Chapter 481 – Top Ten Torture Methods

Shirley patted Irving, her patience almost running out. She urged, "If you have any ideas, just speak up. Don't you try to fool me!"

Irving smiled awkwardly, "The impostor of Mr. Quintin is indeed very cautious. He only contacts me through text messages, and we can't pin his location through his phone number.

So unless he is willing to show up, we can't find him. At present, you're the only person who can lure him to show up."

'I'm afraid you think too highly of me...' Shirley added dejectedly, 'Ever since he stood me up, I could no longer contact him.

If he really cared about me, he wouldn't have left without bidding farewell to me.' 'I believe that the impostor must have his own reason...'

'So what do you want me to do exactly?' 'It's very simple. Ms. Wilson, come with me.' Irving beckoned Shirley with his finger.

In the night, they walked around in the huge and mysterious Crimson Pawnshop. After taking a lot of turns, they finally stopped at the most remote courtyard.

Maybe no one entered this courtyard in the past hundreds of years. The front door was covered with spider webs, emitting a rotten and sinful smell.

'Irving, what are you trying to do?' Shirley pursed her lips and subconsciously stepped backward. 'Ms. Wilson, don't be afraid...'

Irving brushed off the dust on his robe and said in a relaxed tone, "This is the place for water torture, one of the top ten torture methods used in Crimson Pawnshop.

No one was punished here in the past four years, so it looks rather dilapidated. There used to be people coming and going. It was very lively."

"Kaff kaff, top ten torture methods? People coming and going?" Shirley was so surprised that she almost choked on her own saliva. '

As Long As She Is Safe

Irving had guessed correctly. Braden had originally planned to completely cut off all ties with Crimson Pawnshop, so he would not appear as Mr. Quintin.

He even wanted to cancel the SIM card that concealed the IP address.

However, when he saw the video that Irving had sent him which showed that Shirley was suffering in the water prison, he went crazy. He lost all his reason.

At this moment, he was accompanying Alina to attend a very important family dinner while discussing the cooperation between the Gilmore family and the Stewart family in the next quarter.

Martin was very satisfied with Braden's compromise. His words were hinting that the wedding of Braden and Alina should be on the agenda.

"Braden, you know how I have been treating you all these years. You and Alina have been growing up together as friends.

The natural and next step is to get married, isn't it?" "Daddy, you drank too much. How can you talk nonsense?"

I told you that Braden and I are only dating now. We will only get married when we see fit." lina blushed and stopped Martin from continuing. She was afraid that Braden would be impatient and stop acting with her.

"I didn't talk nonsense. I worked so hard to make the Gilmore family prosper like this. In the future, the Gilmore family will be handed over to you.

As long as you and Braden get married, it will be handed over to Braden. Braden is so capable.

The Gilmore family will definitely become more and more prosperous in his hands..." Martin patted Braden on the shoulder, his eyes full of appreciation.

Larry stood above the water prison and said, "Shirley, hurry to come up. The water level is going to rise soon.

At that time, what will come out of these holes isn't water, but scary and poisonous snakes, worms, mice, and ants."

"No!"

Shirley looked up at Larry nervously. "Larry, how can you not keep your promise? Didn't you say that I am allowed to deal with this imposter alone?

What are you doing now?" "I originally planned to let you deal with him alone, but when I know the real identity of this imposter, I have to go back on my word this time. Forgive me."

Larry's eyes under the mask turned ruthless as if he wanted to tear the imposter to pieces. "This is my personal grudge against him.

I've endured humiliation for so many years in order to take revenge. How can I let him go so easily?" "Personal grudge?"

Shirley turned around and looked at Braden, whose hands and feet were bound by chains, with a puzzled expression. She asked softly, "So, who are you?

Are you going to tell me yourself?" She already had some guesses in her heart, but she didn't want to believe them until the last moment.

"I'm sorry."

Braden didn't answer. Instead, he lowered his head. Since he chose to take the risk, he was prepared to expose his identity.

Whether Shirley forgave him or hated him more, he didn't care. As long as she was safe... "Shirley, you are smart. You must have guessed it.

Then came arrogant laughter of Larry.

"Haha, Braden, I didn't expect you to have such a day. Back then, I begged you so much to give me a chance to live, but you were not willing. Today, you end up like this. It is your retribution!

"Don't stop. Put more things in. I want to let this arrogant guy feel what is worse than death!"

At the same time, Braden's painful voice sounded again.

Irving was so anxious that he stomped his feet, and he said to Shirley, 'Ms. Wilson, he can't hold on for long. I hope you won't regret it!'

