Shota's Isekai NTR Adventure

#Chapter 681 What do you think you're doing? - Read Shota's Isekai NTR Adventure Chapter 681 What do you think you're doing?

Chapter 681 What do you think you're doing?

A shocked look appeared in my eyes when I saw what she was doing, but I quickly calmed myself down and said, "Miss, please don't do this. How about we talk this through?"

But she didn't say a single thing as she continued taking her clothes off.

It seemed like she wouldn't listen to a single word.

The only thing that she cared about was putting my dick inside of her...

Once she had taken off her clothes, she started making her way to my clothes.

When her hand reached down towards my dick, she suddenly stopped moving.

She looked at me with a shocked look as if she couldn't believe what she was feeling.

I had to admit that I wasn't as strong of a man as I would have liked to be.

When she took off her clothes like this and sat there naked atop of me, I couldn't control the natural reaction of my body.

Her figure was also quite beautiful, with nice supple breasts that would fit perfectly in one's hand and an hourglass figure. She was definitely a pretty sight to lay one's eyes on.

After looking at me with a shocked look for a bit, she couldn't help asking, "Is this really what I think it is?"

I didn't answer this question since I was just too embarrassed to answer it.

I wished that I could have controlled myself better, but I really couldn't.

What appeared on the face of the girl after my silence was...a look of excitement.

I could also feel that the part of me where her crotch was sitting was getting wet. I didn't even have to look to understand what was happening.

After rubbing it for a bit to make sure that it was real, the girl started moving herself back so that her lower half was placed off the bed. Her top half was placed right where my crotch was, with her head almost being right in my crotch.

Her hands were pulling on the waist of my pants.

It was as if she wasn't familiar with what she was doing, which was why she was going so slow.

But in the end, she was able to pull my pants down and there was something that popped out.

This thing scared her as it bounced right on her face, hitting her with the force that it popped out before landing right on her. It was so large that it even went over the top of her head to lay there on her face.

The girl was shocked to see this, as she crossed her eyes to look at the thing in between them.

She just couldn't believe how big it was.

It was so big that it was even longer than her face.

When I looked down and saw her like this, I couldn't stop myself...

After all, this was a scene that was often seen in adult films and games.

This was the scene where the man's dick was so big that it just flopped onto the woman's face.

After being shocked by my dick on her for a bit, the girl suddenly revealed an ecstatic look as she stretched out her tongue. The look on her face made it seem like she really wanted a taste of my dick...

No matter how hard I tried to deny it, I just couldn't stop myself from being turned on...

But it never came as the door suddenly burst open.

Both the girl and I were shocked to see this, as neither of us expected this to happen.

While we were still dazed, there were several figures that suddenly came into this room.

With the light of the lamp that she lit, it was hard to see the appearance of these people. But in the end, there was someone that came in with a torch, shining the light of the torch in the room and lighting it. It was Angela and several people in full armour that seemed like knights.

Angela was panting as if she had just been running, but as soon as she caught her breath, she said, "What is going on in here?!"

This was even before she had seen what was actually happening in this room.

The knights quickly spread out with their weapons raised and secured the area before turning to look at me on the bed.

When they saw the position that I was in with the girl, they all had shocked looks on their faces before slowly turning to look at Angela. As they turned to look at Angela, those shocked looks on their faces had turned to looks of sympathy.

It was clear that they had misunderstood something.

I could see that Angela had also seemed to have misunderstood something with the hurt look that was on her face.

She covered her mouth with one hand and there seemed to be tears that were welling up in her eyes as she said in a softer voice, "What is going on here?"

The girl was about to say something, but I cut her off by saying, "Can't you see that I'm tied up here?! How could I be doing anything?!"

Angela and the knights had been caught off guard when they heard this.

The knights had looked away quickly because of what they thought they saw, so they hadn't actually seen that I was bound to the bed. When they turned back and saw the bindings that were on me, they realized that they had made a mistake.

An embarrassed look also appeared on Angela's face when she saw this as she realized that she had made a mistake.

But then came a different problem...

As they looked at me, they couldn't help staring at my dick that was out in the open.

I could see this and an embarrassed look appeared on my face as they all stared at me like this.

Finally, I couldn't take it anymore as I said, "Can someone cut me free already?!"

Chapter 682 We were meant to be

There was no answer when I said this since it seemed like they were still staring at my dick that was out in the open.

A bitter smile appeared on my face when I saw this before I said again with a cough, "Can someone let me out of here now?"

This time, I made sure to speak louder so that they would be certain to hear me.

Once my voice fell, Angela was the first one to come back to her senses.

She looked at me with a strange look, but she still told one of the knights to cut the bindings that were holding me. It seemed that the gaze that she cast in my direction seemed to be looking at a certain place.

It seemed that she was still looking at my dick.

I didn't know what to say, but my dick was no longer hard at the very least.

Having it out in the open in front of everyone like this certainly wasn't one of the fetishes that I had, so it was turning me off to be like this.

After the knight cut me free, the first thing that I did was pull my pants up.

I could see that the knights were slowly turning away after seeing me pull my pants up, but they were also peeking back at me with strange looks.

