Chapter 721 Use of the ring (1)

Everyone just looked at the stairs that appeared with a stunned look on their faces.

Well that was except for me who already knew that this would happen.

I was a bit surprised to see it in real life compared to seeing it on a screen, but I walked forward and started heading down the stairs.

When the rest of the group saw me like this, it was the captain of the guard that suddenly came forward to stop me. He stood there in front of me with his weapon raised, as if he wouldn't allow me to pass.

The captain of the guard just narrowed his eyes to look at me as if he didn't trust me before saying, "This is our Nergiante Dukedom. We won't let someone else head in before us."

I raised a brow to look at him before turning to look at the duke.

He also was a bit surprised by what this captain of the guard said, but he stood behind him in the end.

This captain of the guard was his subordinate and he was acting on behalf of their dukedom, so of course he would support him.

It didn't seem like they would back down on this matter, so in the end...

I just let them go first.

There was no reason for us to fight over this in the first place.

Whether I went down first or they went down first didn't matter since there was no danger inside of this place. The danger laid with the thing that was sealed inside of this place, the thing that I was here to take care of.

The captain of the guard called his men together and taking a formation, they led the way down.

I had to admit that these men really were loyal.

They were willing to go forward into this darkness without any fear, all for their country.

This was loyalty at its finest.

But they really did move too slow for my liking.

In the end, it even took them several minutes just to reach the bottom of the stairs and this was only two sets of stairs. They were moving so slow that it took almost a minute to go down one step.

They had been trying to figure out what was in front of them, but the torches that they used just weren't bright enough to see everything.

After they went down, I followed behind them while shaking my head.

As they were still trying to figure things out, I went over to the side and pressed something on the wall.

The moment that I pressed this thing, there was a light that appeared from above us.

This light had appeared too suddenly that no one was able to adjust in time.

They had to cover their eyes so that they wouldn't be blinded by the light.

I was the only one that had reacted to this since I knew what would happen.

I went in front of the captain of the guards and his men before saying, "Come on, it's just in front."

They slowly adjusted to the light before looking at me with strange looks.

The way that I had reacted, it was almost as if I already knew what this place was.

The way that they looked at me, it was clear that they had more questions that they wanted to ask me, but I didn't give them any time to ask me anything as I continued down this hall in front of us.

This hall wasn't that long and it didn't take long for us to reach a large room that was well lit.

Since it was well lit, they were able to see what was in the room right away.

In the center of the room was a large black crystal that just seemed to float there in the air.

No one really knew what this black crystal was, but they didn't like the look of this black crystal.

That was because of the feel that came from this black crystal.

It was a disgusting feeling like it was something that was diseased.

They didn't know why they felt this way about this black crystal.

Whether it was the aura that came from it or the colour that it was, it just looked and felt very strange.

But I just ignored all of them as I went forward towards the black crystal.

Before I could reach it, the captain of the guard came forward to stand in front of me. He raised the spear in his hand so that it was pointed at me before saying, "You will go no further."

The look on his face made it clear that he wasn't to be trifled with.

I narrowed my eyes to look at him before turning to look at Duke Nergiante.

He could see the way that I was looking at him, so he said, "Move aside."

The captain of the guard was shocked to hear this before quickly saying, "But your lordship, this is..."

Duke Nergiante took a deep breath before saying, "I already said move aside. He's here to help us, so stop getting in his way."

The captain of the guard looked dismayed when he heard this, but he still eventually moved out of the way. Though when he did, he made sure to glare at me as he passed by me.

I just ignored all of this as I went forward to look at the crystal.

I didn't look at the crystal itself, but at the area around the crystal.

I was looking around as if I was looking for something special.

It took a while before I found what I was looking for.

It was a groove that had a strange shape.

But I gave a nod when I saw this shape and turned to wave my hand at Duke Nergiante.

He looked at me with a strange look and hesitated for a bit.

The captain of the guard shook his head at Duke Nergiante when he saw this, but Duke Nergiante came over in the end.

I pointed at this groove and said, "Put your ring in."

Chapter 722 Use of the ring (2)

Duke Nergiante looked at me with a look like he didn't understand what I was saying at first.

Then when he looked closely at the groove, he noticed that this groove was shaped like the ring that he was wearing.

This was the heirloom that had been passed down for generations in his family and the thing that I had asked him for earlier.

Duke Nergiante couldn't help knitting his brows when he heard this.

He didn't put the ring in like I told him to and instead looked at me as if he was trying to confirm what I had just said.

I pointed at the groove and calmly said, "Just put the ring in there and we can get started."

Duke Nergiante knitted his brows even more when he heard this.

He just looked at me like he was asking for an explanation, but I looked back at him while matching his gaze without saying a single thing. It was as if I wouldn't explain no matter how he questioned me.

Duke Nergiante couldn't help hesitating when he saw this.

The captain of the guard seemed like he wanted to say something, but the duke raised his hand to stop him before he could.

Duke Nergiante just looked into my eyes for a bit longer before turning to face the groove.

He brought his hand up in front of the groove and then...his hand just remained there in the air for a bit.

He didn't bring it forward and he didn't pull it back.

With the way that it just lingered in the air, it was as if Duke Nergiante was having an internal struggle over this matter.

But in the end, he looked at me and then pushed his hand forward so that the ring went into the groove.

