

She Unveils 461

Chapter 461 Do You Regret It?

Hearing that, Shirley stopped in place immediately. She grabbed Antwan's umbrella and puffed out her chest.

No matter how sad she was, she would only be sad secretly. She would never let Braden see her sad look...

Shirley held on for several minutes, yet no one or car came. She asked with a puzzled expression, "Where is that scum?"

Then, she heard a burst of laughter.

Antwan laughed out loud. "Shirley, you are the cutest and proudest woman I have ever seen..."

Shirley was speechless.

"Don't be so tense. I lied to you. Braden must be sitting in a warm presidential suite, drinking coffee, and flirting with Alina. How could he run around in the rain?"

"You bastard! How dare you fool me!"

Shirley was originally angry, and now, she was teased by Antwan. She was so furious that she grabbed Antwan and beat him up. She cursed, "Are all the men of the Stewart family crazy? You bullied me together. Do you think I have no family? How dare you! I will beat you to death!"

Shirley was skilled at practicing martial arts. Coupled with her anger, she treated Antwan as a human sandbag. In the heavy rain, Antwan was beaten miserably.

The rain soaked their clothes. Antwan was pushed to the ground by Shirley. He stretched out his limbs as he lay on the ground, unafraid of anything. He said, "Never mind. As long as you can feel more comfortable, you can beat me to your content..."

"Come on! Don't pity me because I'm a delicate man!"

Antwan's words disgusted Shirley. She was not in the mood to hit him anymore.

Like a deflated ball, she squatted on the ground. The red umbrella was upside down like a rose washed by rain, beautiful and fragile.

"Woo..."

Shirley was sitting in the back row. Antwan turned around and waved at her. “Come over here. I’ll tell you something.”

Shirley was innocent. She leaned over with a face full of anticipation. Her close-fitting floral dress had a large neckline. Her collar slid down her fair shoulders.

Antwan quickly glanced at her and subconsciously swallowed. His voice was a little husky. "Marry me, and the Stewart Group will be yours. It will piss Braden off."

Shirley was lost for words.

Shirley didn't know if Braden would get angry, but she was burning with anger now.

"Bastard, good for you. Do you want to be beaten again? How can you make fun of me?"

As Shirley was about to punch him, Antwan quickly raised his hand and begged for mercy. "Shirley, don't be angry. Let me finish..."

"Stop talking nonsense."

Antwan said seriously, "I didn't ask you to marry me for real. You can take this opportunity to vent your anger..."

"Think about it. In order to protect the Stewart Group, Braden chose to betray you and marry Alina. In the end, you get the Stewart Group and a handsome husband. Isn't that enough to humiliate him?"

"The Stewart Group?"

These words made Shirley a little tempted.

Right now, Korita Group was ready to go. If she could get the Stewart Group, the leading company in the industry, not only would Korita Group have a promising future, but the Wilson family would restore prosperity.

In the past, Shirley cared about Braden and never had this kind of thought. But now she found it a good choice.

Chapter 463 It's Good The Stewart Family Goes Bankrupt

The annual International Electronics Technology Summit was held at the Mapa Grand Hotel in Seatie City. The invited companies were technology giants from all over the world. Among them, the Stewart Group and KCL Group were undoubtedly the two most powerful companies. They had always been the focus of the media.

However, the Stewart Group had been in trouble recently. It was rumored that the Stewart Group and KCL Group's cooperation had not been finalized, causing the largest G6 Chip cell phone project delayed for nearly half a year. The major production lines and sales lines were suspended. The performance continued to decline for two seasons, and the Stewart Group suffered heavy losses.

What was even worse was that the investment company led by the Gilmore family seemed to smell something and proposed to withdraw their investment. The Stewart Group's best research and development team was also about to fall apart. The entire group showed a dark tide, which seemed that it was going to collapse.

Therefore, this International Electronics Technology Summit was quite essential to the Stewart Group. It decided the industry pattern of Seatie City and even the whole world in the next decade.

' Will the Gilmore Group really withdraw its investment from the Stewart Group?'

"Can the Stewart Group still cooperate with KCL Group?"