At the same time, I could see that there was a slightly disappointed look that was on Angela's face after I pulled my pants up. Seeing her reveal this expression caused a bitter smile to appear on my face.

With a cough, I said, "Can someone explain to me what happened?"

Even though I had been saved now, I was still very confused about this situation since I had no idea what was even going on right now. I had woken up after suddenly being kidnapped which was without a doubt disorientating.

Then I had also been saved by Angela and the knights just as suddenly.

So naturally I had no idea what was happening.

Angela slowly recovered after hearing this and she gave a nod before saying, "You were kidnapped."

Another bitter smile crept on my face when I heard this.

I looked at her with a strange look before shaking my head with a sigh.

Even I could figure out that I had been captured. What I was asking about was why I had been captured and what had happened during the time that I had been captured.

Angela was still in a daze from the sight that she had beheld before, so she had answered in this slightly dumb manner.

But she realized that she had said something dumb and quickly recovered from it to say, "It happened because security was lax at the castle during the plan. The father of this lady, who is a minor baron, was at the castle for some matters and saw you while you were heading to your room. He followed you to your room and took advantage of when the guards changed shifts to kidnap you."

I was surprised to hear this since I had thought that the castle would have been safe. At the same time, I thought that no one had been able to see me in the castle, but it seemed that I had been wrong.

It was both my fault and the fault of the castle guards.

I looked at the girl who was just on the ground naked and asked, "Do you know why they kidnapped me in the first place?"

Angela shook her head before saying, "We've captured her father, the rest of their family, and their servants. However, we weren't able to get any useful information out of them."

I gave a nod before asking the girl, "Why did you kidnap me?"

The girl saw that I was asking her this and said, "Because we were meant to be!"

I was taken aback by the passion that she had said this with.

The way that she had said this almost seemed like she firmly believed this to be true, but of course it couldn't be since I had never met this girl before.

I looked at Angela who was glaring at me and said, "I've never met her, so how could that be true?"

"It's not true!" The girl suddenly said before continuing, "We met at one of the banquets that you attended. I couldn't forget the way that our eyes met at that banquet. From that moment on, I knew that you were the one for me! That's why I convinced my father to kidnap you!"

We all looked at the girl with a strange look when she said this.

The words that she said were an admission of her guilt.

It seemed like she was the one that had masterminded everything, but was this really the reason why she had done all of this?

She had really kidnapped me just because she felt that I was her soul mate?

I didn't really believe it.

After all, there were far more likely reasons why someone would kidnap me at this time.

However, when I saw the way that she looked at me, there was another chill that ran down my spine.

At the same time, I realized that she wasn't lying.

This really was the reason why she had kidnapped me.

This girl...was dangerous, that was what my instincts told me.

I wanted to get her as far away from me as possible, but there was also a part of me that didn't want to kill her.

So I asked Angela, "What will be the punishment for this?"

Angela thought about it for a bit before saying, "Well, it could be death or it could be imprisonment. I think it will all depend on you."

I gave a nod before saying, "Then can you make it so that she is imprisoned for life? I don't ever want to see her again."

Angela said with a nod, "Alright. I'll tell my royal father that is what you want."

Chapter 683 Strange looks

It was late when we returned to the castle.

I knew that it was late already because of how dark it was outside, but I didn't expect it to be this late.

It was already close to midnight according to the clock in my room when I returned to the castle.

I had thought that the king would summon me, but it seemed like he was letting me get some rest first before that.

I was grateful since even though I had been sleeping before, it wasn't the good kind of sleep. My head was still aching, which I assumed came from me being knocked out by the baron that kidnapped me.

He had admitted that he hadn't been subtle and had knocked me out with his subordinates before carrying me out of the castle.

I just wished that they hadn't hit as hard so I wouldn't have the pounding headache that I currently had, but there was nothing that I could do about that. The doctor had already checked me and said that there were no signs of concussion, so the only thing that I could do to cure it was to sleep it off.

So I had to sleep and see if it got better in the morning.

But before I could go to sleep, there was a knock on the door.

I was surprised to see someone visiting me this late at night, but I found that it was a familiar face.

It was the fourth prince.

He had rushed back to the capital after taking care of the other princes, but I was surprised that he was meeting me instead of resting. After all, it certainly wouldn't have been easy to kill those brothers of his, so I thought that he would need some time to recover after that.

But here he was, standing outside my door.

I naturally couldn't keep him waiting outside, so I let him come in.

After he came in, there was a person that suddenly appeared and fell to her knees.

It was Shadow Five who had been the one that had been monitoring the princes from the forest. She had been the one that had reported that the group of princes had arrived at the cave to the fourth prince.

She was on her knees in front of me right now because...she was apologizing for abandoning her post.

I just helped her up and said, "It's not your fault, we both agreed to this. We thought that no one would come to mess with me during this time and that I would be safe in the castle, so I gave you permission to leave. It's not your fault."

Shadow Five shook her head as she said, "If I didn't insist on going, none of this would have happened."

I looked at the fourth prince for help when she refused to listen to me, but I found that he was looking at me with a strange look.

As for where he was looking...it seemed like he was looking at the inner parts of my lower half.

Seeing him look at me like this, I couldn't help feeling strange, but I gave a cough in the end that pulled the fourth prince back to his senses.