The moment that the ring went into the groove, there was a scraping sound that rang out.

The captain of the guards didn't hesitate to lead his men forward to surround Duke Nergiante as if they were prepared to fight to the death to protect him.

My own group had wanted to do the same, but I just raised my hand to stop them.

This scraping sound continued for a bit before it was revealed what was making that sound.

It was a door that suddenly slid open in one of the walls in this room.

This was a door that seemed to be part of the wall itself and slid open when something activated it.

As for what activated it, the only possible thing was the ring that Duke Nergiante had placed in the groove.

Instead of looking at the door that had opened, Duke Nergiante looked at the ring in the groove with a concerned look. It was as if he was afraid that he wouldn't be able to take back the ring.

I had been about to go through the door that appeared, but I saw the way that Duke Nergiante looked and turned around.

Coming over to where the ring was inserted, I pulled it out without any hesitation.

When the ring was pulled out, the door naturally closed as well.

Everyone looked at me with strange looks as if they couldn't understand what I was doing, but I wasn't bothered as I casually put the ring back into the groove.

When it was put back in, the door slid open once more.

After demonstrating this, I said, "It can be removed at any time, so you don't have to be afraid that you won't be able to take it back."

Duke Nergiante couldn't help revealing a helpless smile when he saw this before saying, "Sorry for the distraction. Let's go in."

I gave a nod before leading the way in.

This time, the captain of the guard didn't say anything to stop me, but he made sure to stay near the duke just in case anything happened. At the very least, it was admirable how loyal he was to the duke, even if he kept trying to make things harder for me.

When we came into the room, the first place that I went to was the desk that was in that room.

Everyone's eyes followed me as I went over to it, but they didn't seem to follow me.

They spent their time looking around the room, trying to figure out just what this place was.

In the end, Duke Nergiante asked me, "Duke Zwein, this place is..."

He might have left his words hanging, but it was clear what he was trying to ask.

I ignored it for a bit as I examined the documents that were on the table, but then I turned around and said, "Well, now that we're here, I can finally tell you what this place is and what I'll be doing here."

Duke Nergiante was caught off guard by these sudden words, but he gave a nod in response.

I gestured around me with my hand and said, "This place is where the seal for the former demon king is. The reason why your ring was able to open this place up was because your family was charged as the guardians of this place by the ones who created it all that time ago. Though with how long it's been, it's not strange that you've already forgotten about this."

Duke Nergiante was shocked when he heard this as he slowly looked around this room again.

There was a trace of doubt that was in his eyes, but he also looked like he was slowly believing what I said.

After all, this situation was just too strange to be explained with anything else.

After a moment of looking around, he turned back to me with a bitter smile as he asked, "Why couldn't you have told me this sooner?"

With a faint smile, I said, "Well, I was worried that you might not want to open this place if you knew about this. My concern is sealing the demon king again, so I had to worry about you not wanting to go along with my intentions."

Duke Nergiante had a complicated look on his face, but he eventually gave a nod in response.

Chapter 723 Studying the seal

Duke Nergiante took another moment to adjust his thoughts before revealing a bitter smile.

With that bitter smile on his face, he said, "I would thank you not to think so little of me. Even if I am someone who can be considered a coward when it comes to matters like this, I do know what is important."

He looked at the table that I was standing in front of and said, "I at least know what is important and what isn't. At the very least, I know what I have to do."

With that, he came forward to stand beside me and looked down at the documents that I had been looking at.

The only problem was...

These documents were all written in an ancient language.

So no matter how Duke Nergiante looked at this thing, it didn't matter since he wasn't able to understand a single thing. All he could do was stare at these pieces of paper with a blank look on his face.

During this time, I had been carefully looking over these things.

After a long silence, Duke Nergiante finally asked me, "Are you able to read these?"

I gave a nod before waving my hand at the fourth prince.

He and the rest had been standing on the side as Duke Nergiante and I had been looking over these documents.

There wasn't that much space to begin with, so it wasn't as if he could have done anything even if he came over.

The fourth prince was a tactful person, so he knew that he had to at least give Duke Nergiante this chance in the spotlight before coming forward. But since Duke Nergiante wasn't able to do anything, it was time for him to do his thing.

After seeing the fourth prince come forward, Duke Nergiante stepped back to give him space with a bitter smile on his face.

During this, the captain of the guard came over and seemed to ask Duke Nergiante something.

Duke Nergiante just shook his head and said, "They are here to help us."

The firm tone that he said this made it very clear that he didn't want any discussions on this matter.

The captain of the guard was surprised to hear this, but he still listened to the duke's orders. Though it was clear by the look on his face that he didn't seem like he was willing to accept this.

In the end, he was stopped by the duke's personal guards that had come with us from the capital.

It seemed that the captain of the guards had already crossed a line that the duke wasn't willing to stay silent about anymore.

The fourth prince and I just ignored all of this as we focused our attention on the pieces of paper in front of us.

After a while, the fourth prince waved his hand at a few of his guards and he handed a few pieces over to them before giving them some instructions.

They took these pieces of paper and moved around the room while looking at them. With the way that they were holding them up in front of themselves as they moved around the room, it was almost as if they were looking for something specific based on what was on those papers.

Duke Nergiante felt a bit left out when he saw this, so he asked, "What are you doing?"

