

The Heiress 791

Chapter 791 Before the Show

“She’s Haddon Martinez’s apprentice. I heard that she restored a golden silk dress some time ago,” Jacqueline said in admiration. “Mr. Martinez has praised her many times in public and stated that her future accomplishments will be outstanding.

“Cultural relic restoration differs from entertainment. She must have a strong knowledge and the ability to tolerate and remain calm to pass on our cultural relics well.”

Tobias didn’t want to dampen her enthusiasm, but he wanted to clarify some points. “She’s the sponsee that the Quinnells are going to adopt.

“I’ll record the show as usual. But I won’t care about the impression I’ll leave if she troubles my sister. I won’t respect her even if we’re on the show.”

His words stunned Jacqueline. She was aware that Tobias valued his career the most. Others always commented he was indifferent and had an unpredictable temper.

However, he had always been tolerant when working with others.

From being ridiculed, to making money using his appearance, and being an international idol, he had never said such harsh words. She could tell he felt unhappy.

Wynter nudged him. “Calm down, Tobias. Let’s look at the other activities in the schedule.”

“Why is there a Foplyan businessman?” Tobias wished to avoid encountering Foplyans.

She tapped the table. “Perhaps something they want will appear in this cultural relics exhibition.”

“I won’t let them get their wish.” He had already thought about it. Despite his little savings, he could ask Albert for money. If that didn’t work, he could turn to Blake, who was the richest among the siblings.

Wynter sometimes thought Tobias was gullible, which contradicted his cool and bossy appearance.

“I’ll take time to observe during the show tomorrow. As for Naomi, I’m curious about something about her.

Wynter also noticed the name list and heard what Jacqueline said.

She was interested as to what power could shift someone’s reputation in a short period. It was worth her exploring.

That was also

In addition, Naomi effortlessly resolved the issue last time. inconsistent with the common sense of natural science.

Thus, Wynter determined that it was time to meet Naomi. What role did Naomi, the sponsee who resembled her as a child, play in the scheme?

Previously, Wynter would have considered if she would alarm the other party. But she didn’t have to do that anymore because Marie’s current situation was stable.

Furthermore, she had discovered something and knew the other party’s intentions. She had identified some targets—the Fentons, the Winstons, and the Quinnells' other branch.

So, she didn't have to think much. She only needed to inspect if anything was wrong. Wynter closed the show schedule and looked into Tobias' eyes again.

“Prepare yourself. When the show begins, try not to show your emotions too much. Remember, Naomi isn't our target. We should investigate the Foplyan businessmen.”

It was unusual for a Foplyan to come at this time. Wynter knew that the items left behind by some Cascadian ancestors held a lot of fortune.

If the other party had any purpose, they'd need to plan ahead of time. If the other party only came to admire Cascadia's national treasure, they'd regard it as a misunderstanding.

Wynter and Tobias were united on this point. Jacqueline, however, was a little worried. She didn't want Tobias to come into conflict with anyone in the cultural relic circle.

After all, that circle represented culture, whereas his rumors were focused on his lack of knowledge. What would he do if he offended those in the cultural relic circle?

Chapter 792 She Is My Sister

Jacqueline had misconceptions regarding the Quinnells' education. The Quinnells' grandchildren were hardly lacking in knowledge.

Even when compared to other prestigious families, the Quinnells paid more attention to history lessons. The Quinnell residence's study room was an example.

However, Tobias didn't explain anything. Since Wynter was present, he'd like to know what happened in the chapel that day.

Netizens knew little about it, but he was fully aware that someone had visited the shrine at the Quinnell residence that night.

Nobody else on set knew Wynter's identity. They only knew she was Tobias' sister, whom he planned to bring to the show.

"She's pretty."

"It's great to have an idol brother, unlike my poor sister. She has been filming for a long time, but she still gets ridiculed for her lack of acting skills and background.

"She even requested to join the show without being paid, but the producer turned her down. That top idol's sister is really lucky. She can easily be on stage as a special guest."

"I don't think she'll get any benefits. Just think about it. The other special guests are all professor-level. What about her? Tobias lacks knowledge and even chose the wrong guest. They'll only be dumbfounded when the show starts."

People in the resource circle had always looked down on celebrities without backgrounds.

If Tobias could act, they'd like to see his acting. But unfortunately, he couldn't. He only knew how to sing and dance overseas, which they didn't appreciate.