Coming over with a smile, he said, "I already told you that Brother Zwein wouldn't mind this, so there's no need to be this harsh on yourself."

Shadow Five still had her head down when she heard this, as if she was still reflecting on what had happened.

The fourth prince just spoke in a teasing voice when he saw this, "It seems like Brother Zwein's charisma is something that I can't compare to. In just a little while, it seems that your words are already carrying the same weight as mine to my subordinates."

Shadow Five suddenly looked up and said, "It isn't like that. Your highness will always be the number one in my heart."

The fourth prince and I couldn't help being taken aback when Shadow Five suddenly said this.

With the serious look that was on her face as she said this, it seemed like she had been very sincere about this.

It was to the point where it was a bit embarrassing.

Neither the fourth prince nor I knew what to say in this awkward situation.

So in the end, we made an excuse to leave things as they were and the fourth prince left with Shadow Five.

But as he was leaving, I could see that he was giving me the same strange look as before.

He wasn't looking at my face, he was still looking at that place in between my legs as if he was trying to see something.

I just didn't know how to feel about that...

So I just ignored it for now and went to sleep.

Only when the morning came...

As expected, I was summoned by the king the next morning.

The guards had all returned after heading out with the fourth prince, so there were no security issues with the castle anymore. I was able to move freely through the castle again, so I went to see the king as I was summoned.

But there were strange looks that were cast in my direction as I moved through the castle.

It was only minor at first since there were only a few people outside my room, but as I moved to the part of the castle that had more and more people, I could see that there were more people that were looking in my direction.

The strangest part of the way that they looked at me was that they were all looking at my lower half.

They weren't looking at me directly, they were just looking at that place in between my legs.

It was almost as if they were looking at something specific.

I could guess what they were looking at, but then I heard something that confirmed it.

"I heard that it's really, really big...It's almost like a tree trunk."

Chapter 684 Please be gentle with my daughter

It seemed that the people from last night had spread what they had seen as rumours and those rumours had already spread all over the castle.

The men looked at me and looked back at themselves as if they were comparing something. After looking at me for a bit, most of them turned away as if they were embarrassed.

There were only a few of them that still looked at me after seemingly comparing us in their heads.

The women looked at me with intrigued looks, but a few of them also turned away with blushes on their faces.

It was clear what all of them were thinking...

I really didn't know how to feel about this situation at first, but then I quickly sorted out my feelings.

• • •

I really wanted to beat up those knights that had spread the rumours in the first place!

If it wasn't for them, then I wouldn't be treated by everyone like this!

I really didn't know why they had spread those rumours, but now that they did, it would be impossible for me to stop them. After all, this was without a doubt a spicy rumour and it was something that involved the future husband of the princess.

So of course they would want to talk about this.

I was certain that with how far it had already spread, it would only be a matter of time before it spread through the capital as well.

This was definitely not what I wanted to be known by the world for...

But what could I do?

I was from the modern world, so I knew just what kind of power rumours had.

It would be impossible for me to stop it.

So I just started walking a bit faster to reach the king's room as soon as possible.

But if I wasn't mistaken, it almost seemed like the maids and butlers were following me...

It was as if I had been turned into an oddity by them for their everyday enjoyment.

It was only when an important looking maid came that they were all sent away, though she also looked at my crotch with a strange look.

I could only let out a sigh of relief when I reached the king's study and went in to avoid the curious gazes that were cast in my direction. Or at least that was what I had thought would happen until I actually stepped into the king's study.

I found that the king, the fourth prince, and Angela were all already there waiting for me.

As soon as I stepped in, their gazes all turned in my direction, but...

They didn't look at my face like one would expect and instead looked down at my lower half.

They were all looking at the same place as the others had done.

Really?

You too, your majesty?

That was what I had wanted to say, but I held myself back in the end.

But I really was surprised since I never thought that the king would be someone that followed rumours like this. I had thought that he would be someone that would be above things like that...

After a moment of silence, the king gave a cough and waved at me to come over as he said, "Come, come, sit with us."

I gave a nod before walking over and sitting down beside Angela.

However, even after sitting down like this, they still looked at me with the same strange looks.

I could only shake my head with a bitter smile on my face before saying, "Your majesty, did you need me for something today?"

The king slowly looked up from my crotch and gave a nod before revealing an apologetic look, "I'm sorry about what happened yesterday, it was my negligence."

I was caught off guard when I heard this since I never expected the king to apologize for that matter.

I quickly shook my head and said, "Your majesty, there's nothing for you to apologize for. I'm sure that no one expected that kind of incident to happen, so it wasn't something that could be blamed on anyone. We can only treat this as an incident and shouldn't think of this as something that would happen again."

The king gave a nod, but he still said with a sigh, "In the end, this is my castle, so I have to take partial responsibility for it." After a pause, he said, "But I do want to tell you that I have taken your advice to heart and have settled for imprisonment for them. They will receive a life sentence for what they have done."

This time, it was my turn to let out a sigh before I bowed my head to say, "Your majesty, thank you for your kindness."

The king waved his hand as he said, "There's no need for you to act like this towards me. You will be my future son in law and a part of our family, so you can just talk to me without formality when we're alone like this."