Neither the fourth prince or I said anything, rather it was the fourth prince's guards that explained what the situation was to Duke Nergiante.

"Let us help." Duke Nergiante said with a serious look.

After a moment of hesitation, the guard gave a few of the pieces of paper over to Duke Nergiante after a nod from both me and the fourth prince.

Taking these pieces of paper, Duke Nergiante revealed a bitter smile since these were the ones that he had picked up previously.

He hadn't understood what they meant before, but now that they had explained it, he understood.

These were blueprints for the seal that had been placed here.

Following what was written on these pieces of paper, he was able to find some runes that were carved on the wall. It was just like how the pieces of paper had described them.

Working together with the fourth prince's guards, they were able to eventually figure out what these runes were leading to.

It was on the other side of the room, but it didn't seem like there was anything there.

That was until I came over and pressed my hand up against the wall.

I touched the wall in a certain way that slowly caused runes to light up on this wall.

These runes seemed to be in the shape of some kind of array, like it was sealing something.

Then again, that was what they were looking for in the first place.

They had been looking for the seal for the demon king that was here.

I didn't do anything after making this seal appear other than looking carefully at it.

While I was looking at it, I held up the pieces of paper from the table in front of me.

After a while, I pointed at one part of the array and asked the fourth prince, "It's this part, right?"

The fourth prince came over to look at where I was pointing and narrowed his eyes to look carefully at it for a bit.

Eventually, he said with a nod, "It is this part."

The others were all confused when they heard us say this.

Duke Nergiante was the one that asked for everyone by saying, "What are you talking about?"

Neither the fourth prince or I said a thing as we kept looking at this array on the wall.

After looking at it for a bit, I said, "This is the part that's the problem with the array. This is the part that's decaying and allowing the demon king to escape."

As soon as they heard this, everyone tried to get a closer look at this.

But that wasn't all that I had to say.

As I looked carefully at this, I said, "This is a problem."

Chapter 724 There's only one way

Everyone looked at me with a confused look when they heard this.

The only one that wasn't confused when I said this was the fourth prince.

He had a look on his face like he understood what I was saying, which meant that he knew just how serious this was.

After a moment of silence, Duke Nergiante asked, "What do you mean by it's a problem? If we know where the problem is, doesn't that make it easier for us to fix it?"

But after a pause, he added, "Or could it be that because it's ancient magic, we can't fix it? Or is it that we're missing some kind of material to fix it?"

Seeing that I didn't say anything in response to this, Duke Nergiante actually became even more anxious until he finally said, "Stop keeping it a secret already and tell us already."

I gave a deep sigh before saying, "I was just trying to figure out how to say it."

Duke Nergiante looked at me with a look like he was still waiting for me to speak.

So in the end, I said, "You're partially right, we can't fix it. However, it isn't for any of the reasons that you mentioned."

Duke Nergiante had a very confused look when he heard this, but he still waited for me to explain.

I slowly said, "It's not that we don't have the material or the magicians to restore this. It's just that the part that is damaged is a special part of the array that can't be replaced. The moment that we try replacing it, it will cause the entire array to fail and the demon king will be released."

"Huh?" Duke Nergiante said with a shocked look on his face.

He turned back to look at the part that I had pointed out before saying, "Are you sure? It seems like it's only a small part of the rune that is eroded. As long as we get a skilled magician, we should be able to replace it."

I shook my head before pointing at the part that was eroded and saying, "Do you see this? This part that is eroded is actually connected to the main power line of the seal. The moment that we erase any part of it to fix it, it will immediately shut the whole thing down."

Duke Nergiante gritted his teeth when he heard this.

He looked at the seal again as if he was trying to find something that he could do, but there wasn't anything that he could do.

In the first place, he couldn't understand the ancient language to understand the blueprint of the seal. So even if he wanted to do something, he would only be making things worse since he wouldn't be able to do anything helpful.

After a long silence, Duke Nergiante suddenly said, "The library! Our library has books from previous generations! I'm sure that we'll be able to find some kind of information about this seal inside of those books."

The fourth prince and I revealed interested looks when we heard this, but I still shook my head and said, "There's no point since we still wouldn't be able to do anything. There's no way to fix this, that is that."

Duke Nergiante deeply knitted his brows when he heard this.

The captain of the guard seized this chance to come forward to say, "My lord, we shouldn't listen to these outsiders. We should look into this matter ourselves before figuring out a situation for this."

Duke Nergiante looked at this captain and he just slowly shook his head.

He didn't get angry with the captain since he knew that the captain of the guards was just speaking up for their dukedom.

However, Duke Nergiante already knew that there was nothing that they could do.

They didn't know about any of this in the first place.

So even if they wanted to do something about this, they wouldn't have reached this place without Duke Zwein leading them.

At the same time, there must be a reason why those books in the library had been ignored the entire time.

They were most likely written in the same ancient language as these scrolls.

They could get Duke Zwein to read this, but would he be willing to do so?

Not to mention, those books should be the hidden knowledge of their Nergiante Dukedom and shouldn't be shared that easily.

No matter how he looked at it, there were all kinds of things that were getting in his way...

Finally, Duke Nergiante turned back to look at me and asked, "You've already thought of something, haven't you?"

