

Still Loving You Nonetheless Chapter 1452

Liam hesitated before nodding. "Okay. Let's see how it goes while she recovers."

"Yes. Don't worry. What's important is for Miss Ivy's condition to get stable."

"Thanks, Doctor." Liam walked out of the doctor's office and returned to Ivy's ward.

Seeing how Ivy had been laying in the same position for some time, Liam walked up to her and said, "V, you must be tired laying in the same position, let me help you change into another position, hmm?"

Ivy did not reply to him.

Hence, Liam turned Ivy's body so that she was leaning on her side and adjusted a pillow behind her back.

This time when he checked on Ivy, Liam found that she looked like she was in pain and there were tears rolling in her eyes.

Liam hurriedly apologized, "I'm sorry V, did I hurt you somewhere? I promise that I'll be more gentle next time. I simply staring at the first time that her eyes met head and went on to anything to Liam. Liam, on the other hand, stayed by Ivy all this recovered a little and she was willing to said was to have the doctor discharge asked, "You want to be discharged? But you're and I know my body the best," Ivy went on, "don't worry. I know what

"But Mister Liam..."

decisions for a while and insisted, "Miss Ivy, it's better if we wait for

was insisting, Ivy said

then, someone knocked on the door. The doctor went to get to the door to see a young lady at the door.

"I am Miss Ivy's friend," Yanne flashed a smile at the doctor and said, "I'm here to visit her."

"Ah, yes, sure." The doctor took a look at Ivy who was on the bed before leaving the room.

Yanne closed the door gently behind her and made her way to Ivy.

"Miss Ivy," Yanne tugged at the corners of her lips and greeted.

Ivy studied the young and pretty lady standing in front of her. She could not help but think that Yanne would be a good match for Liam.

Ivy returned a smile to Yanne. "Hello, Miss Yanne."

"Hello," Yanne walked over to her and asked, "how are you feeling? Better now?"

"I'm feeling better now. Thanks for asking."

"Ah. I thought that your condition was serious as you had no intention of getting discharged." Yanne sat down in front of her bed "But you're quite lucky, aren't you? To have Liam staying by your side, taking care of you," Yanne said, unlike me, I'm stuck at home all by myself."