I was once again surprised to hear this, but seeing the look on the king's face, I slowly gave a nod.

I could understand how he was feeling after what had happened yesterday.

In just a single day, he had lost all of those sons of his...I'm sure that it would be hard to fully understand how he felt as a father.

The only thing that I could do was sympathize with him.

But as I was thinking this, the king suddenly brought up another topic.

He said in a slow and deliberate voice, "I've heard a certain rumour spreading through the castle recently about you."

My lips twitched when I heard this, but I didn't say anything as I waited to see where he would go with this.

The king looked at Angela and then back to me with a look that almost seemed a bit awkward before saying, "If the rumours are true, I hope that after you get married, you will be gentle with my daughter."

Blushes immediately appeared on both my face and Angela's face when we heard this.

Chapter 685 Setting the date

After a moment of silence, Angela suddenly stood up and ran over to punch the king in the chest.

Though she punched him, she didn't actually use any force with that punch, so it was more of a playful punch than an actual punch.

The king didn't show any signs of being in pain after being punched by Angela and just looked at her with a smile.

After punching the king in the chest, Angela said, "This is our business, this isn't something that you need to concern yourself with. How could you even think of mentioning something like that?"

The king looked at her with a worried look before saying, "Darling, you don't know what it's like, so I'm worried about you. You shouldn't look down on things like this, it hurts much more than you..."

Before the king could finish, Angela's fist came forward once more.

This time, she punched him right in the gut and she didn't hold back. She used all of her strength to punch the king in the gut before saying, "We've never talked about this before and we don't need to talk about it now. Even if you're my father, I don't want to talk about these things with you."

The king had bent over when he received this body blow from Angela since this blow was actually quite powerful. It had knocked the wind out of him when he received this blow from her.

Holding his stomach, he had to breathe hard a few times before he was able to catch his breath.

Angela just stood over the king, as if she was waiting to see what he would say next.

But it didn't seem that sweet since she was standing over him with her hand raised in the form of a fist. It was as if she was ready to punch him if he said anything wrong.

After catching his breath, the king said, "I'm really worried about you since you've never had any kind of experience like this before. When your mother and I..."

There was the same punch that hit his stomach.

The king really didn't learn from his mistakes as he kept making the same mistakes again and again.

Sometimes, it is better to keep one's mouth shut...

The two of them continued like this for a bit until Angela finally said, "If you talk about that one more time, then I won't regard you as my father anymore."

The king revealed a look of panic when he heard this before looking at both the fourth prince and me for help. However, both of us turned away since this was a hole that he dug for himself and we weren't willing to jump into the hole with him.

So in the end, the king had no choice but to bow his head and say, "I promise, I won't say anything like that again."

Angela gave a satisfied nod before sitting back down beside me.

However, after sitting down beside me, she turned to look at me...though she was looking at my crotch rather than at me...

The king gave another cough as if he was calming himself down before saying, "Let's set that matter aside and discuss another matter. We still need to discuss when your wedding will be. Now that we've already taken care of everything else, all we have to do is set a date for your wedding."

The two of us were caught off guard when he said this, but Angela's eyes quickly lit up before she turned to look at me with an expectant look.

It was clear by the look in her eyes that she wanted to set this wedding date as soon as possible.

But for me...I had other thoughts.

"How long can we delay this?" I said in a slow voice.

There was no response as all three of them looked at me with different expressions.

Angela looked at me with a hurt look, the king looked at me with an angry look as if I had betrayed his expectations, and it was only the fourth prince who looked at me as if he was trying to figure out the hidden meaning behind my words.

Seeing them all look at me like this, I said, "There's still other things that need to be done before this, right? We can't just hold the wedding right away or else the nobles will want to try something. We have to take care of them first."

The three of them still looked at me with different expressions, but they nodded in agreement in the end.

Angela and the king looked disappointed while the fourth prince just looked at me with a faint smile.

I knew that it would take a lot to convince them, but there was something that I had been holding back from them.

Looking at them now, I realized that I had become much closer to then I had thought I would. This also made me feel like I could trust them since they would be able to trust me.

So taking a deep breath, I said with a serious look, "I know that it'll be hard, but I need you to believe in me. At the very least, we have to take care of Duke Yuletide and the Yuletide Family."

All three of them revealed confused looks when they heard this and as they should since I hadn't explained anything yet.

"I know that it will be hard to believe without any evidence, but the Yuletide Family has been planning a rebellion for many generations now. As long as they see an opening, they will take it and try to take down the royal family. I do not want to leave them if I were to take the throne."

Shock appeared on the faces of all three of them before they slowly revealed different expressions.

In the end, the fourth prince said, "Just what are you planning to do with them? Let's hear your plan and decide."

Chapter 686 It seems like I need to be careful

686 It seems like I need to be careful

The meeting with the king actually took the entire day since there were many things that had to be discussed.

When it was over, it was already dark, so we all had dinner together.

After dinner, I went off to my room and settled for the night.

I thought that I would be able to get some time alone, but that wasn't the case.

I heard some noise coming from outside my room, so I went to check it.

