

Still Loving You Nonetheless Chapter 1462

Liam was once again hurt by her words.

Of course, he knew her well and knew that he would not be able to control her.

But even then, he could not just sit back and watch her leave the hospital in this state.

"V, it's not that I want to control you. I'm just hoping that you would at least leave after you've fully recovered."

"I am a doctor myself and I know my body the best."

"If you did, you wouldn't have insisted on getting discharged."

"Ivy, tell me, why are you rushing to leave?" Liam softened his voice, "Is it because you didn't want to see me? If that's the case, I can keep my distance and I would not visit you at the hospital anymore."

"I..." Ivy replied, "I want you to go back to Yanne and spend time with her, it's not because you're a bother to me. I have to leave the hospital because there's really something that I need to do."

"My child is not dead till I see her body. That is why I refuse to believe that my baby has left me."

Ivy's eyes reddened as tears started welling up in her eyes.

"V, this..." Liam was suddenly at a loss of words.

He was unsure if the child was still alive but he found it too sudden that Ivy was suddenly looking for her child.

"Do you think that Suzy will tell you the truth? After all, she and Mrs. Shelby were the ones who hurt you."

"I don't know. But aside from finding her, I don't know who else I should talk to anymore." Looking at Liam, she said, "I will not let go of any hope that I get. Hence, I must find her."

"But it's okay if you think what I'm doing is crazy, you don't have to help me. I'll look for her on my own."

"It's not that I don't want to help you. I'm just worried that you might get your hopes up again."

"I'm already used to getting my hopes up and being let down," she replied bitterly.

Liam paused before nodding, "okay, I'll help you."

"You will?"
