemed that he was tall and handsome, and his abs should be okay, but he was too talkative.

"Excuse me, I'm going to the bathroom."

Shirley walked out.

She thought, "He wants to let me yield to him, no way! He'll know right away who will be the loser!"

"I can agree with your request."

Braden stared at the run button on the computer screen and said, "Let's start."

"Good!"

Kaza didn't hesitate and clicked the mouse.

Everyone held their breath and focused on the computer screen.

Some Fire Dance fans clenched their fists, almost fainting from excitement.

"It's going to be successful!"

"The most mysterious bigwig in the hacker world, Fire Dance, will show her face!"

Fifteen minutes passed.

Everyone started counting down.

"Ten, nine, eight, seven..."

At that time, Shirley returned to the scene with ease.

"Her information hasn't come out yet. Can you do it or not? Why do I think there is something wrong with your code?"

"Won't you be the one who will be tracked down? You should yield to her then."

She looked at Kaza, who was frowning, and joked with a smile.

"What do you know? You only know how to kiss up to garbage."

Kaza was so disdainful of Shirley that he didn't even bother to look at her.

He despised women like her who knew that their husband was cheating, and they were still eager to compromise.

He thought, "She has no thoughts, no dignity, no ability. Can she know the code?"

Everyone also felt that Shirley was talking nonsense. They thought, "Kaza's code had always been flawless, so how could there be any problems?"

"Three! Two! One!"

The exciting time had come.

After the program finished running, the tracked information would be presented on the computer screen.

“This...”

When everyone saw that the photo displayed on the computer screen was Kaza himself, they fell silent for a moment.

They thought, “This is too embarrassing!”

“Look, I guessed right. There is something wrong with your code!”

Shirley held back a smile, patted Kaza on the shoulder, and said, “Young man, you should always remember there are still many great people, so don’t be too arrogant!”

“Impossible! It’s impossible!”

“There will be no problems with my code. I have been thinking about this coding for three days and three nights. There is no reason why there will be problems!”

Kaza had gone crazy.

He opened the back end, checked again and again, and never found a problem.

“So, don’t ask people to yield to you. When you are not capable enough, you should pretend to be humble.”

Shirley’s words hurt Kaza so much.

But he had no time to fight back. He was concentrating on finding bugs in his program.

Braden pursed his lips, but his attention was not on that matter.

He stared at Shirley with sharp eyes.

He thought, “Why is she so arrogant now?”

“He has a problem with his code. Why is she so happy about it?”

Braden said, "It seems that the so-called greatest hacker can not do anything about it, and it is a waste of my time."

Braden looked at his watch, ready to leave.

Everyone in the technical department was also a little disappointed with Kaza.

They thought, "Idols can only exist in our imagination, and once we see their true face, we will be very disappointed."

"Wait!"

Kaza looked at them and said, "I found out where the problem is."

Braden raised his eyebrows and motioned for him to continue.

"The reason why this happened is that she knew my code and launched a targeted systematic counterattack, replacing the result retrieved by the program."

Kaza's words made them confused, and he said again, "To put it another way, Fire Dance we searched so hard for is among us, because we are the only ones who have seen my code."

"So, whoever left halfway is the most suspect!"

Everyone looked at each other.

"Except for the president's wife, everyone seemed to be here just now, and no one left!"