"It's so annoying! Why is this person so annoying?"

After Shirley complained, she returned to the dungeon.

As expected, the water level had risen to Braden's neck. From time to time, snakes and insects could be seen floating and sinking.

Braden looked to be extremely painful. His high-spirited face was now distorted. It seemed that he had been bitten quite a few times by snakes.

"Stop!"

Shirley felt uncomfortable and shouted.

"Shirley, why are you back again? Do you want to enjoy this scene?" Larry turned around and looked at Shirley with a smile. He said with a satisfied expression, "I finally see this arrogant guy in a sorry state. I have waited for this day for too long."

"Larry, I beg you. The punishment is almost done. Let him go!" Shirley's eyes were red, and she sobbed as she begged Larry.

"What's wrong with you? Weren't you quite decisive just now? Why are you hesitating for a jerk..."

"Don't say anything. Let him go. He won't be able to hold on for too long."

"He can just die. I didn't intend to let him live!"

Braden lay in the guest room of the Crimson Pawnshop. His eyes were closed and he was breathing slowly. He was still unconscious.

“How long has he been unconscious?”

Shirley asked worriedly. She rushed to Braden’s bed with her weak body.

Shirley’s eyes turned red the moment she saw Braden.

In her memory, she had never seen Braden so fragile, as if any person, even a threeor-four-year-old child, could take his life with just a slight movement of his finger.

“You guys were saved together. It’s been three days.”

Larry stood behind Shirley, his hands in his pockets as he answered truthfully.

“Didn’t you take him to the hospital? With his condition, he should be in a professional hospital, right?”

“Why didn’t you take him to the hospital?”

Larry explained, “I took you two to the hospital right away, but the doctors couldn’t do anything and issued a notice of critical illness. I spent a lot of money finding a skillful doctor to save your lives in time. Now you are out of danger, but whether he can wake up depends on his luck.”

“Humph, from what you’re saying, we have to thank you for saving our lives.”

Shirley said with a cold smile.

Shirley blamed Larry for putting Braden and her in such a situation.

But Larry was Shirley’s brother. She couldn’t hate him. Shirley tormented herself with the thought.

When Shirley came out of the room, Larry, who had been waiting outside, went up to her.

"What's wrong? Why are you so flustered? Is that guy awake?"

"His fingers moved. He should be waking up soon..."

Shirley tried her best to calm herself down. Then, she said to Larry with a serious expression, "Can you promise me something?"

"Of course. No matter what you ask of me, I will agree!"

Larry said humbly. He tried his best to please Shirley, for fear that she would hate him.

"Treat Braden well. Don't hurt him. Even if it is not for me, for the sake of Ben and Ally, keep his life."

The look in Shirley's eyes when she stared at Larry was firm and solemn. It seemed that Larry couldn't say no.

After all this, Shirley felt that she did not understand Larry enough. She did not know where Larry's bottom line was although they got reunited after a long separation.

They were twins, but Shirley did not dare to fully trust Larry.

"Well..."

As expected, Larry was hesitant and looked away.

Perhaps Larry had never intended to let Braden off. The so-called skillful doctor was just a stalling tactic to comfort Shirley.

"Braden's life represents the relationship between you and me. If he is alive, we will be siblings. If he dies, I will break off all relations with you."

Braden was silent for a moment, then fumbled to drink the medicine.

"Now can you tell me why you still keep me?"

He had a clear head, and he guessed, "Did Shirley say something to you? You reached a certain deal...
What is your relationship?"

When he was in the water prison, Braden vaguely heard Shirley address this man as her "brother".

But didn't Shirley have no siblings? Why did she have a brother suddenly? He had too many questions to clear up. Even if he were to die, he would have to die with a clear head.

"I don't need to explain our relationship to you. The reason why I kept you is that I am benevolent and generous. I don't want to see blood at Crimson Pawnshop..."

"What a joke!"

Braden snorted and said fiercely, "Did someone call the title Midnight Ghost for fun? You are a born devil, treating human lives as nothing. You know how many people you have killed. Back then, I killed you without mercy. It was for the sake of the people, and now I will do the same. So you must not let me go!"

Larry was speechless. He was so angry. He had been fighting openly and secretly with Braden for so many years, and there had never been a moment when he was eager to break his head.

However, for his younger sister, his nephew, and his niece, he had to endure.

"Don't worry. I already said that I'm kind and generous. How could I bully a blind man?"