“Can the Stewart Group successfully get through the crisis and become the leading enterprise of the industry?”

The answers to these questions could be found at this summit.

Early in the morning, reporters were gathered at the entrance of the hotel with cameras. They wished that they could broadcast the entire summit. However, not everyone could participate in the summit. Those who were not famous in the field of electronic technology did not have the right to enter. Even the news media could only wait outside the hotel.

Flowers and red carpets were spread all the way to the parking lot. The big shots appeared one after another.

A stretch Lincoln limousine drove over, and the reporters began to rush up. Each of them pressed the shutter excitedly, and the onlookers were even more gossiping merrily.

“Look! That seems to be the Gilmore family’s car. I wonder if the Gilmore Group will continue to cooperate with the Stewart Group after this summit.”

“I think they will. A while ago, the two big families were discussing marriage, but I don’t know why they didn’t go any further...”

"What do you think?"

Shirley curved her red lips. Her smile was enchanting and mysterious, making the others hard to fathom.

She reached out her slender hand, gently stroking Braden's perfect face, feeling the slightly hard stubble and the faint chill that was so familiar. The memories of their past love and intimacy were still vivid in her mind, yet at this moment, they seemed to be separated by thousands of mountains and rivers.

"I don't care what your purpose is. Leave immediately. You shouldn't appear here." Braden tried his best to put on a cold expression, hoping to make Shirley realize the difficulty and give up.

He did not want Shirley's sudden appearance to disrupt his carefully laid plan. Moreover, what he was most afraid of was that he would soften his heart in the end because of Shirley...

If he softened his heart, then everything would be ruined!

"You are in such a hurry to drive me away because you are afraid you will change your mind because of me?"

Shirley spoke his mind directly.

Braden chose to ignore her words.

At the same time, he let go of her hand and tried to keep her at a distance.

Braden knew himself very well. Despite his cold and serious face, he was actually a lovesick fool. The closer he got to Shirley, the less rational he was, which was troublesome.

However, Shirley was born with a rebellious heart. When she noticed that Braden wanted to keep a distance from her, she directly embraced his shoulder, her lips lightly touching his face as she said word by word, "If I tell you that I come here tonight for nothing else but to win you back, would you believe me?"

"Don't be ridiculous!"

Braden clearly didn't expect Shirley to be so persistent and was slightly surprised. He tried hard to keep his cold expression and said with a bit of pride, "Didn't you say that you're the type of person who is free and easy? You said at the time you answered to be with me, you already planned to leave. You even told me that I mean nothing to you and you can still shine brightly without me. Frank straightened his suit and pushed up his glasses. He said to everyone in neither a humble nor arrogant manner, "Ladies and gentlemen, please calm down. I sent Ms.

Wilson an invitation because she is very special in the entire electronics technology field. She occupies a crucial position and has more qualifications to participate in this summit than anyone else present. I hope that we can have a friendly and equal exchange for the benefit of the industry's healthy development."

Frank's words made some of the older industry veterans present very unhappy.

"Frank, what the hell are you talking about? How can a twenty-year-old girl surpass us in industry accomplishments and status? Are you under her spell, deliberately giving her special treatment?

"You know what? We can select you to be the president and we can also kick you off the stage. Don't go too far!"

Frank could only helplessly smile and say, "At the Round Table Conference later, you will see that what I said is true. If you still think that Ms. Wilson is not qualified to be here, I can resign without any qualms."

Seeing that Frank was so resolute, the others did not want to make things difficult for him. They dispersed and did not embarrass Shirley and Antwan anymore.

Alina certainly was not willing to let it go at that, so she filled up a glass of wine and insincerely offered it to Shirley, sneering. "Ms. Wilson, if I'm not mistaken, you came here for Braden, right? I have to say that you are really good at choosing time. Today is the day that Braden and I officially announce our relationship, and I believe you will sincerely bless us, right?"

Shirley took the glass, clinked it against Alina's, and said with a half-smile, "If my blessing can make you feel better, then I can bless you. But you should be very clear that you can't keep him. If I were you, I would not make this bad deal... You're so smug now, but I believe you'll be even more embarrassed when you get dumped. I hope you understand this."