I slowly gave a nod before saying, "There's only one thing that we can really do."

Duke Nergiante took a deep breath to brace himself before asking, "What is this one thing?"

I said with a smile, "It's very simple, the only thing that we can do is release the seal on our own."

Everyone except for the fourth prince was shocked when they heard this.

In the end, it was the captain of the guards who reacted first by saying, "My lord, this is clearly a trick! He just wants to unleash the demon lord and destroy our dukedom!"

Duke Nergiante slowly came back to his senses when he heard this, but his reaction wasn't as extreme as the captain of the guard.

He raised his hand to stop the captain of the guard before looking at me to ask, "What do you mean by that? Wouldn't that just cause even more destruction?"

I ignored the glare coming from the captain of the guard and calmly said, "It's very simple. Since we have no choice but to let it out, we should let the demon king out on our own terms."

Duke Nergiante knitted his brows as he revealed a look like he didn't agree.

After all, this was a demon king.

A demon king was not something to play around with.

I didn't mind as I said, "As long as we can control where it comes out, then we can trap it and take it down."

Duke Nergiante still had a look of doubt on his face when he heard this, but he slowly said, "Alright, explain."

Chapter 725 A bunch of dildos

I didn't say anything at first as I looked at the seal a bit longer.

Holding a piece of paper in my hand, I looked at it and the seal at the same time as if I was trying to figure something out.

After looking at it for a bit, I went back out to the room with the black crystal in it and started moving around until finally stopping in one spot.

Standing in this spot, I looked around myself for a bit before giving a nod.

I turned back to Duke Nergiante and the others to say, "This is the spot that the demon king will appear in when it is released."

There wasn't much of a surprised look that was on their face when they heard this.

Rather, they just looked at me with bitter smiles as Duke Nergiante asked me, "Even if we know where it'll appear, that doesn't mean that we'll be able to do anything to it. This is a demon king that we're talking about!"

The others didn't say anything in response to this, but it was clear by the looks on their faces that they agreed to this.

The only one that actually said something was the captain of the guards who said, "My lord, this man is clearly crazy. We shouldn't listen to him any longer and bring more men to surround this place."

I didn't answer the question as I turned to my people and said, "Bring out the holy water."

They were all surprised to hear this, but Cecilia came forward with her Storage Ring and brought out small vials of water.

I had loaded up on these vials of holy water before leaving.

Everyone had been confused why I had bought all these vials of holy water, but now they seemed like they understood what it was for.

From the very beginning, I had been planning on fighting the demon king.

They just didn't know about the demon king until now.

While Duke Nergiante was surprised by the large amount of holy water that I brought, he still couldn't help saying, "Will this really be enough? Just holy water alone won't be enough to deal with a demon king."

This time, the fourth prince nodded in agreement since he thought the same thing.

The fourth prince had remained silent since he had been trying to figure out what I had been planning to do.

He was hoping that I had some kind of good plan to deal with this, but seeing that it was just the holy water that I bought, he couldn't keep believing in me anymore.

But I wasn't done with just the holy water alone.

I ignored their reaction and turned to Shaka to say, "Bring that out."

Shaka was surprised when he heard this before looking at me with a look like he was asking me if I was certain about this.

I just gave a nod in response.

Shaka gave a sigh before coming forward and raising the Storage Ring that he had.

When he raised this Storage Ring, there was a large number of items that fell to the ground.

These things that came out of the Storage Ring looked like weapons, but they had a strange colour and shape to them.

When the fourth prince saw these things, he couldn't help revealing a shocked look since he recognized them. He just looked at these weapons with a strange look for a bit before turning to look at me as if he was asking something.

In response to this questioning gaze from the fourth prince, I just said with a simple nod, "These things aren't as strong as the main one since they are replicas, but they aren't that much weaker either."

The fourth prince stroked his chin when he heard this.

During all of this, Duke Nergiante and his men had very confused looks on their faces as they couldn't understand what was happening.

Finally after some thought, the fourth prince said with a nod, "Alright, maybe this will work."

Duke Nergiante was still very confused when he heard this, but there was something more pressing that he had to ask.

He had been trying to figure out what these weapons that had suddenly been taken out were. But eventually, he couldn't help feeling that the shape of these weapons seemed familiar.

Especially the tip of this weapon.

That round and blunted shape, it almost looked like a d...

Before he could ask this question, I said, "These are special magic weapons that I've brought with me. As long as we have these, we will be able to hurt the demon king along with the holy water that I brought."

Of course the special weapons that I had taken out were the dildo bats.

There was a large pile of these dildo bats that were currently lying on the ground.

Duke Nergiante was confused when he heard this, but I quickly offered him a demonstration of the power of the dildo bats.

This demonstration made even the skeptical captain of the guards believe in the power of the dildo bats.

Still, Duke Nergiante had to ask, "How certain are you in this plan?"

This was his dukedom that he had to take care of and if this plan failed, the demon king's rampage would fall on his dukedom.

These people from abroad might be able to do this without any harm to them, but he had to care about the lives of his people.

I knew that of course, so I looked deeply into Duke Nergiante's eyes and said, "There's nothing that is absolutely certain in this world, no one has the power to guarantee that. However, this is our one and only chance, so I urge you to take it."

Duke Nergiante's eyes made it very clear that he was struggling with all of this.