I found that there was a cloaked figure who was standing there with two maids that were tied up. I recognized these maids since they were part of the ones that served me during this time, so I couldn't help being confused why they were tied up.

That confusion became even stronger since I recognized the person that was trying them up.

It was Shadow Five who was standing over them with a rope in her hand.

I looked at Shadow Five with a strange look and asked, "What's going on here?"

Shadow Five turned to look at me before saying in a calm voice, "I caught them trying to sneak into your room, so I stopped them and tied them up."

"Sneaking into my room?" I repeated before saying with a serious look, "Were they trying to hurt me?"

Shadow Five slowly shook her head before saying, "No, it's not like that."

There was a strange tone to her voice as she said this that I didn't understand.

I just looked at Shadow Five with a strange look, as I tried to figure out what she meant by this. But I wasn't able to figure it out in the end, so I asked, "What do you mean?"

Shadow Five seemed to lower her head a bit when I asked this.

Though I wasn't able to see her face, it was as if I could see what she was feeling by the way that she was acting.

It was almost as if I was sexually harassing her by asking this question...

I slowly started to figure out what she meant by this, but Shadow Five still said, "They were trying to sneak into your room to provide you with night time service."

My chin dropped the moment that I heard this before I turned to look at the two maids that were on the ground.

I found that they were looking up at me, but they weren't looking at my face.

Rather, they were looking at the place in between my crotch.

I had already changed into my sleepwear since I had been getting ready for bed, so it was quite loose. These loose clothes actually gave a pretty good outline of what was beneath it, which was what they were looking at.

I didn't know what to say when I saw them looking at me like this...

But before I could say anything, there was someone that suddenly ran over.

After this person ran over, they stopped in front of the two maids and said, "I knew that it was a good idea to send someone to watch over you."

After this person said this, they looked down at the two maids who were on the ground.

Seeing this person looking at them, the two maids finally stopped looking at my crotch and looked away with an awkward look.

This person was naturally Angela, it was no one else that it could be.

As she looked down at the two of them, she said, "So, what did the two of you want to do?"

The two maids revealed awkward looks before one of them said, "We heard the rumours..."

Before she could finish, Angela cut her off by saying, "And you got caught. You know that you shouldn't be here."

The two maids revealed even more awkward looks before nodding in agreement.

As I was about to say something on behalf of the maids, Angela gave a nod to Shadow Five who suddenly untied them and let them go. After they were untied, Angela said, "Don't try to go before your lord. I haven't even gotten a chance yet and you want to go first?" The two maids lowered their heads again before saying, "Yes, your highness."

Then they left without a single word with their heads lowered the entire time.

There was a strange feeling that filled me when I saw all of this.

After a while, Angela turned back to me to say, "It seems that the rumour has spread further than I thought. I need to be even more careful in the future."

I looked at her with a strange look before asking, "You're alright with them sneaking into my room at night?"

Angela tilted her head to look at me with a confused look before saying, "Isn't this normal for a noble?"

I looked back at her with a confused look.

Seeing this, Angela said, "Nobles have the right to be with any women that they want, so there are maids that sneak into the room of their masters to climb up to a better position. This is just one of the things that happen when you're a noble. I mean, you're someone with many wives, so isn't this normal?"

Was it normal?

That was all I could think in response to this since in my previous world, the wife would have surely killed both the husband and the maid for something like this.

Even if this world had polygamy, it shouldn't be this open.

I was confused until I suddenly figured it out.

It was the influence of the game again.

When this world was a game, there had been night time events that happened when one took the noble route.

So even after this game world had become a real world, night time events were still a thing.

That was why Angela found all of this normal and wasn't even bothered by it.

It seemed that I still wasn't able to understand this world fully...

Shota's Isekai NTR Adventure #Chapter 687 A raid -Read Shota's Isekai NTR Adventure Chapter 687 A raid

Chapter 687 A raid

I set out with the fourth prince early the next morning.

We went to a certain part of the city which I didn't recognize, but when we arrived, I realized what we were here for.

This was the place where the fourth prince had put his troops in the capital.

This place was a full training camp that was dedicated to training troops that were under him.

I had never seen this place before in the game, but I did know that there was a place like this in the capital. After all, when the coup happened, the fourth prince's troops had already been in the capital.

It was one of the reasons why he had been so successful in his coup that he was able to get rid of all the other princes.

While they were still waiting for their troops to gather to defend them, the fourth prince's troops were already there to capture them all. The princes hadn't been able to do a thing as they were all captured and executed.

Though in this timeline, they had died a much different death.

As for the reason why we were getting these troops...

After gathering the fourth prince's troops and to my surprise, my own troops who I hadn't seen since coming to the capital, we headed out to a certain residence.

The reason why I hadn't Cecilia and the knights that came with me was because I had been in the castle. They weren't allowed in the castle as soldiers of a noble, so I had left their arrangement to the fourth prince.

It seemed that the fourth prince had arranged for them to stay here with his troops.

As for why no noble soldiers were allowed in the castle, it was to protect the king.

Only the soldiers that were loyal to the royal family were allowed in the castle. That way, they would be able to protect the king from anything that happened.

It didn't take us long to arrive at this residence, that was how effective the fourth prince's troops were.

A part of them diverted the people in the streets while the rest of us marched to that residence.