He was chosen to shoot the advertisement simply because he could attract more fans to buy the products. Businessmen always preferred higher profits. Thus, those in the resource circle were just cordial to him.

Wynter noticed their attitude but didn't say anything. Despite only following Tobias for less than half a day, she discovered many problems.

Jacqueline was nice to Tobias, but, his studio staff were lazy. Although he was charming, other staff didn't acknowledge or respect him that much except for his entourage assistant.

Wynter squinted at those staff, who got paid to do nothing but wait for a joke.

She kept thinking about her dream. Why didn't anyone realize that Tobias was in danger, especially since he was a top idol? It seemed that it was not only caused by external factors.

Tobias, who adored Wynter, planned to take her out to eat delicious food after work.

His fans gathered outside the set, and he didn't shy away from them. However, Jacqueline brought a mask over to avoid interfering with the show tomorrow. "Ms. Quinnell, please wear this."

Wynter also didn't want to expose her identity right now because it would affect her investigations. Not only did she wear a mask, she also wore a hat.

Though she covered her appearance, but she and Tobias were open about their relationship.

Julia, a studio staff member, approached them unpleasantly. She was upset every time she saw Tobias' fans. She wasn't sure what they liked about him, but perhaps it was his appearance.

She worked unhappily and turned sideways to block the fans. She also loathed Tobias' sister.

When she heard the gossip earlier, she assumed he set a personal tag for himself to pretend he had an abducted sister so that others would remember him.

In Julia's opinion, abduction was uncommon. But she didn't expect that it turned out to be true. Tobias. even wanted to take Wynter onto the show.

She complained inwardly that he didn't care about his staff. She and other staff might have to deal with his false rumors again.

Outside the main entrance, his fans finally saw their favorite idol coming out. They were thrilled after waiting for a day, holding support banners and smiling excitedly.

Tobias knew his fans were outside. Last time, he had asked his assistant to buy drinks for them and advised them to go back early to avoid the heat.

Chapter 793 Between an Idol and Fans

Anyone who knew Tobias was aware of how much he cared about his fans. He once stated he wouldn't have gotten this far without them.

Therefore, he never regarded fans as a tool to make money or exploit them. Instead, he treated them as friends and valued their presence. With them around, he would be more motivated.

When Tobias and Wynter came out together, he proudly told his fans, "She's my sister! Look, doesn't she look like me? We get along so well!"

It was usual for a brother who doted on his sister to show her off to others. But Tobias had forgotten that Wynter was still wearing a mask. His fans couldn't see her face.

Though they were a little confused, they had always preferred their idol to behave in such an open and unconcealed manner.

“Ah! I remember! She appeared on Ultimate Survival!”

“I’ve only watched a few clips, not the full version. Her temperament is similar to that girl’s. They’re most likely the same person.”

Those fans were clever enough to recognize Wynter, but they remained calm. Tobias had been involved in numerous scandals since his return. Thus, they couldn’t say anything inappropriate.

Anyway, they were pleased that he was happy. They also discovered something deep in the editing of that show.

They were aware that Wynter was capable of protecting Tobias, and she even became his sister. They were delighted for him.

Every one of Tobias’s fans knew what he did before becoming a top idol. When he first debuted and was somewhat unknown, he mentioned in interviews that he had an abducted sister. He hoped others could contact him if they had any information about her.

He claimed he’d stand in the most dazzling spot. When his sister saw him, he hoped she’d recognize him and return home without burden.

However, as Tobias gained popularity, some girls began pretending to be his sister. Gradually, he stopped mentioning her out of necessity, Knowing his sister was finally back, some fans were moved to tears. “Tobias, your hard work isn’t in vain!”

Before Tobias became famous, they promised to accompany him to find his sister.

Nobody had ever underestimated the power of companionship. As they believed in him, they also fulfilled their promise.

Tobias expressed his sincerity to them. “Thanks to you all.”

He didn’t look like a celebrity at that moment. He accepted the support doll from his fans and bowed to them. It was quite heartwarming to see an idol and his fans caring for each other.

Wynter followed behind Tobias, smiling at his lovely fans. Even though they couldn’t see her face, they could sense her kindness.

They blushed and assumed she was indeed Tobias’ sister, who appeared cool and attractive. They liked her even before seeing her face.

Wynter ordered the people following her, “Arrange a few cars to take the fans back. Prepare gifts for them in Tobias’ theme color.”