These words directly broke Alina's defense. She dropped her dignity and shouted at Shirley angrily, "Stop cursing us here! Braden and I will always be together, and the only one who will be abandoned is you. Four years ago, it will be you. Four years ago, it was you, and now, it is still you!"

At the same time, she acted without dignity and splashed red wine on Shirley's face.

Antwan quickly shielded Shirley behind him and coldly warned Alina, "Ms. Gilmore, you've gone too far. If you continue to be unreasonable like this, I'll have to ask you to leave!"

Chapter 466 Afraid That The Guru Would Snub

The most important Round Table Conference of the International Electronic Technology Summit was about to begin. Eight important figures, including Braden, the president of the Summit, and the top ones in the industry, took their seats.

The rest of the people, including Alina, the biggest sponsor of this meeting, could only listen in from the big conference room outside, not qualified to sit in the Round Table Conference room.

According to the agreed time, the meeting should begin. Everyone wore the real-time translator and counted down in their hearts.

“Five, four, three, two...”

When the countdown reached the last digit, the most significant start button of the Round Table Conference was still not pressed.

This start button was a model of the earth at the center of the table. It was divided into eight modules, representing the eight regions in the world that held important positions in the field of electronic technology. The eight heads must press each of the modules at the same time to start it, any part missing would not work.

“I’m sorry, everyone. Something has happened. This meeting cannot be held on time for the time being.”

As the president of the Electronics Technology Association and also the host of the summit, Frank anxiously informed everyone through the broadcast.

“Well, something happened. What happened?”

In the conference room outside of the Round Table Conference room, people did not know what had happened. They all whispered to and discussed with each other.

Only the eight members who participated in the Round Table Conference, no... to be more exact, only seven members knew what had happened.

“As everyone can see, of the eight members participating in the Round Table Conference, only seven are in place. One very important member hasn’t arrived yet.

The module he represents is second only to the Stewart Group. Because of his absence, the start button is unable to light up and the Round Table Conference is unable to start.”

Chapter 467 A Move Planned Long Ago

Everyone's eyes focused on Alina, and so did the live broadcast lenses.

"Well, are you sure? It depends on me?"

Alina was confused and a little flattered.

Although the Gilmore family was the biggest sponsor of this summit, the Gilmore family had little to do with the electronic science and technology industry. Alina could appear at the summit because of money. She did not have a great sense of accomplishment.

Now, when she heard that whether the summit could be smoothly held depended on her, she was excited.

"Yes, Ms. Gilmore, the KCL Group's new president wanted your cooperation..."

"What do I need to do? Whatever the president says, I will cooperate well. It is my honor."

When Alina heard that the famous KCL Group's new president referred to her, she was even more excited, almost kneeling on the spot.

After all, if Alina had a good relationship with KCL Group's new president, she would be a big shot in the entire electronic technology industry. Those big shots who wanted to cooperate with KCL Group would come and lick her.

In this way, her position in Braden's heart would rise as he would need her more.

"Well..."

Frank pushed up his glasses and said awkwardly, "KCL's new president said he liked Seatie City very much and wanted to have an adopted daughter. He hopes that you can say to him in front of the global camera, 'Dad, I know I was wrong. Please forgive me for what I did before and come to the meeting'."

When this was said, the scene was in an uproar.

Alina's expression became a little ugly. "Did the president really say that? It is... too humorous."

Six of the seven members in the Round Table Conference room were laughing their heads off.

Everyone turned to look at Braden and instantly quieted down, not daring to make a sound.

Shirley also looked at Braden, her beautiful eyes filled with confusion.

Braden's "agreement" was both reasonable and somewhat unexpected. It surprised Shirley.

"In our line of work, not only do we look at seniority, but also ability. Everyone here is a top figure in the industry. As for whether Shirley has the ability or not, everyone has experienced it four years ago..."

Braden's eyes were cold. He looked straight ahead and said indifferently, "Four years ago, she passed the test and became the president of the Electronics Technology Association. It is enough to prove her ability. Now she has developed the G6 chip. I think there's no problem for her to be one of the eight members of the Round Table Conference."