When we arrived, the first thing that happened was that the secret guard unit took care of all the guards that were around this residence.

After that, the rest of the fourth prince's troop completely surrounded this place, not leaving a single crack.

It was as if we were laying siege to this residence.

We didn't make much sound as we did this, so the people inside were not alerted of this.

After sealing off this residence, the fourth prince and I went forward to head into the residence. But of course, we wouldn't be going in alone.

There was a group that came with the fourth prince and it was Cecilia's group who followed me.

Everyone was in full armour and had a serious look on their faces as we marched up to the door.

Then the fourth prince and I stood back as they suddenly destroyed the door and burst in.

Behind that door were the servants of the manor who were going about their daily duties.

There was a moment of silence as they couldn't process what happened, but then one of the maids screamed out in terror. With this one scream from that maid, the rest of the maids also started screaming.

An older gentleman who should have been the head butler of this manor kept his calm better than the others as he came forward to say, "What are you doing here? Don't you know that this is the residence of General Gardner? How dare you barge in like this?"

But no one paid any attention to the head butler as they started capturing all of the servants.

The head butler had tried to resist, but he was easily taken care of by the fourth prince's soldiers.

The head butler was brought forward in front of the fourth prince and he asked, "Where's General Gardner?"

The head butler had a defiant look on his face until the fourth prince pulled out a scroll and unfurled it in front of the head butler. The head butler saw the seal that was on the scroll and immediately revealed a shocked look. He no longer tried to act tough as he said, "The master is still upstairs in the master bedroom with the mistress. They still haven't arisen yet."

The fourth prince gave a nod before waving at his soldiers to follow him.

We went up the stairs and arrived at the master bedroom before the fourth prince's men kicked open the door.

"What is going on?" A voice shouted from within before it was followed by the screaming of women.

Though the head butler said that he was with the mistress, it turned out that it wasn't just the two of them.

There were several women who were in bed with General Gardner and his wife and it seemed that they had been playing around just now as the women were naked.

Seeing the door being kicked open like this, they all grabbed at the blanket to cover themselves, but there was only so much blanket for all of them.

Still, we didn't care about the show as we only focused on General Gardner.

He was the one that we wanted.

General Gardner was a senior military official, so he of course recognized the fourth prince.

But he wasn't scared when he saw the fourth prince.

He just narrowed his eyes to look at the fourth prince before saying, "Your highness, what is the meaning of this?"

The fourth prince didn't bother answering as he raised the same paper that he had raised before in front of him and unfurled it to read, "On behalf of the royal family, we are here to capture the traitor York Gardner and to bring him to trial."

General Gardner was shocked to hear this, but he didn't ask if this was a joke.

That was because he could see the royal seal that was on the paper.

That was what had forced the head butler to stop resisting earlier.

No one would be foolish enough to forge the royal seal, which meant that this was a true royal decree.

So General Gardner just said, "You'll regret this."

The fourth prince didn't bother answering again as he gave the signal for his men to capture him.

Chapter 688 Fake court (1)

Once General Gardner was taken in, we didn't have any business with the rest of his family.

He was the only one that we were after in the first place, so he would be the only one that we would take in.

Though after what happened next, it would be hard to say that we wouldn't have anything for his family. It was just that we couldn't touch his family or his fortunes until the next part came.

When we came back, we didn't hide ourselves as much as we did when we went to capture General Gardner.

In fact, we even paraded him in front of everyone in the capital as if we were showing off his guilt.

General Gardner had an ugly look when he was being paraded around like this, but he never allowed his spirits to break. He had a fierce and defiant look on his face as he was being marched through the streets.

Even when people pointed at him and whispered, he didn't seem to waver at all.

It was as if there was something that he believed in that would get him out of this situation.

So he remained firm and waited to see what would happen next.

We didn't really care since this was only the first part of our plan.

Even if General Gardner didn't react to this first part of the plan, there was still a second part of the plan that we would be using on him. There was no way that he would be able to ignore the second part of the plan.

General Gardner was led through the streets by us until we arrived at the special prison that was near the castle.

There were two prisons in the capital.

There was one where the normal prisoners went that was located near the slums of the town. That place was where most of the criminals that were caught would be brought, though it was only most because there would be criminals that would receive the death sentence.

This was a fantasy world set in Medieval times, so the death penalty was actually a common thing.

It wasn't strange to see executions being held once in a while.

This was the case even in my town, but that had gone down by quite a bit after Rose took over.

The second prison that was near the castle only had a few prisoners in the first place.

That was because this prison served a very special purpose.

The purpose of this prison was to hold noble prisoners.

These were prisoners who had once been nobles that had committed some kind of offense and had their titles stripped from them. So they were just waiting in that prison to be judged or were serving out their prison sentences.

This prison was to separate the nobles from the commoners since in the first place, the nobles wouldn't survive in the commoner prison.

Nobles attracted quite a bit of hatred from the commoners in the first place, so it would only be a matter of time before they were killed if they were placed in a commoner prison.

At the same time, the nobles were quite soft in the first place, so it wasn't as if they could survive in a commoner prison for long. That place would truly be considered hell for nobles if they were put in that place.