She was Quinnell Group’s current executive CEO. Alexis would never let her out without protection, so she always had bodyguards with her. Nothing could happen to her. She had to be safe outside.

Those bodyguards always obeyed Wynter’s orders. “Yes, Ms. Quinnell. We’ll make arrangements right. away.”

Meanwhile, Julia lost her patience.

Chapter 794 Disputes Between Staff and Fans

Gloomily, she warned the fans behind her to stop crowding and even pushed the ones next to her.

While blocking them, Julia grumbled to the staff through the walkie-talkie in a low voice, “He’s so good at maintaining his image. Why can’t he get in the car faster? I’m getting sick of his popularity–boosting!”

At first, the fans didn’t hear or pay attention to her words. After all, they were focused on their idol.

Tobias didn’t stay long either. After collecting the fans’ letters, he got into the MPV and rolled down the window, advising the fans outside to return early and pay attention to their safety.

Wynter declined to join him. Since the bodyguards were present, she intended to clear Tobias’ working environment.

“You go first, Tobias. I have to deal with something.”

Tobias didn’t ask what she was going to do because she was different from him. She always set the stage on fire. Fans were unaware that Wynter was staying and assumed she had returned to the set.

When Julia saw her boss leave, she revealed her true colors and chatted with another staff, Matt.

“These fans must be crazy to surround him. I’d like to know if they also treat their parents like this. They’re really good at shouting ”

“I bet Tobias only has these fans. This won’t be the case after he loses his popularity.

This time, a fan recorded their comments with her phone. Tammy thought she had misheard. She had heard the previous disparaging remarks, but she had no idea who uttered it.

Only this time did she realize that the person complaining about Tobias was his studio's staff.

"What do you two mean?" Tammy couldn't hold back her anger, and her eyes turned red. "Tobias is your employer! How can you insult him and his fans?"

Julia and Matt panicked for a moment when they realized their conversation had been discovered. Then, they noticed Tammy holding the phone, which was still recording.

"Where are your manners? We've informed everyone that no recording is allowed here! Hand it over!"

Julia spoke harshly and called the security guard over. Matt simply went straight for Tammy's phone. When the other fans noticed what he wanted to do, they subconsciously protected their fellow.

When Julia and Matt saw that the situation was getting serious, they slandered Tammy. "You filmed Tobias' dirt! We won't allow you to post it online!*

Upon hearing that, other fans looked at Tammy suspiciously.

She bit her lip while protecting her phone. "I didn't! Y- you lied! You're paid to do nothing! You're not qualified to be Tobias' staff!"

"You didn't? Do you realize what you were talking about?" Julia was experienced and good at dealing with such a girl. "I know you like Tobias, but he always reminds you all not to do anything extreme. Give me the phone. I'll return it after checking it"

Her statement appeared to make sense. After all, other studio staff would do the same thing.

Some people would snap poor images of celebrities and post them online. That was why the studio staff always had anti-dirt awareness.

But Tammy knew they wanted to delete the evidence on her phone rather than examine it. She wouldn't hand it over.

ia was right

Of course, the security guard assumed Just as he was about to grab Tammy, a cold voice suddenly sounded, "Does my brother know you guys treat his fans like this?"

It was Wynter. Despite wearing a mask, she couldn't hide her sassy temperament and good figure. She donned a cool motorcycle jacket with jeans. Her hat was

Chapter 795 Clear the Work Environment

"You misunderstood. Julia smiled as she lied through her teeth. "This girl has captured some dirt on Tobias. We just asked her to delete them. We didn't do anything else."

Wynter

raised her eyebrow. "Really?"

"You're new here and know nothing. Some fans here don't like our boss, but instead have other purposes," Julia explained to Wynter in a low voice, as if what she did was for work.

Wynter

glanced at her. "I also filmed some dirt here."

She signaled a bodyguard to release the video he had recorded on his phone. That bodyguard looked different from the one in the movie. That guy wore a black suit and sunglasses.

Instead, he appeared unattractive. He joined the crowd just now while holding a support item. Fans who didn't know about him assumed he was Tobias' fan too.

But Julia recognized him. When she complained about Tobias, that bodyguard seemed to be standing next to her.

Before she could say anything, the bodyguard started playing the video. The image was clear, as were her words. Instantly, the fans' attitudes toward her shifted.

"Is this how you take care of Tobias?"

