Chapter 3

Her words immediately aroused all my curiosity. I was so worried about her that I urged her urgently to tell me.

But as she listened to me, she was still torn and did not want to tell me. She also said that if I found out about it, it wouldn't be good for me.

But I was getting a bit anxious and angry. I was firm and told her to tell me, that even if there were any consequences, she was not afraid.

She told me anyway after she thought about it with a stony face. She said that she had offended a very scary person. And the other party had given her a condition that she had to fulfill.

I asked her what the condition was.

But we dwelled on the subject for a long time. She wouldn't tell me at all. Instead, she returned the favour and I went to burn incense and worship Buddha. She said that the temple at Chik Chu Shan was very spiritual and that she would go and ask for a sign for me later.

We were the first wave of people to enter the temple and were enjoying the whole temple without queuing.

During the process, she took me to worship almost all the big and small deities in the temple, and also prayed with the Gods in front of each statue, blessing me to get into a good university and not have to become like she is now. She also took me up to the back of the temple and stood at the top of the mountains, also at the foot of a huge Maitreya Buddha.

She took me to admire the view down the hill.

She was overjoyed.

She even hugged and kissed me and recorded the scene on her mobile phone as well. When we were tired of playing, she called a taxi over from afar and took us back to the city. During the process, I asked her who had bought her such an expensive phone, too. But she was the one who fell on top of me with her whole body.

She lay in my arms and said, "Ehhh, don't worry about that!"

She told me not to worry about it. But the more she said that, the more I wanted to know.

When we got home, Uncle Chen looked at our photos and was very happy too. Uncle Chen said that after all these years, we finally looked like a pair of siblings!

He bought a lot of good food on an impromptu basis and even pulled me around the table and had a couple of glasses of wine. His high spirits were written right on his face. It's just that because of what happened last night, I don't know what kind of relationship I should see between myself and Tina Chen. Was it sister and brother? Or a couple?

Uncle Chen was drunk.

He fell asleep in his room, snoring drunkenly, while we were in the next room, also drunkenly asleep.

I became more and more concerned about who Chen Tingting had offended, only she still wouldn't say anything. This also left me to find out in secret, by my own means.

It was when school was about to start that she went out with her friend. At that time, Uncle Chen also went to work, leaving me alone at home.

I quietly opened the door to Chen Tingting's room and quietly opened her drawer, and there was a diary. I flipped it open and there was a record of things that had happened to her from when she was a little girl to her now.

"Why does Daddy have to favour that Jinchao guy when he doesn't love me? It's obvious that he did something wrong"

"Daddy is so bad Does he not want me anymore?"

"Jin Chao, why do you want to steal daddy from me?"

I looked at the contents of the diary and felt a pang in my heart. I looked at page after page, which recorded the bitterness and heartfelt journey that began when Chen Tingting was still a child. There were many torn pages in between, but this didn't affect my reading at all. Once I had turned to the back, the diary read.

"Should I tell him?"

"Wouldn't I be a bad person if I asked him to help me do finish this? Wouldn't I be using him then?"

"No, no. I must find my own way out of this matter, I absolutely can't let him get involved but Sister Aja is running out of time for me. If I can't find the right person to send to

Sister Aja, then what am I going to do? Of the people I know, only Chao has such a condition

“What should I do?”

This was the last page on the diary.

I looked at the words on it and was also reminded of Chen Tingting’s anxiety before she left the house. I carefully put the diary back in the drawer. But when she came back, she was very nervous and rushed into my room, just to ask me if I had opened her drawer and read her diary.

I didn’t think she would notice.

I stood in front of her and told her that if there was anything she needed help with, just let me do it. As long as the ‘Aja-san’ she had offended would leave her alone, even if she was using me, it would be fine! She listened to my words, but still refused me very seriously.

She said no! If it was because of her that I was led down such a path, it would simply harm me for life!

I didn’t think so. I asked her, “What else can I do? I said, “I’m the only one she has at the moment, right? She listened to my words, but she still insisted on her refusal. And as she spoke, she became more and more serious.

Suddenly, her mobile phone rang suddenly. She almost rushed back to her room, closed the door and answered the phone.

I was standing outside the door listening in.

Her voice came out of the room and she begged the person on the other end of the line to give her a little more time. But the attitude of the person on the other end was clearly not giving her that chance. She begged for three or four minutes in the room, and the other person, somewhat impatiently, hung up the phone and brought her words to an abrupt end.

I opened the door to the room and walked in.

She looked at me nervously, but I said solemnly, “Sister Ting Ting, take me with you! There’s no way out of this!”