So General Gardner was brought to this prison for nobles.

When he was put into the cell, he looked at me and the fourth prince who had come along and said, "You'll regret this. Do you know who I am?"

The two of us shook our heads with bitter smiles as we looked at him.

It seemed that even with all of this, he still wouldn't learn his lesson.

In that case, there was nothing for us to say here.

It was better to leave him to slowly realize his fate when what came next came for him.

So the two of us just left General Gardner there.

Even when he was alone, General Gardner said, "Just you wait, you'll see who you're messing with. When those people behind me step up, it'll be the two of you who will be begging for mercy."

• • •

It only took a single day for the rumours of General Gardner's crimes of treason to spread.

But it would have been strange if it didn't spread since there had been that large commotion yesterday.

He had been paraded in front of everyone, so it would be strange if they didn't know about what happened to him.

This morning, General Gardner was allowed to leave the prison.

But that wasn't because he had been freed.

Rather, it was because he was being escorted to the court where he would be standing trial for his crime of treason.

This was without a doubt the largest trial that would be held in this kingdom in many years now.

So there were many people that paid attention to this trial when it happened.

There were many people that wanted to ask General Gardner questions, but they were all stopped by the royal guards who came to guard the trial. So even if General Gardner wanted to say a few words to defend himself, he just wasn't given that opportunity.

When he arrived in court, General Gardner didn't show any signs of fear at all.

Rather, he just stood there behind the defendant's podium with a smug look on his face.

It was as if he could already see himself being pardoned of this crime and being allowed to leave.

The way that he looked, it was almost as if he found all of this to be a burden.

There was a reason why he had this look on his face.

It was because he recognized the people that were in the jury.

These were nobles that he was close to, so he was confident that he would be able to get out of this sham trial.

Chapter 689 Fake court (2)

After General Gardner was brought in, there were many voices that started talking.

Though the ones that could attend this trial were all those with status, that didn't stop them from gossiping about this.

In the end, humans love gossip like this.

As for what they gossiped about...

"Do you know what this trial is about?"

"I heard that it was on the count of treason, but wasn't General Gardner on the front lines defending our kingdom?"

"Right, I just can't imagine someone like him betraying our kingdom."

They were mostly in support of General Gardner. It seemed like most people here were confused why this trial was even being held.

General Gardner looked even more confident when he heard this.

When even the crowd was with him, he just felt like he couldn't lose.

But there was a part of him that was confused about why this was all happening in the first place.

Logically speaking, even if the fourth prince had acted arbitrarily, it shouldn't have been possible for him to arrest him like this. After all, no matter how one looked at it, General Gardner was a senior official of the kingdom.

The king wouldn't have allowed him to do something like this unless...

Before General Gardner could finish that thought, someone suddenly said, "All rise for his majesty!"

When this was said, everyone turned in the direction the voice came from.

They saw that a door had opened and there was someone majestic who walked in.

When they saw this person walk in, they couldn't help feeling like they should bow to him.

Naturally this person was the king of their kingdom, the one who ruled over them all.

So it wasn't strange that they felt this way.

The king just walked in with an uncaring look on his face as he swept his eyes over the crowd.

When this crowd felt the king's eyes sweep over them, they couldn't help lowering their heads as if they were avoiding his gaze. It was as if there was a part of them that didn't allow them to look back into his eyes.

After casting his gaze across the room, the king went to sit at the high seat at the front of this room.

Since treason was a crime that was as serious as could be, naturally the king would be presiding as the judge.

After the king sat down, he said, "Well, what is the evidence?"

The way that he said this was almost as if he didn't care about what would be presented to him, it was as if he had already come to a conclusion. This came as a surprise for certain people since they didn't expect this to be the case.

But General Gardner still had a confident look on his face when he heard this.

It was almost as if hearing this actually gave him more confidence.

It was as if hearing this meant to him that the king was on his side.

The one representing General Gardner as his defense attorney and support was one of his subordinates who was good at this kind of stuff.

He was the one that started it all by asking, "Your majesty, may we ask what these ludicrous charges even are? We haven't even had the time to hear these before being dragged here by those ruffians."

The king just narrowed his eyes to look at General Gardner and his lawyer before waving his hand at the one who was sitting on the other side.

This person was clearly the prosecutor with the way that they were sitting.

This person brought out some papers and read, "General Gardner is accused of committing treason and bringing hard to our kingdom. That is why we are holding a trial for the general today."

The defense attorney gave a snort as he said, "But we still haven't heard what the charges are."

The prosecutor wasn't in a rush as he casually said, "General Gardner is being accused of hurting the kingdom by executing all of the troops from the Beirut Kingdom army instead of capturing them. He will be punished as per the severity of his war crimes."

"Huh?" General Gardner couldn't help revealing a shocked and confused look when he heard this.

After all, he never would have expected these charges to be placed on him since in the first place, he wasn't even the one that had killed all of those enemies. He had only been the one that took credit for this, he hadn't actually done anything to kill them.

In fact, he wouldn't have even been able to stop the Beirut Kingdom army if it wasn't for Duke Zwein showing up with the wyverns.

In the first place, he might have even been killed by them since he had fallen for the Beirut Kingdom's trap.