Larry had a weird smile on his face. He continued to outrage his susceptibility. "The sun is good today.
Do you want me to take you out to bask in the sun? You're blind. Your life is so boring every day."

Braden was speechless. Larry said, "Don't be so polite. I can temporarily serve as your walking stick." Words failed Braden. Therefore, a strange scene appeared. The two enemies in Seatie City, who had once shouted to kill, now appeared on the rooftop and were facing the river where the three countries bordered. They were lying in chairs, leisurely basking in the sun. Of course, only Larry was leisurely. Braden was angry.

Chapter 488 Being Ruthless

Braden fumbled and closed the door with a wary expression.

In the entire Crimson Pawnshop, the only person he trusted was Irving. He did not think that the four years of friendship between them were all just for show.

“Mr. Stewart, what do you want to ask?” Irving sighed quietly and asked Braden softly.

“How is Shirley? Did that pervert hurt her?”

“Don’t worry, Mr. Stewart. Ms. Wilson is fine now. Even if our boss hurts himself, he won’t hurt Ms. Wilson,” Irving replied honestly.

“So, they are siblings?”

“Yes, they’re twins.”

“No wonder that pervert was willing to let me go for the first time!”

Braden tightened his fingers slightly. He was shocked.

Although he had already expected that the relationship between Shirley and Larry was deep, he still felt shocked when he knew their relationship now.

It turned out that the rumors were not groundless. Back then, the Wilson family did have twins, but the boy who was rumored to have died at birth was still alive.

“In that case, why didn’t Shirley come to see me? Could she be...” Braden’s heart sank, not daring to think further. His vague memory told him that Shirley had jumped into the water prison to save him, which meant that she could also be bitten by a poisonous snake.

If she was safe and was the younger sister of Larry, wouldn’t she come and leave

Crimson Pawnshop as she liked and have come to see him long ago? It had been so long, but she had not appeared. The reason was clear.

Chapter 489 Trample on Braden's Dignity

Just as Larry was about to send someone to send Braden back to the Stewart's house, a subordinate came to report in a panic.

“Mr. Wilson, a group of thugs are outside. They want you to hand over Braden, or they will burn your pawnshop!”

“Hmph, they are quite bold. How dare they come to my territory!”

“They ... they look very different. Each of them is armed with weapons. The key is that the leader has a very strong background. We do not dare to act rashly, so we have to ask you ... to take a look!”

“Sure, I would like to see who is tired of living!”

Larry did not bring anything with him as he walked to the gate of Crimson Pawnshop in plain clothes.

The gateway of Crimson Pawnshop was very imposing. The front yard was paved with stone slabs and several thousand square inches. There were tall pines on both sides of the yard. There were two ferocious-looking stone lions standing at the door.

On the top of the door was a large plaque with blue words written on it: "Crimson Pawnshop."

For the entire Sutor Wharf, Crimson Pawnshop was like Reflection Room. It represented absolute authority and power, guarding the entire Sutor Wharf.

Under normal circumstances, there would be two rows of security guards in the front yard of Crimson Pawnshop. It was quiet and solemn, completely different from Sutor

"I heard that you are Braden's girlfriend. You seem to be getting married soon?" Larry looked at Alina with mixed feelings and asked with a faint smile.

“Yes, Braden and I are childhood sweethearts. Our families are well- matched. It is only a matter of time before we get married. If you know what is good for you, quickly release me. Otherwise, if you offend the two families, you won’t end well.”

“What if I trifle with Braden’s woman?”

“How dare you! You bastard! How dare you have designs on me?”

Alina was so angry, and her face turned pale. She tried to slap Larry in the face. However, Larry quickly grabbed her wrist and sneered. “You can do anything for your fiance. You can even give up your life. As long as you serve me well, I will let Braden go. How about it?”

Larry deliberately moved his hand down Alina’s body.

“At that time, I will upload the video of you having sex with me to the public. This way, everyone will know that Braden is a loser. They’ll see how I cuckold him... Tsk, it’s really exciting.”

“N-No!”

Alina trembled and struggled, crying. “I’ll tell you the truth. I’m not Braden’s girlfriend at all, and he has no intention of marrying me. His woman is Shirley, his only beloved. If you want to have sex, find that woman to do it...

“That woman’s family is dead. Even if you kill her, you won’t pay any price, and you can achieve the goal of revenge against Braden.”

Larry’s face turned sullen, and he looked intimidating. He grabbed Alina by the neck and said fiercely, “Who’s that woman? How dare you say it again?”

“I-It’s Shirley. I didn’t lie to you. Braden really loves her, and her family is really dead.