But in the end, he slowly gave a nod as he said, "Alright, I'll place my faith in you. I hope that you will show that this faith isn't wrong."

I gave a simple nod in response.

Chapter 726 Ah, my butt!

Of course, we didn't release the demon king right away.

Before we could release him, there were still things that we had to do.

It took everyone's hard work before we were ready to release that demon king.

First, we had to set up the dildo bats so they would be placed all around the demon king when he appeared. There were even some that were placed right where the demon king would appear, so it would stab him right away if he were to appear there.

To do that, I had my people go outside to collect a bunch of wood and then I had them build stands that we tied the dildo bats to.

All of this took a while since it wasn't as if they were familiar with building stands in the first place.

It took us a while to build stands that were strong enough to hold the dildo bats, though most of the work was done by the soldiers of the dukedom.

It turned out that since the dukedom didn't have many enemies and few monsters, most of their work was actually helping out with the dukedom's constructions. They had done things from building houses to building bridges to even paving roads.

It could be said that their experience was better than most professional builders.

With this, they were able to build proper stands that held the dildo bats.

What my people really did was open the vials of holy water and pour the holy water onto the dildo bats.

We made sure to completely cover the dildo bats in this holy water, making sure that we didn't miss a single spot of the dildo bats.

We had to make sure that not a single spot was missed since only when it was completely covered in holy water would it have the greatest effect.

In the center of this formation was The Penetrator.

Though it seemed like it was being placed in a very strange position with how it was made to stand up straight.

I personally made sure to completely soak The Penetrator in holy water, though it did feel strange to be surrounded by dildo bats like this.

Second, I had a few of my people take some of the dildo bats and surround the area that the demon king would appear in.

These dildo bats were also covered in holy water and they looked like they were prepared to strike at any moment.

Only when all of this was prepared did I go back into the room with the seal.

I taught one of the fourth prince's men how to release the seal when the time came since I wanted to be in the main room just in case anything happened.

Only after all of this were we finally prepared.

Duke Nergiante and his men seemed like they wanted to help, but I had them stay back just in case since I didn't know what the demon king would do.

While I understood their intention of wanting to protect their home, they were actually getting in the way since there wasn't anything that they could do to help us. After all, they didn't even know that there was a demon king under their country, let alone know how to deal with it.

During all of this, the captain of the guards still looked at me with the same glare.

I really didn't understand what was wrong with this man that he still mistrusted us after all of this...

But for now, it wasn't the time to think about that since the important thing was dealing with the demon king.

Seeing that everyone and everything was in position, I gave a nod to the fourth prince's guard inside of the room.

He had to take a minute to find what part of the seal he needed to erase, but he was able to find it in the end.

I saw him take a deep breath before he used the knife that I gave him to carve into those runes.

The knife that he used started to shine the moment that he went to carve up those runes.

This was a special rune engraved knife that I had made with the dwarves that had several runes for cutting on it. So even if this was a seal that was strong enough to seal a demon king, it was still able to cut through it.

The moment that the runes were cut through, there was a cracking sound that came from the black crystal in the center of the room.

Everyone revealed nervous looks when they saw the crack on that crystal.

They looked even more nervous when they saw the black energy that was seeping out of the black crystal as more and more cracks formed on the surface of the crystal.

It wasn't just the fact that the crystal cracked that made us nervous, but rather the pressure that came from it. The pressure that came from the aura that was being released by the black energy, that was what was making everyone nervous.

This was clearly not a normal amount of pressure.

One could only say...

As expected of a demon king!

This pressure kept growing as more and more of the black energy seeped out of the crystal, but nothing happened other than the appearance of the black energy. It didn't seem like anything was about to happen after the black energy seeped out.

That was until the black energy suddenly started to flow from the black crystal to where we had set our trap.

The crystal was slowly losing that black colour that was in the center of it as more and more of this black energy flowed out.

Eventually, it completely lost that black colour as the black energy gathered where the trap was.

Finally, that black energy gathered together and formed...a black skinned figure.

This was like the demons that we had met before, but this one was definitely much stronger than them.

The first thing that they said was...

"Ah! My butt!"

Chapter 727 How is this fair?

The dark energy that had gathered took the form of a demon, but...that demon appeared right above The Penetrator.

No, it wasn't even above The Penetrator.

The dark energy had gathered around The Penetrator and eventually created that demon figure around it, so The Penetrator was actually already inside the demon when it formed.

So The Penetrator was actually deep inside the demon king's butt when he appeared.

That was why the demon king had suddenly screamed like this.

The demon king could only writhe in pain as smoke started to come out of his butt.

It wasn't just that The Penetrator had entered into the butt of the demon king, it was also that there was the effect of the holy water that had been sprayed on it.

Normal holy water wouldn't have an effect on the demon king since it was too strong for the holy water to have an effect on him. However, the holy water that I had poured over The Penetrator was currently affecting the demon king, as shown by the smoke that came out of his butt.

That was partly because the demon king was in a weakened state from being suddenly released and partly because...of The Penetrator.

The holy water that had been poured over The Penetrator acted like a kind of coating for The Penetrator. It was like in games where one would rub something on their weapons to change the attribute of the weapon.

This holy water changed the attribute of The Penetrator into the holy attribute, which caused holy damage to the demon king.