"I also think that Ms. Wilson is worthy of our admiration!"

Higashino reached out his hand and nodded to Shirley. He smiled and said, "Ms. Wilson, welcome. Our Round Table Conference should have added a bit of a different style. Please advise us in the future!"

Frank immediately breathed a sigh of relief and continued to ask for the opinions of the other members. "What are your opinions?"

Seeing that the two big shots who had the most authority in the industry had expressed their welcome, the others naturally did not dare to go against it. They changed their attitudes and began to flatter Shirley.

"Of course, we welcome Shirley. The industry needs such talent!"

"Ms. Wilson is really a young talent. With you leading the electronic technology field, our future is promising!"

Shirley also replied hypocritically, "I'm flattered. I was just lucky. I have to learn from you. It is really a blessing to have you in the industry..."

"Enough!"

Braden stopped Alina from continuing. He held her down with his long arms, and his eyes were cold. "You've already embarrassed yourself enough today. You'd better talk no more nonsense. Otherwise, the entire Gilmore family will not be able to afford the consequences."

After he said this, it was as if he had cast a spell. In an instant, Alina, who was shouting hysterically, calmed down and shut up.

Shirley was very perceptive and noticed something was wrong. She deliberately said to Alina, "I don't think you have anything that can fuck me up, do you? Let me hear it, my dear daughter. Daddy will not be angry, otherwise, you are just bluffing!"

Alina stayed in Braden's arms. Her mouth was closed tightly, and she looked like she wanted to kill Shirley. It seemed that she had a hard time keeping her mouth shut.

"Enough. She is just like this. She is very feisty. I apologize to you on her behalf. Please don't provoke her again."

Braden nodded slightly to Shirley. His politeness was like a sheet of glass that stood between them, destroying their intimacy and replacing it with distance.

In an instant, Shirley felt frustrated and distressed. His politeness was even more hurtful than his arguing with her.

"Haha, what is your relationship? Why do you think you can apologize on her behalf? Are you close? Who is she to you?"

Shirley asked with a sneer.

Alina was instantly excited. She nudged Braden and said proudly, "Braden, since Ms. Wilson asked, shouldn't you answer it? We can also take the chance to go public with our relationship. You promised me."

Braden put his arm around Alina's shoulders and clenched his large hand on her shoulder. He seemed to be reassuring her in a silent way.

Antwan crossed his arms and leaned lazily against the door of the conference room, waiting for Shirley to come out.

“Shirley, you hid well enough. Once again, you amazed me!”

He watched Shirley walk over slowly from afar. His beautiful lips unconsciously curved up as he asked with an insincere smile.

“This is the direction that I studied in my university subjects. I never hid it. It’s just that you don’t understand me well enough.”

With the document in her hand, Shirley tidied her hair. She looked very attractive.

Shirley was both beautiful and talented, but she always kept a low profile. Once she buried herself in work, she would display remarkable working abilities.

“Right. I have never understood you, neither did Braden. He isn’t a good husband because he doesn’t understand you at all. He deserves to be slapped in the face by you.”

Antwan had just watched the live broadcast outside the Round Table Conference room. He couldn’t help but be impressed by Shirley’s charm.

When he saw that Braden had been defeated, he felt an unprecedented joy. It was as if he had joined in and slapped Braden in the face.

“Stop gloating here. He wasn’t slapped by me. Instead, I almost lost my face.” Shirley let out a long sigh. For the first time, she was overwhelmed by such a strong feeling of being a loser. It was even worse than the betrayal of Braden four years ago!

Four years ago, she had only been a good-for-nothing rich lady. It was understandable that Braden didn’t want her.

Now, she was strong enough and could even save Braden, but he still wasn’t willing to accept her, which hurt her self-esteem a little.

“Antwan, tell me the truth. Am I that disappointing? Why does he give up on me again and again?”

Shirley looked up, her voice a little choked up. She had never doubted herself so much.

Antwan’s cynical expression changed a little. He whispered, “It’s not that you are disappointing. He is just blind. Don’t deny yourself.”