"If you don't want to be Tobias' staff, you shouldn't apply for the job!"

They were outraged that she was receiving the pay while criticizing her boss. Wynter came today because she had discovered something.

Alexis' capability had never been low. Since Wynter instructed him to pay attention to Tobias, he had secretly joined his fan base.

The fans were all adorable, but there were constant problems with the staff. He discovered they didn't accept the resources he provided for Tobias through the Quinnell Group.

Those staff even responded that Tobias was busy and that Alexis could find other celebrities.

Alexis felt angry and a little amused. As an all-around secretary, he couldn't possibly be unaware of Tobias schedule. So, he informed Wynter about it before she returned.

Since Tobias' work would be managed by Quinnell Group like Rowan's, they needed to fix some issues.

Wynter was smart enough to understand what Alexis meant and checked on everyone Jacqueline employed.

Objectively speaking, Jacqueline was capable at work and genuinely cared about Tobias. He gained all of his good resources through her socializing before becoming famous.

However, she had a fatal flaw—she was nepotistic. Most of the studio's staff were her relatives.

classmates and

From Jacqueline's point of view, she felt more at ease hiring her acquaintance as staff, believing that they would never betray her.

She wasn't wrong. They truly didn't betray her, but not all of them were sincerely working for Tobias.

Those staff unilaterally declined resources from well-known brands and hampered Tobias' progress. Apart from that, they even looked down on him and treated his fans poorly. Everything they did violated Wynter's employment principles.

More importantly, they had hurt her brother. Tobias may eventually have a group of anti-fans due to their attitude.

He cared deeply for his fans. He would be sad if he discovered the truth. The negative reviews he had received over the years might also be attributed to those staff.

According to her dream, nobody was innocent. Wynter walked forward and stated, “My brother values his fans and has asked you guys to speak well to them. Unfortunately, you lack professional ethics.”

Chapter 796 She Fires Them

Julia and Matt still wanted to argue, but Wynter simply told them, “You two are fired.”

Julia yelled, “You’re only Tobias’ sister! You have no right to fire us! Jacqueline has the final say on work operations!”

Wynter responded without looking back, “You can go to Jacqueline and ask her if I have the right.”
After

she said that, the bodyguards drove them away.

Wynter then reassured Tammy and the other fans, “Thank you for supporting my brother. He didn’t feel at ease and asked me to come back to take a look. I’ll take care of his matters in the future.

“You’d better go back early. Let’s meet again on tomorrow’s TV show,”

Her actions attracted more popularity for Tobias. The significance of fans supporting their idol was also highlighted at this point.

They supported Tobias, and he protected them. The fans association’s cohesion grew stronger.

Wynter wasn’t lying. She did see Tobias’ concerns. Being famous sometimes resulted in a lot of comments.

When he had many fans, he had to manage them well and prevent them from attacking others. At the same time, they weren’t immune to others’ bullying.

Some relatively unknown celebrities might have planned to clout-chase Tobias. That wasn't a big deal. However, after reading the data, Wynter discovered that most of the celebrities criticized him instead.

His fans, on the other hand, were unable to speak for Tobias. Once they did so, they would be criticized for being uneducated and crazy for their idol.

Generally, the studio could handle such a problem. The fact that they failed to resolve it indicated that there was an internal issue.

Wynter proceeded decisively with no intention of informing anyone about her decision.

Firing Julia and Matt was simply the beginning of clearing Tobias' work environment. They had no idea about that and went so far as to submit a complaint.

"Jac, you have to stop Tobias' sister! She wants to take over your position to manage Tobias' affairs!"

Julia's situation would've been better if she hadn't complained. As soon as she grumbled, Jacqueline turned pale.

"Jac, we can't let her be." She pouted. "That girl fired Matt and me in public! Many fans witnessed that! It would have a negative influence on our agency

!"

Julia complained to her cousin because she wished to make things tough for Wynter. She intended to make the latter regret it. She still didn't believe Wynter had the right to fire her.

Unexpectedly, Jacqueline, who had always been resolute, abruptly sprang up from the couch. "What did you do? Have you offended Ms-"

Jacqueline didn't reveal Wynter's identity. Her hands were shaking as she shouted, "You two pack your things and leave!"

Julia was astonished as if she couldn't believe what she had heard. "Jac-"

"Who else did she mention?" Jacqueline appeared to realize something and turned to ask her assistant. Irene, "Am I unaware of some issues in the studio?"