That was further strengthened by the special power of The Penetrator.

Since it was the Penetrator that was coated, it meant that the 99% penetration effect was also applied to the holy damage.

Which was why this holy water was having an effect even though it was just normal holy water.

As the demon king screamed out in pain, he started flailing around as if he wanted to find a way to escape this pain.

However, all that did was knock him into the various dildo bats that were around him.

While these dildo bats didn't have the same penetration effect as The Penetrator, they still had a penetration effect. So what they did was the same thing as The Penetrator where they applied holy damage to the demon king.

So when the demon king swung his arms into the dildo bats around him, all he did was cause pain to himself. There was smoke that came from his arms as they hit the dildo bats around him, causing him to scream out in pain again.

During this, the demon king cursed out, "What is this? What is happening here?!"

The demon king had a look of absolute panic and confusion on his face as he looked at the strange things that were around him.

In a way, he had adapted to the dildo bats that were around him and The Penetrator inside of him.

They still dealt damage, but he was able to numb himself enough that he didn't feel that pain anymore and could look around himself.

That was when I gave a nod to the ones standing around the demon king with the dildo bats in their hands.

The moment that they received this nod, they immediately raised the dildo bats in their hands and swung them down at the demon king. This was the signal that they had been waiting for the entire time, so they had actually been quite tense during this.

So they took this chance to release all of this tension that had been inside of them in one go.

When the demon king felt the dildo bats hitting him, he cried out in pain since each hit actually caused even more smoke to come from his body.

The demon king tried to raise his arms to protect himself, but he just couldn't stop the smoke coming from his body as the dildo bats kept hitting him. The more that they hit him, the more it seemed that his body was burning up.

The demon king roared, "You, all of you! How dare you do this to the great Ziltan! I am the Thirty Seventh Demon King! The rightful ruler of this world!"

But even though he roared out in anger, it didn't seem like a single person cared about what he had to say as everyone kept hitting the demon king with those dildo bats.

The demon king slowly began to slant and it didn't seem like he had any power left as his hands drooped down. It seemed like he wouldn't be able to resist at this rate.

In a voice that was becoming weaker and weaker, the demon king said, "You! You're all bullying me! How is this fair? Fight me one on one like men instead of ganging up against me like this!"

Cecilia was the one that said, "I'm a woman."

The demon king was shocked when he heard this as he didn't know what to say in response, but that didn't mean that everyone stopped pounding the demon king.

It was like this that the demon king started to change into wisps of dark energy.

These were the same wisps of dark energy that the demon king had been turned into when he had been sealed inside of the crystal.

This dark energy seemed to be escaping from the body of the demon king and disappearing into the world.

This was confusing to the others, but I knew what this was.

It was that the demon king was just too strong to exist in the form of a corpse, so it broke down into dark energy when it died.

This was a sign that the demon king was dying.

So I said, "Keep hitting it, it's almost over."

The demon king looked at me with a look of hatred as he said, "You're the one that did this? This isn't fair at all, how could I be destroyed after being unsealed after all this time."

I didn't respond as the demon king turned into dark energy with an aggrieved look on his face.

Chapter 728 It's over?

When the demon king dissipated into dark energy, he scattered without a trace.

Everyone that had been hitting the demon king with the dildo bats in their hands suddenly stopped.

They just stood there with the dildo bats raised, as if they couldn't understand what had just happened.

Then they slowly turned to look at me, as if they were asking me, "What happened?"

Seeing that I didn't say anything, Duke Nergiante spoke up for everyone, "Is that it? Is it over just like that?"

I had been staring at where the demon king had been as if I was waiting for something when Duke Nergiante called out to me.

Even when he called out to me and snapped me out of my thoughts, I still looked at the same spot as I said, "It's over, the demon king is taken care of."

Duke Nergiante and all of the others who were standing nearby revealed strange complicated looks.

It wasn't that they didn't believe me, it was just that they didn't know how to feel about this.

Demon king, that was a being that was at the peak of the demon race.

It should have represented the most powerful being in all of the demon race, a being that should have been very hard for humans to deal with. Unless the champions of the human race came forward, it should have been very hard for them to deal with this demon king.

However...the demon king didn't last more than ten minutes under the trap that they had laid for it.

The people that had participated and watched this all happen knew that this wasn't because of their own power, but rather because of the things that a certain someone brought.

So they couldn't help looking at the strange weapons that were still being held up with strange looks.

They knew that it was all because of the power of these things that they were able to defeat the demon king in the end.

But...just what were these things?

Seeing that the demon king was gone, I went forward towards The Penetrator.

I didn't care about the rest of the dildo bats and just went for The Penetrator, as if I didn't trust anyone with it.

But that could be considered correct since I didn't trust anyone with it.

Or rather, there was a certain someone that I didn't trust.

This person had been trying too hard to deny my involvement in this matter that I couldn't help feeling a bit suspicious. I also looked at them from the corner of my eyes to see that they were still standing there with a shocked look.

The only problem was...the fact that The Penetrator had been up the demon king's butt.

Even if it spawned inside the demon king's butt when he appeared, it meant that there was still blood and other things that were on The Penetrator.

I hesitated for a second before grabbing the hilt of The Penetrator and picking it up.

But as I leaned in, I made sure to put something else that was there into my Storage Ring.