But now he was being put on trial for taking this credit...

It didn't really seem worth it.

General Gardner slapped his hand on the table and said, "I'm being punished for doing my job? You're saying that I shouldn't have stopped the enemy and allowed them to invade our kingdom?"

The prosecutor didn't argue this and just said, "Instead of capturing the enemies like he should have, he executed all of the prisoners of war that he captured, which further damaged our relationship with the Beirut Kingdom. As such, it will create a lasting scar between our two kingdoms. If this isn't considered treason, then what is?"

The defense attorney was stunned when he heard this before slapping his hand on the table and saying, "So you're saying that we should have captured and fed all of those enemies that tried to invade our kingdom? Do you know how much of a burden this would have been on our kingdom?"

"When we can capture, we should capture." The prosecutor said in a calm voice.

The defense attorney narrowed his eyes to look at the prosecutor before turning to the king to say, "Your majesty, please don't be fooled by the words of others. This is clearly slander against the general!"

Chapter 690 Fake court (3)

The king had been sitting there silently the entire time, as if he wasn't bothered by anything that they were saying.

But now that the defense attorney had directly appealed to the king, it wasn't as if he could remain silent anymore.

The king looked at the defense attorney and said, "Then can you prove that what he did was not treason and was actually for the good of our kingdom?"

The defense attorney was taken aback when he heard this since he clearly didn't expect this. After all, no matter how one looked at it, General Gardner was just protecting their kingdom by killing the enemies.

This was not any form of treason at all.

So why was the king saying such words?

The defense attorney only remained stunned for a second before saying, "Your majesty, the general was only thinking about our kingdom when he did this. The kingdom did not have the manpower or the resources to hold these prisoners of war, so the general had no choice but to execute the prisoners out of consideration for the kingdom. He didn't want to put a burden on the kingdom by forcing this decision on your majesty, so he took matters into his own hands. This just goes to show how much the general cares about our kingdom."

The way that he said this, it really made one feel as if General Gardner was a hero of the kingdom who was doing all he could for the benefit of the kingdom.

If one didn't know better, they would have been fooled by this defense attorney.

But to those that knew the full story, they weren't fooled at all. Rather, they even found the defense attorney's words laughable.

The king was one of those people.

The king narrowed his eyes to look at General Gardner before saying, "Is that so? Was this really out of consideration to the kingdom?"

General Gardner was surprised to hear the king ask him this all of a sudden, but he received a nudge from the defense attorney beside him that pulled him back to his senses.

With a serious look on his face, General Gardner gave a nod and said, "Of course, your majesty. This servant is a loyal servant of the kingdom and all that he does is for the benefit of the kingdom. This servant has no intention of rebelling against the kingdom."

At this, the jury finally spoke up.

This was a jury that was made up of nobles that were close to General Gardner, so of course they would speak up for him now.

"Your majesty, I trust that General Gardner would never have any intentions of betraying our kingdom by doing all of this."

"That's right, the general is clearly a shining example of what all generals should be like. Instead of accusing him like this, we should be awarding the general a medal for all that he has done."

"This must be some kind of plot against the general. I'm sure that the general hasn't done anything that would harm the kingdom."

The king didn't respond right away as he narrowed his eyes to look at the nobles on the jury.

They were surprised to see the king looking at them like this, but they didn't have anything to fear since they didn't think that they had done anything wrong. In fact, they were even proud of themselves since they had been invited as part of the jury for this trial.

That just went to show that the king trusted their judgement since he would allow them to be part of the jury for this important trial.

After a moment of silence, the king asked, "Is this really what all of you think?"

The nobles couldn't help feeling a bit confused as to why the king would ask them this, but they nodded in agreement in the end.

The king didn't bother looking at them anymore and turned back to General Gardner to ask, "General, is there anything that you've hidden. Is there anything that you haven't told us?"

General Gardner couldn't help feeling very strange and confused when he heard this.

The way that the king asked this made it seem like he knew something that General Gardner didn't know about.

After a moment of hesitation, General Gardner said, "No, your majesty. I have been completely honest this entire time."

The king gave a sigh before shaking his head as if he was disappointed.

Everyone who was in the court was confused when they saw this since they had no idea what was happening.

The king raised his hand and pointed at the jury who became even more confused when they saw this gesture. But the king didn't care at all about what they felt as he said to the guards, "Take them away and lock them up for their trials."

The jury members were shocked when they heard this.

There was one that tried to run away, but he found that the guards had already surrounded them.

The guards had moved so efficiently that they hadn't been able to react at all.

It was as if the guards had already been waiting there to capture them all along.

It was as if they had fallen in a trap that the king had set for them.

Since they couldn't break free of the guards, the only thing that they could do was complain about the way that they were treated.

"Your majesty, what is this?"

"Your majesty, we were called here to be a part of the jury for the trial, why are we being surrounded like this?"

"Your majesty, please give us justice!"

The king just ignored all of this as the guards suddenly used force to bring the jury along.

As they did, the nobles of the jury kept complaining about how they were being treated to the deaf ears of the king.

Once they were gone, the king said, "Let the real jury come in."

At this, there was a group of people that suddenly came in through a side door as if they had been waiting the entire time.