If there hadn't been a problem, Wynter wouldn't have come to deal with the staff. Jacqueline was a little scared. She didn't know Tobias' family background before, so she didn't need to think too much about it.

But she was now aware of it. The Quinnells had significant assets, and the new CEO quickly gained popularity for the Quinnell Group.

Since Wynter took action against their small-scale agency, something must have happened to Tobias.

Irene was practical enough to discover the truth. She walked over and whispered something.

Jacqueline almost collapsed to the ground when she heard that. She had worked hard in the entertainment circle for many years and thought she could help her relatives. After all, it was difficult for those who came from a small town to find work.

However, she didn't expect them to be so sloppy in their work. "How dare you guys do that to Tobias!"

Chapter 797 They're Finally Terrified

Those staff almost destroyed the top idol she supported. Her eyes flushed with rage. "Check it out! If anyone else has done something similar, I'll dismiss them too!"

Irene responded, "Yes, miss."

Julia didn't expect that Jacqueline, who had always been easy to talk to, appeared to have become a different person.

"Jac, you can't do this to us! Think about our family-"

"What I regret the most is offering you guys jobs!" Jacqueline gritted her teeth and interrupted Julia. "I shouldn't have let you join the agency!"

"Hold on, Irene. Don't drive them away first. They've been with Tobias for a long time. Check their phones!"

Irene knew that Jacqueline wouldn't be merciful this time.

The Cascadia TV show was about to premiere. There could be no chaos within the agency. But if they fired those staff too abruptly, Tobias would get insulted again.

Right then, someone anxiously rushed in and said, "Tobias' fans association requested us to reorganize the studio. Below are screenshots and conversations between the relevant people."

Jacqueline became enraged after only a glance. "You guys even declined endorsements? How dare you!"

As a top manager, she made a swift decision as her expression changed. "Immediately issue an announcement. We'll accept the fans' request and replace all studio-related personnel.

"In addition, inform all the media folks of the truth. We fired them not for any other reason, but because they framed their boss."

When her words came out, those who were at fault panicked. They originally thought that it was fine to leave since they could continue to slander Tobias in another workplace.

But betrayal was taboo in their circle. Nobody dared to employ such staff.

Some opponents wanted Tobias' dirt and attempted to contact them. However, nobody would believe what they stated if Jacqueline fired them. They hadn't even had a chance to do anything yet!

It would also be impossible for them to continue working in the same circle if they had a negative reputation. They would have no choice but to return to their roots.

Some staff were dissatisfied and asked Jacqueline to pay them severance.

Only then did she realize that she had been expanding externally over the years while neglecting their internal issues. When the agency expanded, she could no longer run it as a small workshop.

Tobias' current studio may not pose a problem for now, but it was likely to cause serious trouble in the future.

Jacqueline's relatives were still messing around. She became flustered and drank water to calm herself down. Some of them never treated her as their employer and behaved more madly than everyone else.

"You—Jacqueline kept reminding herself not to be furious and to minimize the impact of public opinion.

However, those who were fired were no longer concerned with anything else.

"We followed you when the agency had nothing. Now it has finally improved, but you chose to abandon us! You're so ungrateful!"

Some people were born with evil. They were good at blame-shifting. Jacqueline felt disappointed. At the same time, she realized she needed to get rid of those incompetent staff.

"Go get security," she ordered Irene.

But Irene couldn't even leave. Those staff had been dominant for many years and formed a habit. They were familiar with Jacqueline's way of doing things and immediately blocked Irene.

Regardless of their genders, their menacing expressions resembled devils.

“Sir, these people don’t seem to understand laws.” Wynter calmly walked in from the other side, followed by several police officers. “I believe you can teach them a lesson.”

No one expected her to call the police because of this issue. Those who had been challenging Jacqueline were finally terrified.

Chapter 798 Logan’s Call

Jacqueline appeared listless after settling the matter. “I’m not a qualified manager. Ms. Quinnell, you can settle the score with me.”

“I won’t do that.” Wynter looked at Jacqueline and checked her pulse. “My brother’s success is due to your efforts. When my mother came to apply for the job, you were the one who helped her.

“You just want to offer women and people from small towns job opportunities. Although some of them have turned bad, it has nothing to do with you. But this approach does easily breed nepotism.”

