

Silly Teen 84

Chapter 84

In response to my question, Wah said with a soft laugh: there was no need for him to go looking anymore. I didn't know what he meant, but there was something about the way he was staring at me that made me feel wrong. Under his gaze, I could only act normal, but Cao Ge and the others didn't notice anything was wrong.

Cao Ge rode his bike and led us away from Tie Shan.

Wah, who had helped us, also followed us in passing.

He was between us, without any incongruity. He was obviously used to this.

Because we were going to the internet, Wah didn't follow us. But it was before he left that he did smile at me, "Jin Chao, you have to work hard, don't let me down." He was talking about Guo Xuefu. It was just his words, more than anything else, that confused me a little.

I felt that he had sensed something, but even so, he still wanted me and Guo Xuefu to get together.

Was his attitude just an act? Or was that his intention? I don't know!

"Ah Chao, go up the road MISS."

"Coming right up!"

"Is there a big move down the road? I'll finish painting the wild and come to support a wave right away!"

"Want to cross the tower?"

"Yes! Of course! I'll carry the damage, and the ADC will output violently." I said confidently.

"There's someone coming from the opposite side."

"Don't panic, put eyes in the grass and teleport down from the top." I commanded the pace of the scene. I was modest with my mouth, but because I led the tempo, it was more of a victory wave. Even game assistants like TGP, after it was over, popped up boxes saying that I was the best player and the MVP!

I have to say, this feeling of driving the rhythm of the whole game is fantastic!

'Ding dong.'

It was in between my immediate team formation that a friend request was suddenly sent over.

"Big God, is your team still short of people? My last sub, can we play together?" He sent me a message in the chat window. I had an impression of him. The last hero he played, even though he was a sub, disgusted me, and he did have some strength!

"Do you only know how to sub?" I typed slowly.

"Not so much. I can do mid and ADC, but I mainly rely on support to get on the scoreboard." He gave an explanation.

“Cao, the sub from the last hand is looking for us to team up eh, do you want him in?” I then asked at Cao Ge.

“Is that the Hammerhead?”

Cao Ge’s response was also instant.

“Holy sh*t, that’s the hammerhead who hit nine out of ten?” Cao Ge’s little brother couldn’t help but spit out.

“Yeah, that’s him. If he comes over, I’d like to give him the support position.” I said thoughtfully.

“No problem!” Cao Ge agreed.

Because this ID called ‘Night Rain Annoying’ joined, we made up a five-row. I invited him to join our battle team and also started a voice with him. The game of LOL, where five rows are destined to meet five rows, also made the game a lot more difficult. The level one group we played at the beginning even put us at a disadvantage, 2 to 5.

Cao’s little brother, who was originally playing the support position, was also switched to the mid-row.

He was good enough to pick a fragile mage. Even though I kept going to the middle to catch him, I still let our disadvantage grow.

This set, the top and middle lanes all had problems. Only the bottom lane had some advantage because of the strength of that sub.

This set was a headwind game!

I had a bit of a headache and my spirits were even higher.

Twenty-five minutes in, the top and middle lanes were directly demolished, which was making the pressure on us a few more points.

“You guys guard your homes, I’m going to check near the big dragon.” I directly left the soldier line and headed towards the direction of the big dragon.

“Chao, are you going to rob the big dragon? This hero of yours ..... is too hard to grab!” Cao Ge said with great concern.

“Forget it Chao, we’ll let this dragon go. If you die and they come to push the high ground, it’s a bit hard to defend.” Cao’s little brother also said.

“It’s alright, I’ll just go over and harass them.” I said this and put eyes into the big dragon pool.

They were slower to hit the Big Dragon. I rapped down from the top of the big dragon pool. I had more heads on me and luxurious gear. Although it was meat, there wasn’t much output. I circled around the dragon, and when the top laner on the opposite side saw me coming, he tried to drive me away while the others continued to fight the dragon.

I tried to fight with the opposite top laner.

But as I fought, I suddenly noticed that the opposite top laner only had a third of his blood bar left.

“There’s a chance!”

My hand speed accelerated, and a set of skills took away the opposite upper single. But at that moment, the big dragon only had 2,000 points of blood left.

I flashed and charged straight into the Grand Dragon pool.

My target was not the big dragon, but the opposite side’s ADC. with my moves on, it was only a matter of a few hits to cut the ADC.

“Ah Chao, it’s almost time to kill two people, come back.” Cao Ge then said to me.

“I’m in the big dragon pool right now, I can’t leave if I want to, for sure. If I change the opposite mid laner again, then the opposite side’s output is weakened by a third. It’s us who have earned it!” I said calmly. The opposite side’s support and playfield didn’t have much output either, so it wasn’t even enough to justify it.

“But you’re also bloodied. Is it really possible to replace them?” Cao asked worriedly instead.

“It’s fine. I still have my resurrection armour.”

I responded.

But just as the words left my mouth, I fell to the ground in response. All the skills I still had were also still on cooldown before the resurrection armor took effect. And when I got up, I could still recover a third of my blood. If the opposite mid, doesn’t leave in that time, I still have every chance!

Hand up, knife down, the opposite AP was running, but still I caught up with him and gave me a set to take away.

“Hurry up and push!” I was dead, but we still had four people here.

“Split up in three ways to pull down the opposite outer tower, and when we win the next group battle, we’ll fight back our disadvantage.” I said.

“Damn it! Ah Chao, it’s still up to you when it matters!” Cao said with an uncomfortable laugh.

“I’m just sh*t out of luck too.”

I responded in a low tone.

“Haha, so how come I don’t have such sh*t luck?” Cao Ge jokingly asked me back.

“Brother Chao, that’s strength for you!” Cao’s little brother added to me.

To this, I didn’t respond to anything. I was fully concentrated on the game. At this juncture now, not a single moment of laxity could be allowed. But as the game reached the forty minute mark, the most nerve-wracking scene came!

We were both tearing down each other’s crystals.

Victory was just a step away!

It was just a matter of who would finish first!