This was a thing that had dropped from the dark energy that the demon king had dissipated into. This was the thing that I had come here for in the first place since this was a special item that had a variety of uses.

It would be something that I might depend on in the future.

So of course I wouldn't give it up to the people of the Nergiante Dukedom.

As for The Penetrator, I brought it over to the pile of holy water that was left and I started pouring some of the holy water on it.

As soon as the holy water fell onto it, there was smoke that came from The Penetrator.

The blood and other liquids from the demon race was filled with dark energy, so the holy water actually helped me quite a bit in this. I didn't have to actually wash it off as the holy water disinfected what was dirtying The Penetrator.

Though there was a strange smell that filled the air as I did this.

Seeing what I was doing, the others also came over with the dildo bats that had been stuck inside of the demon king. They were also covered in the blood of the demon king, so they had to be disinfected as well.

While we were doing this, Duke Nergiante slowly came back to his senses and asked me, "Then what do we do now?"

I looked at him while I was still pouring the holy water and said, "You can do whatever you want now. This place no longer has a demon king sealed, so your problems have been solved. Though if you don't believe me, feel free to explore this place for as long as you want. This is a place that belongs to your country in the first place, so you can do whatever you want with it."

A bitter smile appeared on Duke Nergiante's face when he heard this.

He had thought that the fight with the demon king would be like the end of the world, but it turned out that it had been as easy as pie.

This famous Duke Zwein had taken care of the demon king with a simple flip of his hand...

There were just too many complicated feelings that filled him at this moment for him to accept this.

But while Duke Nergiante was thinking these things, the captain of the guard came forward to say, "My lord, those weapons of theirs...they're clearly not normal weapons. Should we..."

He left his words hanging, but it was clear what he was implying.

Duke Nergiante narrowed his eyes to look at the captain of the guards, but he found that it wasn't just the captain that seemed to think this way. The rest of the guards and even some of his soldiers looked like they agreed with this.

But Duke Nergiante knew better...

The moment that they tried anything, it would be the end of them.

This was a person that had taken care of a demon king this easily, what would they be compared to that?

So he firmly shook his head and said, "Never think of this again."

I could hear this as I poured holy water on The Penetrator, so I couldn't help revealing a smile.

It seemed that the fourth prince and I had been right about Duke Nergiante.

Chapter 729 Let's make a detour

Since the matter of the demon king had been settled, we didn't stay for another day.

We had already discussed things with Duke Nergiante before heading to fight the demon king, so there wasn't much else for us to discuss.

Not to mention, we had already been away from our own kingdom for close to a month now.

It was fine for me to be away, but the fourth prince...

The longer that the fourth prince was away, the worse that it was for our kingdom.

So I had to bring him back as soon as possible.

For now, there wasn't much that we could even do with the Nergiante Dukedom in the first place.

The Nergiante Dukedom was just too far away for our kingdom to have proper relations with in the first place. So it was just building up a friendly relationship now for what would come later.

Such as if...our borders were to suddenly become closer, then it would be possible for us to build relations.

Such as if one of the kingdoms around us was taken over by us, decreasing the distance between us.

On the way home, we didn't say much as we were in a rush to head back.

But once we reached our kingdom's borders...I suddenly thought of something that I wanted to do.

If I were to head back to the capital now, the only thing that was waiting for me were a bunch of nobles that would be trying to bother me. As well, there would only be a bunch of lessons from the king on how to act like a king.

These days of traveling had been a very nice distraction from it all and I didn't want it to end.

So right after reaching our kingdom's borders, I suddenly said, "Let's make a detour."

Everyone was surprised when I suddenly made this suggestion, but the fourth prince seemed like he was the first one that agreed to this as he said, "Sure, where do you want to go?"

I could guess why he wanted to take a detour, but he was the last person that I could allow to take a detour.

So...

I looked at the shadows and said, "Grab him."

The shadows were surprised to hear this and they hesitated a bit, but they still grabbed the fourth prince in the end. Though it was clear by the way that they did it that they weren't willing to do so.

The only reason that they were doing this was because the fourth prince had given them the order to follow my orders during the trip.

Until we went back to the capital, this trip still wasn't over yet.

So they were still following my orders.

But then again, it wasn't like my order was a bad thing since they could guess what I was planning to do with the fourth prince.

"Brother, what are you doing?" The fourth prince asked in a panicked voice.

I just looked at him and calmly said, "Brother Noah, you're not getting out of work by using me as an excuse. You're going back to the capital."

The shadows all nodded in agreement to this when they heard me say this.

I knew that the shadow were worried about this, but they hadn't been able to do anything since the fourth prince was their master. As guards that had been trained in utmost loyalty, they couldn't go against the fourth prince in any way.

Even if they clearly didn't agree with his plans.

But the fourth prince...couldn't accept this that easily.

After all, he wouldn't just let me go have fun on my own while he was stuck doing work.

So he began to complain about this.

I gave a nod to the shadows to cover his mouth and stop him from complaining.

Then looking right at him, I said, "You can only blame yourself for sneaking out like that or else I can get even in another way later on."

The fourth prince suddenly stopped struggling when he heard this.

I gave a nod to the shadows who released the hands that were on his mouth to let the fourth prince speak again.

With a bitter smile, the fourth prince said, "You really are mean, aren't you?"