Wynter didn’t blindly praise Jacqueline, nor did she blame the latter too much. Instead, she patiently analyzed the pros and cons.

“You’re more suitable to handle external issues. As for the internal ones, you can hire professionals. It’ll be absurd that we can’t create a large studio when the Quinnell Group and the Yarwood Group join forces.

“You should also know that Tobias is making progress. We’ll be in line with international standards soon. So, now is the best time to get rid of those incompetent staff with evil intentions.

Wynter massaged Jacqueline’s back a few times.

Jacqueline gradually felt better. She appeared to have released the tension she had been holding back for years. “Ms. Quinnell, I finally understand why Quinnell Group can regain its previous self in only one month.

“I’ve always assumed you were too young and that Quinnell Group’s popularity was due to chance. Obviously, I’ve been narrow-minded.”

Wynter’s abilities were comparable to Dalton’s.

In actuality, Naomi was the most displeased with the shift in Tobias’ studio because she had bribed many of his staff to obtain information.

The TV show “Into Cascadia” was going to start filming tomorrow. However, those staff were all fired at this critical moment. Her bribery efforts were now futile.

Naomi’s people, however, had already placed that thing in the designated location. She believed Tobias couldn’t avoid being linked to it.

She gazed at herself in the mirror calmly. She didn’t think there was anything to be concerned about with Wynter’s participation in the show/In contrast, she was looking forward to it.

“I was unprepared for the reunion banquet. This time, I’ll shame you in public!”

Naomi gloomily smeared her lipstick on the mirror. She assumed those fortunes had long been hers, but the powerless Wynter continually blocked her way. Thus, she treated the latter as an eyesore.

Raindrops hit the window. Tobias was soon aware of his rumors online. Before he could ask Wynter about them, his phone rang. It was from Logan.

Logan was acting oddly and didn’t show up recently. He didn’t speak as readily as before, and his voice was hoarse.

“Ah, does my voice sound bad? I’ve had a cold recently,” Logan said hesitatingly. “Tobias, you and Wynter should pay more attention during the show.”

His odd statements pique Tobias’ interest. “What’s wrong with you? How about we meet and chat in ‘depth? I haven’t seen you for a long time.”

“I’m out of town,” Logan responded vaguely. “You have to listen to me anyway. If possible, go to Mt. Dragon. Or go to Hawford to ask your uncles for help.”

Tobias became increasingly certain that Logan was acting differently. “Is there something you can’t tell me?”

“No.” Logan smiled slightly. “I’ve seen a lot of negative news about you online. Wynter also received a lot of attention. You two should protect yourselves and pay more attention to the people around you, especially-”

Chapter 799 Promote Her

“Oh, I’m passing through a tunnel. The signal is terrible. Let’s talk later! Bye!”

Tobias scowled when Logan hung up the call. Logan appeared to have some unfinished business. What changed him so much recently?

But Tobias didn’t have much time to think about it. He’d be on stage tomorrow, so he needed to rest properly.

“Into Cascadia” wasn’t like other shows. He Wynter to answer everything.

I had much to learn. He couldn’t go on stage and expect

That would only show that he was useless as her older brother. He had to avoid embarrassing her.

Tobias gathered many images of cultural relics on the computer screen. He marked them individually, wiping his brow as he took notes.

Fabian had told him about a few of them before. Some had existed in his family, but some were rather old, so he had to read carefully.

Those may not be mentioned during the show tomorrow, but it would be better for him to remember some cultural relic knowledge anyway.

In comparison, Wynter was much more relaxed. She took the time to return to the mansion. Seeing that Margaret was sleeping deeply, she didn't wake the latter up.

However, the person taking care of Margaret came up to her and said, "Ms. Quinnell, the Yates had recently visited Mrs. Yates Senior. I'm worried something will go wrong."

Wynter had been busy with her career recently and hadn't heard anything about the Yates for a long time.

"Who has been here?" After wiping her hands, she sat at the dining table, ready to dine and listen.

That person whispered, "It's Yvette Yates."

"Oh?" Wynter responded casually. She didn't deal with Yvette much since she wanted to leave Margaret a family to accompany her.

After all, Margaret was getting old. The elders always preferred to be accompanied by blood relatives.

“What did she do?” Wynter set the fork down.

The person shook her head. “It’s nothing. She appeared to care about Mrs. Yates Senior and accompanied her.”

Care? Wynter lifted an eyebrow. She didn’t mean to doubt Yvette, but after several interactions, she realized Yvette was extremely similar to her parents.

Yvette would never care about Margaret. She was most likely seizing this opportunity to achieve her goal.

“Keep an eye on her. Call me if anything happens.” Wynter stood up and calmly added, “Be more careful if she asks about me.”

“Yes, miss.” That person was smart enough to understand what Wynter said.

It was getting dark, but the internet was still active. The announcement of the last guest of “Into Cascadia

* caused a stir.

This season could be said to have become a hit before it was even aired. The platform’s scheduled playback had broken previous records.

“I’m so glad to know Tobias will be on this show!”

“Buddies, it’s not only Tobias! Did you see the official announcement? The apprentice of the cultural relic restorer master will also be present this time!”

“I’ve heard of that. It’s said that she’s skilled at identifying cultural relics!”

“She’s also got a gorgeous beauty with special charm! I’ve seen her at an overseas auction before!”

“Wow! You aroused my interest! I’m looking forward to watching this show!”

Shane promised to promote Naomi, so he wouldn’t be sloppy. He was skilled at manipulating public opinion and even used Tobias’ popularity to mention her.

Shane also confused the netizens by claiming that she was from a prestigious family. This information quickly gained her a lot of fans under Tobias’ topic.

He did an excellent job with speculations, only showing her back in images, which piqued people’s interest.

Chapter 800 TV Show Starts

The next day, many media folks were already waiting under the Cascadia TV Building before the show started, trying to get the hottest topic for the news.

The inheritor of cultural relics piqued the interest of countless netizens. That was why the media folks. wanted to take Naomi’s photos.

Shane had expected all of this. He even commissioned a custom dress for Naomi for this occasion.

She lived up to his expectations as well. She maintained the appearance of a naive princess while exuding a noble aura.

To suit the occasion, she wore a Cascadia–style green–white dress instead of the prior custom–made Chanel dress.

Shane even used his connections to buy a new limited–edition Rolls Royce to support the scene. He didn’t have much money left to spend. Without authority, he was hampered in everything he did.

But even at this point, he was stronger than most people. Those people wouldn't give up on him when they shared common interests.

He was confident that he could change the entire situation by attending this show. After all, he had Naomi with him.

Shane still remembered the first day he brought her back to the Quinnells. He got real power at the shareholders' meeting.

His business grew steadily thereafter. As long as he ran the business wisely and didn't follow the rules like Fabian, partners would inevitably be on his side.

Naomi had been his lucky star for years. It was simply that he was careless some time ago. He believed that everything would be sorted out afterward.

When Rolls Royce arrived under the Cascadia TV Building, it caused quite a stir.

"Which guest is this?"

"Could it be the investor?"

"It shouldn't be the investor. Look, there's a number on the car."

"No. 6? That cultural relic restoration genius?"

Instantly, the media folks all pointed their cameras toward the car. Shane soon opened the car door and stepped out. He acted like an elite, with his neat hair and nice outfit.

“He was the former CEO of Quinnell Group!”

“Why did he get out of the guest car?”

The popularity of the topic skyrocketed. The Quinnells had become popular among the public. Netizens were curious about the appearance of the person who ran Quinnell Group.

Of course, it would be ideal for the current CEO to attend. However, she was too mysterious. Nonetheless, the arrival of the former CEO was also a major topic.

With such a good-looking father, his daughter couldn't be too bad. Not to mention that Wynter's recent actions had reflected the Quinnell Group's positive family tradition.

Some media folks couldn't wait to step forward. “Mr. Quinnell, what brings you here?”

“Me? I'm here with someone.” Shane smiled as he looked into the car.

Naomi then exited the car gracefully in an ancient-style dress. Her long hair was tied up with an emerald hair accessory, and her earrings were also made of emeralds.

Her temperament fit her outfit, and she looked as if she had stepped out of an ancient painting. It had been a while since she had been in the spotlight.

Her smile widened as more surprised gazes landed on her. She gazed at the reporters calmly and generously before taking Shane's arm. “Dad, thank you for taking the time to come to the show with me.”

ad like a gentle and “You work hard to restore cultural relics. I should support you.” He stroked her head loving father. “Let's start with an introduction. She's Naomi Quinnell, my adopted daughter. She's one of the guests as a cultural religious restorer.”

The Quinnells' adopted daughter? The reporters exchanged glances, believing they had found the story's