I just looked back at him with a faint smile as I said, "This is my kindness."

Then looking over at Shadow Five, I said, "I'll leave him in your hands during this time. You can go with the fourth prince to the capital."

Shadow Five was surprised to hear this, but she slowly gave a nod.

After all, even if she had an order from the fourth prince to follow me, the fourth prince had already said that all orders from me during this trip would be above all.

So for this time, she could follow this order and go with the fourth prince.

The fourth prince looked at me with a betrayed and sad look as he was brought back to the capital by the shadows, but it didn't seem like he was resisting as much as one thought he would.

I could tell from the look in his eyes that he knew what he had to do and was only acting this way because it was me.

If it was anyone else, he definitely wouldn't have acted this way.

Once the fourth prince's group left, there was only my group that was here.

This was the group that had Cecilia and the knights from my town, along with Shaka and his men.

I turned to look at them before saying, "Let's head home."

They were surprised to hear this, but then they happily nodded since it had been a long time since we had been back in my territory.

Since heading to the capital and after everything that happened, we hadn't been back home in close to two months now.

It wasn't just me that was missing home, all of them were missing their family back in my territory.

But I was missing someone else for a certain reason...

A reason that would end in our bedroom.

With the wyverns, it took us no time to reach my territory.

The reaction that we received when we returned was different from every other time we arrived on wyverns.

The people just kept walking and didn't even bother looking at us since they were so used to wyverns coming and going now.

Though when we came closer and they saw that it was Joan that was returning, they started crowding.

After all, it was a rare scene to see the wyverns gathering like this and preparing to welcome someone. The only thing that could invoke that was the Wyvern Queen Joan.

So they were all looking forward to seeing her and to a lesser extent me since I was still technically their lord.

When we landed, I found that Rose was already waiting there with a group of other girls who were all here to welcome us.

This was naturally my other wives and fiancées.

When I came down, they whisked me away before anyone else could even talk to me.

I was brought back to the mansion and put in a room as they all surrounded me.

I wanted to say that I was surprised, but I really couldn't be surprised since I could already guess why they were acting this way.

They should have received the letter that I sent from the capital that told them about everything that happened. So it would be strange if they weren't angry about the fact that I had only sent a letter instead of coming to see them.

I could only take what was coming to me, so I braced myself for what came.

But to my surprise, it wasn't what I thought it was.

I felt a soft pair of arms wrap around me when I braced myself to be slapped by Rose.

I opened my eyes to find a pair of soft and ample breasts placed right in front of my face.

When I looked up, I found that it was Rose who was hugging me, though I did recognize her breasts since I had already seen them so many times.

I just looked up at her with a confused look as I waited to see what she would do.

Hugging me like this, Rose said, "It's just good that you're back. I missed you."

I was once again taken aback when I heard this, but my heart couldn't help aching when I saw the way that she looked at me.

Two months, that was how long I had been gone.

The only thing that had told Rose that I wasn't dead were a few letters that I had sent to her.

I could understand why she was feeling this way and I could understand that I was a terrible husband.

So in a slow voice, I said, "I'm sorry."

She gave a nod before suddenly moving back and releasing me from her arms.

I was once again surprised by this, but not as surprised as by what happened next.

"Pa!"

There was a loud slapping sound that rang out through the air as my head suddenly turned to the side. I could feel the stinging sensation that came from my cheek that made it clear that I had been slapped, but I was caught off guard by the fact that she had suddenly slapped me like this.

Rose then said, "This is for keeping me waiting for so long."

A bitter smile appeared on my face when I heard this, but I turned back with a serious look and said, "I'm sorry for being away for so long."

Rose once again took me in her embrace, but she wasn't able to keep me to herself for long.

There were still other girls in this room who wanted to do the same.

A hug and a slap, that was what came from each of them.

With how consistent they were, it was as if they had already discussed this ahead of time.

But this wasn't the only thing that they wanted.

There was something else that a few certain people wanted to do.

After all, it had been too long since I had come home.

So after dinner, I was kidnapped once again and brought to the bedroom.

There were others that had wanted to join, but they were kept out since this was something that only those that were married were allowed to do.

This definitely wasn't an excuse so that they would have more time for themselves.

I was made to sit in the bedroom and wait for the three of them to come back.

It took a few minutes, but when they came back, I was shocked by what they were wearing.

Though one of them seemed a bit embarrassed by it.

Rose and Haley were the ones that seemed like they were fully confident, but Cecilia looked like she was too embarrassed to come in. In the end, she had to be dragged in by the hands by both Rose and Haley.

Dragging her in, the three of them just stood there in front of me as if they were showing off what they were wearing.

However, I wasn't able to react properly since I was completely shocked by what they were wearing.

This was something that I had seen before on Earth, but it wasn't something that was seen that commonly in this world even though it seemed like it would be something common.

After all, this was a common outfit seen in H-games like this.

But this was something that was locked behind a DLC and wasn't available readily.

There should have been only one place in this world that this outfit was available from.

However, I knew that it was impossible for them to get this outfit from that place since it was just too far from here.

They must have made it after I told them about this before.

"Do you like it?" Rose asked me with a teasing smile.

I just gave a nod in a daze when I heard this.

What was there not to like?

Was there a man that didn't like a school uniform?
